SCHW Will Meet Tomorrow Night In Baby Lounge

Carrying on its regular year-round activities in the realm of political action, the campus chapter of the Southern Conference For Human Welfare will hold its first summer meeting tomorrow, Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Baby Lounge of Graham Memorial, according to Bob Gurney, chapter president.

"The sixty-five members of our local chapter can well be proud of the tremendous increase in both registration and voting in the recent local and Congressional elections," Gurney said. He went on to say, "Although we refrained from backing any specific candidate or party, we participated in a campaign to get out a big vote, working on the premise that a large vote is a progressive vote."

Over 75,000 pieces of non-partisan voting literature were distributed by the student-members of the Campus S.C.H. W. Chapter. Buses were chartered every Saturday during registration to carry students to Greensboro, High Point, Durham, and other important voting sections of the state. Students spent the entire day covering business and residential sections of the towns.

The S.C.H. W. is a liberal political action membership group and invites all persons who can and will subscribe to its tenets to join. Tomorrow's meeting is open to all interested persons.

Money Unimportant to Him

'Biggest Kick Is In Working With People,' Says Ed Lanier, Busy Student Aid Director

By Arnold Schulman
"No," said Edwin S. Lanier, peering over the glasses which rested on his nose, "there's nothing interesting about me, but there certainly is about what I'm doing. The way I look at it, I'm touching the stream of human life right now at its most interesting point."

His official titles are Director of Student Aid Office and Director of Central Records Office. Between the two he manages to be kept busier than the mythical server of ice water in the lower regions, and about as hard to find. However, as he puts it, "There couldn't be two jobs any more opposite in nature."

Mind A Mechanism
On the one hand, with the Record Office, his mind becomes a mechanism, a calculator of figures, an instrument to record the mass of innumerable details and statistics that comes from keeping a complete record of every student at the University, but then on the other hand, this is balanced by working solely with the individual through the Student Aid Office.

It is the latter of these jobs that furnishes him with the bulk of his enjoyment. "If I was just working for the money," he continued, "I'm sure that there would be some other
