Carolina's Peace Bill Heads NC Student Legislature List

CPU Panel Will Discuss Problem of Negro in War

First Carolina Political Union Panel of the year, "The Negro in Industry and the War," will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in Graham Memorial.

Growing out of CPU discussion of the Negro problem, the panel will contain representatives both of the Negro and the white race. Negro members of the panel will be Dean James T. Taylor, of the North Carolina College for Negroes, and Dr. David Jones, president of Bennett College.

Dean Taylor has already spoken at a previous meeting of the Carolina Political Union since discussion of the Negro problem began, declaring that it was necessary for both races to solve the current problem rather than one of the races alone.

Giving reasons why the racial problem should be solved, Dr. Taylor said that "in this current war it is necessary that America have all available manpower. This will include the 13,000,000 Negroes in the United States. Secondly it is necessary that we don't become a subject for Axis propaganda by allowing such incidences as occurred in Mississippi to be spread among the colored peoples of Eastern Asia."

Must Win Peace

"We must win not only the war but the peace, Dr. Taylor concluded. Citing Burma as an example of Axis propaganda playing its part, he stated that we must not allow progress in the war to be retarded by such activities."

Also present at the discussion will be Dr. Howard Odum, head of the Sociology department, and Dr. Guy Johnson, professor of sociology. At a previous meeting of the CPU, Dr. Johnson gave a short speech on the Negro situation. Dr. Odum, recently returned from an interracial conference in Atlanta, will give "some very pertinent information gathered there."

Three Meetings Held

Since the inauguration of the discussion, the CPU has had three meetings at which faculty members have participated, and has run columns in the DAILY TAR HEEL concerning the various angles of the problem.

"The panel will be open to the public," Chairman Dick Railey said.

Graduate Club Plans Dinner Wednesday Night

The newly-organized Graduate club will convene in its first meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock in the Carolina Inn Banquet hall cafeteria for dinner and entertainment. A short business session will follow.

Announced plans include a brief program. Attending members and prospects will buy their own meals and the group will dine together.

DeArmand Moore, president, will map out brief plans for social activities, other events to be sponsored by the club this season. He promised that the meeting would be over in time for the activities of the evening, including Constantin Fotitch's IRC address.

Organized to lend unity to graduate students of the University, the Graduate club plans to sponsor events of interest to that group. Students in any of the graduate branches of the University are invited into membership.

Carolina Dames To Hear Quartet

At the November meeting of the Carolina Dames Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Carolina Inn, the University Quartet will present a program of light novelty music. The quartet is composed of Tom Badin, Bill Mehaffey, Hurst Hatch, and Glenn Bogasse. All wives of University students are invited to be present.

DTH News Editors To Report Tomorrow

News editors of the DAILY TAR HEEL will meet in the managing editor's office tomorrow at 2 p.m. promptly.

Attendance is compulsory, it was stated.

Frosh Slate To Be Named Class Will Choose Officers Tuesday

Nominations for officers of the 1942 Freshman class will be held Tuesday morning at the regular assembly in Hill hall, W. J. Smith, speaker of the student legislature, announced yesterday.

Council in Charge

In charge of the elections will be the Student council under the direction of Bert Bennett, student body president. Officers to be nominated will be the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and freshman representative to the legislature. The council will also be in charge of counting the votes, maintaining good conduct at the polls and arranging for any runoffs necessary.

Voting on the nominations will begin Thursday with the polls opening at 9 o'clock and remaining open until 5. "This will give every member of the class an opportunity to vote."

DTH Tabulation

Votes will be cast at the "Y" and the results will be announced in the DAILY TAR HEEL Friday morning. Nominations will be unlimited but, Dean of Men Roland Parker stressed in Freshman chapel Thursday, "Any boy who is already 18 years old and is almost sure to be drafted before the year is up, should not be nominated unless he is in some form of the reserves, for no matter what heights he is capable of, he will be of little use unless he can fill out his term."

Limit for expenditures on the short Freshman campaign will be $5. This ruling will be rigidly enforced by the election committee of the student legislature.

Fun Session Tonight Promises To Top All Past Performances

Spontaneity's brief weekly reign will begin again tonight at 8:30 on the stage of Memorial hall and last just as long as the participants and the audience wills that it shall last.

The Sunday Night Session, spawn of the Social Committee under the guidance of Hobart McKeever and Joe Harper, will again present student talent and a community sing. Judgment of the talent will be left to the spectators, but the mass singing will be highlighted by some of the popular songs of the day and a few of the old favorites.

