Arnall Fires Legal Action At Talmadge

Controversy Grows Between 'Governors'

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 15 — (UP) — Georgia's Governor Ellis Arnall says that the state's attorney general at his request has filed a legal action to prevent rival Governor Herman Talmadge from maintaining an executive office in the state capitol.

Governor Arnall has refused to reveal the exact nature of the legal action. It will have to be filed in Henry county, Georgia, Herman Talmadge's legal residence.

Don't Obey Orders

Governor Arnall's adjutant general, Colonel R. W. Collins, also has issued an order of the day instructing state and national troops not to obey orders from Governor Herman Talmadge.

In turn, Talmadge appointed his own man head of the National Guard, a re-appointment of Marvin Griffin as adjutant general. Both Collins and Griffin clamped on military security with respect to the strength of their organizations. But it is reported that the National Guard—mostly armed with GI weapons—is lined up solidly behind Talmadge and the State Guard—outfitted by state purchases—is behind Arnall.

Standing Ground

Meanwhile, Arnall is standing his ground—staying in office. He says his resignation is effective when the duly elected lieutenant governor, M. E. Thompson, is qualified to succeed him. Thompson is to be formally qualified tomorrow. And there is the possibility that Arnall might immediately surrender his office to him and tell Thompson it's his fight from there on in.

Harris Named to Head Pav Raise Committee

Raleigh, Jan. 15—(UP)—House Speaker Tom Pearsall has named an evenly divided house committee of five to confer with the state senate delegates on the disputed emergency pay bill. Representative R. L. Harris of Person county, who did not vote on the house amendment which the senate rejected, will head the house conferees. The others are Representatives Arch Allen of Wake county and Taylor of Wayne, who opposed the amendment in the house, and Representatives Barker of Durham and Wallace of Lenoir, who supported it. Barker was the author of the controversial amendment.

Truman 'Much Alarmed' Over 'Burned Crosses'

Washington Jan. 15—(UP)—President Truman welcomed his committee on civil rights at its first White House meeting with a warning against a revival of "burned crosses" in some parts of the country. He said he is "much alarmed" by recent threats to civil liberties.

Oil Project in Canada Will Be Put on Sale

Washington, Jan. 15—(UP)—Outgoing Secretary of State Byrnes reveals that most of the Canol oil project in Canada is for sale because, it has "no known" postwar economic use. He says an agreement approving the sale was signed with Canada last Friday.

Russia Will Not Enter In Election Protests

Moscow, Jan. 15—(UP)—Russia has refused to join the United States in protesting to Poland against the conduct of the forthcoming Polish elections. Radio Moscow says the Soviet government cannot agree to American charges that the Warsaw government is repressing the opposition peasant party.

WEATHER TODAY

Cloudy and warm with occasional light rain.

March of Dimes Canvass Opens Today Under Sponsorship of Daily Tar Heel

Run-Off Date To Be Selected By Legislators

Heading the agenda for tonight's Student Legislature meeting to be held at 7:30 in Gerrard hall, is the problem of setting a date for the run-off election between Bobby Broughton (UP) and Ed York (SP) for the post of representative-at-large to the Honor Council.

Neither Broughton nor York obtained a majority in last quarter's election, but the polling eliminated Al Lowenstein, an independent. It will be the job of the legislature to establish an early date for the run-off.

Warren to Address

Speaker Warren will open the session with a "State of the Campus" address in which he will report to the student solons concerning University affairs in general.

Following the speech, the oath of office will be administered to all members, and notebooks containing the by-laws issued to the newly-elected legislators. In this connection, Warren has sent a letter to all members explaining to them the primary purposes and procedures of the Student Legislature.

Scheduled to come up for settlement is the question of whether or not women lawmakers who failed to turn in financial statements of their campaign expenditures should be seated. Said Speaker Warren of this matter, "This is just a technicality and they should be seated."

Baby Sitting Aid Will Begin Today

A service of baby sitters for the families of University veterans, to begin today, is announced by the social service committee of the YWCA. The baby sitters may be contacted by going to the YWCA office on the second floor of the Y building where their names and telephone numbers are listed under the nights they are available.

