Radman Ineligible For Baseball Team

George Is Lost Because He Aided Frosh Grid Head

Because he accepted a coaching position here last fall, George "Roxie" Radman, hard-hitting outfielder, will be ineligible for baseball this spring, and will turn his talents to coaching instead of playing.

Radman's loss leaves the Tar Heels with a shortage of outfielders, and another place on the local nine that will be hotly contested. Jim Mallory, now belonging to the Washington Senators, left a big hole in center, and Radman leaves left field unoccupied. Al Mathes, who filled in there at the start of last season, will be the leading contender for Radman's post. Hal Jennings will probably return to right field.

To Coach Baseball
Although realizing that he would be ineligible this spring, Radman accepted a position with the University last fall and helped coach freshman football. He was used to great advantage with first-year backfield candidates, and now is slated to work with Head Coach Bunn Hearn and Assistant Coach Bill Fetzer with varsity baseball men.

Radman last year was one of the hardest hitting members of a team well stocked with distance hitters, and would doubtless hold down the clean-up spot were he to play this year. He was the last of the Tar Heels' hitting stars. Best prospect to take over heavy hitting duties so far is Bill Honan, sophomore third baseman. By returning to sophomore form, Jennings might win the fourth spot. Plenty Hurlers, No Hitters

Coach Bunn Hearn meanwhile is starting his second week of outdoor practice with a fair-sized pitching staff but no hitters. Lefty Cheshire heads the pitching corps, followed by Red Benton, ace reliever of last spring. Hank Feimster, ineligible last year, sophomore Charlie Moore, and Senior Les Tomlinson complete the staff.

An 11-game schedule has been arranged, including the usual three games with Duke, and contests with W&L, W&M, VMI, Wake Forest, Davidson, State, Virginia, Maryland, Navy, Cornell, and Michigan.

Runners Return To Hard Drills

With the Maryland Fifth Regiment Games coming up Friday night, Coach Dale Ranson's conference indoor champions hit the boards yesterday for their first intensive drill since winning the Southern diadem here two weeks ago.

Filing applications for 17 contestants, Carolina will actually send only those men who seem certain to show up well against a field that includes a banner representation from the better track forces of the nation. Fields of Maryland, State of Indiana. See TRACK, Page 4

Chi Psi Takes 67-15 Triumph From Dekes

Basketball
Ruffin, 28; K No. 2, 20.
Zeta Psi No. 1, 51; ATO No. 1, 22.
Steele, 18; Law School No. 2, 15.
Chi Psi, 67; DKE No. 2, 15.
Phi Kappa Sigma, 42; Pi Lambda Phi, 41.

In its first start of the journey Chi Psi lived up to its advance expectations when it walloped a hapless DKE No. 2 club 67-to-15 yesterday and gave notice it would be in the thick of the championship fight.

With footballer Gwynn Nowell leading the way, the victors piled up a 31-to-7 lead at the half and at the end of the third quarter the score stood 51-7. In addition to Nowell's fine game under the backboard, the Chi Psis displayed a fast-breaking offense led by Harnden and Neill. Nowell led the scoring with 25 points while Neill dropped in 17 and Harnden 11 points.

Phi Kappa Sigma Wins
Phi Kappa Sigma in a fast and thrilling game edged out a one-point victory when they defeated Pi Lambda Phi 42-41.

The game was nip and tuck all the way and ended with Pi Lambda desperately trying to get its hands on the ball while the Phi Kappa Sigs were freezing it. At the half the winners held a 29-24 advantage, but in the third quarter the Pi Lambda five went ahead 34-33. Bob Smith was the outstanding player for the winners, scoring 18 points, all on field goals. Ed Smith played a fine floor game for Phi Kappa Sig. Lentz was the chief sharpshooter for Pi Lambda collecting 14 points. Mack with 11 and Schlegler with nine points were runners-up.

Zeta Psi Victorious
Zeta Psi ran over ATO No. 1 to the tune of a 51-to-22 score in its first game of the year. The Zetes showed enough power to make the going tough for the favorites.

The winners went out into the lead in the beginning, and were never threatened. At the half they were out See INTRAMURALS, Page 4

Known Performers To Swim In AAU Tank Meet Here

With more than 85 entries already in and the deadline not until Friday night, the Carolinas AAU swimming meet, which will be held here Saturday afternoon and night, promises to bring more big-name swimmers here than any tank event ever held in Bowman Gray pool.

Jack Russell, Loyola college of Baltimore freshman diver, who has been conceded a good chance of winning the national junior event, has signified his intention to enter the contest. Russell was a consistent winner in interscholastic meets last year and has hung up a good record at Loyola this season.

Other entries so far include Dan Boyer and Robert Brook of Massachusetts. Boyer will dive in the national junior event and swim the interscholastic 100 meters. He, at present, is the holder of the 40- and 50-yard freestyle prep-school records of 18.2 and 23.4. Brook has covered the 100 meters freestyle in :55. Jim Barclay, in the 400 meters, and Johnny Feuchtenberger, in the AAU diving event, are the only returning individual winners. Both are Carolina varsity swimmers.

The Carolina varsity is champion in the 400-meter freestyle relay and a Duke team won the national junior 150-meter medley relay last year. Under national rules, a winner in an event is not allowed to compete in the same event next year, so Duke's medley team will be unable to defend its title.

