Phys Ed Marvels Bewail Lack Of 'High Class Competition'

Mullis Challenges Any Topnotch Team To Do Impossible

By Richard Morris

"Those invincible men are back to meet any and all competition in the softball field," said Pete Mullis, the mighty mite of the Physical Education department yesterday.

Pete made his statement in reference to the softball team which is made up of members of the physical education staff. Mullis, as coach and short-fielder for the team, went on to say, "there is only one qualification a team must have. If it wants to play us, it must have an impressive record as we meet only the best. The only team we have lost to in the past three years is Kappa Sigma, the king of the fraternity league."

Jamerson Breaks In

Coach Dick Jamerson broke through the mile-a-minute chatter to get in, as he expressed it his "two-bits worth." It was, "I have been the fielding and batting leader of the team for the past two years and I am even hotter this year. Pity the pitcher that faces me or the batter that hits one in my direction."

"He is just a ball of fire," Mullis said when asked about his newest player, Coach Yow from High Point college. Yow, who was one of the hardest hitters and steadier fielders in High Point, is counted on to strengthen the infield.

Siewert Pitches

Doc Siewert, one of the three best pitchers on the campus, will carry the hurling burden for the Woollen gymnasium team. Henry House and Ham Strayhorn will share catching duties. The infield ranks along with Kappa Sigma's as the fastest on the campus. Coach Yow will be at the initial sack. Co Shepherd will play second, Dick Jamerson will be on short and Marv Allen will hold down the "hot corner." Doc Cornwell will serve as utility man for the infield.

In the outfield the educators will have Vaught, Ronman, Bartos and Mullis. Rabb, Vance, Miller and Radman will be used as substitutes.

While welcoming all challenges the physical educators think it only fair to inform teams that they are better balanced than they have ever been.

Riflemen to Meet All-Campus Squad

Naval ROTC marksmen will go to the shooting range today at 1:45 against a make-up team of other Carolina students. Visitors are welcome, NROTC agents said yesterday.

The non-Navy men will send Pou Bailey, Stu Martin, Charlie Tillet and Walt Parsley against the NROTC.

The Naval representatives line up with Dick Kemp, Howard Ennis, Francis Hennessee and John Paty.

Of the non-Navy team, Tillet is best known because of recent wrestling and election week campaigns. Bailey is in law school, and Morton is well-known as a campus photographer.

Forfeit Gives UNC Indians Dixie Crown

The Carolina Indians became the new champions of the Dixie League last night without even lifting a stick. Virginia, the weakest team in the league, which Carolina was scheduled to meet this afternoon, sent Coach Al Cornsweet official notification last night of their desire to forfeit victory over the Cavaliers. The Carolina team has a league record of 4 wins and no losses. Even if the Tar Heels lose the last league game to Duke, Carolina will still hold a .133 lead in percentage points.

Took Bad Beating

Virginia took a severe beating from the Indians in their first encounter, and the Cavaliers offered this as their reason for forfeiting today's game.

The forfeit gives the Carolina men an additional period of rest and practice for the coming Duke battle. The game with Duke, which will be played on either May 9th or 10th, is regarded by Coach Cornsweet as the key battle of the Indians' remaining games. Carolina knocked the high-riding Dukes off their lofty perch in the last encounter between the two, ruining Duke's chances for the Dixie League title.

'Cripples' Ready

All of Carolina's 'cripples' are ready to go once more. Finkel and Rosenbloom are all set, and Gugert's bruised ankle has responded to treatment.

The acquisition of the Dixie title is the latest feather in the Indians' hat. Baltimore papers last week, after the Carolina-Loyola game, called the Tar Heels, "the greatest lacrosse team to ever come out of the south." This statement proves that the Carolina team is making huge strides forward in the sport of lacrosse and is starting to gain nation-wide recognition.

Babies' Game Is Warm-up For Deaclets

By Harry Hollingsworth

Having been so far unsuccessful in competition with college freshman nines, the frosh baseball team engages Hillsboro high school here this afternoon at 4 o'clock on Emerson field in a tune-up for the tilt with the Wake Forest frosh tomorrow.

Rain for the past two days has prevented the freshmen from practicing since their defeat by the Duke frosh Tuesday. Unable to hit with men on base, the frosh were handed a 4-2 defeat for their second licking by a college frosh nine. Wake Forest overcame Coach Jim Tatum's squad April 10.

The Hillsboro team should offer very little competition this afternoon, and the game should serve as a good opportunity for the men to get accustomed to playing again after their two-day layoff.

Hussey or Boseman

Either Jack Hussey or Bill Boseman will take the hill. Hussey, who has been playing in the outfield because of his hitting ability, may have to return to the mound because of the failure of the pitchers to live up to their advance predictions. Boseman, a good, strong righthander, has already proven his worth to the mound corps by his showings in three or four games and could probably handle the high schoolers without much trouble.

Dub Johnson, who was out the early part of the season because of sickness, has returned to the lineup in the past two games and has hit and fielded well in right field. Should Coaches Tatum and Ham Strayhorn decide to shift Hussey to the mound, Johnson would be a strong recruit at the outfield post. Regularly a first baseman, Johnson went to the outfield when the infield was changed so Mack Morris could take over first base.

Whiteheart or Cantrell Tomorrow

Monk Whiteheart or Frank Cantrell will be the probable hurlers against Wake Forest tomorrow. The Deaclets, defeated by Duke twice, are tied with the Carolina frosh for second place in the standings and would enjoy a victory very much. Carolina won both games last year. Probable batting order for the Tar Babies this afternoon will be: Wray, 2b; Hayworth, 3b; Morris, 1b; Cheek, lf; McCaskill, cf; Johnson, rf; Croom, c; Waters, ss; and Boseman or Hussey, p.

