

Student Burned In Chemistry Lab

A fire which severely burned the hands of Sherman Hubbard, senior chemistry major, while he was performing an experiment, broke out Thursday afternoon in the chemistry laboratory.

Hubbard was boiling benzene in a flask and a breeze coming in the window blew the flame from a bunsen burner from the other side of the desk near the flask and ignited the rising fumes.

Hubbard had been leaning over the flask, his hands close to it, intent on his work. Flames immediately enveloped his hands and he rolled over on the floor smothering the flames between his legs. He was able to extinguish the fire before it had spread further than his hands. He was given treatment at the infirmary and was released yesterday.

cordance with provisions of the southern republic's constitution.

MOSCOW, (Saturday), Oct. 11.—(UP)—German shock troops are slowly battering their way through the dense pine and birch forests of the Zyzma sector only about 100 miles from Moscow, but they have failed in their main objective of encircling Marshall Timoshenko's defending armies, front dispatches said today.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook expressed belief that Russia will continue to fight even if Moscow falls and announced that Britain is supplying the Soviet with unlimited quantities of war materials including planes and tanks on a lend-lease basis without asking payment.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(UP)—The House today passed and sent to the Senate the new $5,985,000,000 lend-lease appropriation after administration forces had crushed a Republican drive to reduce the huge fund and to ban aid under it to Soviet Russia. The vote was 328 to 67.

An anticipated fight on the no aid to Russia amendment crumbled before the firmly entrenched administration majority and the proposal was defeated 162 to 21.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(UP)—The House Foreign Affairs committee voted tonight to restrict hearing on Neutrality Act revision to two days of closed session and to consider only repeal of the provision banning the arming of American merchant ships.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(UP)—Demands for immediate military action to aid Russia cropped out today and Russian circles here suggested an invasion of the Continent claiming that Adolf Hitler has left not more than 30 second-rate divisions with no armored equipment guarding the whole coast from northern Norway to Spain.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(UP)—President Roosevelt deploring the physical and mental condition of the nation's youth today launched a program to "Salvage 200,000 of the 1,000,000 young men previously rejected for military service."

to be announced later. A board made up of a committee from the student legislature will choose three finalists. These finalists will appear over the nearest Columbia Broadcasting System outlet on Friday, October 31 or Saturday, November 1. The appearance will give all students an opportunity to listen and compare before voting. The final election will be on Wednesday, November 3.

Competition is limited to individuals. Groups and teams are ineligible. Any talent suitable for broadcasting will be accepted, such as vocalists, instrumentalists, monologists or impersonators. Singers and instrumentalists are to use their own instruments and not ASCAP music.

Presentation of the program will be handled in a dignified manner and there will be no attempt at commercial tie-in or endorsement of products.

CONFERENCE

instead of a football game. The Old Liners are weak this year and won't offer the Blue Devils much opposition. The Duke second and third team will probably play most of the game.

In a top-notch conference battle at Columbia, South Carolina tangles with the Demon-Deacons from Wake Forest. The Gamecocks took it on the chin last week from Georgia and will be on the rebound against the Deacs. Wake Forest, which has everybody puzzled, ran wild against Furman last week and enters the game as the favorite. Coach Walker's outfit is shy on reserve strength because of injuries and may find the Gamecocks too tough for them this week.

Doc Newton's Wolfpack from State goes down to Greenville, S. C., to battle the Furman Purple Hurricanes. Prospects look bright for a State victory this week since the Furman team was not too impressive in bowing to Wake Forest last week. Coach Dizzy McLeod's team is still beset with injuries which will hamper it for the second straight week. Furman fans, however, remember last year when the Hurricane came up to Raleigh as underdogs and administered a bad licking to the Wolfpack.

In a red hot conference tilt in Virginia, Carl Voyles' William and Mary eleven meets VPI. Washington and Lee and George Washington play in the capital city. The game will mark the debut of the Colonials into conference play, but the Generals are slated to make the afternoon dismal for them. VMI journeys to West Point to meet the Army club.

Davidson college has an engagement with Sewanee in Chattanooga and will probably come away with its first victory of the year.

A close battle is expected in Charlottesville where Virginia and Richmond play.

