

Senior Superlatives, Officers Nominated

A melodious senior banquet last night featured the music of Hurst Hatch and his rising campus band, the Four Sounds of Sound and Fury, and the University quartet. During the business meeting after the banquet nominations were made for the permanent officers of the class of '42 and the senior superlatives, results to be announced as soon as the ballots are tabulated.

DTH Editor Plays Drunk In S&F Show

Saturday afternoon, at the "Are You Kidding?" Sound and Fury-Daily Tar Heel extravaganza, Orville Campbell, dignitary of Graham Memorial's second floor, steps from his editorial pedestal to wander in during the show, carting two quarts of whiskey, and generally disturbs the already disturbed proceedings.

This will be but one of the features of the Sound and Fury spring production, Tiny Hutton, member of the directing staff, promised yesterday. Campus figures from Truman Hobbs to Jack Dube will come in for a share of the ridicule.

The show will be presented in connection with the Red Norvo concert, when that maestro from the dens of Westchester packs up his woodpile and treks to Chapel Hill. The entire show, Sound and Fury, Red Norvo, et al, will begin at 2:30 Saturday afternoon in Memorial hall. Admission: couple, 25 cents; stag, 15 cents.

Such outstanding campus entertainers as Frank Brink, the Four Sounds, Kat Charles, Fred Calligan, Paul D'Elia and Jackie Ray will highlight the hilarity, along with a host of new songs written by students, especially for the show.

As explained earlier this week to a bewildered DTH cub who stood flabbergasted in the middle of the rehearsal stage, the show will consist of a group of skits and acts, interspersed with music, gags, and general screwballism. "Everything goes, including our sanity," said Sheldon Coons, brain-buster of the directing sextet. The entire board of directors, which also claims credit for producing, lighting, costuming, writing, and snaring the original idea from the middle of a fo, are Sheldon Coons, Arty Fischer, Ben Hall, Tiny Hutton, Bud Imbrey, and Tom Waldman.

This show represents a reversion to the Sound and Fury comedy tactics of last year. It is a presentation of short skits, instead of the multiple-act, integrated performance of the winter.

Garner Takes Over DTH Sports Today

Mark Garner, appointed Wednesday to the post of sports editor on the Daily Tar Heel, assumes duties as of today. Harry Hollingsworth, former mogul of the sports page, resigned.

State Department Expert

Hornbeck, IRC's Speaker, Keeps Getting Keys, Degrees

Looks as if Carolina is going to hear in Stanley K. Hornbeck the greatest scholar since Dr. Hu Shih, the Chinese Ambassador. Hornbeck, who will end the IRC's fourth year in the sixth and last Victory Series address Thursday night in Memorial hall, dominates a mere 52 lines in the latest edition of Who's Who. Most of the lineage is taken up by lengthy descriptions of Dr. Hornbeck's scholarly achievements.

The 59 year old adviser to the US State Department started his career with educations at Wisconsin University, University of Denver and Beloit college. Hornbeck concluded this phase of his fame by being a Rhodes scholar at England's Oxford University.

With a half dozen assorted degrees under his arm and three keys on his vest, Hornbeck went into teaching at Wisconsin, Chinese Government college, Michigan University and Harvard. His State Department career began before the last war. The name of Hornbeck gained recognition after World War I when he was made the State Department's technical expert

Lenoir hall, Hurst Hatch played pre-dinner music. Subsequently the Four Sounds, swing quartet outstanding in the major productions of two-year old Sound and Fury music-comedy organization, sang "Put it in the Public Eye" and "Blues in the Night."

Welcoming the seniors, Spike Saunders, secretary of the Alumni association, outlined plans for commencement, to be held June 7, 8, and 9, which he stated "will be as usual."

Offering an innovation in ordinary senior banquet procedure, a ludicrous mock tapping ceremony was conducted with Grail-like solemnity by five hooded figures who singled out students with flashlights. Eligibility of those tapped to belong to the pseudo-honorary organization was voted upon as part of the ceremony.

