Bradley Speaks On Deficiency Of GI Benefits

Checks Do Not Cover College Living Costs

Washington, May 5—(UP)—General Omar Bradley, veterans administrator, says payments to veterans under the GI Bill of Rights do not cover living costs. However, Bradley says liberalized benefits should not be too attractive. Bradley told a Senate labor subcommittee considering some 20 proposals to increase benefits for educational training that Congress and not the VA should set the payment policy. Otherwise, the veterans administrator took no position on the proposals.

Violations

Bradley said there have been some violators of the law's intent. He named extended training courses for gas station men and salesmen as "rather questionable."

Chosen for distinctive records in special activities and general all-round excellence, with much emphasis on character and leadership, the 14 new members were inducted into the select order after they were singled out from the audience by black-robed, hooded figures who moved slowly up and down the aisles of the darkened hall.

Following the ceremony the new members were entertained by the old members at a supper at the Carolina Inn where the principal speaker was A. L. M. Wiggins, of Hartsville, S. C., undersecretary of the treasury and former president of the American Bankers association, who was a member of the Fleece when he was a student at the University here.

J. Maryon Saunders, alumni secretary and also a member, introduced Mr. Wiggins.

Laboratory Theater Gives 'The Rivals' this Weekend

Graham Memorial will present the Laboratory Theater production of "The Rivals" in the main lounge of the student union on Saturday and Sunday. This comedy of manners, the fourth and final production by the theater during the regular school year, will be directed by Suzanne Davis, one of the four original members of the steering committee of the laboratory formed this year.

"The Rivals" is a complicated story of a young girl of the Restoration period who becomes influenced by the many romantic novels of the day, believing her life should be as exciting as those of heroines in the books. Her aunt and guardian, however, is a firm believer in the old school, demanding to pick a husband for her charge. This part was played on Broadway four years ago by Mary Boland.

Suzanne Davis, wife of associate director of the Playmakers Harry Davis, announced today that the comedy would be presented in the arena style of production used by the Penthouse Players of Seattle and the Blue Room Theater of Portland. The audience will view the show from four sides of the stage.

Having presented medieval comedy, satire and modern dress farce thus far this year, the Laboratory Theater selected Sheridan's "The Rivals" because of its universal appeal. The three acts provide many scenes of subtle humor and outright comedy.

Members of the cast are Eleanor Ringer as Mrs. Maiaprop, Pat Palmer as Lydia, Henrietta Cooper as Julia, Maude Baynor Foy as Lucy, Fred Johnson as Absolute, James Warren as Acres, Marty Jacobs as Sir Lucius, Murray McCain as Faulkland, Harry Thomas as Fag, William Sessions as David and Frank Echols as Thomas.
