Perfect football weather has been much in evidence around Chapel Hill all week, and no one wishes the Tar Heels were going to be able to enjoy it any more than Carl Snavelly, silver-haired prexy of the Carolina footballers. It will be a decidedly difficult picture, however, when the Tar Heels take the field Friday night, for they will be playing in the warmth of Miami, Fla.

And according to the Carolina mentor of gridironis, this could make all the difference in the world in the way his eleven shows up in the inter-sectional game against Miami university.

Mind you, though, Snavelly is far from making excuses. All other teams that play Miami there are up against the same obstacle, but nevertheless this coupled with a decided weakness in the line is sufficient to make Carolina the underdog in the second start of the season.

Miami sports a strong, experienced aggregation, and after having pushed aside strong William and Mary 13-3 last week, the Hurricanes will be tough indeed to get by. Nearly all of the Orange Bowl starters of last year are on hand, giving the deep southern gridders a sharp edge over the Tar Heels.

On the Carolina side of the picture, backfield hopes have been given a boost with the return of Don Hartig for a possible starting role, and Jack Fitch for at least limited action. But in the line things have been jolted with the admission of gigantic Stan Marczyk to the infirmary to join Bob Mitten who was already there with an injury.

The Tar Heels will need plenty of reserves in the battle tomorrow night, and with these two boys definitely off the trip, it will offer quite a problem to supply good substitutes for the starting linemen.

Getting back to the backfield, a star from 1942, Billy Myers, has been running alternately with the second and first string backs, and unless our calculations are too far wrong, he will be in the game considerably Friday night.

However, Charlie the Choo Choo Justice will be in the starting position, and Bill Maceyko will be right in there too. As we mentioned before, there will be a necessity for much more substituting this week, since the boys will have to be taken out for frequent rests due to the heat.

There is always hope that the cold wave scampering around this vicinity will make its way down to sunny Florida, but if things are as they usually are, the Tar Heels will be playing in something like 80-degree night weather.

By and large, Carolina didn't look too bad last Saturday, even in getting tied, and with the correction of the punting faults and the others that showed up in the V.P.I. encounter, the Tar Heels should be running with much greater efficiency. This is one game on which we don't even want to venture a guess on as far as a definite outcome is concerned, so all we will say is that we rate Miami as favorites, and if the Tar Heels come through it will be by a small margin, a touchdown or less.

Partners in mourning with the Carolina gridders last weekend, Duke's Blue Devils are sounding hope that they will be able to get back on their feet after the 13-6 loss to State and rally to make a good showing against Tennessee's reputedly great Vols.

At a press conference Tuesday, Coach Wallace Wade tagged Gen. Bob Neyland of Tennessee as the best coach in the nation, and he said that he "rather try and beat any club than Tennessee."

Most of the experts are picking the Vols to take the Blue Devils, but if our experience with the Dukes is any criteria, we would say that any team meeting Wallace Wade's team this week had better be mighty good, especially with potential strength of the Blue Devils so evident.

Personally, though, we like Tennessee over Duke, but as aforementioned Duke will be on the rebound and hard to beat. Let's say, just for mistake's sake, the Vols by a touchdown.

When you get on down to the rest of the Big Five major clubs, we find that State is facing Clemson and Wake Forest Georgetown. We'll stick our necks out without further comment, and say the Deacons over Georgetown by a sizable score, Clemson over State by a touchdown or two.

Sundry notes on football:

The Tar Heels will be facing a kicker at Miami Friday night who may be classed as the best in the country. That's Harry Ghoul, whose superb punts kept William and Mary on the rocks all last weekend. . . Tony Yovicin, who created quite a furore when he registered at Duke last spring and then tried to transfer to Carolina where he was ruled ineligible, is a starting end for Miami's Hurricane that plays Carolina in the Orange Bowl stadium Friday night. . . Charlie Justice, the star Tar Heel tailback, was playing his first college game when Carolina met V.P.I. last weekend. . . Watch the UNC Jayvees this weekend also. They play at Annapolis.

130 Cagers Report For Drills

Four Starters From '46 Club Bolster Squad

Pre-War Players Return to Action

By Carroll Poplin

A throng of 130 basketball candidates swamped into Woollen gym yesterday afternoon answering the first call issued by Head Coach Tom Scott, who seemed more than pleased with the large turnout, but squinted his face when he glanced over the tough schedule.

Among the large crew that reported for the initial practice session were four starters back from last year's Eastern Collegiate champs which was tabbed as the best court team ever to don the Blue and White uniform. They are All-American John "Hook" Dillon, Bob Paxton, Jim White and Taylor "T-Pot" Thorne. Other members of the squad back include Jim Hayworth, Roger Scholbe, Hall Miles, Buster Stevenson and Marx Nathan.

Pre-War Stars

The White Phantom will be strengthened with the returning of five courtmen who earned their letters on the Carolina hardwood before the war. They include Dick Hartley, Reid Suggs, Dick Donnan, Vic Seixas and Cam Rodman.

Coach Scott announced that the cagers will practice three, times each week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The tempo will pick up before the Phantoms take on their first opponent, which is Cherry Point here on December 4th.

