Mexico's Padilla To Explain US Mission

Envoy Speaks Here Tomorrow; Trip Indicates Oil Settlement

Indications that Mexico's anti-Axis Foreign Minister, the uncompromising Ezequiel Padilla, would explain his sudden and unexpected trip to the United States in his Gerrard hall speech tomorrow night, spread yesterday, as Josephus Daniels and University officials concluded arrangements for the famed ministers visit.

Padilla's arrival in this country last Saturday was widely heralded, as news sources throughout the country declared that he had arrived to finally settle the US-Mexican oil dispute. Refusals of the State department to deny these persistent rumors, strengthened the arguments of those familiar with the long and bitter dispute.

Guest of Daniels

A weekend guest of the former Ambassador to Mexico, Josephus Daniels, Padilla will be presented to a Chapel Hill audience tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall by Daniels.

The 40-year-old diplomat who made history at the Rio conference short months ago has received an unusual amount of favorable publicity since his anti-Axis stand helped cement the conference liberal forces.

Refused Compromise

Padilla announced that he would "absolutely refuse" any compromise plan, particularly the reported Argentine proposal under which each nation would be left free to break with the Axis when it saw fit.

When conferees moved towards a showdown on vital issues, Padilla helped push the 100 odd resolutions and projects through the secretariat—resolutions that spelled doom for Axis interests at the conference.

A Mexican proposal for joint adherence to the Atlantic Charter was passed largely through his efforts. Similarly a Mexican proposal for the extension of the status of non-belligerency to all nations fighting the Axis was adopted.

UNC-Johns Hopkins To Debate Tonight

The student members of Carolina's Debate council and squad will meet a team from Johns Hopkins University tonight.

Carrington Gretter, council president, said yesterday that the contest will be staged at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. Names of UNC and Johns Hopkins team members have not yet been received.

Town Cleaners Reject Plan Of Managers

Durham Company Makes Contract For Dorm Cleaning

Chapel Hill cleaners yesterday bluntly refused either to arbitrate or meet the dormitory managers' demands for restoration of twenty five per cent profits and free cleaning. As a result all cleaning collected in the mens' dormitories will automatically be sent to Johnson-Prevost Cleaners in Durham.

The Johnson-Prevost offer, expected to be sealed by a written contract, is daily delivery, with old profits and gratis cleaning re-established. Although an effort was made to have Johnson-Prevost reset the retail prices that were in effect in Chapel Hill before March 16 the company felt that this could not be done for the time being.

All women's dormitories, fraternities and sororities are being contacted, and dorm leaders expected that they too will join in the campus movement of boycotting Chapel Hill cleaners. It was today stated, however, that Johnson-Prevost could cater only to the men's dormitories trade until after the Easter rush because they lack the facilities to handle such a tremendous increase in business. After that time any agent who desires greater benefits than offered by any Chapel Hill cleaner will be welcomed by Johnson-Prevost.

The action taken means that every Chapel Hill cleaner will lose between 50 and 75 per cent of his total volume of business. No estimation could be made of the loss in terms of dollars and cents, but it is expected to be high.

NC High School Debaters Engage In Contests Here

One hundred and fifty high schools, represented by 600 speakers, will participate today in the 30th annual triangular debating contest of the North Carolina High School Debating Union. Reports which have been received here from these high schools, scattered throughout all sections of the State indicate that preparations are complete for the triangular debates.

The query which will be discussed is: "Resolved, That a union of western hemisphere nations should be established."

The high schools which win both debates on Friday will send their teams to Chapel Hill to take part on April 16 and 17 in the final contest for the Aycock Memorial Cup, the trophy which has been provided for the High School Debating Union by the inter-collegiate debaters of the University.

Statistics which have been compiled show that 142 high schools, out of the total of 150 participating schools, will be represented by 233 boys and 335 girls.

Local Negro Quartet To Sing Here Sunday

Singing streamlined Negro spirituals, Green Durham and his Sunset Four of the local Negro town's Sunset alley, will appear in concert at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the main lounge of Graham Memorial, Bill Cochrane announced yesterday.

Green Durham, chief cook at the Chi Phi house, and his musical quartet have been praised for the savage, rhythmical interpretation of melodies which characterize the music of the Sunset Four.

Sponsored by Graham Memorial this program is a continuance of regular Sunday afternoon concerts scheduled this year.

