

Gallagher Terms Nazi Air Force Soft

By Philip Carden

A former Carolina lightweight mittman, who has been leading with his chin in the Royal Air Force since a little after Dunkirk, returned to the campus Sunday and quietly termed Hitler's air force big but soft.

Visiting his Durham home while on leave because of a bursted ear drum, Tom Gallagher, 24, spent Sunday evening at W. D. Carmichael's house patiently recounting his adventures as a gunner in the Lincoln bomber brigade. He left home yesterday for Toronto, and the war.

The bursted ear drum is the result of an explosion in the wing bomb-racks of the Welling bomber in which he was making his 50th trip to raid German objectives.

A loose cap was blamed for setting off the bomb which blew off the wing and forced Gallagher to "break the silk" for the second time in his seven month career as a gunner with the all-American brigade of the RAF—the bomber counterpart of the famous Eagle outfit.

The plane was over the middle of the English Channel when he and the other two members of the crew bailed out, but a favorable breeze prevented an icy bath in the channel and swept them about seven miles inland — almost back to the home base — before they had lost their 8,000 feet of altitude.

Come Back by Parachute

and the crew got out and walked. The RAF is more than holding its own against the tremendous German See GALLAGHER, page 2.

DTH Hibernates 'Till Spring

Weeping editors and wailing reporters made a vivid scene of general pathos yesterday in the offices of the DAILY TAR HEEL as they lamented the fact that this is the last issue of the DTH—until the second day of the spring quarter.

To free the students' mind for the cramming for exams, the DTH hereby ceases publication until March 25. On that date the Carolina student may throw himself out of bed at some time, stagger blearily over to the door and pick up the latest news, faithfully gathered and presented by a corps of 78 masters???

Phantoms Begin Preparations; Tournament Draw Undecided

A BANDAGED ARM did not keep George Glamack from practicing with his teammates yesterday in preparation for the NCAA basketball tournament in Madison, Wis., March 21-22. Gorgeous George was named Friday on the All-American team selected by Collyer's Eye, magazine of sportswriters. His peak performance so far this year was the 45 points he scored against Clemson for a new Southern conference record. Half-blind in his left eye, he is one of the marvels of sport.—Sketch by Sherrill.

Glamack Named On Collyer's Eye First Team

By Leonard Lorend

Mixing studies with daily scrimmages under Coach Lange, the White Phantoms began preparations yesterday for their trip to Madison, Wis., March 21-22 to participate in the National Collegiate Athletic association tournament.

Chosen to represent the south—the best team in the Southern and South-eastern conferences—Carolina is one of four schools that will compete for the Eastern title and the right to meet the champion of the West in Kansas City March 29. The University of Wisconsin, chosen last week along with Carolina, represents the Big Ten, and Pittsburgh and Dartmouth have been named as the Eastern and New England representatives. First Round Not Decided

The draw hasn't yet been decided, and no one knows whom the White Phantoms will meet in the first round.

The Phantoms themselves are going about their pre-tourney preparations with every intention of playing above even the form they displayed in regular - season competition. Against Southern conference foes they won 14 games and lost only one — to Duke by 35-33—and in their full season had a record of 15 and five.

George Glamack, NEA All-American last winter and already named on Collyer's Eye, sports writers magazine, first team selection, is still considered the leader of the team, on whom most of the team's chances are banked. Even with his left arm bandaged heavily, he practiced with the team yesterday. Reports have it that he can hook his bank shot through the hoops with his right arm although he wasn't seen to attempt it.

The other Phantom cagers, however, are outfitted with practice uniforms and are ready to spend their next 10 days on the Woolen gym courts. The railroad man was here yesterday to arrange details for their trip to Madison, and according to early announcements they will leave March 19. Carolina Chances Unpredictable

FDR Signs Aid Measure; Will Ask for 7 Billions

British Minister Misses Assassination By Few Moments

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 11. — President Roosevelt today signed into law the historic lend-lease bill which transforms the United States into a vast arsenal and larder for Great Britain and other nations resisting Axis aggression.

He affixed his signature without ceremony at 3:50 p.m., less than two hours after the House had completed legislative action on the measure. Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will ask Congress for $7,000,000,000 to finance the program.

The President disclosed that first shipments under the bill will go to Britain and Greece; that he already had approved the initial list of armaments involved but that their type must remain secret until their identity is no longer of military value; and that he will make a report to the nation this week on his plans under the momentous legislation.

ISTANBUL, March 12. (Wednesday) — Britain's recalled minister to Bulgaria, George W. Rendel, escaped possible assassination by a few moments last night when two time bombs hidden in the luggage of his party wrecked the hotel where he was staying here and wounded 7 Britons, 4 of them diplomatic officials.

Student Union Furthers Plans For Hobby Show

A hobby show, exhibiting the pet products of the leisure time of both students and faculty, will be held Thursday and Friday, April 3 and 4 in the main lounge of Graham Memorial, Fish Worley, director, announced yesterday.

Students and faculty members are requested to use their vacation to good advantage by digging through trunks, playrooms, and workrooms, and bringing back their hobbies to exhibit in the show.

All sorts of hobbies are desired — single items or collections which have been made or collected by the exhibitor, or "active" hobbies, such as sleight of hand tricks, playing an instrument, cartooning, or soap carvings.

Arrangements have been made to insure all articles during the time of the exhibit, although the exhibitors will be responsible for getting the hobbies to and from Graham Memorial, Fish said yesterday. In addition, there will be someone to watch the exhibits at all times.

The two day show will include demonstrations of "active" hobbies and short talks explaining the more complicated ones. Scheduled appearances will be made during the afternoon and night each day.

Prizes will be awarded at the end of the two day show to the best hobbies. The show will be open both days to the public.

