Homecoming, Greater University Day Plans Completed

University to Entertain Alumni, Visitors Saturday

Predicted to be the largest and most lavish of the line of Greater University and Homecoming days, completed plans for the two-fold celebration next Saturday were released yesterday.

Band concerts, a Grail dance, national and state celebrities, special student and merchant decorations—colorful in themselves, will serve merely as a backdrop for the featured event of the day, the grid classic between the two brother schools, State college and the University.

Alumni, students and visitors of the consolidated University will throng here Saturday as special invited guests of the Chapel Hill branch.

Exemplifying everything from the dire fact due, the Wolfpack eleven to a hearty welcome to the returning graduates, men's and women's dormitories, fraternities and sororities will vie in cardboard and paint for the valued prizes and still more valued honor of presenting the best decoration of the day.

In a separate contest, Chapel Hill merchants will compete for prizes and distinction for the best decoration of Franklin Street. Pre-decorations of flags and pennants will line the main street Friday evening and all-day Saturday.

The three bands of the divisions of the Consolidated University will give concerts prior to the game. The 112-piece University band will play on the steps of the library at 1 o'clock. Representing the Women's College, the all-girl band will give a pre-game concert at Graham Memorial from 12:30 to 1:15. Earl Slocum, director of the University band, has invited the State College band to give a concert in the triangle of women's dormitories at 11:30.

Representing the state and the University, Governor Broughton and President Graham will join with the presidents of the student bodies of the three divisions in an official welcome to the assemblage, just prior to the kickoff from the center of the green sward of Kenan stadium. Steve Peck, president of the University club, will announce the winners of the decoration contest at the program presided over by Truman Hobbs, president of the University student body.

