WEATHER TODAY
Mild with considerable cloudiness.

All candidates are requested to be in Memorial hall at 7:15, 15 minutes before the convocation is scheduled to start. Persons running for president and vice-president of the student body and for editor of the Daily Tar Heel will be requested to make talks of four minutes each.

According to the elections bill passed by the Student Legislature, candidates must be introduced to the campus at a mass meeting scheduled at least five days before election time.

Barbara Cashion, newly-elected speaker of the Coed Senate, says the meeting will be the only compulsory gathering for coeds this year. All girls in dormitories, sororities, and town are required to attend.

The roll will be checked by dormitory floor proctors, sororities and town representatives. These checkers will be stationed under signs denoting the dormitory, sorority, or town district. Town girls not attending will be fined unless they submit excuses to Betsy Ann Barbee, town girls' president, at F-2591.

Coeds living in dormitories or sororities may be excused by proctors or house presidents; otherwise, they will either be fined or put on social probation.

Legislature Votes To Redivide Town, Provide Five Polls

By Bookie Jabine
The Student Legislature last night approved a bill to redivide the town district, and the article six of the elections bill which provides for polling places to be set up at five different points on the campus.

According to the amendment, introduced by Jimmy Wallace, ballot boxes will be available at Alderman dormitory, Aycock, Gerrard hall, Lenoir hall, and the Carolina Inn. In an elaborate plan, Wallace also recommended that five different colors of ballots be used for the five different types of voters who will cast their ballots Tuesday.

The town districting bill, put forward by Charlie Long last week, divides the town into two separate voting entities. Town district A includes all men living in fraternity houses, Pittsboro road trailer camp, and Victory Village, while town district B takes in all others residing in town.

Simultaneous with the redividing bill, Al Lowenstein chairman of the reapportioning of the legislative districts, rendered his report and moved that the legislature seats be divided as follows: town women, 2 seats; dormitory women, 5 seats; dormitory men, 18 seats; and town men, 25 seats. The town seats are divided so as to give 17 seats to town district B while the remaining go to district A.

The redividing bill drew considerable debate from the floor. Johnny Clappitt opposed the bill on the grounds that it would create a line between fraternity and non-fraternity students.

Charlie Long, sponsor of the bill, stated that there was no such spirit in the bill, that it was drawn up merely to provide for a more even apportionment in town. Observers were of the opinion, however, that the measure took on a political hue.

Bill Miller, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, introduced a bill to provide for a new registration system next year. Under the provisions, the signing for classes will be handled by the colleges.
