Hannegan Says Party Wishes Truman to Run

Truman Consulted Prior to Statement

Washington, Feb. 6—(UP)—The national spokesman for the Democrats has announced formally that they want President Truman to run again in 1948. The announcement by National Democratic Chairman Bob Hannegan came dramatically and without advance warning at the end of a formal speech in New York hailing advancements in the postal service.

The Postmaster General conferred with Mr. Truman before going to the postal employees' dinner. But the White House says the president was not consulted in a way on the surprise political announcement.

However, Democratic leaders greeted Hannegan's announcement with a great deal of enthusiasm. House Minority Leader Rayburn comments that he has already said 100 times that President Truman will be the Democratic nominee for 1948.

Most Republican leaders have nothing to say on the boom for Mr. Truman. But Chairman Clarence Brown of the Republican National Executive committee quipped: — "Fortunately, the final decision will rest with the people in November, 1948."

Fee Structure Amendment Defeated By Legislature in Close Balloting

Dorsett Fights For Fee Structure Bill

By Bookie Jabine
Split down the middle like an axe-hewn log, the Student Legislature last night argued loud and long over a constitutional amendment to change the fee structure, finally spurning it by a vote of 20-18.

Meeting in the Di hall before an unusually large turnout, the assembly witnessed a drawn-out argument between Dewey Dorsett, who last week had recommended that student fees be reduced from $20 to $12, and Jimmy Wallace, who defended the original sum.

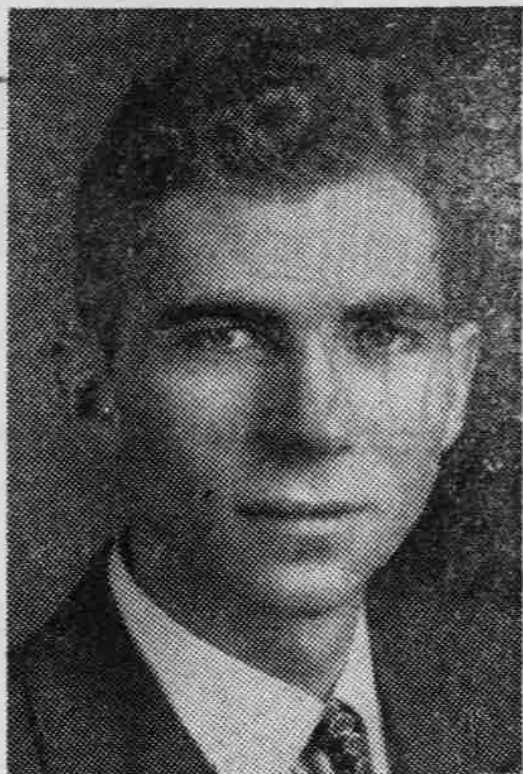

Dorsett Explains

At the request of numerous legislators, Dorsett explained how the figure of $12 was reached. Said the student body president, "It is a logical figure, that will satisfy both the students and the administration."

Under the proposed amendment, the Graham Memorial fee would be a separate levy. This was the chief bone of contention in the debate.

Dorsett defended the new fee structure, saying that it was not a "helter-skelter figure picked out of the sky, but one that will be ample to meet the students needs."

Referring to the constitutional figure of $20, the chief executive explained, "It's not that easy, we've got to work with the administration."

DEWEY DORSETT

Wallace Speaks

Then Jimmy Wallace jumped to his feet, requesting that Dorsett answer "a few questions."

Wallace asked, "Do the publications (who get part of the assigned fees) object to the twenty dollar sum?"

Bill Woestendiek, Editor of the Daily Tar Heel, said, "The existing publications group does not object."

Wallace questioned the reason for Graham Memorial's being included in a separate fund under the amendment. Dorsett answered, "Graham Memorial must have a guarantee of a separate income."

With legislators popping up like jumping beans, Bob Stockton was recognized by the chair and called for the assembly "to consider the practical side of the fee structure."

"If the administration is opposed to a $20 fee," Stockton reiterated, "Why not be practical and amend it?"

Temper Rise

With tempers and anticipation reaching a fever pitch, Tom Eller rose and defended Wallace's stand on the present fee. Said Eller, "The $20 fee is the maximum, it can be cut. What the administration will do is confusing."

The legislature passed a resolution that the following note be sent to the family of the late O. Max Gardner:

"On behalf of the student body of the University of North Carolina it is with deepest regret that we extend our most heartfelt sympathy to the untimely passing of our great alumnus, friend, and statesman, Governor Gardner.

"We are not without full realization of the service which he has rendered for our University, for the State of North Carolina, and for the country in which we live.

"His name will long live in honor and esteem among his fellow countrymen, and will always be associated with those things which we cherish in our American way of life.

"J. Dewey Dorsett,
"Charles E. Warren,
"Johnny Jones."

New Umstead Bill Would Consolidate Two Police Forces

Raleigh, Feb. 6—A bill virtually consolidating the Chapel Hill and Carrboro police departments and extending their jurisdictional throughout Chapel Hill township was introduced before the State Legislature today.

