

Allies Fight War Against Slavery, Minor Declares

Communist Says Vast Changes Lie Ahead for America

"This is not only a soldiers' and sailors' war, it is a peoples' war."

With this statement Robert Minor, assistant general secretary of the Communist party, keynoted his address on "Victory Through Unity" last night in the first Carolina Political Union presentation of the year.

Speaking to an enthusiastic audience in Memorial hall, Minor declared that peace with Hitler and his axis partners is impossible. "If you want to know why—look at France and China. Adolph Hitler has brought slavery back into the world, the same terrible chattel slavery that was abolished in America by the Emancipation proclamation 80 years ago."

War on Slavery

Continuing Minor said, "this is a war against slavery. It is not a professional soldiers' war but a peoples' war. We have to win it at any cost and any sacrifice. History must not write the words 'too little and too late' as the epitaph of this land of Washington and Jefferson."

Contending that a vast change must be made in the American way of living, Minor declared that we must begin now to make the drastic changes necessary in placing our men, machines and material at the full disposal of all-out war production. "This amounts to a universal service in production for the soldiers at the front. There is no denying that this is a drastic move, something that has never been done in America. It is an all-out war economy. It is an all out mobilization of labor."

Proposals Inadequate

Many proposals have been made in Congress to solve the manpower question. Most of them however have had serious faults, and have been rejected by the public opinion of capital and labor. "Most of these proposals," Minor said, "have only tinkered with"

Di, Phi Debaters To Argue Merits Of Second Front

The question of a second front, viewed in a new light as a result of the Allies' attack on North Africa, will be debated tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial when Dialectic senate and Philanthropic assembly debaters renew their traditional debate rivalry.

Frank Earmheart and E. O. Brogden of the assembly will uphold the affirmative and Paul Rubenstein and Aaron Johnson of the senate the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That the allies should establish a second front in Europe now."

The debate will be conducted in a new streamlined fashion whereby the opening speeches will be shortened to seven minutes and only one rebuttal speech of four minutes will be permitted from each side. Following the debate the floor will be thrown open for questions and comments from the audience, each person being limited to one minute.

Tonight's Di and Phi meetings will be adjourned early so that members can attend the debate which will be open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

Mag Postpones Publication Date

The Carolina Magazine publication date for November, originally scheduled for tomorrow, will be postponed. "Circumstances beyond our control force us to delay distribution," Editor Sylvan Meyer announced. "The covers which were due to arrive from our national advertising agency on the third of November have not yet come in. Since two ads are already color printed on the prepared covers and since, once they arrive, our color cover must be printed on them, we will unfortunately be late. Blame it on Hitler for slowing down our transportation," he said.

Every effort will be made to distribute the mag before the Duke game, since several features directly concern the event.

Radio Staff To Set Plans Heads to Discuss New Broadcasting

Preliminary plans for broadcasting will be laid at a meeting of the radio staff tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock in room 203 Peabody, Dr. Ralph McDonald, head of the radio department of the University extension division, announced yesterday.

Heads of the script, engineering, production, and construction divisions of the radio department will be present at tomorrow's meeting, McDonald said, to make plans for organizing their staffs for future broadcasting from the new studios. According to an earlier statement by George Stammler, former technician in the Caldwell hall studios, over 200 students signed blanks indicating interest or experience in radio work on registration day in September. Radio staffs expect to draw upon these students for help in production.

McDonald stated that plans for conversion of rooms 203 and 204 in the education building were not being considered by the business department and that he expected construction of the new studios would begin soon. He pointed out that following business department approval the plans would be turned over to the building department which would secure the materials and direct construction work.

Completion of the new studios, McDonald estimated, would take approximately one month from the time construction begins. Placing the date of possible inauguration of the new studios at the first or second week in December, he said that a full schedule of programs would not go on the air from campus studios until the winter quarter. He predicted that some programs would be scheduled for broadcast from local studios before the Christmas holidays.

Koonce to Address Pharmacy Senate

Sam Koonce will talk to the Pharmacy senate today at 7 p.m. in Howell hall on "Legislation pertaining to the establishment of a pharmacy corps in the United States Army."