The services of the baby sitters are without charge although taxi fare must be paid if the distance of the veteran's home from campus necessitates it.

Ann Cutts Glad to Return After 'Ribbing' in Georgia

By Tomie Cates

Ann Cutts, 20-year-old senior from Cordele, Ga., says it is good to be back at Carolina after enduring the "ribbing" from all those University of Georgia students during the holidays. "I still wish I hadn't taken pity on them and refused those bets they offered giving me Carolina and 50 points," she said as she told how tired she got of hearing them say Carolina would be getting for Mercy instead of Justice.

Ann, president of the Pi Beta Phi sorority, formerly from Raleigh, is a transfer from St. Mary's Junior college where she was president of the day students and president of the EAP Literary society. She was particularly outstanding for writing of short stories which appeared in the Bulletin, a student publication.

Pledge Class President

Entering Carolina in 1945, she became president of the Pi Beta Phi pledge class, was on the Women's Honor council and Student Orientation committee. Her junior year was climaxed when she was taken into the Valkyries, honorary women's organization, of which she is now vice-president.

Known by her sorority sisters as Foo-Foo, named after the president of the Mu Cow Mu sorority, created by Tookie Hodgson, the 5'5½" coed

Student Committee Urges Every Student To Give One Dollar Toward Annual Drive

By Sam Whitehall

The 1947 infantile paralysis campaign begins on the Carolina campus today as student solicitors start the Daily Tar Heel-sponsored "March of Dollars"—campus counterpart of the nationwide March of Dimes campaign.

Seeking a contribution of one dollar from every student enrolled at the University, the student committee has set a quota of $5,000 to be reached by January 25. Spokesmen for the group have urged that each student give a dollar to the annual campaign.

Begin Canvassing

To collect the money, half of which will go to the national foundation, and half of which will remain in this county to go towards the purchase of an iron lung, student solicitors will start work in all dormitories, fraternities, and sororities today. Coeds will be on duty in the Y from 9-4 today and tomorrow and the first part of next week.

Solicitors will also canvass the trailer camp and Verville areas for contributions. Donations from campus organizations will be welcomed and a list of such donations will be printed.

Biggest Campaign Ever

Plans to make this year's campaign, coming on the heels of the second worst epidemic of polio in the nation's history last fall, the biggest ever, have been completed and more announcements will be forthcoming next week, the campus committee announced yesterday.

"It's up to the members of the student body now," said Bill Woestendiek, DTH editor and student chairman of the drive. "We are confident the Carolina students will contribute generously to give those less fortunate a chance to walk and enjoy life once again."

"Still incomplete figures indicate the 1946 polio toll will exceed 20,000 victims, the vast majority of whom will have to depend on your contributions as the only means of restoration to health and future usefulness in their community. The money is vitally needed."

Dorothy Maynor Acclaimed As 'Great Voice' in 1940

By Helen Highwater

Dorothy Maynor, noted American Negro soprano, who will appear in concert here Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock in Memorial hall, was first acclaimed as a great new singing voice by the nation in 1940. Discovered by Serge Koussevitzky in 1939, she soon proved herself to be worth many times more than the 20 dollars a week she was earning singing in church a mere half-year before her "discovery." In 1944, with her reputation well-established, she again sang in church—Washington, D. C.'s National Cathedral invited her to sing there on the fiftieth anniversary of the YWCA.

PM Praises

New York newspaper PM says of Soprano Maynor, "It is not merely the sure, stainless voice produced without any apparent effort, it is also one of the most likeable personalities on the recital platform."

The Florida club will be organized tonight in Section 1 of Roland Parker lounge in Graham Memorial. All University students from Florida are eligible for membership and are asked to be present for the election of officers and the planning of future club activities.

Dim Prospects Seen For Flight Program

Plans For Flight Training Courses Take Back Seat to Expansion Program

By Ed Joyner

The University flight training program originally planned to start operation at the outset of the fall quarter and later postponed until the winter session, has been relegated to the comparative limbo of "improvements contemplated," an inquiry at the University business office revealed yesterday.

