Judge Extends Court Order Against Lewis

Goldsborough Says UMW Chief Guilty

Washington, Nov. 27—(UP)—Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough has granted a 10-day extension of the temporary injunction against the soft coal strike. The judge said he believes John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers Union are guilty of contempt for disregarding the directive, whether the order itself is legal or not.

The chief attorney for the union at first refused to accept the papers giving notice of the extension. But he backed down after the judge threatened to post U. S. Marshals at every courthouse door to serve the summons on Lewis personally as he left the court.

Damages Cameras

The union setbacks in the first day of the Lewis trial left the mine workers chief in such a mood that he damaged the cameras of two photographers with his cane as he left for noon recess.

The Lewis trial was interrupted briefly when government attorneys accused a spectator of talking with a prospective juror. But the incident was closed when the man said the conversation was only about the weather.

Haydon to Give Talk on Music

Humanities Lecture Slated for Tuesday

Dr. Glen Haydon, head of the department of music in the University since 1934, has accepted an invitation to deliver the first of the 1946-47 series of lectures in the Humanities in Gerrard hall here at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening.

His subject will be "Dissonance in Music, Its Nature and Function," and he will discuss the problem presented by the presence of dissonance in both its systematic and historical aspects.

Every listener to music, especially present-day music, realizes that the dissonance brings in acoustical, psychological, and aesthetic factors, Haydon points out. He will discuss these factors along with a recounting of the use of dissonance in music through history and a review of the present day tendencies in its use.

450 Veterans Have Enrolled For New Term

Of the 500 new students registered to enter the University for the winter term, 200 will be returnees, 275 freshmen or transfers and 25 coeds.

Roy Armstrong, director of admissions, yesterday estimated that approximately 450 of the new students would be veterans. Since only about 250 persons are expected to leave at the end of this term an increase of 250 persons in the total enrollment is expected.

Housing for the new students will not be the acute problem it was during the fall term. Armstrong said that he expected dormitory vacancies and the newly constructed quonset huts would be enough to provide living quarters for all students.

Dewey Dorsett, student body president and chairman of orientation activities, is now planning a complete program for all new men. A similar program for new women is being sponsored by Women's Government under the leadership of Fran Golden.

Andre Mein Saltoun, of Baghdad, Iraq, who came from his native country to attend the University is one of the new students. He has been a student at Elon while awaiting admission here.