Scrimmage on Friday

The first scrimmage practice will be staged on Friday afternoon and Coach Scott, who replaced Coach Ben Carnevale, plans to start cutting the squad immediately. "We plan to give every fellow a chance," the former Central Missouri Teachers College mentor said, "but with a squad this large, it will be necessary to cut the squad daily."

Aiding Coach Scott in the coaching chores will be Bo Shepard, former head court mentor and Pete Mullis who was assistant to Beff Carnevale last year. Lew Hayworth, star cager for Carolina before the war, will handle to Jay-vee team. A schedule is being arranged for the junior outfit.

Tough Schedule

Facing one of the toughest hardwood slates in the history of the school, the White Phantoms will clash in several inter-sectional contests this season which includes games in Chicago with DePaul and Northwestern. Carolina will invade the Metropolitan area the middle of January for their game with New York University and will meet LaSalle in Philadelphia prior to the NYU tussle.

Soccer Candidates Meet This Afternoon

All men interested in going out for the 1946 Carolina varsity soccer team are requested to report to room 304 in Woollen gym this afternoon at 4:30 for an organizational meeting, it was announced yesterday by Marvin Allen, who will coach the team.

This is the first time Carolina has had a soccer team in several years, and practice for the season will get underway Monday. On the schedule so far are Virginia, Duke and Davidson (tentatively), each on a home and home basis.

Carolina Grid Squad Preps For Tilt With Hurricanes

Squad To Arrive In Miami This Afternoon; Several Players Making Trip Still Untried

Carolina's gridiron squad will hold brief limbering-up drills in Miami's Orange Bowl tonight in preparation for their encounter there tomorrow night with Spike Harding's University of Miami Hurricane eleven.

The squad, thirty-eight players strong, is expected to arrive in Miami late this afternoon. Included among the players are several athletes who never got off the bench in the V.P.I. game.

Carolina will have its hands full tomorrow, when they tangle with the Florida outfit that bowled over one of the Southern Conference's stronger clubs, William and Mary, last week by a 13-3 score. Miami is expected to send Hal Johnston, a sensational aerial artist, against the Blue and White defense. They are also counting on the talented toe of Harry Ghoul to keep the Tar Heels backed up in their own territory all night.

Hartig to Start

Don Hartig, still wearing a cast from a hand that was broken earlier in the fall, is expected to be Carolina's one change in the starting lineup. He replaces Bill (Cotton) Sutherland at the blocking-back post this week.

Jack Fitch, who was expected to start at wingback this year, is again ready for action and is certain to do a lot of playing tomorrow night, alternating with Jim Camp at the half-back position.

Coach Carl Snavelly has another tailback groomed to spell Bill Maceyko and Charlie Justice during the Florida battle. Hailing from Lexington, Billy Myers, who was All State and All-Southern in the scholastic ranks, is expected to see a lot of action against the Hurricanes. He played brilliantly on the 1941 freshman team and developed into a varsity star in 1942. Having warmed the bench in the V.P.I. game, Billy has finally worked into shape and is ready to do his share of broken-field running during the remainder of the schedule.

Returning Netmen Report to Courts For Fall Practice

A fairly large turnout of about 20 players greeted Coach John Kenfield's first call for fall tennis practice yesterday and indicated a powerful net team for 1947.

Five members of last year's array, which dropped only one of 16 matches, reported along with several returning stars from previous years and a number of new hopefuls. Jim Nicholson, Stan Gruner, Sam Daniels, Don Skakle, and Dick Swigart compose the quint of 1946 lettermen.

Returning Players

Included among the returning players from other years are two members of the 1944 team, co-captain Don Peck and southpaw Bob Johnson. Other returnees are Clark Taylor, freshman ace in 1942, and John Kenfield, son of the net mentor and a freshman star in 1941.

Also back in school but currently spending his time in basketball try-outs is Vic Seixas, who is certain to occupy the top-ranking position on next year's team. Seixas was ranked

Cards Favored To Take Flag In Second Tilt

Williams' Arm OK For World Series

Brooklyn, Oct 2—(UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and the Brooklyn Dodgers engage in the second game of their playoff here tomorrow with the Red Birds, winners of the first clash in St. Louis Tuesday, being established as 4-to-5 favorites to cop the National League pennant with a clean sweep of the series.

Lefty Joe Hatten is the almost certain starter for the desperate Dodgers, who must win if the playoffs are to go the three-game limit. Either Harry Brecheen or Murray Dickson will take the mound for the Cards.

An overflow crowd of about 33,000 is expected to pack into Ebbets Field for the contest and the Flatbush fans are convinced their beloved "Bums" can sweep two home games and capture their first pennant since 1941.

Boston, Oct. 2—(UP)—The National League pennant winner, whether it be St. Louis or Brooklyn, received some bad news from Boston today. Ted Williams will be ready for the World Series.

Red Sox Lose

Williams didn't take part in today's exhibition game that Boston lost, 4-2, to the American League All Stars. He was resting the elbow that was hit with a pitched ball yesterday. But Red Sox officials announced that Ted is all right and will be in there swinging in the Series.

In today's game, Dizzy Trout of the Tigers and Ed Lopat of the White Sox set the Red Sox down with six hits in the second game of the series that Joe Cronin hopes will keep his pennant winners in shape until they meet the NL winner in the first game of the World Series that opens this Sunday.
