NEWS BRIEFS

U. S. Attacks Russian View On Atom Bomb American Delegate Asks Quick Answer

Lake Success, N. Y., March 10.—(UP)—The United States has attacked Russia's atomic control proposals as "a constant incentive to distrust and war." American delegate Warren Austin demanded that the Russians indicate soon whether or not they really want world control of nuclear energy.

Note of Optimism

Austin managed to keep a note of optimism in his words to the Security Council. But he also spoke grimly of the need for action, of the dangers of an atomic armament race, and of the horrors of atomic war.

He said that the Russian plan, which would outlaw the bomb and provide for only limited international inspection, would lead directly into such an atomic armament race. He described the Soviet proposal as "a control which would be neither international nor effective—a control which would permit or encourage national rivalries."

Russia Asks Big Four For Parley on China

Moscow, March 10.—(UP)—Russia has made a surprise request that the Big Four foreign ministers discuss the Chinese political situation at their current Moscow conference. The Soviet proposal was made by Foreign Minister Molotov at the first meeting of the delegates. Secretary of State Marshall reserved decision.

Truman to Give Talk On Communism Spread

Washington, March 10.—(UP)—President Truman will go before a joint session of congress at 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon to outline the program he considers imperative to prevent the spread of communism to Greece and the Near East. Mr. Truman's speech will be broadcast by all major networks.

Senate Atomic Group Approves Lilienthal

Washington, March 10.—(UP)—The Senate Atomic Energy committee has voted eight to one to approve the nomination of David Lilienthal as head of the Federal Atomic commission. The lone dissenting vote was cast by Republican Senator John Bricker of Ohio who says he believes Lilienthal is "sympathetic to communists."

Supreme Court Given Government Request

Washington, March 10.—(UP)—The supreme court has taken under advisement a government request for an immediate mandate directing John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers to withdraw within five days their threat of a soft coal strike. The UMW has opposed the government request, indicating that the union intends to ask the court for a rehearing of the case.

Americans Ordered Held in Palestine

Jerusalem, March 10.—(UP)—A Palestine court has ordered some 20 Americans held in jail for trial on charges of aiding illegal Jewish immigration. The American crew members of the blockade runner Ben Hecht will be tried March 25.

Judiciary Committee Agrees on Pay Bill

Washington, March 10.—(UP)—The Senate Judiciary committee has approved, 8 to 4, bills that would outlaw virtually all portal pay suits. The committee chairman, Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, says the measure is in line with a bill already passed by the house so far as back pay claims are concerned.

WEATHER TODAY
Cloudy and warmer with little temperature change.

Phi Alpha Delta, Law Group Reactivates Local Chapter

Ruffin, the local chapter of Phi Alpha Delta, national legal fraternity, was reactivated last Friday after several years of war inactivity.

The chapter, first established at the University in 1921, has elected the following officers: Bill Chamberlain, justice; Tom Wadden, vice-justice; Pete Burkholder, clerk; Mike Carr, treasurer; and Bill Lyon, marshal.

The group was reactivated and officers were installed by John Dahme of Washington, D. C., national executive secretary. Dahme addressed the group at a banquet given in the Carolina Inn after the ceremonies Friday.

Other members of this organization, one of the oldest and most prominent legal fraternities in the country, include Jim Allran, Jim Chesnut, Jim Currie, Elton Edwards, Bob Farris, R. M. Holland, Tom Keys, Fletcher Mann, John McAllister, Leroy Shuping, Julius Smith and Dan Walker.

Congeniality and promise of success in the legal profession are the principle qualifications on which members are chosen.

By Chuck Hauser

Polls open in Gerrard hall this afternoon for the second set of elections of freshman and sophomore class officers in as many months. Open polling will be conducted from 2 until 5 o'clock for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and

Student Party Elects Heads

The Student party, re-forming after the break of certain of its members into the newly-organized Campus party, met in Graham Memorial's Roland Parker lounge yesterday afternoon to elect party officials.

The following slate was passed up on at the meeting: Bill Wood, chairman; Herman Baker, vice-chairman; Dick Walker, business manager; Pete Gerns, Bill Mackie, Marvin Hogan, Bob Collins, steering committee; and Charles Robinson, publicity director.