More pressing necessities of acquiring additional classrooms and more living space for students have pushed the flight program into the background of administrative attention for the time being, J. A. Williams, assistant business manager said in reply to questions concerning the project.

Slight Possibility

"There is still a slight possibility of getting things lined up so as to complete one class by June 10," Williams said. "In order to do this the program would have to start March 21, and it is very indefinite whether this can be arranged," he added.

Williams pointed out that putting the program into operation would entail the purchase of from four to six airplanes by the University. Qualified instructors for both ground school and actual flying training would also have to be found.

As originally planned the flight instruction program was to include courses in primary, multi-engine, commercial, instructing and instrument flying. Training would be given at University-owned Horace Williams airport and five to ten quarter hours credit would be allowed for the different courses.

GI Bill Ok'd

If the flight program is instituted here, student veterans will be qualified to include the courses in their curriculum under the G. I. bill. However, since the $500 yearly academic allowance provided by the government would not cover the complete costs of the courses, the veterans' educational eligibility period would be shortened in proportion to the additional expense beyond $500.

Morrison Calls Meeting Of Publications Board

The Publications Board will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial. Students wishing to bring matters before the board at this time should submit their resolutions in writing to Robert Morrison, board president, in care of Graham Memorial.

Broadfoot Resigns Head Of Chapel Hill AVC Group

Founder Appoints Junius Scales Chairman; Chapter to Elect New Leader Next Tuesday

Winston Broadfoot, chairman of the Chapel Hill AVC chapter since its founding here, announced Tuesday evening his resignation as chairman.

Junius Scales of Chapel Hill, appointed by Broadfoot to serve as temporary chairman, read a statement in which Broadfoot expressed his regret in having to take such action and in which he explained that the pressure of his law studies made it imperative that he take a less active part in AVC activities.

Will Remain Active

He emphasized his intention of remaining active and indicated that he would at every opportunity use his voice to aid the chapter. Scales explained that an election of a new chairman would take place at the next regular meeting on Tuesday evening, January 28.

Coed Senate Asks Editor For Handbook

Women's Visiting Is Also Discussed

The Coed Senate announced in its tenth session Tuesday night that letters of application for the editorship of the Woman's Handbook will be received until January 29.

Any coed interested in editing the pamphlet, which is published and distributed annually to prospective coeds in order to familiarize them with Carolina, is requested to include in her letter of application her experience in publications, her reasons in applying for the job and any ideas which she may have on methods of improving the present form of the booklet.

The letters, which may be addressed to Bettie Washburn, 204 Carr Dormitory, will be read to the Senate on January 29. The new editor will then be elected by the entire membership of the Senate.

No Coeds in Trailers

The Coed Senate was notified by Nonnie Morris, president of the Women's Interdormitory council, that all coeds should be advised that the trailers of single men are considered living quarters and hence fall under the social rule which prevents coeds from entering men's dormitories. Any coed who enters a trailer will be subject to a hearing by the Women's Honor council.

The Senate also was informed by Whit Osgood, president of the Interfraternity Council, that much unnecessary confusion has been brought about by various cases of graduate students remaining in fraternity houses after coed dormitory closing hours.

Rankin Named to Board

Peggy Rankin was elected Senate representative to the newly-organized Graham Memorial Board of Directors. Miss Rankin will serve with representation. See COED SENATE, page 4.

chairman, took the floor to report on his work in connection with the activities of the 80th Congress in Washington. At Fullerton's suggestion the chapter voted unanimously to send a letter of congratulations to Senator William B. Umstead of Durham on his appointment to office by Governor Cherry.

Bob Jones reported on current conditions at the University book exchange with regard to veterans' supplies.

Not Required

He pointed out that according to a veterans administration ruling the University is in no way required to establish book outlets other than its own.

Under new business the chapter voted to plan an extensive publicity campaign in line with AVC's national planning committee drive to increase GI subsistence benefits to $90 for single men and $125 plus $10 per child for married men.
