Student-Faculty Day King and Queen To Be Elected Today

Three Profs Drop Names From Ballot

Polls In Y To Be Open From 9 to 4

In a maze of vote swapping, withdrawals, and mild politics, eight candidates for king and queen of next Wednesday's Student-Faculty day wound up a quiet two-day campaign, and set themselves for today's election in the YMCA from 9 to 4 o'clock.

Of the four faculty members chosen in Tuesday's primaries, only one, Professor H. D. Crockford of the Chemistry department, remains on the final ballot. Yesterday afternoon E. L. Mackie of the Mathematics department withdrew his name in favor of Dr. Archibald Henderson. Dr. Henderson was not among the original nominees, but Ed Maner, chairman of the election committee said that his name would appear on the ballot this morning.

MacCarthy Withdraws

Shortly after Mackie's withdrawal, Dr. G. R. MacCarthy of the Geology department also withdrew from the regal race leaving the field to Dr. Crockford and Dr. Henderson.

Dr. Harland of the Archaeology department, was the first member of the original four to resign. In a letter to the editor of the DAILY TAR HEEL on Wednesday, Harland explained his "numerous" reasons for "not choosing to run and tossing his hat in the ring" and left the field open to "the Bunsen-burner man, the gneiss man, and the quadratical one."

No change among the six coeds nominated in Tuesday's primaries has occurred and each one enters this morning's election with campus opinion still widely divided.

Library To Show Special Exhibit Of Publications

A special library exhibit of student publications has been planned for Student-Faculty day, Olan V. Cook, assistant librarian, announced yesterday.

The exhibit will occupy the four cases on the main floor and the two cases on the ground floor. It will include publications of the literary societies, anything from student minds that has appeared in print.

Two of the cases will exhibit publications of the faculty and the department of history is arranging a special exhibit for the two cases on the ground floor.

The present exhibits, which will continue until Student-Faculty day, are taken from the Southern Historical Collection and are aimed to show the students and the Latin visitors what is being done with the Collection. On exhibition are many valuable slave records of the early colonies.

Trustees Favor Giving Scholarships To Latins

Bellamy Praises South American "Summer School"

The University Board of Trustees took a hand in the Good Neighbor Policy yesterday morning at their meeting in Gerrard hall when they unanimously passed a resolution favoring the provision of two scholarships at each unit of the University for "worthy Latin Americans."

Senator E. O. Bellamy, who introduced the resolution at the mid-winter session held here in honor of Latin Americans, praised the summer school as another of Carolina's contributions to the national policy.

Legislative Funds

"This matter is so imbedded in the public mind and people are so sold on the move," he declared, "that I believe the legislature will provide the funds for the purpose. And I hope many universities in other states will do likewise because I feel the future dividends will be incalculable."

Governor J. M. Broughton, presiding over his full session of the Board, appointed Bellamy as chairman of a committee to submit the proposal to the Legislature when it considers the Consolidated University's budget for the new biennium.

The proposed experimental airport at State College moved a step nearer reality when the Trustees adopted the plan already prepared by a committee and including a request for a $40,000 state grant.

Horace Williams Airport

The Board also voted that the local airport should be named after Dr. Horace Williams, beloved philosophy professor, who died recently. Dr. Williams' contribution to the University last fall of 400 acres of land made possible the construction of the modern field now being completed with the aid of W.P.A. funds.

The other main item of business was the recommendations for honorary degrees at the three units, but action on these will not be announced until later.

Operetta Plays Again Tonight

The second performance of Gilbert and Sullivan's famous operetta, "Patience," by the Carolina Playmakers will be tonight at 8:30 in Memorial hall.

"Patience," best received in its first production of all Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, is a satire on the "arty" groups which arose in England in the late 1880's.

Both student entertainment tickets and Playmaker season tickets are good for this production. Those who hold both may obtain a refund of twenty-five cents by presenting both tickets at the business office in Swain hall or at the box office in Memorial hall before the performance.

An exhibition of original paintings and color reproductions of works of Vincent Van Gogh, one of the most famous of all modern artists, will be open in Person Hall Art gallery at the University Monday and continue through Friday, February 21, it was announced yesterday by John V. Allcott, head of the Art department.