Further campus nominations were postponed until after spring vacation. The next meeting of the party is to be scheduled for soon after the holidays.

UVA Clubhouse Closes for Holidays

The UVA clubhouse is now closed until after the spring vacations, announced Roy Moose, president. The clubhouse will reopen on Monday, March 24 and remain open every evening except Sunday.

Magazine Issues Call For Business Members

A meeting will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Carolina Magazine office for all students interested in working on the business and advertising staffs during the spring quarter.

Red Cross Solicitors Should Turn in Funds

Johnny Clappitt, men's chairman of the Red Cross drive on campus, requests that all solicitors who have not turned in their collections please turn them in to 106 Alumni. Nonnie Morris, women's chairman, said that all funds collected should be turned in as soon as possible.

AQUINAS CLUB

In the last regular meeting of the Aquinas club for the quarter, the following officers for the coming year were elected: Vincent B. Williams, president; Lucy Evans, vice-president; Mary Jo Parrish, secretary; Paul Baschon, treasurer.

The next meeting of the Club will be on the first Tuesday of the spring quarter.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT POSTPONED

The Men's Glee club concert, originally scheduled for today, has been postponed until April 1. Tickets dated March 11 will be accepted for admission April 1.

Experimentals Will Be Given By Playmakers

Original Dramas Slated for Tonight

Three original one-act plays will be presented in the 115th Bill of Experimental productions at the Playmakers theatre tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30. Samuel Selden, director of the Carolina Playmakers, will introduce the playwrights to the audience and invite general discussions on each production.

The public is invited to see these plays that are produced by dramatic art students under the general supervision of Foster Fitz-Simons, assistant director on the Playmakers staff.

The first play on the program is a comedy of the Philippine Islands, "Why Don't You Crow, White Rooster," by Wyatt Hilsabeck and directed by Peter Bucknell. The scene is laid beside a nipa hut in the city of Iloilo on a hot tropical morning.

"Althea," a domestic tragedy by Mark Sumner and directed by John Wills, is the second production on the bill. The scene is laid in the Stone Park resort hotel near Asheville in the late afternoon of an August day.

The last play on the program is "Flirtin' Wid De Cemetery," a Negro folk comedy by Elizabeth Savage and directed by Quentin Brown. The scene is laid in the front room of a small frame farmhouse in North Carolina on a March morning.

Library Committee To Meet Here Soon

In response to the joint invitation of Duke university and the University of North Carolina, the "Cooperative Committee on Library Building Plans," composed of the representatives of 16 universities, will meet in Durham and Chapel Hill on March 18 and 19.

Previous meetings have been held during the past two years in New Jersey, Missouri and Virginia.

All members of the committee are concerned with the early construction of new library buildings or with major enlargements of present structures. Representatives exchange ideas and experiences, criticize each other's plans, and discuss new materials and types of construction in the presence of invited architects and engineers.

At this year's meeting special attention will be given to the planning of Ohio State university, Duke university, the University of North Carolina and other educational institutions.

First Comes the Lyric...

Talented Alan Bergman Finds Little Trouble In Turning Out 10 Tunes for Sound and Fury

By Sigsbee Miller

Alan Bergman is a musician from 'way back. At 14 he wrote his first love ballad and a year later turned out his first complete musical show, which was produced in the New York high school he was attending.

That, he explains modestly, is why he had little trouble tossing off a mere 10 tunes—including lyrics for two of them—for Sound and Fury's forthcoming spring production, "Dear Congress."

"After you've done it awhile it's easy—if you know how," says S and F's 21-year-old music director. "When I'm writing a song the lyrics come first. They can hit you anytime. Then you write a tune to fit the words. Unless the tune hits you as soon as you do the lyrics there's going to be trouble. In that case you memorize the lyrics and repeat them to yourself everywhere you go and one day while you're walking across the campus the tune comes. That's all there is to it."

