

Carolina Graduate Advances Rapidly In Army Command

An army colonel at the age of 36 is the achievement of R. McDonald Gray, University graduate of 1929, and a student leader and athlete of a few years ago.

Colonel Gray is executive officer of the Provost Marshal General of the U. S. Army, Major General Allen W. Gullion, and is stationed in Washington.

Gray entered Carolina from Statesville, where his father was superintendent of schools, after spending a year at West Point. As a student he made Phi Beta Kappa, took a leading part in campus activities, was chosen for membership in Golden Fleece, and won his monogram in football. Later he returned to study law, receiving his LL.B. degree in 1932.

For five years Gray practiced law and was general counsel for an investment firm in Charlotte. In 1938-39 he served with the rank of Captain under General Gullion, who was then The Adjutant General of the U. S. Army. Since 1939 and until Pearl Harbor, Colonel Gray was a federal attorney on the staff of the U. S. Attorney General.

eighth, Bob tallied the final marker when he unleashed a home-run, the first made by a Tar Heel this season.

Leading the parade at the plate were Hussey and Rivers Johnson, each with three singles. In the long-distance count, Dub Johnson and Wideman collected two extra-base blows apiece. The only player not making a hit was Hayworth, who was evidently having an off day with nothing for six. Peters garnered two of his outfit's bingles.

Although allowing but five hits and fanning nine, Shuford still showed some of the wildness that was partly responsible for his defeat to the Cloudbusters Saturday. Eight Wildcats received free-passes to first, three of these coming in a row.