The two national junior events—the diving and the medley relay—will be the feature events of the Saturday night program.

Phantoms Are Best Team Despite Duke's Victory

That Statement Made In All Consideration Of Devils' Fine Team

By Leonard Lopred

Duke university's Blue Devils reign as the Southern conference basketball champions of 1941, and Carolina's Phantoms, despite their tournament defeat, remain the greatest team in the league and, perhaps the greatest in the South.

To take away from the Blue Devils any credit for their victory in the tournament would be neither fair nor sportsmanlike. But the records still show that Duke won eight and lost four in the regular season, was tied for fifth in the conference standings, and entered the tournament unseeded. Carolina meanwhile, won 14 and lost one to Duke, and "points, scored against."

By virtue of its 38-37 defeat of Carolina in the opening round and subsequent lickings administered by William and Mary and South Carolina, Duke is the conference champion. Duke and Carolina were the only clubs of any calibre in the tournament. The misfortune was that they had to meet in the first round. Theirs was the only real game in the tournament.

Duke, along with Carolina, has the finest ball club in the conference. In the tournament the play of Cy Valasek, Chuck Holley and the rest demonstrated this point. In addition to their standout showing in the closing games of the season, the Blue Devils packed the punch that is generally attributed to the real champion—the ability to come through when the chips are down. Carolina missed four victories by one point, and one very important one by two points.

The fairness of determining champions in any sport by means of a tournament has long been debated. In the East, all other sections of the country in fact, championship tournaments have been discarded. The tournament at Raleigh, on the whole, is financial, drawing a profit of about $4,500.

If the shoe fits, wear it—that may be the proverb thrown up in reply to criticisms of the tournament. Duke last year had the best record, was seeded first, and then lost to Carolina in the finals. The Phantoms, it was See BASKETBALL, page 4

Meet Decides League Champ In Swimming

By Harry Hollingsworth

Four Carolina swimmers—two of them members of the first University of North Carolina swimming team—will come to the end of their dual meet competition this afternoon when the Blue Dolphins engage State college in a meet that will decide the Southern conference championship. The contest will start at 3:30.

Bill Thompson, freestyler, and Noel Woodhouse, breaststroker, both of whom are two-year lettermen, and Buzz Mitchell and Henry Gross, will round out their dual meet eligibility.

Although Mitchell, a sprinter, is only in his second year and Gross, a breaststroker, his first year on the varsity, neither will swim for Carolina again. Gross is a senior and is finishing while the five-year rule removes Mitchell from the swimming scene. He is in law school.

Thompson, Woodhouse up of last year. But the records of Thompson and Woodhouse stand out above the rest. They are the last two men in school who were members of the University's first tank team, three years ago, and have been out for swimming since then.

Through no fault of their own, their value to the team as far as accumulating points has been very slim this year because of the presence of more-experienced swimmers. But the spirit of the two-consistent work- See SWIMMING, Page 4

Carolina Mittmen Quit Ring After Successful Campaign

Sanders, Gennett Are Only Champions Of 1941 Mitt Team

Walking off with a second-place in the team division and two championships at the conference tournament at Columbia, S. C., last weekend, the Carolina mittmen hung up their gloves yesterday for the season with the knowledge that they had completed a successful campaign for 1941.

With a season record of three wins and three losses including victories over such powerful teams as Virginia and the Eastern Intercollegiate champions from Penn State, Coach Mike Ronman expressed his satisfaction with the Tar Heel's performances and issued due praise to the individual members of the squad. Also gratifying to the little boxing menton was the fact that his charges had defeated the conference-winning Citadel team in a dual match a little over a week ago.

Superlative Praise
Co-captains Andy Gennett and Red Sanders, tourney victors in their events, Coach Ronman could find only superlatives to describe their exhibitions of last weekend. Ronman heralded them as "two of the finest boxers Carolina ever had."

In winning the 127-pound title, Andy Gennett climaxed three years of hard work with the mittmen. As a sophomore in 1939 Andy started his varsity career by topping a brilliant first season when he reached the finals of the conference tournament. Last year he was beset at the beginning of the season by an illness which prevented him from reaching the winning form which had marked his fights the previous year.

In his initial bout this year, Andy got off to a false start and lost to Virginia Tech's Bobby Andrews, who won the league crown at 165-pounds last Saturday. After this mishap, Andy returned to his natural fighting weight, 127 pounds, and went undefeated for the rest of the season. In whipping the Citadel's Ronnie Luerich in the finals Saturday, Andy gave evidence that he is one of the most finished boxers in intercollegiate ring circles today.

Successfully defending his 165-pound title, Co-captain Red Sanders established himself as the sensation of the tournament by scoring knockouts against all three of his opponents. Displaying a masterful counterpunching ability, Red Sanders rocked Virginia Tech's Elmore, with potent hooks from both hands and in 1:45 of the second round floored the Cadet to retain the crown he won last year. Previous to his battle with Sanders, Elmore had won five successive fights by knockouts.

In the last two years of collegiated competition, Red has lost only one fight—that against Somervell of Virginia in a flukish affair last year. This season the worst he has done is a tie which came when he was fighting in the 175-pound division in the Citadel match.