Armfield, Dwight Price, Freddie Gilman and Boston Lackey, saxs; Bob Truitt, drums; Bob Ferris, piano; Seymour Loveman, bass. Anne Russell does the vocals, and Ross occasionally adds his sax to the others.

Ross' summer was spent playing in southern spots. He opened and played for six weeks at Ocean View, Virginia, then went to Ocean City, Maryland, for two weeks. He had a two-week engagement at Moorehead City, and finished the summer at the Olive Palms in Charleston, S. C.

FORDHAM

Methodist last week by scoring through the air.

The Filipowicz-to-Blumenstock combination clicked to give the Rams a 16-10 decision over SMU. Tar Heel passers Hugh Cox, Johnny Pecora and Leo LeBlanc are all fit and ready to go. Ends Hodges and Turner and Wingback Joe Austin have paced the Tar Heel receivers this fall and all are included in the probable starting lineup.

Although most of the gridiron "experts" have picked the Rams to win by most any score they feel like running up, some people, who know Coach Wolf and the Tar Heels and who have seen the team in practice this week, believe that Tar Heels will surprise the Rams. Not many are predicting a victory for Carolina, but it is generally felt that Wolf's record of never having a score run up on him will be preserved today. A real scrap is seen by most observers.

One reason is the many great battles, close finishes and not infrequent upsets the Tar Heels have recorded in the past four or five years against national leaders such as Duke, Tulane and Fordham.

Duke's 1936 team—Wolf's first year at Chapel Hill—has been the only team to run up more than a 20-point margin on the Tar Heels. Since then the only other team to score more than two touchdowns has been Tulane, which copped a 21-7 victory in 1936.

The psychological setting for the intersectional headliner has heightened interest and a near-capacity crowd of 20,000 is being expected for the game by University officials.

TAR BABIES

Dreslow intercepted a Carolina pass on his own ten yard line and raced down the sidelines for 90 yards and a touchdown. Wade missed his second kick of the night and the Tar Babies held a 13-12 lead.

In the last quarter, Teague passed 40 yards to the same Dreslow on the Carolina 10-yard line where he made a leaping, one-handed catch and ran to the five before Myers tackled him.

The Techlets drove into the line three times and on the third smash carried the ball over for a touchdown. Wade kicked the extra point giving State the game by 19-13.

AAUW to Hold Tea Tuesday Afternoon

Tea will be served for members and prospective members of the American Association of University Women at 4:30 Tuesday in Kenan Hall.

All women who are eligible for membership and would like to join the association are asked to notify Mrs. George S. Lane, president, or Miss Mary L. Cobb, chairman.

Sandmel to Address Hillel Foundation

Rabbi Samuel Sandmel will address Hillel Foundation on "Living Judaism and the American College Student" during the Sunday Morning Hour at 11 o'clock tomorrow in the Hillel House, 513 East Rosemary Lane.

Informal discussion will follow, and all students are invited.

sociation's policy-making step in pricing all tickets for uniformed men at 50 cents. Other Southern conference schools curtail sale of tickets to soldiers, with one ticket set aside for each thousand men in a given locale.

After University day activities this morning, and all through the day, information headquarters in Graham Memorial's Horace Williams Lounge will list vacant beds and offer invitations to service men. Attaches of the information booth, acting as central office, expressed hope that "other fraternities will come through to help take care of the huge crowd." One fraternity had already ordered extra beds for soldiers use on week-ends, and others were expected to follow.

John Thorp, Interfraternity council president, told the DAILY TAR HEEL last night that "many of the houses are

Quinn Addresses Marketing Class

J. H. Quinn, vice-president and General Sales manager for the Big Jack Manufacturing company of Bristol, Va., spoke to the advertising and marketing classes of M. D. Taylor yesterday under the auspices of the Beta Gamma Sigma commerce fraternity.

With 17 years experience throughout the middle west, Quinn discussed various phases of marketing work-clothing and the effect of the recent defense measures on the work-clothing industry. The speaker pointed out several new trends in marketing.

Professor Taylor introduced the speaker to his classes. Mr. Quinn was accompanied by Mr. E. E. Stauber, Carolina class of '29, who is also connected with the Big Jack company, serving as representative for the southern territory.