Jinnette Hood

Hood Named For Secretary

First Coed in Race; Five Posts Vacant

By Billy Webb

Initiating spring quarter nominations, the University party last night nominated Jinnette Hood, first coed to enter this year's political melee, for secretary of the rising senior class.

The running mate of Jack Markham, nominated by UP last term, Miss Hood is a graduate of St. Mary's college where she was active in student government, serving as vice-president of the student body. In addition she was a member of the St. Mary's honor council and a leader in the promotion of student government and the honor system. Interested in campus affairs, she served on class organization and finance committees.

Miss Hood, who is from Portsmouth, Va., has been a resident of Smith dormitory since she entered the University as a junior last fall. Outstanding in athletics, she has led dormitory intramural activities in hockey and basketball and consistently been a leader in other dormitory activities.

With the University party speeding up its nomination machinery to rush completion of the entire party slate, Miss Hood's nomination still leaves five vacancies in the senior bracket, the vice-president, treasurer, and three members of the legislature still to be nominated.

Archer House Coeds Give Dance Today

Archer House will give an informal dance today from 5 until 7 o'clock in the Air Raid Shelter of Graham Memorial. The music will be supplied by recordings of various "name bands."

This is one of a series of informal dances sponsored by the Interdorm Council and various women's dorms.

Home Again

Dr. Hardin Craig to Teach Renaissance English Here

By Bob Levin

Dr. Hardin Craig, distinguished authority on the Renaissance and English Literature, is now teaching Medieval Renaissance 105 for the spring quarter here and conducting a Renaissance Seminar with Professor George C. Taylor.

Arriving Tuesday from Stanford University, Dr. Craig began classes immediately in the roll of substitute professor for the late Dr. W. F. Thrall.

Craig is not new at Carolina as he was visiting professor in the winter quarter of 1935. Previous teaching posts include Princeton, Minnesota and Iowa.

He graduated from Center College, Kentucky, in 1897 and received his Ph. D. from Princeton four years later.

Hunt Hobbs

Hobbs Drops From Race For T an' F

Withdrawal Due To Academic Load; Gleicher in Race

The second withdrawal of the year shattered party and publications centers yesterday, when Hunt Hobbs, Student party nominee for the Tar an' Feathers editorship, dropped from the political arena.

Hobbs, who was appointed to the editorship by the Publications Union board in December to replace Bill Seeman, gave, as his reason for withdrawal, "lack of time and the decision to expend a major part of my energy in scholastic work next year."

Hobbs, under a new system established this year, will continue in the editor's chair until the end of the spring quarter, editing two more issues of the magazine.

Having dropped from the field, Hobbs leaves Stud Gleicher, University party nominee, the only candidate for the position. However, leaders last night indicated that the Student party will nominate another candidate to replace Hobbs.

"I have learned from the firm with which I hope to be employed after graduation that several courses more than I had expected will be required," said Hobbs last night. He withdrew after conferences with Student party officials.

The two more issues of Tar an' Feathers yet to be edited will appear in April and May, with the March issue about to go to press.

All-Out Defense Ball Slated Tonight

Grail to Present Hatch, Satterfield

Carolina men and women break tradition in the interests of defense tonight as they go "dutch" to the Grail-sponsored All-Out Ball scheduled from 9 until 1 o'clock in the Tin Can.

The popular campus orchestras of Johnny Satterfield and Hurst Hatch will vie with musical expression as they both alternately play for the informal dance.

Door admission has been set at 50c per person with 40c of the script returned to each admittee in the form of defense stamps affixed to a defense savings book. The dance is the initiating movement in the drive of the Grail and the OSD for the increased sale of the stamps on the campus and in the town.

Pat Winston, chairman of arrangements, stated yesterday that high school students and townspeople were specially invited to attend the dance—first coordinated effort of Carolina students for defense.

Satterfield's band is noted on the campus and throughout the state for its "negroid" style of dance music.

Hatch's orchestra, formerly under the banner of Rowland Kennedy, has had a steady progression of leaders and organizations since its formation over two years ago as the Graham Memorial orchestra.

Both bands have given up paying jobs to play for the dance gratis. Bill Cochrane, lawyer-entertainer of Graham Memorial will be Master of Ceremonies.

HURST HATCH and his band will furnish music free of charge to the "All-Out Ball" in the Tin Can tonight from 9 to 1 o'clock. Hatch's band along with Johnny Satterfield's, will play for the event which is being sponsored by the Order of the Grail and is the first coordinate defense effort in the form of entertainment to be made by the student body as a whole.
