Materials Arrive For Constructing New UVA House

Wrestling Pavilion Behind Lenoir Now Being Rebuilt for Association

Building of a new clubhouse for the UVA edged into first place in the current campus construction contest when first materials for the vets' new lodge began arriving at Emerson Field yesterday afternoon. Officers of the Veterans' Association have turned over their old clubhouse, former Navy Officers' Club on Raleigh Road, to the University for use as a part of the North Carolina Highway Patrol's Safety Training School due to open October 13.

NEWS BRIEFS

Plea for Peace In All Nations Urged by Hull

Birthday Statement Made from Sick Bed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(UP)—From his sick bed in Bethesda Naval Hospital, former Secretary of State Cordell Hull tonight made one last plea for world peace.

Although critically, and perhaps mortally ill, Hull appealed to the statesmen of the world to settle their international differences and avert the "incalculable disaster of another war." In an anniversary statement—for his 75th birthday tomorrow—the Tennessee statesman made a forceful appeal for preservation of the international peace structure he fought to build and maintain in the 12 years he was state secretary.

"Must Work Together"

"Not since the darkest days of the war," Hull says, "has it been so necessary as now for the United States, Great Britain, the Soviet Union, China and France to work together." The anniversary statement was released as scheduled tonight, but its author was far too ill to take part in a quiet birthday celebration planned in his honor. Cordell Hull suffered a slight stroke this morning. And doctors at the naval hospital say tonight that his condition has taken a turn for the worse. His physicians refuse to speculate on Hull's chances of recovery. But indicating the gravity of his condition, they have promised to issue bulletins on his condition every four hours.

Total Power Stoppage Seen for Pittsburgh

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—(UP)—The long-suffering people of Pittsburgh are faced with new trouble tonight. The struck Duquesne Power Company says the electricity load is still too heavy . . . and company officials say it may be necessary to cut off power for a short time in some Pittsburgh districts tonight.

The Hollywood strike of studio workers resulted in a pitched battle today when club-swinging officers broke up a mass demonstration led by hundreds of uniformed veterans. In Chicago, the Western Union Telegraph Company and three A. F. of L. unions finally have agreed on a wage increase for telegraphers of 16 and a half cents an hour and ten cents an hour for messengers.

Traffic Light Nets 100 Grand for Bandit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1—(UP)—A Los Angeles bandit struck it rich tonight when he picked diamond merchant Charles Bernstein as a victim. The bandit slipped into Bernstein's car while the jeweler was waiting for the light to change at a busy intersection in downtown Los Angeles. Sticking a gun in Bernstein's ribs, the bandit grabbed a briefcase from the car floor and walked off with $100,000 in jewels. Police say it was a carefully prepared job.

Registration Soars To 6,708

Record Enrollment Reached; Lines Will Close Tomorrow

General College Has 3,243 Students;
1393 Sign for Arts, Sciences School

By Roy C. Moose

With still another day in which students may register, the enrollment at Carolina has soared to an unpredicted, all-time high of 6708.

A breakdown of statistics reveals that the General College with 3243 enrollees is the most crowded division on the campus. Swelled with the heavy coed enrollment, the Arts and Sciences rank next in numerical order with 1393 students. The Commerce department comes in third with 803 which, although seeming small in relation to the top two divisions, is the greatest number ever to enroll in that department.

Large Graduate School

A 652 Graduate School enrollment gives evidence that Carolina will again confer the highest number of graduate degrees of any university in the South in 1946.

The professional school consisting of Law, Medicine, Library Science, and Public Health departments enrolled 607 students. No breakdown among the departments in the professional school have been made as yet.

Special students constitute the remaining ten.

The previous high enrollment occurred in 1941 when 4,108 students were registered for the fall term. This is in sharp contrast to the low of 1,681 civilians in 1944.

Di to Install New Officers

Visitors Are Invited To Opening Meeting

Beginning its 152nd year of activity on the Carolina campus, the Senate of the Dialectic Society will hold an inaugural session tonight at 9 o'clock in the Di Chamber on the third floor of New West building. Visitors are invited to witness the ceremony as Robert Morrison, retiring president, will administer the oath of office to President-elect Donald Shropshire.

The new presiding officer will add his inaugural address to the over 300 inaugurals dating back to 1795, and Morrison is scheduled to address the Senate on matters of current importance.

Other New Officers

Other officers to take seats will be Tom Eller, president pro tempore; Dan McFarland, critic; and Eddie Black, sergeant-at-arms.

On the agenda for the very near future is a Di constitutional convention for the reconsideration of a number of constitutional amendments which were tentatively adopted by the Di during the spring session of this year. The Senate is expected to sit in convention for at least several days, although the time has not yet been decided.

Seniors Entering Graduate School Must Apply Now

Students admitted to the Graduate School since Sept. 1 are required to take a graduate record examination to furnish supplementary evidence of their preparation for graduate study. Application should be in to the New York office by Oct. 14, officials say.

The examination has sections covering the student's general education. In addition students select advance tests covering the field in which he plans to specialize on the graduate level.

Seniors who are completing their undergraduate programs in December and expect to enter the graduate school in January should take this examination.

Since many graduate schools now ask students to submit a report on the graduate record examination, it will be advisable for students who intend to enter a graduate school elsewhere to also take the test.