Both exhibits will open with a preview on Sunday evening, February 2, at 8 o'clock, when a meeting of the "Friends of Person Hall," a group of people interested in supporting the work of the Art department, is scheduled. The interested public is invited to attend.

Dr. Clemens Sommer, professor of art history, will give an illustrated lecture on Van Gogh and his times, after which a reception for charter members of the "Friends" will be held in the large gallery.

Committee Approves Lend-Lease Bill

day approved the Administration's momentous British-aid bill with minor changes and sent it on its way to the House floor, where it faces an immediate challenge by Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr.

Martin announced shortly after the committee took final action that he was against the measure as it now reads. One of the Congressional conferees at a White House discussion of the bill Monday night, he said he would support a measure that would provide a $2,000,000,000 loan to Britain "with no extra powers granted to the President."

The loan suggestion was contained in Republican-sponsored amendments. See NEWS BRIEFS, page 4.

Speech Made To Assembled Legislators

Governor Heard At Joint Session Here Yesterday

"We the Americas stand together in historical unity, dedicated to the ideas of independence and security of life," Dr. Frank P. Graham said yesterday in a speech before the General Assembly of North Carolina, convened in Chapel Hill for the first time.

Both houses in a special joint session in honor of the South Americans here in "summer school" heard Dr. Graham, Governor J. M. Broughton, House Speaker O. M. Mull, Dr. Andres Belaunde, and Chapel Hill mayor John Foushee in addresses in Memorial Hall yesterday morning. The delegates from South America, students and visitors were extended the courtesy of the floor.

Three Revolutions

"We can go back some 500 years and find that North and South America both came out of three great revolutions—one intellectual, one economic, and one political," Dr. Graham said.

On the birthday of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the anniversary of Columbus' sighting land, the anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the University, the date of Hitler's appointment to the chancellorship of Germany, this may, Graham further declared, "be another birthday as well in welding together in friendship and good will and cooperation between the two great continents of the western hemisphere."

Introduced to the assemblage by Speaker Mull, Governor Broughton spoke of the precedent breaking occasion, the liberality of the University and paid tribute to "The spirit of the men and women who made this achievement possible."

Rapid Fire Democracy Flows As Assembly Goes on Display

By Sylvan Meyer

Legislation flowed like water yesterday as the North Carolina General Assembly paid homage to the University's South American visitors with the first special session ever held in Chapel Hill.

The Senate, meeting in Gerrard hall in the morning, gave the Latin guests a first-hand picture of rapid-fire democracy, passing minor bills with a crashing of gavels and thunder of "ayes."

Representatives devoted their brief session to the granting of the courtesy of the floor to distinguished visitors and to "the excellent student body of the University."

Rayburn, in a telegram to Joslin Wednesday night, said that "due to the serious illness of my sister, Miss Lou Rayburn, I do not feel justified in remaining away for two days."

Joslin telephoned Rayburn long distance yesterday in an effort to see if Rayburn could possibly keep his Chapel Hill engagement, but Rayburn said that it was "impossible at the present." Joslin disclosed that he intends to set a later date for Rayburn, possibly early in March.

Hitler Says Decisive Blow At Britain Forthcoming; Will Torpedo U. S. Ships Carrying Aid To England

Axis Ready For War With United States

By United Press

BERLIN, Jan. 30 — Proclaiming that Germany is ready to strike a "mighty blow of decision" against Britain this spring, Adolf Hitler today warned the United States that every American ship attempting to carry last-minute aid to the British "will be torpedoed."

Germany and Italy are ready if the United States chooses to plunge into the war, and "anyone who expects to defy Germany will get a rude awakening," the Reichfuhrer said in his defiant answer to President Roosevelt's program of all-out aid to Britain.

The fuhrer asserted in a speech broadcast throughout the world that

Germany has no quarrel with the American people but that "if they attempt perhaps to intervene in the European continent, that will only bring all the more quickly a change in our objective."

Hitler spoke with explosions of hatred and a smattering of wisecracks before a wildly cheering crowd of more than 13,000 at the Berlin Sportsplatz on the eighth anniversary of his rise to power as the chancellor and master of Germany.

Germany has secret weapons — he called them "blue wonders," the German idiom for "big surprises" — in store for the mighty assault on Britain by land, sea, and air, Hitler boasted.
