YMCA Library Opens Monday

Room Designed For Busy People

With the members of the YM and YWCA working at top speed to ready the room, Mrs. Martha Johnson today said that the new YM-YWCA library on the first floor of the YMCA building would be open for business tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Kay Roper, one of the volunteer librarians, will be in attendance to greet the students who wander in to look over the books and magazines and newspapers lining its shelves.

Hours for the library will be 9 to 12 a.m. and 2 to 5 p.m. Members of the Y's library committee have agreed to keep the room open for the first week, but from then on they say, any interested student who feels that he or she has an hour to volunteer will be welcomed.

Workers in the library hope that the new cream-colored paint with which they are streamlining the chairs and tables will be dry in time for early comers Monday morning to enjoy them. But, See YMCA, page 4

Faculty Picked For Opening Of War College

Students Complete Orientation Work

With the completion of the orientation program under the direction of Dean Roland Parker, Carolina's first full-scale War College class will begin regular class work tomorrow.

Late reports yesterday placed the final total of registrants at 47.

University departmental heads have assigned faculty instructors to the War College division for the intensified program. All the courses will be five hours a week with the exception of physical education.

W. H. Peacock has been assigned to mathematics, Professor Cook will teach English, S. T. Emory has been appointed advisor and head of the CVTC training, C. H. Pegg will teach social science and Dick Jamerson will be in charge of the conditioning program.

Weekend conferences have been scheduled between W. D. Perry and the new students in order that they may integrate specific war training programs with their regular academic program. A great majority of the students have signified their intention of joining V-1 and details are being completed for their enlistment.

Records of the group will be kept by the administrative board in order that a comparison can be made with the class admitted in the fall. That group averaged well above the regular University freshmen with not one failure.

Debate Results

The Di affirmative team of Wesley Bagby and Al Jacobson defeated the IRC negative team of Stuart Lucast and Nancy Smith in a debate tournament contest last night in Di hall.

SP Bosses Pick Jimmy Davis As Candidate for Secretary On Student Government Slate

JIMMY DAVIS, nominated by the Student Party for secretary-treasurer of the student body.

Air Corps Inductees Asked to See Perry

The few students who have received their call papers for the Army Air Corps Enlisted Reserve are asked to consult with W. D. Perry before leaving.

Perry will aid the students in computing the special credit given to those called before graduation, file addresses for the Alumni office and compile general information for reference.

Dean F. F. Bradshaw also asked other reservists and drafted students to complete the same arrangements so that records can be kept complete.

Birthplace Correction

Terrell Webster, UP candidate for speaker of the legislature is from Gastonia and not High Point as was previously erroneously reported in the DTH.

Governor To Welcome Mexican Group

Daniels to Make Principal Address

Governor J. Melville Broughton and Josephus Daniels, Raleigh publisher and former ambassador to Mexico, will speak at a banquet to be given by the University in honor of the 10 Mexican teachers who are now studying here, tomorrow night at the Carolina Inn at 7 p.m.

Daniels, principal speaker of the evening, in his letter accepting the invitation to speak, mentioned that he would be glad of an opportunity to meet his fellow citizens of Mexico, having returned only last year from a ten year residence there in the diplomatic service. He is now editor and publisher of the Raleigh News and Observer. Governor Broughton will officially welcome the teachers to the state.

Dean A. W. Hobbs will extend a welcome from the University to which Miss Aleman, chairman of the group, will reply. She will also introduce the 9 other members of her group.

Special guests will be approximately 12 South Americans who are studying here and faculty members from neighboring schools. From Duke university Dr. A. K. Manchester, dean of the freshmen, who has lived in South America for several years, John Tate Lanning, editor of the Pan-American Historical Review and professor of Latin-American history, Mrs. Lanning, and Professor O. K. Lundberg, head of the Spanish stay, will attend. From Greensboro a delegation will come including Miss Vidal, who attended the first "inter-American summer school" here two years ago and who is now teaching Spanish at the Woman's College. Dr. L. E. Hinkle, head of the department of romance languages at State college, and two South American students there will also be special guests.

Administrative Dean R. B. House will preside at the dinner and Father D. E. Sullivan will pronounce the blessing.

A number of University faculty members and townspeople are expected to attend.

Both Parties Name Only 17 Of 40 Leaders

The Student party slate for student body officers was nearer completion yesterday when its chairman announced that Jimmy Davis of Wilmington would be their candidate for secretary-treasurer.

Davis will be a running mate of Dotson Palmer, candidate for president of the Student body, announced by the SP last week.

The new candidate attended New Hanover high school in Wilmington where he was president of the student body. He has been a self-help student at Carolina having worked three years in the YMCA book exchange. He is on the Intertown council, the coed privileges council, and is house manager of the Carolina Co-op. He is also a member of the executive committee of the junior class.

With elections scheduled for February 18, campus parties have nominated candidates for 17 of the approximately 40 major campus elective offices. Neither group has forwarded men for the athletic association, head cheerleader, or sophomore class posts.

Davis is the eighth man nominated by the Student party which has to date picked men for the presidency of the student body, editorship of the DAILY TAR HEEL, editorship of the Yackety-Yack, junior and senior representatives to the Publications Union board, and president and vice-presidents of the senior class.

Though no grading was announced for Durham Dairy Products Co., it is probable that one will soon be released.

The following dairies supply Grade A milk for pasteurization to the Durham Road Dairy: Hackberry Farm; Ralph Neville; T. R. Harwood; W. F. Lloyd; W. D. Neville; W. I. Suitt; J. E. Andrews.

Fitz-Simons Is Stagemwise 'Iolanthe' Head

By Larry Dale

Foster Fitz-Simons, director of "Iolanthe," the annual Gilbert and Sullivan operetta being presented on the Student Entertainment ticket on Thursday and Friday, considers his transition from the role of King Gama in "Princess Ida" to dance designer in a later opera, to director this year a natural development over ten years.

Fitz-Simons returned to the University last fall as set designer on the staff of the Carolina Playmakers, after retiring from a ten year dancing career that began shortly after his graduation here with a degree in playwriting in 1934. For four years he was a member of Ted Shawn's dance group with which he went to England and Cuba and made 50,000 miles worth of night stands a year in this country. Later with his partner Miriam Winslow he toured the country and spent five months in South America last year. He wound up his career as a dancer with a six-week engagement at the Rainbow Room, declaring that he had never intended to make dancing his career and that he wanted to have a chance to use the training he got in writing.

During those years of dancing, however, Foster did not lose touch with the theatre. While See FITZ-SIMONS, page 4

NROTC Plans Annual Dance In New Armory, February 19

The NROTC's third annual dance will be held in the new armory on Friday, February 19, with the band of the Pre-flight school furnishing the music, chairman Skip Awalt of the dance committee announced yesterday.

The members of the unit, their guests, and 25 selected Pre-flight cadets and their dates will make up the attendance of the dance, which will celebrate the opening of the building.

Decorations will consist of large gold anchors around the room and signal flags flying from halyards attached to the rafters.

Above the main floor the colored band will play from the mezzanine "bridge."

The entire structure will be open to inspection by the guests during the dance, the first time a large group has visited it unofficially. Chaperones will be seated in a special area provided with palms, rugs, and chairs. Their names have not as yet been released.

During the dance punch will be served on the ground deck, which normally serves as classrooms. Invitations for the dance are being sent out this week and should See NROTC, page 4
