Tawney To Speak On Campus Tonight

Noted Economist To Appear at 8:30 In Gerrard Hall

Dr. R. H. Tawney, brilliant English economist and a noted lecturer and author, will address his first Chapel Hill audience tonight when he mounts the rostrum in Gerrard hall for a speech at 8:30.

President Graham will preside at the lecture and the general public is invited to attend.

Dr. Tawney during his stay in Chapel Hill is a house guest of Dr. Graham who studied under the economist at the London School of Economics about ten years ago.

Dr. Tawney is a member of the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton University which has attracted such renowned scholars as Albert Einstein and Thomas Mann.

Born in Calcutta, India, Dr. Tawney was educated at Rugby, Balliol College, and was an Oxford Fellow. He taught at Oxford from 1908 until 1914 and has been director of the Ratan Tata Foundation of the University of London since 1914 and president of the Workers Education Association since 1928.

A member of the Cotton Trade Conciliation Committee in 1936, Tawney was a fellow of the British Academy in 1935, and an Honor Fellow of Balliol College in 1938.

A noted author, Dr. Tawney has written numerous works on economic affairs. Among his books are "The Agrarian Problem in the 16th Century," "English Economic History: the Acquisitive Society," "Education, the Socialist Policy," "Thomas Wilson, A Discourse on Usury," "Religion and the Rise of Capitalism," "Equality," "31," and "Land and Labor in China," '32."

Plans Instigated For Return of TKA

Plans for reestablishment of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary debating fraternity, will go before the Debate council and squad Tuesday night.

Dr. Frank Graham and Dean Robert House are among members of the fraternity who are seeking to bring TKA back to the Carolina campus.

The Debate session starts at 9 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial.

Lieut. King to Discuss V-1 with Frosh, Sophs

Lieutenant T. T. King of the Atlanta Naval Recruiting station will meet with freshmen and sophomores tomorrow morning in Gerrard hall at 10:30 to explain the Navy's new V-1 program.

The new program, recently announced from Washington, allows freshmen and sophomores between the ages of 17 and 20 years to enlist in the Naval Reserve on a deferred service basis. Standardized examinations will be given the enlisted men at the end of one and one-half calendar years to determine whether they may stay in college for the full four years.

With the possible enactment by Congress to lower the draft age minimum to 18 years, the V-1 program will provide one of the only positive ways that freshmen and sophomores may be assured of remaining in college.

Klein, Seeley Nominated For CWC Post

Elections for officers of the Carolina Workshop council will start tomorrow by means of mail ballots, Chairman Richard Adler stated yesterday.

Executive committee of the CWC met last Saturday to nominate Ann Seeley and Walter Klein for chairmanship, Henry Moll for vice-chairman, Mack Bell and Art Conescu for secretary, Samuel Selden and Walter Spearman for faculty adviser, and Klein and Miss Seeley for publicity directorship.

Adler said that "to afford members sufficient time for proper consideration" the Workshop mails ballots to the council with the request that the votes be returned to CWC offices by Wednesday. Votes will be tabulated and results released Thursday morning.

Miss Seeley, a journalism major, is

Dean Fears Standards May Be Low

Fear that standards of graduate education throughout the country may be lowered as a result of the war and competition for enrollments, already showing decreases in many institutions, was expressed in a report presented here by Dean Whatley W. Pierson of the Graduate School of the University of North Carolina.

Expressing the view that institutions of higher learning can offer their services to the federal government during the emergency and at the same time maintain their graduate education standards, Dean Pierson said "I believe that the promise that our graduate degrees given in wartime to people engaged in non-military activities will be as good in quality as degrees awarded in ordinary times would have a heartening effect."

Warning against the lowering of standards in order to maintain enrollments, Dean Pierson declared that "if one thinks back to the other World War to inquire about 'easier work and reduced requirements,' it is believed that the record was none too reassuring."

Dean Pierson said that new programs involving reduced requirements and easier work, "will in all probability, without differentiation, carry such designations as 'emergency,' 'defense,' and 'war service' courses. Some institutions, becoming panicky, will outdo—they have already out-

Smith to Begin Series Of Weil Lectures Tuesday

Chicago Professor Famed for Debates

Speaking at the first of this year's series of Weil Lectures on American Citizenship Tuesday evening at 8:30 in Gerrard hall, Dr. T. V. Smith leading professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago will discuss "Science: the Discipline of Truth."

Dr. Smith, who has appeared frequently on America's Town Meeting of the Air and who is a regular member of the University of Chicago Round Table, will speak on Wednesday and Thursday evenings on "Art: the Discipline of Beauty," and "Politics: the Discipline of Goodness."