CVTC Members Get Chance To Act As Drill Officers

Under a new plan formulated by E. Kedar Bryan, head of plans and training for the Civilian Volunteer Training corps, all members of the CVTC are being given a chance to act in the position of every officer in the corps.

This move has been made so that students will learn not only the fundamentals of military drill but will also have some practical experience in leading men. Under the system, each man moves up to the rank above his permanent rank for a week and is graded by his commanding officer on the way he handles the job. These grades are filed and will be used later to determine promotions among the members of the Corps.

Cheng To Address Philosophers

Former Resident Of China to Speak

Philip Cheng will discuss the "Principles of Why China Fights" when he appears before the Philosophy forum tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall. He will be the forum's second speaker of the year.

Cheng, formerly of Shanghai, China, says that the stern and firm five-year resistance of the Chinese against the Japanese invasion was formulated by the philosophy advocated by Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, the founder and first president of the Republic of China.

Saw Japs Attack

When the Japanese attacked Nanking, Cheng was teaching at the University of Nanking and saw the devastating effect upon the Chinese metropolis. Many Carolinians, Cheng says, are with the United States forces in China and are highly praised by the Chinese people.

As a major ally of the United Nations in the Far East, Cheng thinks that China should receive aid in the form of supplies, promised by the United Nations, that she may start a general offensive action aimed to drive the Japanese into the Yellow Sea.

Studies Here

In regard to the future of philosophy in China, Cheng foresees that there will be a fusion of Christian thought with Confucianist ethics. Cheng is studying at the University for his Ph.D., that he will receive in 1943.

The University of North Carolina, he says, is highly recommended by the Ministry of Education of China as a liberal, higher, progressive center of learning. Before teaching at the University of Nanking, Mr. Cheng held a professorship at Hangchow University. He is the author of two books, written in Chinese, on social philosophy.

Seniors to Vote Tomorrow On Reduced Budget Proposal

With a proposed slash of $1.25 from the individual dues of each senior, the student council advisory board for class finances and the senior executive committee yesterday released a proposed budget for the senior class to vote on tomorrow.

Both the board and the senior executive committee have urged that all seniors vote on the budget tomorrow so that it may become official. Copies will be available in the YMCA and will be distributed by the Interdormitory council, the Interfraternity council, and the Intertown council.

Under the budget, the Yackety-Yack would receive the largest portion since enough has been allotted to them to cover the expense of every senior's picture in the Y-Y whether the student has it taken or not.

In the budget, the proposed income from student fees for this quarter has been cut 10 percent to allow for any drops or bad debts and a 15 percent leeway has been left for income for the following two quarters since it is estimated that enrollment will drop by approximately that amount.

The estimated surplus on the budget is a minimum and it is believed that the final surplus may exceed this. Of this amount, $80 to $100 will go to the permanent class secretary for class reunion expenses and the remainder will cover any unforeseen expenses.

Members of the student advisory board, which was set up to advise classes in making out their budgets, are Brud King, Barry Colby, Brooks Williams, and Roy Strowd.

New Student Lounge Opens for Browsing In Graham Memorial

The Horace Williams lounge, recently moved to the old Tar Heel office on the second floor of Graham Memorial is now open for use.

The new lounge will not be used for meetings of any kind, for popular music, card playing or dancing. The banquet hall on the second floor has been divided into three rooms for meetings and the social room now being redecorated can be used for dancing or cards.

At the last meeting of the Board of Directors of Graham Memorial when plans for a social room were discussed it was decided that the new social room would be better located in the former Horace Williams lounge and that the original atmosphere of the lounge could best be preserved away from the main traffic of the building.

The picture of Horace Williams, Carolina's former professor, will hang between the two windows of the newly decorated room. Around the walls pictures from Wootten-Moulton of literary Carolina alumni will also be hung. A bookshelf containing the complete works of Thomas Wolfe will soon be placed in the lounge for those who like to browse. Although the doors of the room will not be left open at all times it can be reserved in the office of the director.

"Champs-Elysees" Opens at Pick Today

"Champs-Elysees," hailed by many as the greatest picture ever made in France, will appear at the Pick today, announced E. C. Smith, manager of the theater. "The picture is not only excellent entertainment because of its keen wit, but also is notable for its collection of beautiful women," Smith said.

