Married Couples, UVA Adopt Request For Rent Revision

The married students of the University and their wives, with the solid backing of the University Veterans' Association, have adopted a resolution requesting that the Federal Public Housing Administration office in Atlanta revise the rent schedule for the veteran's housing project on Mason Farm road.

The resolution proposes that the maximum monthly rent "should be and ought not to exceed $16.15 per unit." Under the present set-up, couples with children or expecting children receive twice as much space for half the money, with the result that in many cases the couple least able to pay a higher rent, and thus seeks an additional income, is penalized for its efforts.

Family Groups Agree
More weight is thrown behind the argument inasmuch as the couples with children agree in principle that the present plan is unsatisfactory.

Reliable sources have indicated that the FPHA wishes to realize $62,000 per year from the 352 units. By a process of division, the flat proposed rate of $16.15 per month per unit will meet the estimated expense and will at the same time give those couples with children a lower rate since they are automatically assigned a larger unit.

Tommy Dorsey To Play Here

Famous Band Here For Duke Weekend

Although final arrangements have not yet been made, Tommy Dorsey is expected to play here for the Duke weekend in November. A wire received late yesterday from Dorsey's manager said that the contract is now in the mail, Charlie Fulton, delegate of the Order of the Grail, announced.

The contract hasn't been signed as yet, but Dorsey and his famous band will play for a concert and two dances. The entire weekend will be informal, including the dances both nights in Woolen gymnasium.

Construction On Photo Lab Started; To Occupy Three Rooms at Swain Hall

Pictured in the making is one of the 80 United Kingdom houses that are being constructed for married couples out on the Mason Farm road project. Individual four-room structures, the houses were originally constructed for the British under lend-lease. Building officials estimate that 40 of the 80 homes will be completed for occupancy by the fall quarter. (Photo by Ed McCauley.)

Lab To Be Ready By September 15

By Roy C. Moose

Construction of a complete photographic laboratory was started this week by the Bureau of Visual Education in Swain Hall. When completed the laboratory will comprise three spacious rooms in the basement of Swain Hall, one of which will serve as a central file for negatives and the other two which will house a dark room, developers, dryers, and printers. September 15 has been set as the deadline for completion as the laboratory is planned to be in use during the fall term.

One full time photographer and dark room manager will be employed, while part time assistants will be drawn from students at the University. The laboratory is to be run on a self-supporting basis and will be governed by a faculty committee yet to be selected, who will pass on work to be done.

Commercialized Service
The project is under the supervision of Charles F. Milner, Assistant Director of the Extension Division, who is in charge of the visual education on the campus. Milner explained that the service to be rendered by the new laboratory is in no way commercialized and will not limit the work of the professional studios uptown.

"Rather, it is being constructed for use by the department heads to augment educational facilities through visual means," stated Milner. Work done by the laboratory for various departments will be on a cost basis.

Journalism Department to Use
Plans also call for use of the photographic laboratory as a central dark room by the Journalism Department in connection with the course in photography being offered to students this fall.

The photographic expansion will further serve to make training films for distribution to the grade and high schools throughout the State. At present the Visual Education Department has over 800 subjects filmed for such purposes. With the addition of the new photographic wing, this number

Little Interest Shown In Flight Training

Less Than 25 Students Sign Forms In Survey Conducted by Williams

Less than 25 students have shown enough interest in the University's proposed flight training program to come by the YMCA information desk and fill out a questionnaire in the survey being carried out by J. A. Williams, assistant to the business manager. The questionnaires will still be available today in the "Y", although no more definite information about the fate of the proposal could be obtained, since Williams will not return to the campus until Thursday.

Interest Necessary Now
Williams stated last Saturday that "If there is not enough interest in the program to warrant the courses, the University will not be in a position to go forward with any plans to institute the flight training courses."

In estimating possibilities for some kind of University flying training, Williams declared last week, "Further efforts of the University to organize courses in flight training will be based on information given by students who are themselves interested in taking the courses."

Compact Form Questionnaire
The questionnaire is a compact form, and the main portion of it lists the five types of training offered, Primary, Commercial, Instructor, Instrument, and Multi-engine, plus asking for an indication from the student as to which of five quarters he could register for his choice of courses.

Graham Memorial Ends Summer Term Tonight

Graham Memorial Student Union building will close tonight for cleaning and repairs, Martha Rice, director, announced this morning.

The building will remain closed until September 25, when a party has been planned for the newly arriving freshmen.

Honorary Journalism Society, Etaoin Shrdlu, To Be Formed

Staffs of Campus Publications Will Be Eligible for Membership

Leave Pay Blanks Being Distributed In Lobby of YMCA

The University Veteran's Association has had printed about 2000 terminal leave pay blanks which will be distributed in the lobby of the YMCA today. These blanks enable the veteran to claim unused leave pay under the Armed Forces Leave Act of 1946.