The examination will be administered in Chapel Hill by the Graduate School on Monday and Tuesday afternoons, October 28 and 29 in the afternoons beginning at 1 p. m.

Each person who wishes to take the examination must make a separate application and pay a fee of $5. This application and fee must be in the office of the Graduate Record Office in New York by October 14. The address is Graduate Record Office, 437 West 59th Street, New York, 19, New York. The Graduate School is not authorized to accept applications.

Identification Cards Must Be Secured Today

All identification photographs not already called for must be secured today on Memorial Hall stage from 9:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. and from 2:00 to 5:00. Students must turn in temporary identification cards to receive their photographs.

Playmakers Meet Tonight

Interested Persons Invited To Attend

Tonight at 8 o'clock the Carolina Playmakers will hold their annual Orientation meeting in the Playmakers Theatre on campus, inviting everyone interested in any phase of dramatic art to come.

Samuel Selden, director of the Carolina Playmakers and head of the department of dramatic art, stated, "If there is anything you want to know about the Carolina Playmakers, come and ask questions tonight. Our staff will be there to answer them."

History of Playmakers

Mr. Selden also urges all old and new students and townspeople interested in participating in Playmakers' activities this year to attend this meeting which will include a short review with slides of the history of the Carolina Playmakers entitled "Adventures in Playmaking."

"The Carolina Playmakers wish to make it clear to everyone that their organization is a community theatre, open to all students and residents of Chapel Hill for both on- and off-stage work. The Carolina Playmakers is not a closed group," further declared Selden.

Bridge Tournaments To Resume Tomorrow; Building Overcrowded

The Graham Memorial weekly bridge tournament popularized during the summer will resume tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Candlelight room with master points being given to winners.

Director Martha Rice requests that presidents of all organizations desiring permanent reservations for Graham Memorial lounges report to her office today. Due to the acute overcrowded conditions it will be necessary, she said, to place time limits on all meetings held in the Student Union building.

Plans were revealed to begin a poster shop in Graham Memorial, and that anyone interested in poster making should contact Miss Rice as soon as possible. After tryouts have been given several students will be selected to operate the shop which will be available for any organization needing posters.

Pictured in one of his favorite pastimes is Dr. Frank Graham who recently returned to the campus after spending a six week rest period in Duke hospital.

President Back on Job After Rest in Hospital

Dr. Frank Makes First Public Appearance Since Undergoing Medical Care in Durham

Dr. Frank P. Graham, President of the University of North Carolina, returned to the Carolina campus Monday for the first time since entering Duke hospital six weeks ago. Although still weak from his long stay in bed, he was able to make his first public appearance yesterday at a Board of Trustees meeting in South Building.

As a result of a strenuous lecture tour this past summer he was forced to enter Duke hospital six weeks ago to undergo treatment and rest under the care of medical doctors. His condition was described as "not serious" but the doctors said he was in a general fatigued condition and emphasized that he needed a complete rest.

Editors Plan $40,000 Yack

Plans were formulated today for an estimated $40,000 Yackety Yack as editor Gene Johnstone called the first staff meeting and announced tentative plans for beginning photography Monday Oct. 14.

There still are several staff vacancies, Johnstone said, requesting anyone interested in yearbook work to attend the first complete staff meeting between 4 and 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the Yack office at Graham Memorial. While previous yearbook experience is desired, the editor emphasized that it is not required. "If any student has a real desire to work on the Yack," he said, "we'll find a place for him somewhere."

Budget Double This Year

Due to the extreme inflation of operational costs and the sharp rise in University enrollment the budget for this year's annual will almost double the cost of previous Yacks, Business Manager Jean Huske revealed. She also stated that with the proposed plan for individual pictures of each of the 7,000 students, an additional $9,000 to supplement the Publication Board allotment may have to be raised.

Person Exhibit Shows Life Photos

Life goes to Person Hall Art gallery to exhibit a photographic collection of FINE ARTS UNDER FIRE. The exhibit illustrates the work of Allied Armies in preserving and salvaging the plunder made by Germany throughout the rest of Europe. Hitherto unpublished photographs of some 700 caches of German Art plunder concealed a part of the 100,000 looted and displaced works of art are now on display.

The photographs include scenes of the devastation of modern warfare to those monuments which the enemy placed in the line of fire and of the evacuation to safety under actual combat of Michelangelo's "Madonna and Child," and other works of similar greatness.

Salvador Dali will be a lucky man if he survives the judging of the Lena the Hyena contest and pulls through without getting his mustache curled. One of the three-man horror judges he will serve with Frank Sinatra and Boris Karloff.

Lena Contest Closes Today

All entries for Lena the Hyena contest must be submitted to the Daily Tar Heel office before noon today. Leading campus connoisseurs and editors of this publication will judge the sketches immediately and airmail their choice to New York to be entered in the nation-wide $500 prize contest.

The most horrible sketch of the young lady from Lower Slobbovia will be published in Sunday's edition.

Numerous sketches have already been received. Baron Mintz has submitted a life-size color photo of Al Capp's Lena. Ed Shewmake has submitted four sketches along with pictures drawn by Leroy Bannerman, Bill Fuess, Billy Sparks and many other campus cartoonists and artists.