The Weil Lecture Fund, established in 1915, by the families of Sol and Henry Weil of Goldsboro, has presented the series annually with the exception of 1931-32. Some former speakers have been Charles A. Beard, Harold Laski, Henry A. Wallace, Felix Frankfurter, Dorothy Thompson, and Herbert Agar.

Dr. Smith was born in Blanket, Texas, and was educated at the University of Texas and the University of Chicago where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He has been for many years professor of philosophy there and editor of the International Journal of Ethics.

Elected to the National House of Representatives from the state of Illinois in 1938, Dr. Smith was chosen to defend the Democratic administration in a series of radio debates with Senator Robert A. Taft in 1939. Broadcast over a nation-wide hookup, the debates continued for 13 weeks and were published by A. A. Knopf under the title, "Foundations of Democracy." His brilliant defense is believed to have contributed to the preparation for the victory of the democratic party in the 1940 elections.

Smith previously appeared in Chapel Hill in the spring of 1939 when he was among the speakers on the Program of the Institute of Human Relations.

Naval Officers Move into GHQ; Await Commander

Administrative headquarters have been set up on the first floor of Alexander dormitory for the Naval Pre-Flight officers in connection with the preparedness program here.

Final construction work was completed this week and the building is the first of the five requisitioned by the Navy to be completed. All upper quadrangle buildings are still under construction and are expected to be finished early this month.

Commander O. O. Kessing is expected to arrive May 9 and Lt. Commanders Harvey Harmon and Jim Crowley about the 16 at which time final plans will be completed for all phases of the vast program.

Wills, Jones Represent UNC

Dr. George S. Wills, class of 1889, and Dr. John P. Jones, a medical student here in 1908-9, will represent the University at academic celebrations this month.

Dr. Wills who has taught at Western Maryland College for the last 19 years, will be the University's official representative at the 75th anniversary exercises of Western Maryland College on May 16.

Dr. Jones, a native of Franklin, N. C., who has practiced medicine at Wakefield, Rhode Island since 1919, will represent the University at the anniversary of Rhode Island State College and the inauguration of a new president there on May 23.

May Court Rehearsal Scheduled Monday

Hobbs to Receive McKinnon Effort To Repeal Bill

By Hayden Carruth

More than the required ten per cent of the student body have signed the petition circulated by Ben McKinnon, editor-elect of the abolished Tar and Feathers, to reverse the act of the Student legislature establishing a combination magazine, and the petition will be presented to Student government officials tomorrow, McKinnon announced yesterday.

Truman Hobbs, who officially retires from the office of student body president Wednesday, will accept the petition as the last act of his public position.

Hobbs yesterday did not know when the date for the referendum would be set. "I will confer with McKinnon and other interested individuals before announcing the date," he said. The Student legislature constitution states that the referendum must be held within two weeks after the presentation of the petition.

"I don't think half the student body would turn out to vote on a referendum abolishing Woollen gym," said McKinnon yesterday. "I know that combination is here to stay, but I want to find out how the campus reacted to the legislature's bill, and I think a good many others would like to know too," he added.

The constitution requires that a majority of the enrolled students must vote in the referendum in order that the outcome may be considered legal basis for the reversal of the legislature's enactment.

Bert Bennett, president-elect, will take over his new office Wednesday, and "will probably work with Hobbs on the referendum." Hobbs indicated that the date for the referendum will be named after conferences with McKinnon, and that the date will depend on the time that McKinnon may wish for campaigning. "If the boys think the time is ripe now, we will get the referendum going within one or two days," said Hobbs.

Thursday, McKinnon said that he "didn't believe" he would do any campaigning for the referendum. He did

Goldberg Cops Debate Honors

Arthur Goldberg, University freshman from Brooklyn, N. Y., has just been announced the winner of a national debating contest sponsored by the National Hillel Foundation organization.

Goldberg, debating on the subject: "Jews in the Post War World," won out in a campus debate and from here went to Portsmouth, Va., where he won the district contest. He came out first in an Eastern States contest in Baltimore and from there competed for the national title in Detroit.

The University student opposed representatives in Detroit from colleges and universities throughout the country, including Yale, Brooklyn College, the University of Maryland, the University of Virginia, Duke, California, Texas A. and M., Ohio State, and Queens in Canada.

He was presented the Bertha Bernstein award.

Student Government Questioned

Assistant Dean of Students Roland Parker will ask for abolition of student government for the duration at Tuesday night's Di Senate session.

