

'Win-The-War' Meeting At Raleigh Tonight

Loan Fund Set At $5,000,000 By Government

Grant Available To UNC Students

Congress has appropriated a $5,000,000 student loan fund, part of which will be available to students at the University, to augment the recently reduced NYA funds.

To be eligible for a government loan a student must be majoring in the field of physics, chemistry, medicine, pharmacy, or dentistry and must be participating in the University speed-up program. The latter qualification means that the student must attend the second summer session.

The money will be loaned at low interest rates and the debt must be repaid within one year after graduation. If the student is drafted before graduation or is killed or permanently injured in the war, the debt does not have to be repaid.

Each student will be limited to $500 per year, the amount this University receives being determined by the number who apply for scholarships. Students interested should contact James Williams, administrator of the student loan fund, in South building.

The University's application for scholarship funds must be in by August 15 which means that students should apply for loans before that date. It is expected that students now in summer school will inform other students about the fund so that those interested may attend the second summer session in order to be eligible.

Announcement concerning the new NYA allocation for the University is expected to be made in the near future. During the past winter quarter, the NYA funds for the University were drastically slashed and a student campaign was started to replenish the fund.

High School Day Canceled by UNC 'For Duration'

North Carolina High School Day, which for the last four years has attracted 20,000 North Carolina high school students annually to the University, will not be held this year, it was announced yesterday by R. B. House, Dean of Administration.

"Cancelling of the annual High School Day was done with regret," Dean House stated, "and will be effective for the duration."

Roy Armstrong, director of admissions, started High School Day in 1938 for the purpose of acquainting the high school students of the state with the University. The day featured informal get-togethers with words of welcome by Dean House and by President Frank Graham, tours of the campus, and a football game in the afternoon. Last year high school students from over 90 of the 100 counties attended. Parades by most of the high school bands in the State were given at the football game.

Concluding Dean House said, "High school students are welcome to visit the University at all times, and that every effort would be made to show them the complete physical plant of Carolina."

Hatch Orchestra to Play At Informal Dance Friday

An informal dance Friday night with Hurst Hatch and his orchestra and the second world performance of "A Tree on the Plains" Saturday night will lead events in the final student activities office slate of the first summer term.

Members of the all-state high school band will present a concert Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock around

Wagging tongues of Chapel Hill and Carrboro citizens are branding Roderick J. McLean, 48, an enemy secret agent in a city-wide spy scare.

"To the Sound of Guns," an original radio script by Francis Lipscomb, Jr., member of the high school radio class at the University this summer, will be presented over WDNC, Durham, Saturday afternoon at 1:45.

The author, a native of Tusculum, Tenn., is a high school senior at Asheville Boys' School where he is a member of the dramatic society. This script represents his first attempt at radio drama.

The story is woven around the efforts of a young man to find his place in the war system today. In his searchings, the young man encounters a veteran of the first World War from whose experiences he is able to solve his own problem.

Conflicting testimonies by factory workers, guards and administrators, by relatives of McLean and by Chapel Hill and Carrboro residents made a mystery of the McLean case and a hotbed for rumor mongers.

Workers, whispering against signed statements of secrecy, are spreading the word today, 10 days after the episode, that a spy has been seized within the factory's machine shop where guards had broken into McLean's locker to find three thermite (incendiary) bombs, one time bomb and a pistol. They told the Carrboro-Chapel Hill grapevine that McLean didn't change his clothes regularly with the rest of the workers, and spoke with a foreign accent.

Rumor spreaders concluded their tales with the claim that Federal Bureau of Investigation agents moved in, after receiving word from headquarters that McLean's fingerprints revealed a previous criminal record, and had taken him to Washington.

Others said that McLean disappeared shortly after his dismissal and is hiding out. Neither his wife nor friends actually know where McLean has gone.

The missing worker was located Sunday night by telephone at the soldier's home for World War Veterans in Washington.

Edward Scheidt, FBI official at the Charlotte office, said yesterday that all cases of defense factory dismissals were investigated by agents. He did not say whether the FBI was still interested in McLean, but asserted "when a case is in the investigative stage the subject can neither be given a clean bill of health nor a suspicious accusation."

FBI investigators in Charlotte and Durham said Saturday that they knew nothing of the dismissal.

Had Heard Rumors
"I heard those rumors being spread just before I left Carrboro," McLean said in Washington Sunday, without See SPY SCARE, page 4

Bradshaw Serves With National Group

Fuller Utilization Of Colleges Planned

Francis F. Bradshaw, Dean of Students, has been working with a four-man committee in Washington to devise plans for the full utilization of the nation's universities in war time.

Bradshaw has been working in collaboration with President Cowley of Hamilton College, Comptroller Middlebrook of the University of Minnesota and President Morrill of the University of Wyoming. The committee has been in operation for four weeks.