Candidates were nominated for the senior superlatives which include Mr. and Mrs. Class of 1942, Most Likely to Succeed, Best Looking Boy and Coed, Most Popular Boy and Coed, Smoothest Coed and Boy Operator.

Nominations were also held for permanent senior class officers, the offices being president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer. Nominations for president were Jimmy Crone, Dub Martin, Ferebee Taylor, Pinky Elliott, George Hayes, and Bill McKinnon; for vice-president John Diffendal, Mac McLendon, Jim Barclay, Tommy Sparrow, George Coxhead, and Ridley Whitaker; for secretary-treasurer Randy Mebane, John McCormick, Al Rose, Breezy Breezeale, Footsey McCombs, Jimmy Rogers, and Stuart Richardson.

Grumman Directs Country-Wide Extension Meet

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 14—Fifty-four colleges and universities throughout the country will be represented at the 27th annual conference of the National University Extension association, which is to be held at Pennsylvania State college here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Headed by Russell M. Grumman, director of the Extension division, the association will formulate plans for the further adjustment of college and university extension services to wartime needs. A number of outstanding speakers will address the conference.

Already the extension directors are making an all-out effort to carry the programs and activities of their respective colleges and universities to the general public.

Among major topics of discussion at the Pennsylvania meeting will be supervised correspondence instruction, short war-time courses and institutes, college and university participation in civilian morale service, national citizenship education program, library

Last Jr.-Sr. Bids To Be Issued Today

Junior-senior dance bids will be given out for the last time at the YMCA today, Dean Williams and Steve Peck, co-chairmen of the junior-senior dance committee, reported yesterday.

Junior bids will be available at 10:30 only, while senior bids will be given out at 10:30 and from 2 until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, it was stated. Many members of the two classes, particularly juniors, have not as yet obtained their bids, Peck said.

Partrick Appointed OSCD Head

Hall Partrick, rising junior, has been appointed Student coordinator of the Office of Student Civilian Defense to assume office next September, Louis Harris, student coordinator and chairman of the executive committee, announced yesterday.

The appointment was made after two weeks of investigation by the executive committee, more than a dozen students being considered for the appointment.

Partrick's appointment came as a surprise to campus government circles yesterday. Although some speculation had been manifest in Graham Memorial, Partrick was not considered by any as a possibility.

Partrick has been active on the cross country squad for two years, noted by his fellow runners as a quiet but efficient member of the athletic branch of the University. He has participated in student government to the extent of one term in the student legislature.

Harris announced that appointments would be made to all other positions in OSCD by Monday and would "be released through the regular channels." Most of the members of next year's executive board have been chosen, he said.

Other positions that must be filled are the executive offices in the departments of Civilian Protection, Morale, Information, and Defense. It is generally expected that Bert Bennett, president of the student body, will continue in his official capacity as head of Civilian Protection and Defense. Harris pointed out that he may be shifted to chief Air Raid Warden.

"I have complete faith in Hall's ability to carry on the work of the OSCD

Amazons, Supermen Will Clash Today In Jr.-Sr. Massacre

Titans of the softball diamond unlimber their weapons of strength and skill today on coed field No. 1 as the junior and senior classes duel for supremacy in the annual contest staged during senior week.

The doubleheader will begin at 3:30 when the Amazons of both classes sidle cooly onto the field to initiate the competition. Brawney junior and senior men will continue the massacre at 5 o'clock in a game fraught with tension since both teams are equally powerful.

Wearing white golf caps and green shirts, the senior team will be enervated and inspired by their sponsors gazing anxiously and beautifully from the stands. Feminine exponents of the senior cause are Peggy Lou Futrelle, Mary Caldwell, Diddy Kelley, Jean Hahn and Jean McKenzie with voluptuous Tiny Hutton acting as bat boy.

Don Wilson, who will umpire the game with Ellis Freedman, stated yesterday that "Me and Ellis are both sophomores and we ain't got nothin' against either team so it'll be a fair contest unless we get a better offer than the 25c defense stamp the juniors offered us." Temporary bleachers will be erected for the game.

With Nancy Jeffries captaining the junior team and Mary McCormick heading the senior, coed lineups were still indefinite yesterday because of a wedding disrupting previously planned teams.