Harper pointed out at great length that swing tunes have been duplicated for the crowd, and will be sung over the snazzy piano accompaniment of the Memorial hall ivory box.

The rich baritone voice of Dick Ford will again be a feature part of the program. Freddie Caligan and Libby Izen will repeat a dance duet that has been absent from the program for several weeks.

Popular accordionist Johnny Fisher will present several selections in his own distinctive style and for addicts of the hot piano, Dick Katz and Buck Dudley will play several duet numbers including some deep wild boogie-woogie and also the more gentle ballads of the moment.

Successful in the past, the Sunday night sessions are planned for the entertainment both of those students who already saw the movie in the afternoon, of those who were too broke to see it, and of those who wouldn't go to see it in the first place.

Ample crowds have been in evidence in the past, greatly adding to the pleasure of the community singing projects.

Working hours are from 9 a.m. until about 9 p.m., but the job isn't strictly a seven-day week affair. Rush business comes on the weekends. They haven't had any trouble with union

UNC Delegates, Smith and Railey Present Measure

Feature bill at the meeting of the North Carolina Student Legislature yesterday and Friday in Raleigh was a resolution on post-war peace terms introduced by the Carolina delegation.

Drawn up originally by Dick Railey as a University bill, the measure was reworked by a joint house and senate committee composed of Ray Leake, Guilford, and W. J. Smith, Carolina, of the senate, and E. O. Brogden and Railey, Carolina, and David Harris, State, of the house.

Also representing Carolina at the annual student legislative conference was Cecil Hill, who acted as president of the senate. Railey served as majority whip of the house.

The bill urged that:

(1) At the successful conclusion of the war the United Nations should establish a Confederation of nations. The defeated nations would be invited to join.

(2) This federation would unite all the nations of the world for the mutual solving of their common economic, social, and political problems.

(3) An international police force be formed to enforce these decisions. This international police force to be built around the combined air force of the United Nations.

Magazine Suspension To Get Open Hearing

A public hearing on the proposed legislation for the suspension of the Carolina Magazine will be held tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in the Grill room of Graham Memorial, W. J. Smith, speaker of the legislature, stated yesterday.

Conducted by the finance committee, the hearing "will be open to all students to express their views," Roy Strowd, chairman of the finance committee, added yesterday. "The hearing is of utmost importance."

Harvey Hamilton, representative of the Law school, introduced the measure in the legislature last Wednesday night but the proposed measure was sent to the ways and means and finance committees for joint consideration before being placed on the floor of the assembly for approval or rejection.

OUTSTANDING for the Tar Heels yesterday in their losing stand against the powerful State Wolfpack were Co-Captain Joe Austin, left, and Hugh Bigham. Playing on an injured leg, Austin turned in a sparkling performance and in the closing seconds of the first half raced down field to take a long aerial from Walt Pupa and ran over the goal line untouched for the first Carolina score. Bigham while in the game turned in a fine effort at his end position.

State Outplays Carolina To Cop Exciting Contest

By Westy Fenhagen

RIDDICK STADIUM, Oct. 31—In one of the most thrilling battles ever witnessed here, an inspired State College eleven took up where they left off last year and smashed out a well-deserved 21-14 triumph over a badly out-classed Tar Heel eleven.

Except for brief flurries in the second and fourth quarters, the Tar Heels were completely outgeneraled and outplayed by an excellent State team that resorted to every trick in the game to hand the Tar Heels their second consecutive licking.

Joint Board Will Report Officers to Give Students Advice

The Joint Presentation board of officer representatives from the Army, Navy, Marines and both air corps will be on the campus all day Thursday to give Carolina students latest information on enlistment opportunities.

War adviser W. D. Perry and Dean of Men Roland Parker plan to call a mass meeting of the student body Thursday morning when the recruiting representatives will help to clarify the mass of incomplete information which has been coming from the Capital since Congress undertook the 18 and 19-year-old draft bill.

Conferences Slated

After the morning meeting, the representatives will hold conferences with individual interested students in the lounge of Graham Memorial, it is planned.

Now appearing at colleges in eastern Tennessee, the board should arrive in Chapel Hill late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning from Duke University. Sponsored by the War Department and headed by Lt. Col. L. C. Coleman, the Board will have visited over 50 colleges by November 19 when its current tour ends.

