

Swain Hall Conversion Ends Dec. 1

NROTC Classes Moved to Peabody

By Helen Highwater

Reconversion of Swain hall into a student cafeteria—began this week—will be completed by December 1, it was learned yesterday.

Planned as a solution to the crowded eating conditions, revamped Swain hall will supplant temporary facilities established in the present basement of Lenoir hall and in the Carolina Inn ballroom.

Classes of the NROTC were moved into Peabody hall the first of this week as laborers moved in to strip the building and install cafeteria fixtures necessary for the serving of 500 students per meal. Offices of the NROTC will remain intact in the building until the new armory—rapidly under construction on Columbia avenue opposite the medical dormitory—is ready for occupation.

Date Depends on Holiday

"Exact opening date of Swain hall to student traffic on December 1 depends on the dates set for the Christmas holidays," L. B. Rogerson, assistant-controller of the University, stated yesterday. Officials indicate that it would be impractical to open the first day of December if holidays should be set early in that month. Action on the exact dates for the yule recess is expected to be determined by the general faculty in meeting this afternoon.

Originally built as central feeding plant for the student body, Swain hall has a transient career, having been completely remodeled several times.

Commons System

Originally built in 1912, the hall was operated under the "commons" system—similar to the family style now used in Lenoir hall for the cadets—until 1935 when it was closed by the Administration because "the steadily declining patronage did not warrant further monetary loss in its operation." After student demands, it was reopened and remodeled into a cafeteria in September, 1936, and finally gave ground to the newly-completed Lenoir dining hall in January, 1940. At that time it was remodeled and partitioned into offices for various campus agencies. It served in that capacity through several revampings until this past summer when it was stripped and converted into an armory for the NROTC unit.

NROTC in New Armory

Construction of the new armory on Columbia street will fulfill the needs of the Naval ROTC. No date for the completion of the armory has been advanced by authorities but it is estimated that 60 per cent of the construction is completed.

Necessity of the reconversion of Swain came about during the summer session when the needs of Naval Pre-flight school caused the closing of mammoth Lenoir hall to the student body. A temporary cafeteria was opened in the basement for two weeks but was closed and makeshift arrangements were installed in the ballroom of the Carolina Inn to alleviate the cramped eating facilities of the University. With the reopening of Swain, the Inn facilities will be taken out.

Installation of plumbing, gas lines from the infirmary, and extra equipment and counters from Lenoir hall are necessary for the conversion.

Camel Caravan Arrives Here For 9 O'Clock Student Show

Chapel Hill's first traveling radio show of the year, the Camel Caravan, will appear tonight in Memorial hall at 9 o'clock.

The Caravan, which arrived here yesterday by bus, will give a performance for the Pre-flight school at 7 o'clock. Both programs are being sponsored by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

Representatives from every branch of the entertainment world will participate in the show. Stars from vaudeville, radio, and night clubs now on tour throughout the nation for army camps, naval stations and air bases will give a show lasting approximately an hour and a half.

Lee Norton Heads Cast

Heading the cast is Lee Norton, famed Latin American singer. Other well known personalities on the program include the beautiful "three Debs," with their modern swingy song melodies; Pearl Robins and her "toe-tap" dancing routine; Clyde Hager, direct from the Diamond Horseshoe with his hilarious "pitchman" act;

Charlie Masters, dippy doodle drummer in a comedy routine; the charming Camelettes, and the music of Bobby Kuhn and his cavaliers.

The Three Debs attended the University of Missouri, graduated in 1940. Their first professional engagement was at the Chase hotel in St. Louis. In the spring of 1941 they joined Charlie Spivak's band at the Glen Island Casino in New York. While there they made records and appeared in a movie short.

They were also given top billing at the Famous Door and the Park Central hotel. In December, 1941, they went into the road company of "Hellzapoppin'" and stayed with it until the show closed in Boston.

Clyde has just finished a two-year run at Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe where he "tickled sophisticated New York audiences with his rough and ready line of swift gab."

The shows are not to be broadcast. First showing at 7 o'clock is being arranged so cadets may be in bed by taps.

Dolan, Hackney, Turnage, Porter, Stedman, Phipps Lead Other Offices

Bill Storey polled 84 votes and Charles Benbow received 76 in freshman presidential election returns tabulated last night. The fight for class leadership will end in runoff elections Tuesday.

Billy Dolan and Charles Hackney took top positions in vice-presidential voting, Alice Turnage and Bill Porter led in the fight for the secretary's post, and John Stedman and Snooky Phipps took the lead in elections for treasurer.

Candidates for three student legislature posts in Tuesday's runoffs will include Joe Fowler, Dick Ford, Cutlar Moore, Pat Taylor, Marvin Wolfe and Bob Broughton.

Late election returns placed Billy Ellis, John Gambrill, Guy Andrews, Jack Folger, Ed Hipp, Bobby Elliot and Ben Fowler in the freshman honor council.

Student councilmen had no accurate record of the complete number of votes cast in the elections at press time last night, but the vote was regarded as heavier than in past years.

CWC Opposes Mag Abolition

Board Unanimous Against New Bill

The Carolina Workshop council voted unanimously Wednesday night to oppose the bill before the student legislature to abolish the Carolina Magazine.

Postponement of the bill came Tuesday night with passage by the student legislature of a measure to table the bill until the winter quarter.

Backed by five art departments on the campus and two creative art organizations, the Workshop council formed a front line for a pro-magazine movement. Its support is in line with the council's established policy of publicizing, coordinating, and encouraging all student efforts in the creative art fields.