Final Nominees To Be Presented During Assembly

An abbreviated period of campaigning will end today with runoff elections for freshman class officers at the YMCA polls which open shortly after 9 a. m., and close at 5 p. m.

The 110 nominees originally voted upon have been narrowed down to the top two from each office and these candidates will vie for the key positions. There will be no further runoffs. The candidates who poll the most votes will be the first year officers.

Many Nominees

Due to the unusually large number of nominees and a conflict in student schedules, the candidates were unable to be introduced to the class before the primary ballots were cast. This situation has been remedied and each person in the runoffs will be presented today during the regular assembly period. Bert Bennett, president of the student council, has asked all candidates to meet on the Hill hall stage five minutes before the assembly begins.

The rules for the election, including those covering campaign expenses, "pressure-politics", and other items will be explained by Bob Spence, chairman of the election committee. No candidate will be allowed to spend more than $5 for his campaign. All money spent by either the candidate himself or his friends must be counted within the $5 limit. This includes all expenditures during the primary and the runoff. Any further expenses since the balloting last Thursday must be itemized and turned in by 6 p. m. today to the student council room in Graham memorial.

No Coercion

No political literature may be posted in the YMCA and the marking of another student's ballot or talking to another student while he is marking his ballot will be considered a violation. See ELECTION Page 4.

Students Leaving May Still Obtain Copies of Annual

The Publications Union board has announced that all students who leave school at the end of this or the next quarter may still obtain their Yackety-Yacks by paying a proportional fee.

At present, a student who remains in school for the full year has $4 deducted from his publications fee to pay for the Y-Y which is paid in parts each quarter. Under the new arrangement a student who leaves at the end of this quarter may obtain his Yackety-Yack next spring by paying $2.70. If he drops out at the end of the winter quarter the cost will be $1.35. These amounts will bring the total up to the same required of a student in school for a full year.

War Board Issues Rule

Medical Students May Join Reserves

In the first statement concerning the status of pre-medical and pre-dental students since September, the joint Army, Navy, Marine Corps grand college procurement committee announced through the office of war information yesterday that medical students are eligible for enlistment in the Enlisted Reserve Corps.

Those students who maintain proper scholastic standing will be continued in the E. R. C., until they are eligible for admission to a grade-A medical college.

Following entrance in the college they will be discharged from the E. R. C. for the purpose of enlisting in the Medical Administrative corps under established regulations.

It was pointed out that students who fail to meet entrance requirements of the college must report for active duty on the same basis as other ERC students.

This announcement closely follows the plan now in use by the Navy Reserve with its V-1 and V-7 units. Further information may be secured from the office of war information at 206 South.

Soph Committees To Confer Tonight

Members of the sophomore Executive and Finance committees will meet tonight at 8:30 in South room of Graham Memorial.

Former Campus Bandleader Signed for Fall Germans

Former campus band leader Ted Ross and his orchestra have been signed by the German club for their fall dances this weekend, it was announced by Bill Vail, chairman of the German club last night.

Ross was signed following the cancellation of the appearance of Lieut. Stanley Brown and his Fort Bragg orchestra due to army officers.

Ross had a band on the campus for four years and left here this fall on the road for a southern booking office. He has played recently at the Starlit Roof at the Hotel Monticello in Norfolk, the Tantilla Gardens in Richmond, the Jungle in Charleston, and the Hotel George Washington in Jacksonville. Following his appearance here, he will be featured at Rem-ler's Club Royale, popular Savannah supper club.

Three campus appearances are scheduled for the band for the weekend. The first is a concert in Memorial hall from 4 until 5 p. m., Friday. The dances both Friday and Saturday night will start at 8 o'clock and last until midnight.

The Friday night dance will be open to the campus and admission is $2.00, tax included. The Saturday night affair will be closed to the campus. Only German club members and their dates will be admitted. Membership in the German club is open to the campus. The initiation fee is three dollars. Bids to the dances are free to members. Persons desiring to join the club should contact Bill Vail at the Sigma Chi house or the infirmary.