Link Promises New Di Set-Up

Arthur Link, new president of the Di, promised a program of action and a widespread extension of activities for the senate in his inaugural address last night at a formal installation of spring quarter officers.

Link advocated having a representative from every dormitory and fraternity on the campus enrolled in the organization.

Officers who were inducted in the ceremonies were Manfred Rogers, president pro tem, Weslie Bagby, critic; Randall McLeod, clerk; and Albert Josselson, sergeant-at-arms.

School Art Work To Be Displayed In Person Hall

Exhibiting the work of young painters in elementary schools and colleges of the state, the fourth annual North Carolina school art exhibition will be held here and at WCUNC from March 30 through April 16, John V. Allcott, head of the art department, announced yesterday.

"Any student in the University, whether he is an art pupil or not, is encouraged to submit work for the exhibit," said Allcott. Last day on which entries will be accepted is Monday, March 24, at 5 p.m. in Person hall.

Held to promote the teaching of art and encourage art production in the schools and colleges of the state, the exhibit is being sponsored by the art department and extension division of the University; by WCUNC; and by cooperating organization of the North Carolina Federation of Womens' clubs.

The exhibit will be divided into two parts, the work of artists from the first through the sixth grade; and the work of painters from the seventh grade through college.

Person hall art gallery will display the work done in elementary schools from March 30 until April 6; and will exhibit the work done in high schools and colleges from April 10 through April 16.

After the initial showing of the paintings, they will be circulated through the state, to further stimulate art teachers and artists.

Hopkins, Harlem Pianist, Signed for Soph Dances

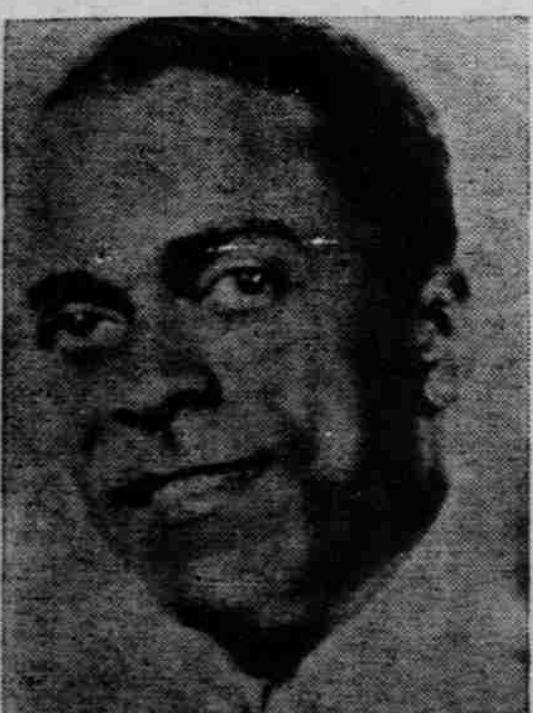

Claude Hopkins, famous Harlem pianist, has been engaged to play for the Saturday afternoon and night dances of the sophomore dance set during the weekend of April 4 and 5, it was announced yesterday by Bert Bennett, sophomore dance committee chairman.

Sponsored jointly by the Class and the Grail, the Saturday night dance from 9 until 1 will be open to the whole campus.

Sophomores will have the floor to themselves at the Friday night dance, for which Freddy Johnson will play, and a two-hour tea dance the following afternoon.

All three dances will be held on the main floor of Woolen gymnasium.

Hopkins and his orchestra played

Claude Hopkins

the entire last season at the Cotton club in New York and before beginning their current tour, broadcasted regularly over the CBS network.

Admittedly a swing addict, Hopkins not only plays the piano but arranges and composes as well. His style is described by swing critics as "whirlwind and unique." Among his latest compositions are "Mississippi River," "Harlem Serenade," and "Smokin' My Pipe." His regular theme song, "I Would Do Anything for You," still receives more requests than any other number.

Like Lunceford

Like Jimmy Lunceford, who played here this winter for Interdormitory dances, Hopkins is a college graduate who took up swing on the campus and has stuck at it ever since.

During 1926 and 1927, when he first became famous, Hopkins took his orchestra to France to stage a Harlem review and toured the rest of Europe. Since then he has alternated long-run engagements at famous New York ballrooms like the Roseland with country-wide tours to play for college dances.

Committee Members

Last year Dean Hudson played for the sophomore dances. This year's announcement marks the first time that a nationally-known "name" band has been signed for the set of dances for the second-year men.

Coed Dorm Search Made 'By Consent, For Protection'

Jane McMaster, president of the Woman's association, explained yesterday that a search through dormitory No. 1 Monday night to recover several recently-stolen articles was made "for the protection of the girls and with their consent."

The investigation, conducted while all the girls in the dormitory waited in the lounge from 10:30 to 12 o'clock, was caused directly by the theft of a watch belonging to a resident, she said. Clothing and money have been stolen at various times both this quarter and last.

Nothing Recovered

None of the stolen articles were recovered Monday night.

Mary Sue Robertson, president of the dormitory, questioned the Woman's council about the problem recently and the search was approved. Permission was obtained from Mrs. M. H. Stacy, dean of women, and R. B. House, dean of administration.

Sentries were posted at each end of the living room while the investigation was conducted for an hour and a half, after which the girls were individually searched.

Criticism arose from the action because it was considered unjustified, ill-timed, and an infringement on rights implied in the honor code.

Miss McMaster pointed out that similar searches have been conducted in the past without objections, that the girls themselves voted for the investigation, that it was considered the only thing to do in an effort to stop the series of petty thefts.

Registration Note!

Dean C. P. Spruill issued a plea with a touch of steel in it yesterday for all general college students to "be sure to register" today.