While details of the status of college men in enlisted reserves is changing so rapidly that accurate information cannot be obtained promptly by

Three Solutions Offered for Yule Vacation Tangle

Three plans suggested to aid in the solution of the Christmas vacation problem in American colleges include: (1) abandonment of vacation period altogether; (2) staggering of dates in each area; or (3) having vacation from December 15 to January 15 to avoid the peak travel period.

Recommended by Joseph Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, alternatives were announced through Guy E. Snaveley, secretary of the Association of American Colleges.

It is not clear whether all colleges will adopt one of the three suggestions or whether they will adopt different plans. Reports indicate that in some areas colleges will adopt the staggered plan.

A. W. Hobbs, dean of the college of Arts and Sciences, is now at the meeting of the Association. He is expected to bring back news of the decision that the Association has voted. Definite announcement will be made at the last of this week, it was stated.

Navy Readies New Sick Bay For December

Pre-Flight School Infirmiry Will Be Modern, Spacious

By Madison Wright

The new infirmiry—the $192,000 structure rising rapidly behind the Medical building—is expected to be ready for Navy occupancy in early December, officials said yesterday.

The essential parts of the framework are finished, and workmen are now installing water and gas mains, electricity, flooring and roofing.

Built in the Georgian style to conform with the woman's dormitory design, the three-story brick building is planned for comfort and convenience, is completely fireproof, and is to be supplied with the most modern medical equipment available. Its designed capacity is 50 beds, but this number can be increased easily, for under the present plan the building is very spacious.

Facing Kenan stadium, the new infirmiry will be back-to-back with the Medical building. The ambulance entrance will be in the rear, connecting with the present drive, while in front will be a spacious porch for the patients. At the north end is the entrance for the cadets.

On the ground floor the reception room is located just inside the cadet entrance, next to the record room. This floor will handle most of the infirmiry activities, as it houses the doctors' offices, examination rooms, pharmacy, laboratory and dental clinic, where a staff of three dentists will be located.

On the second floor are both single rooms and small wards, the private rooms being ranged along the east face. Above on the third floor are the major and minor operating rooms, along with more private and ward beds. These floors are served by an elevator and three stairways.

A special grinding process is now under way on the floors that have been completed downstairs. This flooring is terrazo, of a durable black-and-white surface. Flooring is still being poured upstairs, and the plastering has not yet begun on the walls.

Neither the water, gas, nor electricity has been connected permanently, but this will be done within the next few

Mozart Concert Planned Tonight

Turning from the moderns to the classics, the newly-organized Carolina Music club presents an all-Mozart program tonight at 7:30 in the Choral room of Hill Music hall.

Reminiscent of last Tuesday's Alec Templeton concert will be a piece by the same composer, "Mozart Matriculates," a good humored take-off on the classical master.

Featured on the program will be "Sonata in A Minor," performed by Jean Ellis; an aria from "Die Zauberflote," sung by Jack Toms; and the first movement from the "Violin Concerto in A Major," May Jo Perky, soloist. Mrs. Perky will also play the Alec Templeton piano selection. The concert is open to the public.

Chilean Couple Finds Life In Chapel Hill Pleasant

By Ben McKinnon

From Santiago, Chile, to Chapel Hill is a long distance. It is even farther when the trip is made by way of Baltimore, Maryland. That trip, however, was made by Mr. and Mrs. Guillermo G. Brown, attractive young South American couple, who are now students at the University. The indirect route by way of Baltimore was brought about when Mr. Brown was appointed Chilean Consul to that city in June, 1939.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown came to Chapel Hill in September under a Chilean Government fellowship. Mrs. Brown is taking courses in Creative Writing, Shakespeare, and French. "I take French for a rest from the English," she says. Mr. Brown is majoring in drama.

Born in Valparaiso, the "Pearl of the Pacific," Mr. Brown has spent much of his life writing and studying. After completing six years in preparatory school, he became a student at the Seminario de Concepcion and graduated from there with a master of humanities degree. After that he went to the University of Chile at Santiago for five years. He was director of the magazine of the school of law at the University of Chile, "The Mastil." During his last year there, he met his future wife, Miss Sara Kleiman, and they were married.

Mr. Brown was also director of "Tierra," a culture magazine, while still in school. Graduating from the University of Chile, he accepted the position as secretary of the export control section of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Chile. "A good title but very