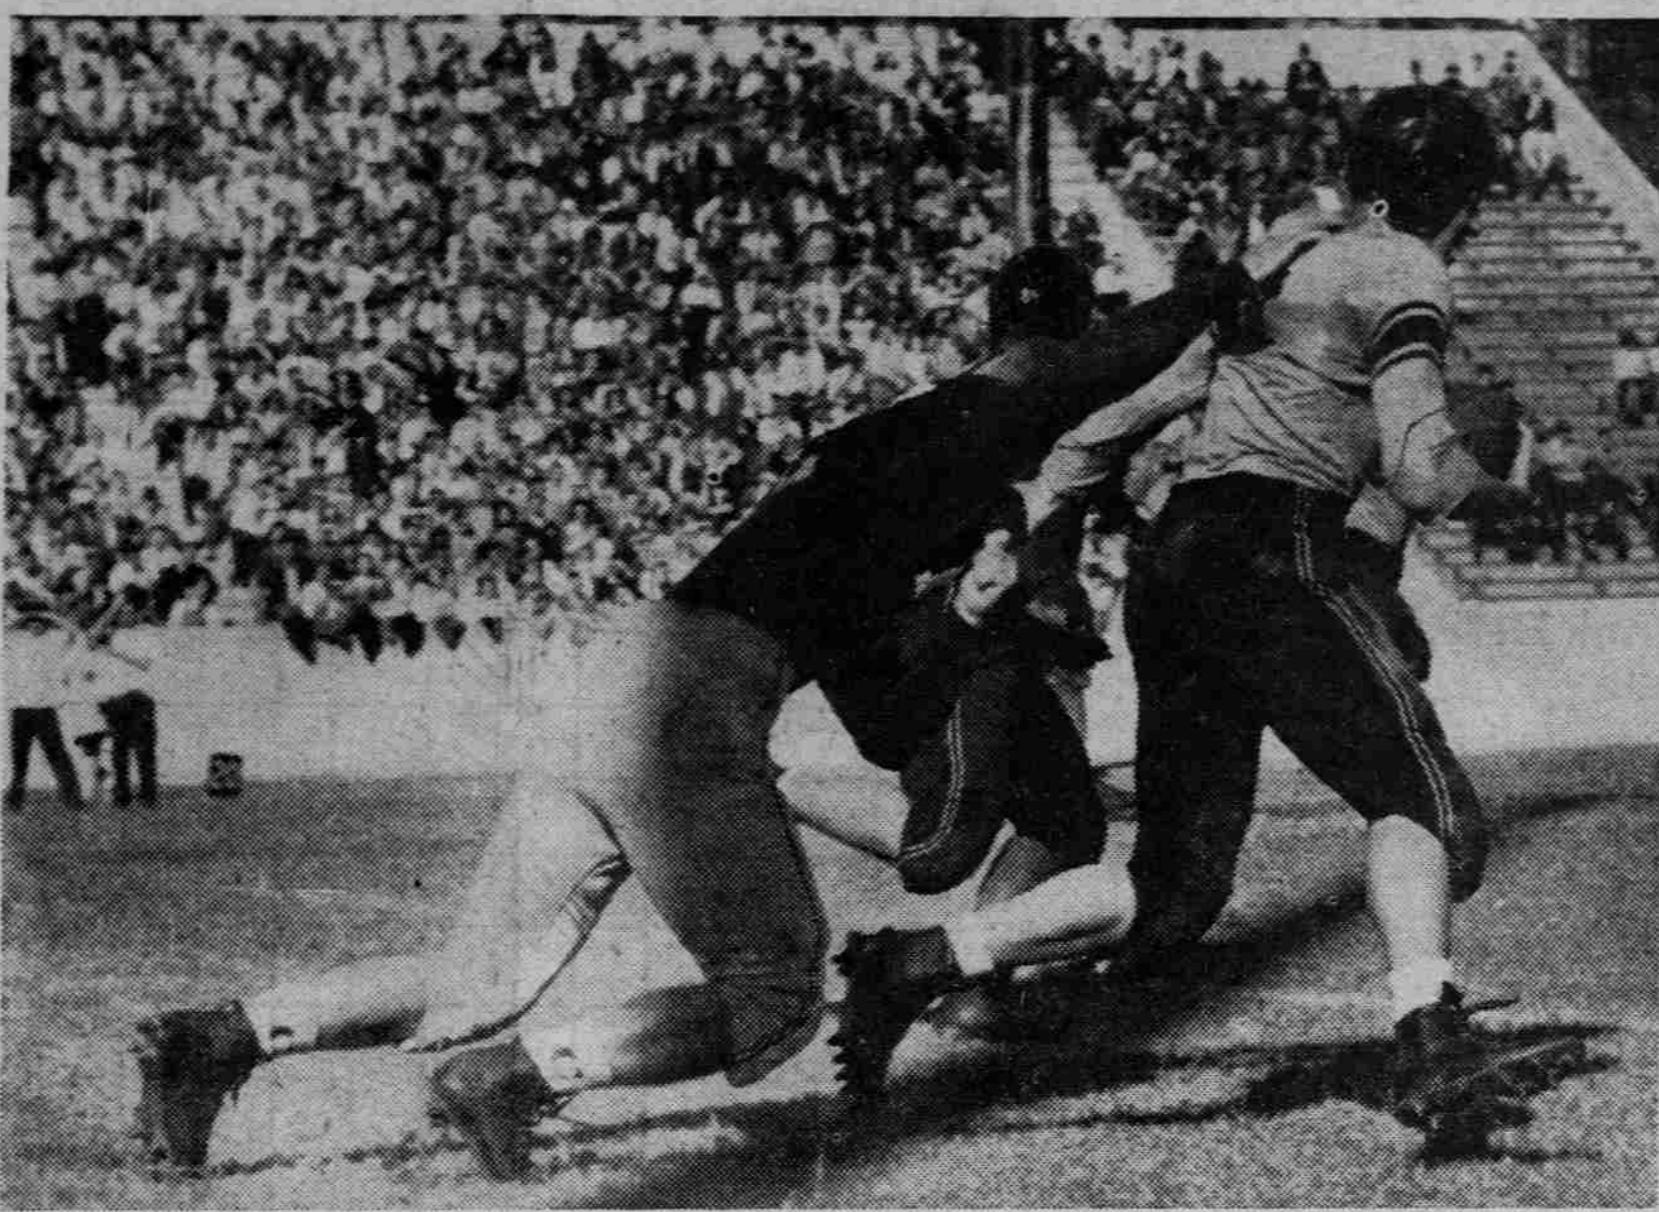

Between the halves of the football battle, the three bands will engage in maneuvers and joint performances. Presided over by campus-maestro Johnny Satterfield, the Grail-Homecoming dance will begin at 9 o'clock in Woollen gymnasium. Script at the door will be $1.10.

In addition to alumni, students of the Woman's college, and of State college, numerous soldiers from the maneuver area in the southern part of the state will be guests of the University for the day.

Dr. Kenneth Clark To Address Hillel

Speaking on the subject of "The Backgrounds of Christianity and Judaism," Dr. Kenneth Clarke of the Duke University School of Religion will address the Hillel Foundation this morning at 11 o'clock.

All students are invited to attend the Sunday Morning Hour which will be held at the Hillel House at 513 East Rosemary Street.

NC Student Legislature Votes Neutrality Act Repeal

UNC Represented In Annual Assembly

Voting almost unanimously for Neutrality Repeal, more than 200 delegates from 16 colleges assembled in the State Capitol in Raleigh this week-end for the fifth annual North Carolina Student Legislative Assembly sponsored by State College.

Two resolutions presented by State College, one for a Short Term Foreign Policy and the other for a Long Term Foreign Policy, and a resolution introduced by the Carolina delegation calling for a permanent selective service act, were defeated in the House by a very narrow margin and passed by the Senate with one amendment.

Highlighting yesterday's session were addresses by Governor J. M. Broughton and Secretary of State Thaddeus Eure in a joint session of both Houses.

Radio Broadcasts

Friday afternoon WRAL presented from its studios a resume of the action up to the time of broadcast, and an extemporaneous discussion by representatives from several colleges on an important bill under consideration.

Yesterday morning WPTF broadcast direct from the Senate Chamber the actual debate on a measure involving United States foreign policy.

