SPORTINGLY SPEAKING, ye olde Carolina campus is just now closing out what is probably the quietest weekend since September 21. For the first Saturday since the opening of the fall term, there was no Tar Heel athletic group in competition yesterday, and all minds, or at least the majority of them, were turned toward two things—studying and dancing.

Those who were not attending the dances and concert—with the remarkable music of Tex Beneke and his Glenn Miller Band—were catching up before the last roundup—meaning final exams. However, the White Phantoms and their little brother Jayvees and Freshmen, were looking forward to a full house for next week.

Tomorrow night the Jayvees and Phants have games here in Woollen gym, Tuesday night the Frosh play here, and Wednesday night the Varsity and Jayvees play again here. Not until then can the Tar Heel hardwood artists relax and take a slight breather before traveling to Chicago December 19 and 21 for games with Northwestern and DePaul.

Victory No. 2 was hung up by Scott's Phantoms Friday night by as close a score as could be found in even the most thrilling fiction article. And it was the alertness of freshman Norm Kohler with only seconds remaining that provided the triumph. He stole the ball, dribbled down the field and neatly dropped in a crisp shot to win the game with four seconds remaining. Johnny Dillon found the range a little better Friday, bucketing 12 markers, and Jim White played another outstanding game in leading the Tar Heels in the scoring column. White is showing much improvement over last year and fills in the gaps left by Jim Jordan and Bones McKinney valuably.

Even though Carolina will begin drills shortly for the January 1 game with Georgia in the Sugar Bowl classic, football is a rather remote subject. The coaches are all out of town, doing various chores which have fallen upon their shoulders with the close of the regular season. Only the Tar Heel gridgers trying to develop into centers for the Sugar Bowl continue to work out at present, but they seem to be getting along successfully. It looks like it will be Dan Stiegman to start, that is if his ankle gets all right, but the substitutes are still uncertain. Coaches from not only Carolina but nearly every other college were on hand in Charlotte yesterday afternoon as the North and South Carolina All-Stars met in their annual Shrine encounter. The Palmettos won the game by a 19-13 score over the lads from Tar Heelia, but not before a battle. The first half saw both teams go scoreless and get only two first downs apiece. Assistant Athletic Director Chuck Ericson, who left for New Orleans last week to get things ready for the Sugar Bowl game as far as Carolina is concerned, should be back in Chapel Hill tonight or tomorrow. There has been no indication, however, that he has gotten any added tickets for the game. Speaking of the Sugar Bowl game again, it looks as though the band may not be taken on the trip. It is an expensive journey, and from information we have gathered, there would scarcely be three minutes available for the band to perform during halftime.

Carolina's winter sports are rounding out their pre-season drills this next week, and the seasons are scheduled to begin very shortly after the winter term begins. The wrestlers, who have been hard at it (I know) for weeks now, are going to meet VPI in their opening match around January 18. Boxing, swimming and basketball will also be going strong shortly. This intramural boxing program is turning into a quite interesting affair. They make you wear a mask, though, and that keeps down nearly all danger of receiving any injury from the blows. A good moral has been derived from the matches: "He who is in the best shape receives dividends from his efforts."

Tar Heel Basketballers Meet Catawba Tomorrow Night At 8

Jayvees To Play Preliminary Game

Coach Tom Scott's White Phantoms move back into Woollen gym tomorrow evening for their third battle of the young season when they oppose Catawba college in a skirmish slated to start at 8 o'clock.

In a preliminary clash, Carolina's junior varsity plays its first game of the season against the Lucky Strike team of Durham. The tussle will get under way at 6:30 p.m.

Catawba, one of the top teams in the North State conference, is coached by Earl Ruth, a former star basketball player at Carolina. Ruth is in his first year of coaching at the Salisbury institution and is expected to send a strong team against the Phantoms tomorrow night.

Starting for the Tar Heel five in the third game of the season will be Johnny Dillon at center, Bob Paxton and Jim Hamilton at forwards, and Jim White and Norm Kohler at guards. This combine has been decided upon after the first two games, and is the same that started the opening tussle with the exception of Taylor Thorne, who gave way to Kohler in Friday night's game.

In the preliminary encounter, Coach Lew Hayworth is expected to field a starting five consisting of Dan Nymiec and either Cam Rodman or Fred Swartzburg at the forward positions, Junie Bailey at center, and Buster Stevenson and Harvey Weinstein at the guard berths. Ed Wagner, Mark Nathan, Grover Henson and Von Bremer are expected to see action as reserves.

Both the varsity and jayvee outfits play again Wednesday evening, opposing two squads from High Point college.

INTRAMURAL SCORE BOARD

BOXING

Durham, Dec. 7—Carolina's freshman quintet opened its season Friday night with an easy 36-16 win over the Durham high school outfit in a contest played on the latter's court.

Bill Harrington, with eight points, and Gordon Sauls, who tallied seven markers, led the Carolina yearlings to victory. The Durham team took a one-point lead in the opening minutes of the game, but soon relinquished it to the collegians, who capitalized on their superior height to move ahead to a 16-9 halftime score.

The two quintets meet in a return game in Woollen gymnasium Tuesday night.