Institutions Studied

First organized to prepare methods of administering the $5,000,000 student loan fund established by Congress, the committee was subsequently diverted to making plans for relieving the confusion and inadequacies of the nation's universities as a result of the war. In addition the committee was to devise means of gearing the curricula, faculties and other facilities of American colleges to the war effort.

This committee will present its plans to a meeting of 70 college presidents to be held in Baltimore. The purpose of the meeting is to prepare a resolution containing a comprehensive outline for full war utilization of universities. The resolution will be sent to President Roosevelt for action.

Civil Service Posts Opened

Applicants for positions of personnel officers, nurses, and operators of calculating machines and tabulating equipment may obtain full information regarding requirements and application forms from J. R. Webb, secretary of the Board of US Civil Service Examiners at the Chapel Hill post office, or from the Secretary of the Board of US Civil Service Examiners at any first- or second-class post office, the United States Civil Service Commission announced recently.

Because of the present need for these officials, requirements for eligibility have been amended. There is now no maximum age limit and no written test requirement. Applications will be accepted until the needs of the service have been met. They must be filed with the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Second Performance of 'Tree on the Plains', Nationally Hailed Opera, Scheduled Saturday

Mass Convocation Unites South Area

Coast-To-Coast Broadcast Stars Brink, Keutzer

"Song of America," radio show to be given in Raleigh tonight with the All-South rally, will be broadcast over WPTF at 8 o'clock and later over WRAL and the coast-to-coast Mutual Broadcasting System.

Frank Brink, University radio director and actor, and Clyde Keutzer, music instructor, assumed direction of the show after it was found that Melvyn Douglas, Hollywood actor, would be unable to come to Raleigh. Douglas had been in Washington for several days, consulting with OCD officials, and planned to direct the show for which he had been narrator in its premiere performance. Contract requirements forced him to return to Hollywood yesterday.

Brink to Narrate

Brink, who will be narrator as well as director, describes the program as "similar to the University's May Day celebration, but on a much greater scale." His narration for that show won much favorable comment from local students.

Other speaking parts have been assigned to Arthur Golby, star of the Playmakers' spring production, "George Washington Slept Here," and to Dr. Urban T. Holmes, who will play the part of the "Western American." Minor roles will be filled by members of the choral group, also a part of the program.

Special music, arranged by Harold J. Rome, will serve as the framework for Vincent McHugh's poetry to be read by the narrator and actors.

This musical arrangement, directed by Clyde Keutzer, uses a mixed chorus, two trumpets, two trombones, drums, snare and cymbals, all supplied by University students.

James A. Domvrowski of Washington has been sent by the OCD to confer with officials of the two radio stations on technical arrangements for the broadcasts.

The first will be a full-length presentation of the program over WPTF, beginning at 8 o'clock from the stage of the auditorium. Hugo L. Black, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, will follow with an address.

Immediately after which WRAL and the Mutual network will pick up a cut version of the same play to be transmitted over the coast-to-coast hook-up.

Publication Halts; Recruits Sought

Publication of THE TAR HEEL will cease with this issue and will resume with the issue scheduled for delivery Friday afternoon, July 24. The suspension of publication is to allow staff members time for concentrated study for examinations.

The staff and students interested in working on the staff next session will meet in the news offices, 206 Graham Memorial, Wednesday afternoon, July 22, to prepare the next edition.

The editors announced that the several vacancies on the staff will be filled immediately following tryouts.

Graham, Daniels Organize Rally; Patterson Speaks

Heralding a united South fully geared to utmost production and sacrifice for the war effort, the first South-wide "Win-the-War" Mass Meeting, instigated by Frank P. Graham, President of the University, and Josephus Daniels, former ambassador to Mexico and editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Raleigh Auditorium.

Judge Robert Patterson, Undersecretary of War, will make the principal address to what will probably be the largest sectional audience yet assembled in the interest of prosecuting the war effort. An address by Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Hugo L. Black, will precede the speech of the Undersecretary.

The purpose of the meeting is "to rally the South to closer unity, higher morale, and greater sacrifice in meeting the nation's war effort" and to establish "People's Committees" to begin immediate and organized action towards these goals.

As evidence of the purpose of the mass meeting to establish "complete" unity, members of both negro and white races are invited to the conferences.

In addition to the addresses scheduled on the program, the University chorus under the direction of Clyde H. Keutzer will present a new chorus, "Song for American Union" which was written by Vincent McHugh and Harold Rome. In its premier performance the chorus was narrated by movie star Melvyn Douglas. Since it was impossible to obtain Douglas for the chorus, the narration will be voiced by Frank Brink of the University.

Composers, noted for having done most to nurture new American operatic creation. A New York Times reviewer said that "musical history was made by the premiere of 'A Tree on the Plains' not so much on account of its production as because it contains elements of greatness. Greatness is rare, and appreciation of the flashes of it which permeate the opera was evident in the tremendous ovation given the performance, an ovation in which the people of Spartanburg and guests from larger metropolitan centers shared with equal enthusiasm."