The senior team, containing a number of intramural stars and captained by Tommy Sparrow, is as follows: Walter Parsley (SS), Charlie Boker (CF), Gwynn Nowell (C), Pinky Elliott (LF), Jimmy Crone (RF), Bill Alexander (SF), Jimmy Sparrow (2B), Haywood Bland (3B), Bob Rose, (1B), Al Headly (P), Sam Mordecai (P) with utility men Bill McKinnon, Doug West, Oskie Johnson, and George Hayes.

The junior squad, led by Craig Phillips and with an equal number of outstanding players, is composed of the following: Cam Rodman (SS), Craig Phillips (RF), Dillard Bullard (3B), Bill Sigler (CF), Frosty Long (SF), Bob Glenn (2B), Alston Lewis (1B), George Paine (LF), Lem Gibbons (C), and Tommy Dill (P), with utility man Bud Shook and Frank Mordecai.

Bradshaw Answers Enlistment Queries

Dean F. F. Bradshaw will conduct a question-and-answer meeting on the enlisted programs of the Army and Navy this morning at 10:30 in Memorial hall.

In constant touch with War and Navy department officials, Dean Bradshaw has made two trips to the Capitol city for conferences in the past two weeks.

Relieved of Dean of Students' duties, he is devoting his entire time to accumulating data on war service opportunities for college students and allied subjects.

Fleece Men To Be Tapped

Annual selection of members of the Golden Fleece, cloaked in mystery and the supernatural, will be held in Memorial hall Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Between 8 and 8:30 organ music will fill the darkened aisles, and immediately following the doors will be closed and locked. Pursuing the policy maintained for many years, the Golden Fleece will not divulge the names of the men to be tapped.

Following the program at Memorial hall the newly elected members will be feted at a banquet in the Carolina Inn.

The Golden Fleece was founded by Dr. Horace Williams in 1903 for the purpose of bringing together representatives of various groups on the campus in an effort to unite them. Since then the Fleece has continued to select members from various representative and industrious groups on the campus. Since its formation in 1903 the Fleece has tapped 361 members.

Contrary to popular belief that the Fleece meets only once a year to induct members, the members meet regularly and endeavor to carry out its original function.

While the Fleece cannot act through themselves, they carry on their activities through other campus organizations.

Fifteen CVTC Men Visit Fort Bragg

Fifteen members of the CVTC staff will visit Fort Bragg today, headed by Lt. Col. W. A. Raborg, local chief of CVTC, to observe field artillery training in all its phases and the basic subjects they will find useful for their military corps at the University.

The firing of cannon and rifles, the observation of drill ground activity and the use of gas masks will be the main part of the review. The use of camouflaged gun parks and the observation of mass calisthenics are also on the orders for the day.

Fourth International Relations Conference

Shotwell Ends Meet with Peace Talk Tonight

Pope, Graham Among 30 Men Ready to Speak

Dr. James T. Shotwell of Columbia University will climax the fourth annual conference of the Southern Council on International Relations with an address on "The Organization of Peace" tonight at 8:30 in Gerrard hall.

The conference, starring more than thirty southern leaders in civic and international relations, will feature earlier today James Pope, former United States Senator from Idaho, in an after luncheon address on "The Fight Against Isolationism," and President Frank P. Graham in an evening dinner speech on "Labor and Our War Effort."

Organized five years ago by Dr. Keener C. Frazier, former member of the League of Nations Secretariat and present professor of International Relations here, the Council has aimed to assist in the organization of civic education in the southeast in international relations.

'Are You Kiddin?' Review, Tea Dance, Ball Tomorrow

By Billy Webb

Climaxing a week of dances, movies and banquets, the Junior-Senior dance set, encompassing the largest number of students participating in a campus hop, opens tonight at 9:30 in Woollen gym with a formal dance at which Lt. Stanley Brown and his Fort Bragg all-star band will officiate.

