

Modern Dancers Ask New Students To Join Group

Modern Dance club will hold a meeting, today at 5 p. m. in the banquet room of Graham Memorial. New students interested in joining the organization are being urged to attend this meeting to dance with the group, Anice Garmany, club president, announced.

Purpose of the club is for students to work out their own compositions and productions. It was organized several years ago by students to further interest in this art on the campus.

The local group is not limited to work in Chapel Hill, but last year expanded to reach similar organizations in neighboring schools and theaters. They sponsored a symposium last fall in which 15 such groups participated. It had the distinction of being the second meeting of this sort to be held in North Carolina.

The dance group also took an active part in the Carolina Workshop's Spring festival last year.

The first undertaking this fall will be a lecture demonstration, given by the club, to acquaint the campus with meanings and aims of modern dance.

Louise Meroney is faculty adviser for this organization. She is a graduate of Woman's College, Greensboro, where she was an outstanding member of the dance group there. Later she studied at New York university.

When one has the flesh-and-blood loveliness of Ginny Simms, and the other is just a blockhead of wood—two heads are better than one, especially if they are close together! Thus might Charlie McCarthy aver, were his mentor Bergen present—the shot being from "Here We Go Again," in which the three are teamed on the screen with Fibber McGee and Molly, being shown today at the Carolina Theatre.

Professor Koch To Read Play Of Shakespeare

Carrying out one of the traditions of the Carolina Playmakers, Professor Frederick H. Koch will appear in the Playmakers Theatre Sunday at 8:30 p.m. to enact scenes from Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Professor Koch will interpret the roles of several of the characters in the play such as, the comic Bottom and Oberon, king of the fairies. He will be accompanied only by musical selections by Mendelssohn.

This "one man Shakespeare theater" began when the professor was a sophomore at Ohio Wesleyan university. He gave his readings in schools and churches in nearby towns. Later he paid his way through Harvard by spending the summers giving solo performances at hotels.

The play "Midsummer Night's Dream" is one of Professor Koch's favorites. Sunday night's performance is open to the public and is free of charge.