The blanks are accompanied by detailed instructions as to the method of filling them out, and instructions on mailing procedures. General instructions as to the provisions of the act are also included.

In case a veteran doesn't understand the instructions, he may consult Veteran's Adviser F. C. Shephard in South Building.

The blanks have been printed by the UVA in order that all veterans entitled to pay can utilize this opportunity to cut short the procedure by three or four weeks.

The Daily Tar Heel delivery complaint box is in the YMCA office.

Tentative plans were announced yesterday for the formation of an honorary professional journalism fraternity on the campus. According to a spokesman for the group interested in forming the organization, its object will be to fill a long felt need for a journalistic society at this university. Etaoin Shrdlu, a printers' term, has been proposed as a name for the club. Its membership will include persons on the staff of the three campus publications, the Carolina Magazine, Yackety Yack, and Daily Tar Heel. The decision as to whether or not to include coeds in the society has not yet been reached.

Chief Backers Listed

Chief backers of the organization are Bill Woestendiek, Editor of the Daily Tar Heel, Roland Giduz, Managing Editor of the Daily Tar Heel, and Jack Lackey, former News and Night Editor of the DTH. A much larger group is expected to be included in the list of charter members of the fraternity.

Present plans call for the club's remaining strictly a local group, with no national affiliations contemplated. It is hoped that by bringing promient journalists to Chapel Hill to talk to students interested in the fourth estate and by bringing the staffs of the student publications to closer cooperation with the faculty of the department of journalism, that the journalistic standards of the various publications can be improved.

Orientation Committee Lists Program of Week's Activities

Pat Kelly, chairman of the freshman orientation committee, released mimeographed schedules yesterday for the week of exercises designed to acquaint all new students with Carolina. Plans call for a full week of events beginning with an assembly in Memorial Hall at 8:30 Monday morning, September 23, and ending with the Coed Ball following the Carolina-V.P.I. football game on Saturday, September 28.

Kelly stressed that emphasis will be placed on individual counseling for the Dewey Dorsett, president of the student counselors, each of whom will be responsible for about twenty new men. Approximately 550 new students are expected, and of these 150 will be freshmen just out of high school, who will be housed together in Alexander dormitory.

Working All Summer

The committee has been working on plans all summer in conjunction with Dewey Dorsett, president of the student body. Members of the committee in addition to Kelly are: Roland Giduz, Jim Johnson, Mike Carr, Alec Davis, Ann Cutts, Janet Johnston, "Tookie" Hodgson, and Clyde Stallings.

Placement Tests Tuesday

More placement tests will be given on Tuesday morning, followed by conferences with counselors in the afternoon. Dr. Graham will address a convocation of all new students in Memorial Hall that night at 7:30.

Physical exams and registration will take up the whole day Wednesday, with a combination of the men's and coeds orientation on Wednesday night in the form of a party at Graham Memorial, arranged by Johnny

UVA Petition to FPHA

1. WHEREAS, the Federal Public Housing Administration project on the Mason Farm Road is being constructed for occupancy by the married veterans attending the University of North Carolina, and

2. WHEREAS, the student's income is fixed by law rather than by individual ability, and,

3. WHEREAS, the subsistence allowance granted married veterans by the United States Government is insufficient to meet present living expenses, making it essential that there be an additional source of income to meet current expenses, and,

4. WHEREAS, the schedule of rent amounts to a penalty imposed upon the family capable of earning income in addition to the G. I. benefits, and

5. WHEREAS, we are of the belief that the FPHA plan was originated for families of different financial status from those attending educational institutions. We are of the opinion that the rate of rent should be rectified so as not to be discriminatory against the family who exercises personal initiative to better enable it to meet the rising standard of living, these people being unable to draw on outside sources.

6. We, the married students and wives of married students of the University of North Carolina, do hereby agree that a revision of the schedule of rent should be made as follows: Knowing from an official source that the maximum desired and expected yearly rental income from the aforementioned housing project is $62,000 for 352 units it is the sense of the aforementioned group that the maximum monthly rent should be and ought not to exceed $16.15 per unit. These figures were arrived at by dividing the number of units into the maximum expected rental value of this non-profit organization. This rental value of $62,000 was taken in cognizance of a 10 per cent allowance for any deviation in total number of occupants. By this plan all occupants will be paying the same base rate and therefore will not be detrimental to the families of couples with children since they will receive the largest units.

7. THEREFORE, we do urge that this plan be given expedient attention and action.