Carruth Addresses Group

Hayden Carruth, managing editor of the Mag, spoke to the Workshop council at the meeting before the vote was taken. According to Carruth, each of the three campus publications has already had its budget severely slashed by the Publications Union board because of decreased revenue from student fees.

"The bill to kill the Mag," he said, "was presented so that the appropriation for its budget could be used to make up the $2,300 deficit of the DAILY TAR HEEL." He stated that he not only considered it unfair to one publication over another but that the passage of the bill would provide only a temporary solution to budget problems of various campus publications.

In view of the present war conditions, he predicted that all three publications would have to take rather severe budget cuts at the beginning of the winter quarter if an expected drop in student enrollment occurs. He explained that temporary postponement of the Mag bill and the related budget issue would permit complete adjustment at a later date when enrollment figures and income from publication fees could definitely be determined.

Bob Broughton and Joe Fowler must appear before the rules committee of the legislature today at 2:00 p. m. in the Student Council room, it was decided.

Tabulation results of the primaries for president are as follows: Bill Storey, 84; Charles Benbow, 76; George McLeod, 67; Gene Byrd, 56; Mel Blacker, 55; John Fisher, 28; Bob Harris, 26; Charles Adams, 19; Leroy Clark, 17; Wayman Lettwich, 10; and Wade Edwards, 4.

Judges Extend Chest Drive Song Contest

Wednesday Fixed As New Deadline

Deadline for scores to be entered in the campus song writing contest has been extended one week, thereby moving the closing date to Wednesday, November 11.

Extension of the contest period scores came in order to permit more campus composers to enter scores into the competition and to give the joint sponsors time to select a fifth judge.

The present team of judges is composed of Dr. Glen Haydon, head of the music department, Dr. Sherman Smith of the chemistry department, Kay Roper of the woman's government association and Denny Hammond of the University club. The judge not yet selected will be chosen from among the members of the administration.

The contest is being sponsored jointly by the University club and Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity to find a new university hymn, fight song, or pep song. Rules of the contest state that the score must be in the Phi Mu Alpha box in the offices of Hill hall by next Wednesday.

Each composer is to write a fictitious name on his music and attach to it an envelope in which are his correct name and address as well as the fictitious name which he has written on the score. Judges' decision will be final and they reserve the right to award no prizes if no song submitted is considered worthy.

Earl Slocum, University band conductor, stated that it had been the original intention to present the winning song to the student body at the next Sunday Night session and to make arrangements so that the song could be officially introduced for the first time at the Duke game. He stated that the new deadline for the contest will prohibit its being introduced at the Duke game, but that it will be presented to the student body at the Sunday Session the week after the closing of the contest.

First prize, a $25 war bond to be presented by the University club, and second prize, $10 in saving stamps bought by the Athletic association, will be awarded to the composers of the two winning songs at the session.

Deadline Set Today For Truck Refunds

Jack Stoddart and J. G. Carden will be in the lobby of the YMCA from 2 until 5 p. m. today for the last time to refund money to those students who signed up for truck rides to the UNC-State football game last Saturday.

The rides were cancelled because of a ruling by the Office of Defense Transportation and license requirements by the state. Stoddart and Carden have been making refunds all week but there are still many students who have not claimed their money and they are warned to do so today as it is positively the last day that refunds will be made.

Chest Drive Needs $10,000

Machinery Set Up For Fund Campaign

The community chest committee decided yesterday to ask the student body to back Carolina's first concerted fund-raising drive to the extent of $10,000.

Although no definite action can be taken until the community chest empowering act passes the legislature, the committee went ahead setting up the drive machinery, in anticipation of the approval.

Special Dance

Plans discussed call for a special dance on the last Friday in November, a short, concentrated campaign, and complete campus organization cooperation to reach the $10,000 goal. This would mean an average contribution of about $3.00 per student, but since this drive would take the place of the many little ones that annually come up, such an amount is not considered out of reach.

Bert Bennett, Marsha Hood, Bernard Moser, Nancy Smith, Harry Conner and Martha Johnson were appointed to the executive board of the organization.

Sara Sutton will serve as chairlady of the woman's division committee, which will include Ditz Buice, Julia Mebane, Marsha Hood, Mary Lib Masengill and Mary Martha Cobb.

Shelton to Head Men

Jack Shelton was named head of the men's division. Serving with him will be Barry Colby, Moyer Hendrix, and Bucky Osborne.

Publicity for the campaign will be See CHEST DRIVE, page 4

Interfraternity Council Releases Case Decisions

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following the custom of the student council, the Interfraternity council in conjunction with the house privileges board will publish sample cases and decisions of infractions of the coed-interfraternity agreement.)

CASE I

FACTS: Several members of a fraternity house were drinking in the presence of a coed. The coed was also drinking. Another fraternity boy entered the room, reminded the girl's date of the Interfraternity agreement and requested that the boy report himself to the fraternity's Interfraternity council representative. The boy did this and his only excuse was that he had forgotten the Interfraternity agreement. The house president reported the case immediately to the Interfraternity council and the coed privileges board.

DECISION AND OPINION: That the fraternity house be denied coed privileges for three weeks, and the board recommended that the coed in question be tried by the woman's honor council.

The board feels that every student should report violations of the Interfraternity agreement since every student signed it. This is a matter of personal honor to be decided by the individual. However, only the Interfraternity council members are subject to trial by the honor council for not reporting.

ROBERT MINOR, member of the national committee of the Communist party, slated to speak under CPU sponsorship Monday night in Memorial hall. He was first to fight for Tom Mooney in 1916 and has been in the struggle for labor's rights for more than 25 years.
