Alumni Will Publish Football Supplements

As a service to all Alumni Review subscribers the Alumni Association, located in the Carolina Inn, will again publish weekly football supplements of all Carolina football games this fall.

The supplements, which are published yearly, provide a detailed description of each Carolina game plus pictures and commentaries on the performance of the players.

Jack Saunders, law student on the campus, will write the publication. Saunders, recently discharged from the Navy, served as correspondent for the supplement before the war.

Seven Veterans Formed Fast Growing Group ... Local American Veteran Committee Chapter Now Preparing To Get Behind Mammoth 'Ring The Bell' Membership Drive

By Burke Shipley
Early in April 1946, seven veterans formed the Chapel Hill chapter of the American Veterans Committee, so as to give local World War II veterans an opportunity to add their efforts behind the AVC's policy of "Citizens First, Veterans Second," working for "a more prosperous and democratic America and a more stable world." Coinciding with its first birthday, October 17th, the AVC is conducting a "ring the bell" drive throughout the nation in a door-to-door campaign for a million members. The local chapter chairman, Winston Broadfoot, has urged "all those who believe as we do in the importance of civic activities to come to the first meeting in the Presbyterian church at 7:30 this evening." As a hint to the ladies, the AVC is not a stag organization, he stated. Getting off to a small start, the membership, composed of students, faculty members, and townspeople, had risen to about 85 prior to this fall and the chapter has since become increasingly active in seeking improvements in local, national, and international conditions. The Chapel Hill chapter has been vigorous in doing its part to further American well-being and to serve the needs of the college community in which it functions. Among the many activities through which the chapter expresses its aims are the housing, national and local policies committees. Working in conjunction with various campus and town organizations, the local AVC chapter has undertaken the solution of problems of a wide variety. According to the Raleigh regional control office, the AVC was one of the groups responsible during the summer for the inclusion of Chapel Hill under OPA rent control ceilings after a fight that lasted several months. In other phases of local problems, the AVC has aided the food conservation drive in and around Chapel Hill, helped the GI nursery school onto its feet, and conducted a housing survey of all homes in town to locate further rooming space. Has Many Committees

The activities conducted by the different committees are coordinated by the executive committee, composed of the following officers, elected this past May: chairman, Broadfoot, Wilmington, who succeeded Walter Spearman, temporary chairman; vice-chairman, Junius Scales, Chapel Hill; secretary, Bob Kinsman, Framingham, Mass.; corresponding secretary, Jim Stanford, Asheville; and treasurer, Dave Malone, Chapel Hill. Elections will be held again this fall to give the expected increase in membership a voice in the selection of their officers. The idea of AVC was born through a series of letters begun by Gilbert Harrison, AVC vice-president, during the winter of 1943-44 with other servicemen. From these discussions of the sort of world they wanted to return to, the first chapter was organized in New York almost a year ago by Charles Bolte, now AVC president. The Des Moines convention of last June, ending the primary stages of AVC, was the expression of the wishes of 60,000 AVC members throughout the world. Columnist Thomas Stokes, speaking of the convention in session, wrote, "Democracy is rampant in this collection of wide-awake World War II veterans." Democracy Rampant Democracy is indeed rampant in the AVC as an organization composed of more than 75,000 members, without regard to race, creed, or color, and it extends right down into the meetings of the individual chapters. They are allowed and urged to map out their own programs and make their own decisions within the framework of the AVC constitution.

25-30 married students and their wives who have been married less than 5 years, and to make provision for discussion hours, note-recording, and financial accounting in a group of at least 25 families. To Distribute Findings
It is expected that, once the study has been completed, a summary of the findings will be prepared and distributed among the cooperating families. As a result, it is hoped that an increased understanding of the financial problems and solutions of newly established families will be developed.

but are acceptable to teach freshman courses. The twelve centers are located as follows: Albemarle, with 44 students, Burlington (34), Burnsville (34), Charlotte (270), Fayetteville (64), Gastonia (75), Goldsboro (32), Greensboro (48), Hendersonville (52), Murphy (40), Rocky Mount (84), and Wilmington (196). Mount Airy, with an enrollment of only 15, will be unable to have a center established there unless at least 30 students can be enrolled by Oct. 3, as 30 is the minimum number to warrant a center. For further information contact Charles E. McIntosh, Assistant Director in Charge of N. C. College Centers, Box 1050, Chapel Hill, N. C. (Office, Swain Hall; telephone, 7891). The Daily Tar Heel delivery complaint box is in the YMCA office.

Carolina Ranks High In Granting of Ph.D.'s

The University of North Carolina is second only to the University of Texas in the southern area in the number graduate degrees granted in 1945. A study just completed by Dr. Mary Bynum Holmes lists the University of North Carolina and Duke together as the outstanding University center in the South and in the nation. Together the two schools gave 819 of the total number of 2,366 graduate degrees granted in the South in 1945. Of this number 470 received degrees from Carolina. Texas gave 504 degrees, Virginia, 463 and Duke was fourth with 349.

Pittsburg, Pa.—(ACP)—Julia A. Randall, Mount Lebanon, Pa., the first girl ever to be admitted to the regular day courses in Carnegie Tech's college of engineering and science, won top honors in this year's graduating class.