Representing Carolina were: Bill Montgomery, Bob Lipton, and Nick Cruger in the Senate, and Jeter Pritchard, Bob Wright, and Carl Hofman in the House.

All students are invited to attend the Sunday Morning Hour which will be held at the Hillel House at 513 East Rosemary Street.

Thibaut to Lead German Fascism Discussion Tuesday

John Thibaut will lead a discussion on "The Philosophical Background to German Fascism" at the second meeting of the undergraduate Philosophy Club on Tuesday night, in 211 Graham Memorial, Dr. Louis Kattsoff, the club's faculty adviser announced yesterday.

Thibaut, who has a Kenan Fellowship in Philosophy, has long been interested in social problems and Social Philosophy. He took his undergraduate work here and at Ohio State University.

Organized five years ago to discuss problems on a philosophical basis, the undergraduate Philosophy club is run entirely on an informal basis. At its last meeting Harry Symmes was elected chairman, the only officer of the club. There are no minutes or records of attendance taken and everyone who is interested may attend the meeting and automatically become a member.

Satterfield to Play for Grail Dance Saturday

Campus Orchestra Engaged for Homecoming Day Dance

Affair to be Held In Woollen Gym

Johnny Satterfield and his band will play next Saturday night for the Grail dance climaxing Homecoming and Greater University Day, George Coxhead, exchequer of the Grail, announced yesterday.

Doors to the main floor will open at 8 o'clock in order that girls from the Woman's college, who will come down for the game en masse, will be able to get in two hours of dancing before they go back.

The dance, like other Grail functions, will be informal and the admission price will be $1.10 for either stag or couple.

Sponsors from State and the Woman's college will be special guests of the Grail.

Saturday night's dance will mark the second Grail affair for which Satterfield has played this fall. Other engagements so far this year include the Carolina freshman smoker and dances at WCUNC, Roanoke, Hartsville and Williamson.

Band Specializes In "Blues" Numbers

The band is still playing its individual blues style for which swing critic John Hammond last spring rated them the best swing band on the campus. Solos by Bob Montgomery, trombone, Frank Justice, alto sax, and Wade Denning, trumpet, are featured.

New arrangements include Satterfield's version of Ellington's "I Got It Bad and That Ain't Good" and Justice's original "Meditation of a Faun."

Coeds to Hold Training Meet

Initial Meeting Slated Tomorrow

Trial of a mythical honor code case by the coed honor council will open the first junior training group meeting to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall, Jean Hahn, president of the coed senate, announced yesterday.

Attendance at the training group monthly meetings is compulsory for any junior coed who wishes to be eligible for nomination for any coed office.

To Train Coed Officers

The training groups were set up in the new constitution adopted by the coeds last spring. Their purpose is to acquaint the prospective coed leaders with the responsibilities of office, and all coeds with their government.

All coeds, juniors, seniors, or graduates are invited to attend this first meeting, the subject of which will be the work of the honor council. Attendance will be recorded, and only those juniors who have attended all three meetings to be held between now and December, will be eligible for nomination in the December elections.

The monthly meetings will discuss the three branches of coed government, and attempt to interest a large share of the coed student body in their government, Miss Hahn said.

IRC Applications Due Tomorrow

All applicants for membership in the IRC must be turned in to the YMCA office by noon tomorrow, Roger Mann, president announced yesterday. Between eight and ten applicants will be accepted into membership within a week.

Frat House Managers

A meeting of the Interfraternity Council of House Managers will be held at 7:30 tomorrow night in the Kappa Alpha house.

Lynn Fontanne

Finnish Ancestry Qualifies Lunt For Sherwood Play

Alfred Lunt who, with his wife Lynn Fontanne, comes to the Carolina Theatre in Durham on Tuesday evening for a performance of Robert E. Sherwood's "There Shall Be No Night" is qualified for his part by his Scandinavian ancestry.

The scene of this play is Finland, a country that Lunt visited often as a boy in the company of his Finnish-born step-father. On their last visit there together they stopped at the Hotel Kamp, in which one scene of Sherwood's play takes place. When Lunt awoke the next morning, he discovered that his father was dead. Upon a visit to Helsinki a few years ago, Lunt and his wife couldn't find accommodations in any hotel other than the old Kamp. Oddly enough, they were given the same room that Lunt had occupied years before. That room was reproduced by the scenic designer, Richard Whorf, for "There Shall Be No Night."

Student Union Holds Scavenger Hunt Tonight

Fifteen dollars in National Defense Stamps, a $5 meal ticket to the Grill, and a haircut and shampoo in the Graham Memorial barber shop are the prizes to be awarded tonight in the scavenger hunt at the community sing.

Trying out a new idea for the first time, Fish Worley announced yesterday that he would post a scavenger list of the required but unusual articles in all dorms, fraternities, and sororities by 6 o'clock tonight. All students are eligible to compete and may enter as individuals or in groups. Entries, with the assorted required articles, must be in Memorial Hall by 8:30 when the community sing will get underway.
