Not to Mince Matters

By Harry Hollingsworth

There's no use in denying it, but a win by Wake Forest over Duke yesterday would have been very welcomed by the followers of the Tar Heels.

As it is now, Carolina needs to win at least two of the three-game series with Duke to give it an opportunity of winning both the Big Five and the Southern conference title.

Duke's win yesterday—which was a magnificent three-hit job by Bill Mock—left the Dukes still a half-game ahead of the Tar Heels in the conference race. Carolina still leads the Big Five with five wins and one tie.

So it appears that the Carolina-Duke series will again be billed as the deciding games in the naming of the conference and Big Five champion.

The series opens in Greensboro Saturday night, and plenty of fireworks are promised. The crowd, which should approach the largest to see the Tar Heels in action this spring, will be sprinkled very heavily with Carolina and Duke supporters.

The decision by the Carolina baseball authorities not to play State a night game this week in a play-off of the tie was a very wise one. A night game would have necessitated the use of a Carolina pitcher, probably one who might get the starting assignment. See MINCE MATTERS, page 4.

Track Clinic Slated Here For May 23-24

Despite the fact that the varsity club is rounding out its preparation for the two biggest meets of the year, the real news on the track front yesterday afternoon was about the freshmen. The coaching staff, in a surprise move, has announced the scheduling of a combined track clinic and scholastic-Carolina freshman dual meet for the week-end of May 23-24.

At that time all of the high school men who finished in the first four places in any of the state scholastic championship divisions, in a meet held last month, will come to Fetzer field as a team to compete against the undefeated Tar Babies. The competition should be keen, the friends made by the University numerous, and the possible boost to state scholastic track great. The boost to track is actually the objective of the clinic, and it is hoped that by the use of motion pictures and talks by some of the foremost track experts in this part of the country, a great deal of good will be fostered among the competing groups throughout North Carolina and the stock of the cinder sport be raised thereby. At any rate, the idea is. See TRACK, Page 4.

DKE Maintains Clean Slate Behind Tommy Dill's Slants

DKE 8, Phi Alpha 2
ATO 11, Lambda Chi Alpha 1
SAE No. 1 9, Pi Lambda Phi 5
Aycock 6, ROTC 5
Zeta Psi No. 1 7, St. Anthony 6
Beta Theta Pi 11, Kappa Alpha 9

DKE kept its slate clean by defeating Phi Alpha 8-2 with Tommy Dill turning in another top-notch mound performance yesterday.

Dill allowed only three hits, his maximum this year, and struck out seven men. The losers mixed two of the hits with an error to tally their only runs. The Dekes scored three runs in the first inning which were enough to win. Cam Rodman again led the Dekes at the plate with two hits.

Beta Theta Pi outscored Kappa Alpha 11-9 in a loosely played game to remain undefeated. George Glamack was touched for nine hits and mixed with numerous errors the Kappa Alpha team gave the Betas a close race.

The winners scored all their runs in the first five frames combining hits with walks. Felts and Heyward were the top hitters for the Betas. Leggett was best for Kappa Alpha.

Aycock Rallies
Aycock put on a last inning rally to score two runs in the last of the seventh and defeat ROTC 6-5. A hit and two errors let in the winning runs.

ROTC led most of the game but Aycock came up in the late innings

Carolina Golf Team Leaves Today For VMI Match, Conference Tourney

Uncertainty Exists About Lacrosse Date with Duke

The Carolina lacrosse team held a heavy scrimmage yesterday afternoon in the intermittent rainfall as the time for the lacrosse battle with Duke grows nearer. Whether the game, which is to be at Duke, will be played on Friday or Saturday was still uncertain yesterday.

The time of the game is unimportant to the members of the two teams, excepting the Carolina men with comprehensives on Saturday, for their main desire is to play the game and their motto might well be, "the sooner the better."

The Indians seem to be rounding into shape nicely and will be ready for the match. The spirit of the entire club is high, and the men are determined to repeat their previous victory over the Blue Devils. Momo Mahoney is improving rapidly in his play, and should see plenty of action in the battle. Another cheerful note is the fact that Jun Gugert's ankle seems to be improving, but his presence in the line-up is still doubtful.

