

UNC Baseball Team Nosed Out By Pre-Flight

Palmer Racks Up No-Hit Mural Win

Effective Pitching Proves Decisive In Beta, Sigma Chi Baseball Victories

Pitching provided the thrills in yesterday's intramural softball encounters when Dotson Palmer carved out a no-hit victory for Sigma Chi over Phi Delta Theta, 4-1.

Palmer entered the first no-hit ball game of the year into the records after seven gruelling innings during which the Phi Delt's only run was scored after Strayhorn walked and was driven home by virtue of long driving fly balls. Batting honors of the day go to Sigma Chi's Parker, slugger of a triple and two singles.

The Beta's came near joining the no-hit ranks, but Chan Highsmith's hitless dreams were blasted in the fourth inning, although his teammates carried on to top Zeta Psi 4-1. Mordecai held the winners to four hits but the Beta's bunched them for three runs in the second inning.

Scoring six runs in the sixth, Steele Dormitory came from behind to top a hard hitting Phi Delta Chi outfit, 6-3. Mott Blair headed the crowd from the "barracks" with two driving singles and a tally. The losers' Johnston took the game's batting honors by virtue of a double and a line single.

The Naval R.O.T.C. teams did not fair so well on their opening day when team No. 1 was crushed by BVP, 9-2, and the "Bums" lost 7-3 to Phi Chi.

BVP collected five runs in the first innings on doubles by Webb and Ellis, which proved more than sufficient to top NROTC No. 1. Although Brown gave the Navy the batting edge with his three hits and a run, the boys from BVP gave their opponents little opportunity to threaten.

The "Bums" played to a tighter score than their fellow sailors, but four hit pitching by Davis of Phi Chi and many careless errors spelled their eventual defeat.

The final game pitted Kappa Psi against Delta Sigma Pi in a wild and woolly contest which subsided only after the various pitchers were hit for several homers and triples, and Kappa Psi went home victorious, 8-6. All players vied for batting honors, but Marks, of Delta Sig, earns individual praise for a triple and two singles.

Although no mural contests are scheduled for tomorrow, the Intramural Department reminds those teams whose games required rescheduling to pay particular attention to the daily schedule announcements.

DUB JOHNSON played a good game at the first sack for Carolina in a six inning game that saw the Tar Heels lose to a Pre-flight squad that bunched their hits in the fifth inning to score three runs.

Conlan's Three Bagger Starts Big Fifth Inning for Cadets

Walters, Morris Get Only Hits For Tar Heel Squad In 3-2 Defeat

By Kennedy Gammage

In six innings of baseball which revealed many potentialities of both teams, the Pre-flight cadets yesterday nosed out a hard working varsity nine, three to two.

The contest was slightly unique because of the scarcity of hits, the varsity getting only two during the whole game, and the cadets garnering five.

The game began at four o'clock, and instead of the previously planned nine innings, only six were able to be squeezed into the time before the 5:30 dinner hour for the cadets.

Tennis Coach Places Hopes On Green Men

First Practice Held Yesterday

Many of the veterans who played important roles in paving the way for Carolina's claim to the mythical tennis championship of the nation for the past two seasons were missing as Coach John Kenfield called the roll in the first official practice of the season yesterday. The initial practice, slated to be held on last Monday, was postponed due to inclement weather.

No matches were held during the opening session, but Coach Kenfield urged the boys to hurry and round into shape since the opening match for the Southern Conference champs is scheduled for April 3, against Davidson college.

Heading the returning varsity-men were captain Harold Maass and Moyer Hendrix, who are expected to occupy the No. 1 and No. 2 positions respectively on the 1943 outfit. Other upperclassmen reporting for opening day festivities were Dan Marks, Bob Feinberg, Bill Sharkey, Jack Markham, George Ralston, Frank Branson, Byrun Matthews, William Lowenstein, and Dick Bennett. Freshman recruits included Ray Morris, Donald Peck, Charles Hackney, Bob Tuttle, Dick Bradshaw, John Bacchus, Al Bergman, Bob Johnson, Jay Freedman, Howard Smith, Don Scott, and John Stire.

Ensign Tom Wadden, one of last year's stars, viewed the afternoon's proceedings from the stands. Tom had one year of eligibility remaining and is now stationed at Miami, Florida.

Coach Jamerson announced yesterday that all winners in the Southern Conference meet, may come by his office in Woollen Gym and receive their medals.

The Intramural Department announced that no Mural officials will be required to report this afternoon, but are requested to appear for work Monday at 5:20.

The pitching staff was especially potent. Both Carmichael and Shuford hurled excellent ball against the Navy's best.

Conlan

For the Pre-flighters it was Conlan, whose play at third base and long triple in the fifth opened the scoring gates, Marchand with a single, Katz with two, and Fleming with another who carried the big bats for the day.

Sims looked strong on the mound for the cadets, while Brosang, who replaced him in the fourth, also pitched a good game.

Hearn

Coach Hearn was satisfied with the showing of the team. "They haven't had much time to try any new plays or practice such things as base running or bunting," he said. "However, the boys looked fair for a fair college club."

DKE Holds Impressive Post In Intramural Competition

By Lloyd S. Koppel

Delta Kappa Epsilon offered to the Carolina Athletic Department many years ago a handsome gold trophy to reside in the halls of the campus Intramural winners. After presentation of this metallic gem, the boys from the DKE house set about to add their glory to the race for the cup's ownership. The records tell the story.

Year in and year out the DKE's have placed proud teams upon the field. Never failing to participate in all the Mural "concoctions," from Tag football to horseshoe pitching, the boys from Delta Kappa Epsilon have furthered the interests of their own group and have proven loyal to our expanding Intramural program.

With humble apology to those who are not mentioned, and those who have gone beyond (to the armed services) the Athletic Department officials have recently lauded the DKE's favorite sons of the field.

"Light as a feather but strong as an ox," may well apply to Lem Gibbons. Lem walked away with the 175 pound boxing Mural crown, displaying a superior brand of fisticuffs that would make any old grad frater gloat with pride. Not to rest on these laurels, his efforts were turned toward the more gentle game of football, in which his playing was described as "outstanding."

A hand injury kept Harold Maas from supplying strong opposition in the 135 pugilistic class, but he led the DKE quintet, an outfit rated high among the top teams, and played a fast, furious game of mural football. After one game of softball, he has given promise of further honors, with fine defensive play and a crack batting eye.

Cam Rodman has spent most of his athletic time prying his way onto a berth on the White Bantams, but he managed to put in a few extra hours earning a position on the All-Campus Tag team. He never relaxed his efforts throughout the fall, and proved the mainstay of old DKE.

This year's surprisingly large squad is built around a nucleus of 10 lettermen, Jim Kelly, Dick Hollander, Rich Van Wagoner, Co-Captain Mike Mangum, Co-Captain Truitt Bennett, Jim Lloyd, Spec McDowell, Bob Heymann, and Bill Sigler.

Main assignments filled, the trackmen taper off with light calisthenics and two or three more laps of jogging.

Students Must Sign For Gym Classes

The Athletic Department warns that any students not having registered for physical education must do so immediately, as they are already on probation.

short story written in Professor Phillips Russell's creative writing class will be read, together with student criticisms of the activities presented on the program during the week.
