Tar Heel Netmen Face Deacons Today

Tar Babies Drop Night Tilt, 2-1

Carolina's junior varsity nine ran up against the highly-rated Burlington Bees in an arclight tilt on the Elon College field Monday evening and gave the professionals a close battle before finally losing by a 2-1 count.

The contest was a pitcher's duel all the way with Bill Bosenman turning in a stellar six-hit performance for the Tar Babies. But Coach Henry House's charges were able to garner only four hits themselves, the only run coming on Junior Hayes' third inning homer. Hayes made one of the other three bingles, along with Bill Webster and Buster Stevenson.

Charlie Tietjen Is Leading Runner in 880 for Carolina

Veteran Cinderman Has Performed in Madison Square Garden and Set Mark

By Jim Pharr

The practice of producing outstanding performances in track meets is a habit of long standing with Charlie Tietjen, veteran from Freeport, New York, and one of the leaders on the Tar Heel cinder squad.

Tietjen, who picked up a first place in the 880-yd. against Georgia Tech last Saturday, brings an impressive record to Carolina accumulated in high school and Manhattan College before he was called into the army in 1942.

Charlie began his athletic career in Bishoploughlin, New York High School, where he specialized in track and cross country. He ran on his high school track relay team that set an AAU record for the two mile that still stands today. Charlie set an individual record as the mile and cross-country champion of the Private School and Catholic School League of New York.

The climax of his high school honors came during a meet held in Madison Square Garden. There he set a Catholic High School record for the one mile run.

After finishing high school, Charlie entered Manhattan College, taking up on the track where he left off in high school. He set a freshman intercollegiate record in the mile run and was Captain of the intercollegiate freshman cross-country championship team. He also competed in the mile relay, being a member of the relay team.

Came the war and Charlie went into the army, where he put in four years. The climax of his army duty came when he was stationed with the 15th Air Force in Italy. Participating in several combat missions, he finally had the misfortune to be gunner on a plane that was shot down in combat.

Since returning to civilian life as a student here at Carolina, Charlie has regained his old form on the cinders. He is expected to be one of Coach Dale Ranson's main performers in the remainder of track meets on this season's schedule.

Law School Trims ROTC 2nd Co. 7-5

A whole host of slugfests featured yesterday's intramural softball play as competing teams knocked the ball all over the field in the wildest scoring contests seen thus far this year.

The only close game of the day saw the red-hot Law School hand the ROTC 2nd Co. their second loss in a like number of days. The Law boys pushed across the winning tally in the top half of the seventh to eke out a 7-6 win.

The undefeated Phi Gams continued on their winning ways as they downed Sigma Nu, 13-2, while the Zetas were pasting KA No. 1, 17-7. Delta Psi outlasted Chi Phi, 23-15, in a comedy of errors, 14 miscues being made by both teams. Elsewhere, ROTC 1st Co. trounced Whitehead, 17-8; Delta Sig took the measure of Chi Phi, 12-7; and Stacy rolled over Ruffin by a 13-4 count.

Wake Forest Team Is Host In Loop Tilt

Carolina Seeking Fourth Tennis Win

By Herb Bodman

This afternoon on the courts of Wake Forest the Tar Heel courtmen will open their Southern Conference matches and will be seeking their fourth win of the season when they take on the questionable Deacs. Little is known of what sort of talent Wake Forest has, for this is their first match and no news has issued forth from their public relations bureau.

Maass Back

Coach Kenfield and his netmen however, are ready for anything that the Deacs can spring on them. Gus Maass, who missed the match last Saturday, is back again and will be playing in the number one slot, the feature singles match of the afternoon. Jim Nicholson will play in the second match, Stan Gruner third, Mel Jordan fourth, Dick Swigart fifth and Ed Dameron sixth.

In the doubles matches Don Skakle, Sam Daniels, and Duke Wilder may see action as well as Maass, Jordan, Nicholson and Swigart, but the pairings have not yet been announced.

Weekend Trip

The team will leave on Friday morning on a road trip that will include Virginia on Friday, Navy on Saturday and William and Mary on Monday. It is known that the Cavaliers do not have a strong team, for Kalamazoo defeated them 6-3 after the Tar Heels had hit the Michigan club 7-2, but what Navy has in the way of power is not certain, although it is expected that they will have as good a team as they usually do. William and Mary is known to have one of the strongest sextets in the country.

Tar Heels Battle NC State In Big Four Contest Today

Freshman Ace Fans 14, Drives Home 2 Runs As He Pitches 4-Hit Triumph

By Bill Woestendiek

Vin DiLorenzo struck out 14, gave up but 4 singles, and made two hits to drive in two runs as Carolina trimmed the Durham Bulls of the Carolina league, 6-1, on Emerson field yesterday afternoon.

The Tar Heels pry the lid off their Big Four campaign and play their second conference game of the spring here today when they tangle with a powerful NC State nine at 4:00. Big Curt Ramsey is scheduled to hurl for the Red Terrors against Carolina's veteran righthander, Monk Whiteheart.

The freshman southpaw from Bergenfield, N. J. had everything his own way yesterday after some loose play afield gave the visitors a first inning tally without the benefit of a hit. DiLorenzo's curve had the Bulls swinging futilely all afternoon as he pitched his third game of the year and kept his earned run average at zero.

Score Twice in First

Carolina scored twice in the first and four times in the third to complete the day's run-making. Errors by John Hearn and John Colones gave the visitors a run to start the game, but Carolina found Durham hurler Scudero to their liking and proceeded to tee off on him immediately.

Hearn, son of Carolina Coach Bunn Hearn and recently returned from service in the navy, hit the first pitch for a line single to right and went to second when Lewis booted the ball in right field. Ott Evans followed with a double to left-center that chased Hearn home. Evans went to third when Scudero threw wild