Lt. Brown's band, which received the acclaim of Mickey Rooney, outstanding young movie star, is a product of combination of in-

DKE Takes Scholastic Top Honors

Fraternity scholastic averages, released yesterday by the office of the Dean of Men, ranked social fraternity Delta Kappa Epsilon with the highest scholastic average for the fall and winter quarters.

Holding the top position for two consecutive quarters, DKE's average dropped only six points for the winter quarter. An average of 2:45 was held for the fall quarter and 2:51 for the winter quarter.

Zeta Psi held second place honors with a 2:58 rating but yielded in the winter quarter to Alpha Tau Omega. The Zetas had 2:69 as under a 2:64 mark chalked up by ATO. Phi Alpha took third place honors for the fall quarter with 2:59.

The numerical evaluation used in computing averages rates the grade A and 1, B as 2, C as 3, D as 4, and F as 5.

The averages for the fall quarter were Delta Kappa Epsilon—2.45, Zeta Psi—2.58, Phi Alpha—2.59, Phi Delta Theta—2.82, Alpha Tau Omega—2.90, Beta Theta Pi—2.90, Tau Epsilon Phi—2.91, Kappa Alpha—2.98, Phi Gamma Delta—3.05, St. Anthony hall—3.12, Zeta Beta Tau—3.13, Pi Kappa Alpha—3.14, Chi Phi—3.16, Sigma Chi—3.16, Sigma Nu—3.17, Chi Psi—3.17, Kappa Sigma—3.18, Sigma Alpha Epsilon—3.25, Pi Lambda Phi—3.27, Phi Kappa Sigma—3.32, and Lambda Chi Alpha—3.52.

The averages for the winter quarter were Delta Kappa Epsilon—2.51, Alpha Tau Omega—2.64, Zeta Psi—2.69, St. Anthony—2.76, Phi Delta Theta—2.84, Sigma Nu—2.88, Phi Alpha—2.89, Tau Epsilon Phi—2.90, Zeta Beta Tau—2.98, Sigma Alpha Epsilon—3.02, Phi Gamma Delta—3.02, Kappa Alpha—3.06, Lambda Chi Alpha—3.10, Phi Kappa Sigma—3.14, Sigma Chi—3.15, Beta Theta Pi—3.17, Chi Psi—3.20, Kappa Sigma—3.22, Pi Kappa Alpha—3.23, Chi Phi—3.29 and Pi Lambda Phi—3.33.

Averages for the three sororities are still in the process of tabulation.

dividual former big name band stars into one group. The band, complimented at its last performance here, plays in the style of Tommy Dorsey which Brown describes as a "1942 brand of solid swing, plus a smooth style of ballads."

Known as the Second Regimental Dance Band, the aggregation practices before reveille in the officer's mess of the Second Regiment. The band is composed of former members of the bands of Tommy Reynolds, Harry James, Bobby Hackett, Buddy Clark, and vocalist Pvt. Don Kay was featured tenor with Freddie Martin.

Continuing the senior celebration, Red Norvo will bring his baton, xylophone, and orchestra to the campus tomorrow for a day of melody which comprises a concert, tea dance, and formal ball.

Sou. Fury's screwball production "Are You Kiddin'?", a ludicrous performance which has been carefully kept secret by S&F moguls, will share the stage with Red Norvo's band for the concert which begins at 2:30 and will continue until 4:30. Norvo's crew, highly praised by music magazine Metronome, entertains with beautiful songstress Kay Allen, funny antics by band members, and the melodic xylophoning of Norvo.

Immediately following the concert, the tea dance will begin at 5 o'clock in Woollen gym and last until 6:30. Seniors at the formal ball Saturday beginning at 9:30 will evince a radical transition from Thursday's day of going barefoot. Shortly before intermission, Ben Hall, president of Sound and Fury, will present a loving cup to the coed judged most beautiful by the S&F executive committee who will take notes on coed glamor throughout the dance.

Senior Committees See Williams Today

Senior executive committee and dance committee members, committee chairman, and class officers are requested to drop by the YMCA at 10:30 today to see Dean Williams, co-chairman of the Senior dance committee.

Hillel Tickets

Tickets for the closing Hillel banquet Monday night must be obtained from the Hillel YMCA office before noon today.
