Byrnes Makes Warning Talk At UNO Meet

International Laws Supported in Speech
Hunter College, The Bronx, March 25.—Secretary of State Byrnes opened the second session of the UNO Security Council this afternoon with the warning that no nation has a right to take the law into its own hands. Indicating his willingness to accept any honest settlement of the Iranian dispute, Byrnes repeated what he has said twice before—that the UNO charter doesn't try to outlaw changes in the world, but it does outlaw the use of force to bring changes. Byrnes said it was right for nations to try to settle their disputes among themselves, but if any dispute can't be settled by friendly negotiations, he says, it must be brought before the Security Council.

Iran Official States Reds Are Withdrawing

Tehran, March 25.—An Iranian government spokesman says Red Army troops are withdrawing from the country under the terms of the Anglo-Russian-Iranian Treaty of 1942, rather than because of any new agreement. The spokesman says Iran and Russia have not signed any new agreement, since it was not necessary.

OPA Must Be Retained Says Bernard Baruch

IRC Brings Second Speaker to Campus

Former French Premier To Discuss Franco-American Relations Tonight

Former Premier of France, Camille Chautemps, will discuss "Franco-American Relations" when he appears before the student body tonight at 8:30 in Hill Hall under the auspices of the International Relations club.

Chautemps is the second speaker on international affairs sponsored by the IRC.

M. Chautemps is motoring down from Washington and is expected to arrive in time for a banquet set for 6:30 at the Carolina Inn.

Chautemps' speech is timed with the arrival of Leon Blum in Washington as the new French Ambassador to the United States. M. Chautemps was in conference with Leon Blum in Washington shortly after Blum's arrival in this country two weeks ago, and it is believed that Chautemps' address is directly concerned with the program of French foreign policy (toward the United States) now facing its critical test in Washington.

M. Chautemps was born in Paris on Feb. 1, 1885. He attended the University of Paris and graduated at the age of 19 with the degree of Doctor of Law. Chautemps presently was admitted to the bar of the Court of Appeals of Paris, and took part in a great number of important law cases with a great deal of success.

Chautemps rose to dizzy heights in the turbulence of French politics. He was successively Representative, Senator, Minister of the Interior, Minister of State, three times Vice-President, four times Prime Minister, and three times Premier.

Chautemps arrived in America shortly before the outbreak of World War II, and during the war he actively supported France's struggle for liberty. His family suffered many sacrifices for France in the two wars. He lost three brothers in World War I, and the fourth and last one, already mutilated in the first war, was arrested by the Germans in 1942 and thrown into the horror camp of Bergan-Belsen where he died. Chautemps' son-in-law, a Colonel in the French Forces of the Interior, was captured and shot by the Germans. Chautemps' two sons escaped from France after the American landing in North Africa, and, after being taken into a concentration camp in Spain from which they escaped, took their place in the Free French Army and fought to the end with their American comrades.

Wynn Returns to University To Direct Communications

Distribution Library To Be Enlarged; Various Media to Include FM Transmitter

Prof. Earl Wynn, who before the war was a member of the Carolina Playmakers staff and who has recently been discharged as a lieutenant from the Navy, has returned to the University to take up his new duties as Director of the University's Communication Center.

The Communication Center, which was approved last September by the board of trustees, will begin operation immediately. Described as a far-reaching service in education for the people of North Carolina, the center plans to carry out its program through all media of communications, including a frequency modulation transmitter and studio connected with a network of stations in other colleges and public schools throughout the state.

The present distribution library of motion pictures, film strips, charts, slides and illustrations will be greatly enlarged. A motion picture and slide film production unit will be organized to produce new educational and documentary films.

Plans are also being made for an experimental television station and other experiments in new techniques of communication, Professor Wynn said.

"The purpose of the Communication Center is to provide a service for extending the teaching and training of all departments of the consolidated University beyond the limits of Chapel Hill, Raleigh and Greensboro; to provide current materials and to produce new materials which will assist teachers at the University and throughout the State; and to train interested students in both the technical and creative use of the various media of communication," Chancellor Robert B. House said today. "The purpose is not to change or supplant, but to extend and assist."

Professor Wynn has produced and written motion pictures for the Army and Navy for the last four years. Twenty months of his service with the Navy were spent in Hollywood at several of the major motion picture studios, and, during his spare time in Hollywood, he worked in radio and television at the studios of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company.

Doubtful Students Advised to Check With Instructors

Student grade reports for the winter quarter will not be ready before Friday, and any student who thinks he might have failed a course should see his instructor at once, announces Edwin S. Lanier, Central Records director.

The final grades reports for about 75 courses have not been received at the Central Records Office, Mr. Lanier said, and until all reports have been received the grade reports cannot be completed.

If a student fails a course, he should see his General College adviser or his Dean without further delay about a revision of his registration for the spring quarter, said Mr. Lanier.

Administration Poses Plan For Dining Room in Union

A definite possibility of relief in the near future from the long eating lines in Chapel Hill loomed on the campus with the recent announcement of South Building administrators that the University might open the Graham Memorial Grill as a student dining room, if sufficient interest were shown in the project.

In reply to a query by the student union board of directors, administration officials stated, "The University is investigating the possibility and necessity of opening up a Grill Dining Room in the section of the student union formerly occupied by the Graham Memorial Grill, and at present known as the Candlelight Room."

"We would like to know how many students would definitely pledge to eat in this new dining hall three meals per day, if it is opened."

The establishment would be run on a regular boarding house plan and would serve between two and three hundred students per meal. Meals in the dining hall would cost somewhat less than in cafeterias due to the streamlined mode of serving. Fees would be paid in advance on a quarterly basis and all members of the dining hall would be required to eat all meals there.

Dr. E. McG. Hedgpeth, University Infirmary head, suggested that co-eds be primarily encouraged to eat in the proposed dining hall due to the large number of cases of dietary deficiencies found in women students due to improper eating.

To determine the interest in the project the enclosed form will be run in today's and tomorrow's Daily Tar Heel. Students desiring to eat in the dining hall, if it is opened, are asked to fill out the form below, and drop it in the box in the Y lobby.

The poll today is for coeds only. Men students and faculty may sign up on a similar ballot to be run in Wednesday's paper.

WOMEN STUDENTS ONLY

I would like to eat in the proposed Graham Memorial Grill Dining Room, in accordance with the plan under which it will be operated.