Speaking on the Senate's top bill, "Resolved that student government be abolished at Carolina for the duration of the war," Parker will describe the immediate possibilities of returning to administration government, according to Di president Roger Mann.

"Students think that such a move is remote and imponderable, but administration officials and people in-the-know are wondering how student government can continue," Mann averred. "They see no other choice. To some persons an abolition seems inevitable."

Di Senate officers arranged Tuesday's convention for the purpose of stimulating realization of the nearness of student government curtailment. The meeting will begin at 7:30 in Di hall, on the third floor of New West building.

Mann said yesterday that Dean of Students Francis Bradshaw originally had been signed to speak affirmatively on the bill, but Bradshaw informed Mann yesterday that his appearance in Kentucky Tuesday night would be imperative. Assistant Dean Parker said that Dean Bradshaw's views, with a few points opposing, would be expressed in his own speech Tuesday night.

Debaters Meet Virginia Team In Radio Contest

Carolina meets the University of Virginia in a radio debate in Charlottesville Friday afternoon.

"Resolved that the federal government should own and operate all munitions plants" has been set for the topic of the Debate council-squad's last intercollegiate debate of the year, according to President Carrington Greter.

Tryouts for Carolina's affirmative side on the question will take place Tuesday night at the regular debate meet in the Grail room, 9 o'clock. The Debate council will back all expenses covered by the Carolina team during the Charlottesville contest.

WCHV, Charlottesville's high-power broadcaster, will begin its coverage of the Carolina-Virginia debate at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The forensic contest, as the last intercollegiate debate, brings to an end the Debate council and squad's "highly successful season" in which Carolina teams met 20 colleges and universities in dual competition. They also participated in three tournaments this year: Dixie Forensic tourney at Rock Hill, S. C., Tau Kappa Alpha tournament at Columbus, Ohio, and the national Delta Sigma Rho contest in Madison, Wisconsin.

G-Man Starts 6-Talk Series On FBI Technique Tomorrow

E. P. Coffey, chief of the FBI's world-famed crime detection laboratory, will open the second annual Institute of government lecture series tomorrow afternoon in Graham Memorial lounge, beginning a series of talks on the role modern chemistry, psychology, physics and other sciences play in catching criminals, spies and saboteurs.

He will be introduced by Albert Coates, director of the Institute, with whom the FBI has worked for many years.

The FBI chief, who was once special agent in charge of the two Carolinas division of the FBI and who has been to the Carolina campus a number of times for Institute of Government short courses and schools, will speak every afternoon tomorrow through Friday at 5 o'clock, and the concluding session will come Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Coffey's lecture series, entitled "Scientific aids in crime detection as developed through the FBI technical laboratory," is subdivided as follows:

Evolution of scientific crime detection, tomorrow; applying physics to crime detection, Tuesday; applying chemistry to crime detection, Wednesday; applying psychology to crime detection, Thursday; scientific crime detection in the United States and Europe, Friday afternoon; and new frontiers and the future of scientific crime detection, Friday evening.

Playmakers Rehearse for Ibsen Production

Casting Complete For 'Peer Gynt'

By Nancy Smith

Casting has been completed and nightly rehearsals are underway for the Carolina Playmakers' Forest Theater production of Ibsen's "Peer Gynt," scheduled for presentation on May 22, 23, and 24, under the direction of Dr. Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers.

Promising to be the most elaborate production ever attempted by the Playmakers in the outdoor Forest Theatre, "Peer Gynt" will gather together all the talents of the department of dramatic art at the University in a concerted effort. "Proff" Koch will direct the annual outdoor play. Harry Davis, assistant professor in the department of dramatic art, will serve as technical director of the production and will design the lighting; Earl Wynn, radio director, will arrange a special musical setting from Grieg's "Peer Gynt" score.

Playing the title role of the young Norwegian, Peer Gynt is Douglass Watson, of Barnesville, Georgia. In the role of Aase, his mother, is Jean McKenzie, of West Palm Beach, Florida. Solveig and Ingrid, the two girls in Peer's life are played by Mollie Holmes of Chapel Hill and Phyllis Parker, of Smithfield.

Tom Avera, of Rocky Mount is cast as the King of the Trolls, and Shirlee Brimberg of New York City plays his daughter, The Greenclad One. Robert Carroll of Hamlet plays the Button-moulder.

Also in the cast are Earl Wynn as Aslak, the blacksmith; Elizabeth Trotman as Kari; Elaine Berg as Maren; George Latschaw as the Bridegroom; Irvine Smith as the Bridegroom's father; W. P. Covington III as Solveig's Father; Josephine Sharkey as