Bergman, a native New Yorker, was playing the piano when he was five years old, but after seven years he decided to switch to the trumpet. His first stab at composition came when he was 14 and the result was a sentimental ballad he called "I Want to Have You Always" (which he still thinks is "pretty good"). The musical review he wrote when he was 15, replete with ten songs, created a mild sensation in his high school. He studied for some time under Jacques

Cost Survey Shows GI Pay Inadequate

AVC-UVA Poll Finds 99 Per Cent Unable to Live on Present Stipend

Judging by results of the AVC-UVA joint cost of living survey, the House of Veterans is on insecure financial footing with many members literally being plagued by the proverbial wolf at the door. Results of the balloting reveal that 99.4 per cent of veterans on campus find it impossible to live on the subsistence provided under Public Law 346, the G I Bill of Rights, thus bearing out the belief of American Veterans committee and University Veterans association leaders that the present monetary allowance is insufficient to meet needs created by the spiraling living costs.

In indicating that the subsistence is not enough, 89.1 per cent of the veterans said that they believed Congress should increase the subsistence allowance clause of the GI bill.

Breakdown Listed

With 852 returns being used—some were not used because answers were not legible, data was incomplete, or were from veterans under Public Law 16 instead of the GI bill—the following breakdown of averages were noted:

Rent costs require an average of $16.25 a month; food budgets take $55.03 a month; incidental expenses total $18.27 monthly; cost of recreation runs at $13.90 each month.

This total shows a monthly expense budget of $103.46, exactly $33.53 more than the average subsistence allowance of $69.93. These averages included all students, with and without dependents, whether living at home or away from home.

Married Students Short $63

Married students with dependents find their budget running $63.47 more each month than does the government check. Of this discrepancy, only $6.19 is spent on recreation.

By comparison, single veterans without dependents living at home spend only $22.50 more each month than provided by the government, yet $17.64 of this goes into recreation. And veterans in the same category except for the fact that they live away from home find their budget lacks $30.35 of being enough, $15.27 of this being traceable to recreation.

Of the 16.9 per cent of veterans augmenting their pocketbook by working more than five hours a week, 85.4 per cent report that it interferes with their studies. Another 67.5 per cent of those not working now indicate that they must find work in order to stay in school.

Besides working, veterans have augmented the GI bill allowances by cashing in war bonds, withdrawing savings, borrowing money and accepting money from relatives or friends.

Half Cash Bonds

A breakdown shows that 50.6 per cent have cashed in war bonds, 84.2 per cent have withdrawn savings, 40.5 per cent have borrowed money, and 68.5 per cent have accepted money from friends or relatives.

The survey was conducted on a volunteer basis over a period of three days by the UVA and the Chapel Hill chapter of the AVC.

Results are to be mimeographed and sent to Capitol Hill legislators, to other schools to aid them in conducting a similar survey. Some copies will be made available in letters to their Congressmen advocating an increase in subsistence.

Three Debate Squad Members Cop First Places in Tourney

Aileen Taylor, Robert Andrew Win Honors; Group to Participate in National Contest

Three members of the University debating team took first places in the South Atlantic Speech and Debate tourney held in Hickory last weekend under the sponsorship of Lenoir Rhyne college.

Aileen Taylor captured first place in the woman's poetry reading division and Robert A. Andrew took first place honors in radio news casting and tied for first place in radio extemporaneous speaking.

"Considering the competition from 15 southern colleges and universities with as many as 30 contestants in some events, Carolina did exceedingly well with only six entrants," said Maurice Braswell, president of the Debate council. The six entrants in the event were Richard Mottisman, Maurice Braswell, Don Shields, Blanton Miller, Robert Andrew, and Aileen Taylor.

National Tourney this Weekend

The next forensic activity will be the National Invitational debate this weekend. The affirmative team will consist of Jim Taylor and Bill Crisp, while E. O. Brogden, and William F. Farnes will uphold the negative.

The debating squad will participate in the Grand National tournament to be held in Fredericksburg, Va., on April 3-5. Public speakers and debaters will take part in the rounds of extemporaneous and impromptu speaking, oratory, declamation, dramatic reading, and poetry for both men and women. Book review speaking on "David and the King," and problem solving will be features of the tournament.

Tryouts for the Debate council and squad will be held in the Dialectic senate hall, third floor New West, on March 25 at 7 o'clock. Expenses will be paid to the tourney by the Debate council.

Don Shropshire of the Di senate and Jim McNider from the Phi assembly will be two new members of the Council for the spring quarter.
