

Di Debaters Vote Down Bill Urging Compulsory Balloting

Meeting for its first discussion session this term, the Dialectic senate Wednesday evening in the midst of heated debate turned down a bill recommending "compulsory student balloting in all campus elections," and with an over-whelming majority adopted a substitute resolution as presented by president Don Shropshire containing 10 points to be recommended to the president of the student body with the hope that "they will do much to create more interest among students in student government and in other extra-curricular activities."

The aims which made up the resolution are as follows:

- (1) Handbook each year for all students with great emphasis on campus activities.
- (2) More emphasis on same by Freshman Orientation committee.
- (3) More funds for Daily Tar Heel—newly created space to be used for more fully covering campus organizations.
- (4) Better publicity for Student Legislature.
- (5) More frequent reports by student body president via the Student Legislature on conditions of campus.
- (6) More of those organizations which have access to student funds to cease to meet behind "closed" doors.
- (7) Introduction to campus of all candidates for major offices by Board of Elections before every election.
- (8) Establishment of more polling places for scattered areas.
- (9) House counselors to impress upon students within their jurisdiction the importance of their interest in all elections.
- (10) Student Legislature to use constitutional power to establish class organizations and aid them in keeping alive.

Prior to the main discussion the Senate accepted the membership application of Lincoln Kan after Membership Chairman Charles O. Long presented it to the Senate with the unanimous approval of the committee. In accordance with its policy of reinstating those veterans who were members in good standing before leaving the University the body also readmitted Robert Berer. The president announced that Kan would be formally initiated at next week's session.

Officers Are Searching For Armed Robbers Of Bank of Newland

Newland, Jan. 30—(UP)—Officers are searching the mountains along the Tennessee border for four armed men who held up the Avery County bank in Newland, North Carolina today and fled with $25,000. Before they left, the bandits locked five customers and the bank president's daughter in the vault.

One of the bandits covered the customers with two pistols. Another guarded the door, and a third crammed the money in a bag. Then they herded pretty 24-year-old Martha Guy—daughter of the bank president—and the customers into the vault. Outside, they left bookkeeper Georgia Stout tied loosely so she could wiggle free and open the vault after the bandits left.

The fourth robber was waiting outside in a grey 1946 Ford sedan. He drove all the holdup men away toward Tennessee.

Uncle Sam Says

One of my nephews, Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury Edward H. Foley, made a few remarks the other day which are worth the attention and action of all my other nieces and nephews. In talking about buying Savings Bonds through the payroll savings plan, he said: "Workers are doing themselves a favor when they increase their take-home savings. The man who has saved up a reserve has a sense of security which the man who lives from hand to mouth can never know. He gets more out of life. He can take today as it comes, rather than spend it worrying about tomorrow." The same reasoning applies not only to Americans on somebody's payroll but to the millions of men and women who earn their living as doctors, lawyers and independent business men who can arrange for regular purchases of Savings Bonds at their banks. Just Ask Your Roommate...

Bold Theft of Typewriter Surprises UNC Secretary

By Sam Whitehall

Of all types of thieves, the bold, brazenly audacious type is the thief most feared, least encountered and most disconcerting. He may snatch up your false teeth when you least suspect him or he may remove a typewriter when your back is turned. The typewriter episode is not fiction, it is unadulterated fact.

Monday at one o'clock Mrs. Delanie Webb, secretary at the University Testing service in Peabody hall, returned to her office from lunch, stepped around the corner to ask her boss a question, and puff! she had no typewriter at her desk. In fact the daring one had been so quick he had neglected to remove the office form which Mrs. Webb had been typing out.

Wouldn't Think of It!

Immediately a score or more of people were asked the question, "If you saw a person walking across the campus carrying a typewriter, would your first thought be 'Catch that man, he has stolen a typewriter?'" Each one said, "No, I would not even think of someone stealing the typewriter."

Yet the fact remains that Royal typewriter No. KMM 12-3189647, which was little over a month old, and which had just been broken in by the typist, is no longer at the desk where it belongs.

Now the question asked is, "Did your roommate happen to carry in a brand new Royal upright with Pica type?" If the answer is "Yes," let Mrs. Webb in 105 Peabody know.

even exist and don't amount to a hill of beans when they do exist.) Russia and the U. S. and Britain should keep right on battling behind the scenes to see who will control Spain five years from now.

3. All countries should stop trading with Franco, starving Spain economically. We should bolster the existing Spanish Republican government-in-exile. Meanwhile, the UN should appeal by radio, by leaflets, by carrier pigeon—appeal to the Spanish people to oust Franco's government.

This last solution, although the most forceful, is rather unrealistic. If Russia and the western powers cannot agree now on many of the simplest problems, how can we expect to decide the future government of Spain? Another bloody revolution in Spain could precede and precipitate a third world war.

Understanding and trust is the answer. The two leading world forces, communist Russia and our own nation must find the magic formula to disagree without being disagreeable. With the threat of war eliminated, we can solve our differences easily. This may seem to leave the Spanish situation hanging in mid-air, but it is the most practical solution to the Franco question and to most of the world's present political problems.

mediately, followed by several more from the rear of the auditorium. Chairman Montague informed the assembled group that the election could be contested only by appealing to either student body president Dewey Dorsett or to the student legislature.

Well Known Detective To Talk Here Tomorrow

The two-week School in Investigation Technique, being conducted here by the Institute of Government with the cooperation of the FBI, for members of the State Bureau of Investigation, police, and city and county sheriffs, will come to a close with "graduation" exercises here Saturday morning, February 1, at 11 o'clock.

Principal speakers will be Chief of Police Frank N. Littlejohn of Charlotte, who is often called "the best known detective in North Carolina." Instructors at the School, which opened January 19, are Special Agent Fred MacEntyre of the FBI and Terry Sanford, assistant director of the Institute of Government.

Attending are 35 officers from towns and cities in many sections of the State, including Raleigh, Durham, Charlotte, Fayetteville, Winston-Salem, High Point, Rocky Mount, Wilmington, Elizabeth City, Wilson, Greenville, Burlington, Reidsville, Kinston, and others.
