Stealing a March....

Victory Village to Elect Mayor, Representatives

Victory Village will steal a march on the general campus elections when residents of the growing veterans community hold street meetings tonight for the purpose of electing representatives to a proposed village council. It is also planned to accept nominations for a mayor who will be elected in the near future at a general election.

Announcement of today's election followed a meeting Wednesday evening when a small group of interested residents led by Bill Bragaw of Southport convened to discuss possible methods of village organization. The group were encouraged to take such action by P. L. Burch who is at present managing the village.

Tom McDade, a member of the steering committee which is sponsoring tonight's election, said yesterday that there are many problems facing the infant community which can only be met through organization. Among these are the matter of playgrounds for the children and establishment of adequate fire protection. In addition McDade indicated that there have been numerous complaints against reckless driving in the area that constitutes a serious menace to the children.

Still in the process of construction the village now numbers over 200 families. Tonight's election will mark the first attempt that has been made to select officials for the fast-growing village.

Coeds Establish New Point System At Last Session

The Coed Senate in its last session Tuesday evening passed a bill establishing a point system devised to regulate the offices and extra-curricular activities of women students.

The Senate, acting in accord with coed opinion, passed the bill with the provision that the point system will not apply to those coeds elected to office this spring, but will go into effect after coed elections this fall.

The point system, which was worked out after consultation with leading figures in student government, restricts the number of points a woman student may hold to 14. The offices of president of the Woman's Interdormitory councils, the speakership of the Coed Senate, and the editorships, managing editorships, and the position of business manager for any of the major campus publications are each awarded 14 points. Other offices are awarded points in descending value.

The Coed Senate also passed a bill which changes the closing hours of coed dormitories from 1 o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights to midnight during the summer sessions. Dormitories will still close at 11 o'clock during the week. Graduate closing hours will be shortened one hour during the week, graduate students also being required to come in at 11 o'clock rather than their accustomed 12 o'clock. This legislation of the Senate was made at the request of infirmity officials who stressed that the schedule of summer school requires earlier closing hours as a health protection measure.

Kit Coleman, treasurer of the Woman's Athletic association, outlined to the Coed Senate a program of expansion for the WAA. Her request for $400 from the Senate to aid in the expansion program was left to be decided upon by the incoming 1947-48 Senate.

Slow Ticket Sale May Force Seniors To Cancel Banquet

Due to the slow response in the sale of tickets to the annual senior banquet for next Thursday, Senior Class President Dotson Palmer has announced that, unless 200 tickets are sold today, last day of the ticket sale, the banquet will be cancelled.

Tickets will be on sale at the Y from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. today. The banquet will be held Thursday night in the Carolina inn. Dr. Frank Graham and Chancellor Robert House will be present, and James Street, noted author and lecturer, will be guest speaker. Tickets are $2.00 apiece.

The senior banquet is one of the events scheduled on the gala three-day senior week program next Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. "It will give all of our graduating seniors their last chance to get together," said Palmer, "but the Inn must be notified as to how many guests to expect and if we do not sell at least 200 tickets today, we will have no alternative but to cancel the banquet."

Eskey for the Coeds

Humor Mag Candidates Plan To Publish Esquire Takeoff

"Eskey will be on campus," stated humor-mag co-editorship candidates Eddie Allen and Jud Kinberg yesterday.

The two DTH-Carolina Magazine writers, who are running for the newly-created editorship, explained that they have contacted Esquire magazine representatives and that the national publication has already tentatively agreed to aid them in publishing a take-off on Esquire. This special issue would be the first humor magazine of the year if the two men are elected.

Although full details must await a trip to New York City, Allen and Kinberg plan to use plates and cartoons from Esquire to give the burlesque issue the closest possible make-up resemblance to the national publication. "Of course, the writing and most illustrations would be by campus authors and artists, but we feel that the idea and counsel from Esquire men will make certain an outstanding humor issue to start off the magazine and the year," stated the co-editorship candidates. AVC Sponsors Move to Help In Emergency

University Officials Reacting Favorably

By Ben Rouzie

A proposal for temporary credit on meal tickets at Lenoir hall until GI subsistence checks arrive was advanced yesterday by the American Veterans committee and taken under consideration by University officials.

Simultaneously, AVC began negotiating for loans to its student members from the Orange County Credit union, in which the chapter has deposited funds.

The AVC meal-ticket plan, to be a strictly temporary measure, would provide meal tickets to veterans only. Tickets now in use at Lenoir would be issued on identification and charged to students' accounts in the University Accounting office.

Favorable

The plan was reported receiving favorable consideration by University officials last night. Full details will be released when and if the plan is approved.

L. H. Gooch, manager of Lenoir hall, said yesterday that the plan seems feasible and "probably will offer no problems that can't be handled by the available staff." Other officials emphasized that "the University will see to it that no veterans go hungry" during the current emergency.

F. Carlisle Shepard, veterans' adviser, announced that any veteran faced by real hardship should consult him in his office on the second floor of South building.

Student Union Bingo To Be Held Today

The free bingo party at Graham Memorial this evening from 8:30 until 11 in the main lounge will not feature movies, as announced yesterday. The party will be held, however, with valuable and practical prizes being awarded game winners.

Bob Coulter, producer of the two movies mentioned yesterday, announced that he will start work with Martha Rice, GM director, on a "Premiere Night" for two other Carolina-made movies as well as the two originally scheduled for the bingo party. The showing will be held at an early date to be announced soon.