Duke's Captain Ray Brown and his men have completely recovered from the shock of their first defeat at the hands of the Indians, and even a disastrous eastern trip has failed to dampen the ardor of the Devils and their desire for revenge.

Snow and Severin Stay Here to Take Comprehensives

Without the services of Captain Frosty Snow and Paul Severin, who must remain in Chapel Hill because of comprehensives, the Carolina golf team leaves this morning for Hot Springs, Va., for a match with VMI tomorrow and the Southern conference championship tournament Saturday.

Coach Chuck Erickson carried Dave Rumph, Graydon Liles, Billy Peete and Tom Hayes to compete in the match and the conference tourney.

Snow and Severin, roommates and three-year veterans, have paced the shooting in nearly every meet this season, and their loss will be felt much by the team.

Medal Play Tourney
The conference tourney Saturday is a one-day 36-hole medal play affair, and the Tar Heels enter it with only an outside chance of copping the honors. Duke's linksmen, undefeated this season and conquerors of Carolina, 15½-11½, rank as overwhelming. See GOLF, page 4.

Loop Tourney Starts Today In Durham

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 7 — Although Zan Carver, Carolina's ace, lost to Joe Hunt in the No. 1 singles here today, the Tar Heel net team did not drop another match and defeated the Navy, 8-1, to complete its annual swing through the North with its fourth consecutive northern win and its 52nd straight win for a Kenfield-coached tennis team.

Navy's Joe Hunt rallied desperately in the third set after winning the first set, 6-1, only to have the hard-driving Carver come from behind to take him, 6-4, in the second.

Leading 4-3 and 30-love on his serve in the final set, Carver, who established himself as the favorite to upset Harris Everett in the singles of the Southern conference tournament which starts tomorrow, nearly beat Hunt.

The match was easily the best seen on the local tennis courts in years. Coach John Kenfield, veteran coach of the Tar Heels, termed it "one of the finest intercollegiate matches I've ever seen."

Both men played spectacular tennis and often made shots that seemed almost impossible to the large crowd who attended the matches.

While Carver was displaying gallant but losing tennis on the No. 1 court, Harris Everett, defending champion in the conference meet, was licking Navy's Williams without too much trouble.

Williams did become dangerous in the second set and forced it to 14 games before the blond Carolina man could claim victory.

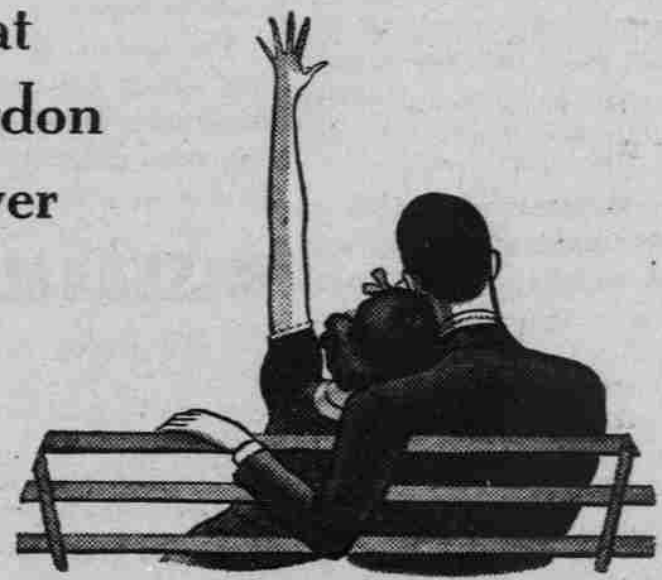

Carver and Everett combined talents in the No. 1 doubles to deal Hunt-Williams a 6-2 defeat in the first set. The Navy pair rallied in the second, but Carolina won, 7-5.

The Carolina team left Annapolis tonight for North Carolina where they defend their conference title in the loop tournament, which gets underway in Durham tomorrow.