Carolina-Virginia Contest Rained-Out; Tar Heels Face Strong Maryland Terps

CAROLINAS AAU track meet tomorrow at Fetzer field will draw standout athletes from both North and South Carolina. Among the track leaders will be Roy Cathey and Billy Groves of Carolina, who are pictured here in a baton exchange. The picture was taken in February at the Indoor Games.

Feimster To Duel 'Lefty' Springer In Mound Battle

CHARLOTTEVILLE, April 24 — (Special)—Rain today saved the Carolina baseball team the use of one of its trio of pitching stars, and left the Tar Heels much more prepared for encounters tomorrow with the University of Maryland and Saturday with Navy.

Their game with the University of Virginia Cavaliers was cancelled this afternoon after rain had made the playing field at Scott field unplayable. The Tar Heels moved on to College Park, Md., to meet the Terrapins.

Springer Is Star

Maryland boasts one of the finest pitchers in the East — Earl "Lefty" Springer, who as a junior last spring amassed a high total of strikeouts while pitching against teams in the Washington, D. C., area. He is experienced from high school and sandlot play, and is known to be sought by several professional scouts.

Should the Tar Heels draw Springer as their opposing moundman, they will have a stiff battle. Hank Feimster, having the most rest of those in Carolina's big three, will probably start. Both Lefty Cheshire and Red Benton pitched Tuesday against N. C. State college, and are probably not yet ready.

Duke Unbeaten

Carolina ranks behind Duke as the second best team in the conference, with only a loss to William and Mary against six league victories. The Blue Devils are unbeaten.

Cheshire will probably be called on to face Navy, but Coach Bunn Hearn is throwing all of his best men into this contest with Maryland, for it is the only one of the three that counts in the conference standings.

Before leaving for their three-day tour of Virginia and Maryland, Gersten and Skipper Hearn promised to rehearse their parts on the team bus. Coach Bill Fetzer and Trainer Doc White worried when they heard of the daily rehearsals they would be obliged to hear, but all of the squad promised to win from Navy as quickly as possible in order to get an early start for home.

The Monogrammed baseballers will join Monogram club men from all sports in one of the final rehearsals before the two-day show opens Tuesday.

Cindermen Seek Revenge In AAU Track Carnival

Duke Is Weakened By Loss of Men To Penn Relays

Although rain has hampered work this week, Carolina varsity and freshman trackmen will work out today in a final effort to prepare for the Carolinas AAU meet to be held tomorrow at Fetzer field. Elections have made it impossible for the Tar Heels to prepare for AAU competition, and therefore also for the Penn relays.

Duke, winner over Carolina in a dual meet last Saturday, will be weakened in the AAU meet tomorrow by the loss of its leading stars, who are to compete tomorrow at the Penn relay carnival in Philadelphia. Moffat

All members of the freshman track squad are asked to report today at the track at 5 o'clock. In case of rain, the meeting place will be changed to 310 Woollen gymnasium. This is important.

Storer, Ernie Vail, Bob Spence, Ed Sargent—among the sprintmen—and Steve Lach and John Nania of the field event department are probable Penn relay competitors.

Junior Affair Slated

AAU spectators will be treated, however, to as much close rivalry as there was in the Carolina-Duke clash. Carolina alumni, who finished in recent years, will return to compete in their specialty events, and against athletes from N. C. State, Duke, and Wake Forest.

A Junior AAU affair will be staged along with the Senior, the former being held, instead of on two days as in the past, on the same day as the varsity meet. Jack Milne of the Carolina freshmen and Archie Adams of Wake Forest, in addition to other standouts, will be put on the track in their specialties on the same day. Belmont Abbey is expected to join Carolina, Duke and State in the Junior division.

Gantt To Compete

Leading high school trackman for four years, Bob Gantt of Duke is probably the most spectacular frosh performer who is slated to perform. Having thrown the shot put and discus distances equal to varsity calibre in the Tar Baby-Blue Imps' meet Saturday, Gantt ranks among the best in the conference schools already.

The meet, in many ways, will compare with the indoor games held in Woollen gym last February, for competition from all divisions will be competing.

Stirnweiss Is Set To 'Make Big Time' With Newark Nine

By Ed Goodman

When "General George" Stirnweiss jumped from the second base post on the Carolina baseball nine to the keystone corner on the New York Yankees' farm club, the Newark Bears, the skeptics thought that the big step would be too much for the diminutive New Yorker.

Starting out slowly in spring training with the Bears, George soon got the feel of the diamond and quickly got the nod from coaches to take over the second base duties. With each game he has been gaining confidence, and Newark papers are predicting "big things for our George."

The Yankees, already well set at second base, are holding Stirny for the highest bidder. Other major league clubs, looking for infield talent, have already made offers, but Joe McCarthy, manager of the Bronx Bombers, is interested, and George Weiss, farm manager, is holding tightly to his advantage.

A good showing at bat and a continuation of his masterful handling of second, practically assures Stirny of "making the big-time" within the next few years. Already a star in the International league, the "General" boasts popularity with the fans and an overnight success with Newark.

George Mallory, a teammate of Stirny's, has taken over the left field duties for the Charlotte Hornets of the Piedmont league, farm club of the Washington Senators. George bats in clean-up position.

Colorado College Forms Voluntary Ski Patrol

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — (ACP)—A voluntary ski patrol is being formed at Colorado college and leaders of the campus movement have chosen as a testing ground the snow-covered slopes of 14,100-foot Pikes peak.

Capt. Thomas H. Rawles of the field artillery reserve is in charge.

"The ski patrol, as far as we know, will be the only one of its kind among military units in colleges and universities in the U. S.," Capt. Rawles said.