Submitted by Rep. John Umstead of Orange county, the measure would grant Chapel Hill and Carrboro officers full authority in both towns.

Umstead's bill also specifies "the same jurisdiction and power... in Chapel Hill township" as the officers now exercise within the corporate limits. In addition the measure confers the full authority of the county sheriff on the two departments within the township.

A second bill introduced yesterday by Umstead would transfer all jury trials from Chapel Hill recorder's court to Orange county superior court in Hillsboro. Under the provisions of the bill defendants requesting jury trials would be given hearings in the Chapel Hill courts to determine if "probable cause" for prosecution exists. If probable cause is found, defendants would be bound over to the superior court as in felony cases.

Both bills are to become effective on passage by the General Assembly.

Famed Alumnus Suffers Attack Few Hours Before Sailing to Take Diplomatic Post

O. Max Gardner, United States ambassador to Great Britain and famed alumnus of the University, died at the age of 64 yesterday, a few hours before he was scheduled to sail for London.

Gardner, who has held the posts of governor of North Carolina and U. S. Undersecretary of the Treasury, visited the University last November to see the Carolina-Duke game. He had played for Carolina himself, back in 1906 as the captain of the Tar Heel eleven.

Born in Shelby

The noted Shelby-born statesman died of coronary thrombosis on the eve of what President Truman spoke of as "a career of distinction and further usefulness in the field of diplomacy."

As flags were flown in Raleigh at half mast yesterday, a blanket of gloom was cast over the General Assembly, and all branches of the state and national government acutely felt the loss of one of America's greatest statesmen.

Announcement by Ross

Gardner's death was first announced by presidential secretary Charles G. Ross, who stated that the President was "deeply grieved and shocked."

"I have lost a loyal and devoted personal friend, and the country has lost a great American," Truman said in a statement.

Increased Funds for Two Years Requested of General Assembly

By United Press
University President Frank Graham appeared before the Appropriations Committee of the General Assembly this afternoon to ask for more money for the next two-year fiscal period.

The Budget Appropriation bill does not give the University all it wants and what Graham says it can use. The University President re-asserted the request made last fall. But—as he said—he "left it to the wisdom of the Appropriations Committee to do the best it can in relation to all the other state agencies."

Return on Investment

Graham did say the State could get a return on its investment by pouring more money into the Greater University. He pointed out that during the war the Advisory Budget Commission spent 200-thousand dollars at State college to house a Naval Diesel Training School. In return, he said, the State received—free of charge—more than two and a half million dollars worth of diesel equipment and "the finest diesel engineering school in the world."

Chancellor Robert House at Chapel Hill said the University now hopes to continue two special research projects turned down by the Advisory Budget Commission. One would provide nuclear research and the other would establish a Marine Fisheries Research Laboratory at Morehead City. House said private funds and profits were expected to help to get this work underway.

Elliott of Harvard university and Dr. Wing Tsit Chan of Dartmouth college. The total cost for the institute will be $250 but scholarships can be arranged for students in insufficient funds.

The YWCA Junior Council will meet this evening at 7:00 o'clock in the Trail Room at Graham Memorial. The outgoing committee chairman, who has served since last April, will be present to tell the incoming officers about the program they have planned this year and to make suggestions for additional points of emphasis for next year's program.

Dr. Frank Graham, president of the Greater University of North Carolina, yesterday asked the appropriations committee of the General Assembly for more money for the University to cover the next two-year fiscal period.

WSSF Drive Thermometers To Be Set-Up

The World Student Service fund drive for Duke university is scheduled to begin next Monday the same day the UNC drive opens.

The campaign is to continue for the full week and twin thermometers are to be set up somewhere on Duke campus to record the contributions of the two schools. Carolina, also, will have twin record thermometers, to be placed just outside the YMCA.

Committee Members

Members of the campaign committee for the Carolina campus, include Gay Morenus and Walt Stuart, co-chairmen; Charlie Britt and Ben Perlmuter, men's dormitories, Fran Golden, women students; Julia Ross, publicity; Jack Johnson, treasurer; Bill Woestendiek; Dean Fred Weaver and Dr. Helmut Kuhn, faculty; Dave Andrews and Anne Rogers, YMCA booth; Jesse Wilson, Mrs. Betty Rose Dowden and Bill Potat.

Local Buying Club Will Meet Monday To Hold Election

The Chapel Hill Buying club's second winter quarter meeting set next Monday evening at 7:45 in 103 Bingham hall. Co-op officials announced yesterday that in addition to accepting grocery orders at that time there will also be an election of a new board of directors.

Chairman Tom McDade emphasized that the election would take only a few minutes time as printed ballots have been prepared.

"With our new grocery order blanks we can promise that even with the election the meeting will not take nearly as long as previous ones," said McDade.

Co-op officials announced previously that the organization is prepared at Monday's meeting to accept orders for canned goods in any multiple of three rather than in case lots as was the case at the January meeting.
