Art Director Wants Old Furniture Gifts

Mr. John V. Alcott, director of art, has asked for more materials to be given to Person hall for the benefit of art students.

Mr. Alcott said, "If people would only ransack their attics and cellars for any old pieces of furniture, vases, curtains or pictures that they can no longer find use for and give them to Person hall, it would be of immeasurable aid. The art studio just hasn't enough to go around and supply all the students." Mr. Alcott made it clear that any gifts, no matter what the vintage, would be welcomed.

Hight Chosen President Of Old West Dormitory

Students living in Old West elected Bill Hight president of the dormitory at a meeting Tuesday night. Hight and other officers will serve until the end of the spring term.

Other officers elected are: vice-president, Jiggs Asken, secretary-treasurer, Thomas Moore; and councilors, Fred Mills, Hall Miles, and Charles Kistler.

Athletic manager will be appointed by the officers and will be announced later.

Wallace To Talk On Prague Council Wednesday Night

James Wallace, who returned to Chapel Hill this week from Prague, will deliver his report on the proceedings of the Prague World Student conference in Hill Hall at 8:00 next Wednesday evening.

UNC was one of the fifteen U.S. universities, and the only one in the south, invited to send delegates to the worldwide assembly, which was in session from August 18-31. The expenses of Wallace, who was selected by a joint faculty-student board to represent Carolina, totalled nearly $900, all donated by campus organizations.

Wallace's report next Wednesday, according to Walt Stuart, chairman of the preparatory committee, will cover both the general work of the student conference and his own as one of 25 U.S. delegates.

Spokesman Charges Industry Preparing To Fight Meat Import

Denver, Oct. 10—(UP)—An industry spokesman says the entire livestock industry is prepared to fight any attempts to import meat into this country from South America.

F. E. Mollin, executive secretary of the American National Livestock Association, ridicules the charge that cattlemen are withholding shipments because of resentment of OPA controls.

Mollin has just completed a tour of southwestern states. He says he found active trading in every section he visited. And he adds:

"Practically all cattle destined for market this fall have been sold and are awaiting shipment."

The livestock spokesman goes on: "There is no magic way of making beef overnight, but consumers would benefit immediately if ceilings were lifted and the black market stamped out."

Blue Devils Count On Defensive Game

Durham, Oct. 10 — Duke's Blue Devils are figuring that the best way to "cross Navy's T" at Baltimore Saturday is to set up a sound defense against the team that has covered over 400 yards rushing in two games. The Blue Devils figure that they won't do a lot of scoring against a Navy team that has a fine line sparked by two All-American players and that their best chances lie in slowing down the powerful Millie offense.

An ex-Army man, Coach Wallace Wade is not necessarily an advocate of Naval tactics, but he's out to cross Navy's T, and since he has always been a builder of fine defensive teams, he has wasted no time this week in training his Blue Devils to stop the Middies' big guns.

Revolts Are Beginning In Portugal Cities

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 10—(UP)—Revolts have broken out in at least two cities in Portugal, according to authoritative sources and the government has ordered troops to crush them.

LEGISLATURE

(Continued from page 1) floor." Presented by Alex Davis, a bill providing a sum of eighty dollars for the purchase of legislature space in the Yackety-Yack was referred to the Finance committee, which along with all other committees will be named at the next scheduled meeting. Note Book Conditions A bill setting down regulations for the care of legislators' notebooks was referred to the Archives committee. It stated that each representative was responsible for the condition of his notebook, and must turn it in at the end of each session. There was little discussion on the holiday extension bill. Legislator Broadfoot remarked that a date might be named which would serve as a substitute for January 2nd, but acquiesced in favor of the suggestion that it be left up to the administration.

Egyptian Student To Speak Tonight

Selah el Abd, Egyptian student, will speak on "Mohammedanism" tonight, following the regular Friday night supper at 6:15 o'clock at the Baptist church.

The first of the fall quarter series of lectures and forum discussions of timely religious topics sponsored by the Baptist Student Union was held last week when Dr. P. H. Epps spoke on the "World religions and their Religious Influence."

Under the direction of Reverend J. C. Herrin, University Baptist student chaplain, the BSU has initiated a varied and timely program of Sunday School study courses which will be taught at the Sunday morning church school hour, 9:45 o'clock.

Based upon a canvass of opinion among students as to what subjects seemed to be of most interest and benefit, the following four classes have been organized: "Christian Theology," taught by Dr. Helmut Kuhn, University professor of philosophy; "A guide to Bible Study," taught by Reverend J. C. Herrin, Baptist Student chaplain; "The International Sunday School Lesson," taught by Dr. G. C. Kyker, professor in the School of Medicine; and "Christian Marriage," taught by Mrs. E. R. Groves, member of the sociology faculty.

Telephone Service Cut From Spain-Portugal

New York, Oct. 10—(UP)—Telephone communications between Spain and Portugal have been suddenly and mysteriously cut off. A few hours ago, telephone operators in Madrid were told by operators in Lisbon that only official calls were being accepted. But a short while later, even official calls couldn't be placed. No explanation was given.

In London, an official of the Portuguese Embassy says he doesn't know of anything wrong in Portugal, which might cause suspension of telephone service.
