U.N. Signals Green Light To 'Watchdog'

Russians Lose Vote On Balkan Question

Lake Success, N. Y., May 22—(UP)—The United Nations gave the green light to its current Balkan watchdog tonight to use its own discretion in looking into trouble spots.

The Security council beat down a Russian resolution that would have restricted the activities of the sub-commission now stationed in the area.

Controversy Not Closed

Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko immediately announced that the controversy over the subcommission's powers is not closed. He says he will bring up the issue again when the Security council debates the full commission report on Balkan border incidents.

U. S. Delegate Herschel Johnson countered by criticizing delegates who challenge decisions they find "inconvenient."

The cause of the entire argument is the United Nations Balkan commission, which is at work in Geneva drawing up a report of conflicts along the borders of Greece, Yugoslavia, Albania, and Bulgaria.

Impressive and Novel

Valkyrie Sunrise Ceremony Initiates Five New Members

By Charlie Gibson

In an impressive and novel ritual before sunrise this morning, the Valkyries, the major coed honorary society on campus, initiated five new members.

Eerie gongs tolled all the while when black-gowned figures invaded dormitory rooms, surprised five coeds, and instructed them to dress hurriedly. Those so mysteriously awakened included Barbara Cashion, Chapel Hill; Jo Fishel, Vaughan; Bill Lloyd, Chapel Hill; Julia Ross, Burlington; and Marshall Spears, Rocky Mount.

Admission into the Valkyries is the highest recognition given to coeds. With its membership limited to no more than two percent of the coed enrollment, this society taps girls on the basis of their outstanding character, leadership ability, scholarship, service, and soundness of judgment.

An active clan, the Valkyries encourage University advancement through such programs as their annual sing with vocal competition among fraternities, sororities, and dormitories. Current Valkyries officers are Anne Cutts, president; Tommie Holden, secretary; and Nancy Laird, treasurer.

Additional Valkyries are Jeanne Driscoll, Jerry Atkins, Fran Golden, Nonnie Morris, Kit Coleman, Sybil Goerch Powe, Janet Johnston, Mrs. Inez Stacy, Mrs. Kai Jergenson, Mrs. Robert Swain, and Miss Ruth Duncan.

In addition to acting Hirsch has proved himself a capable playwright, winning two first places in Experimental programs this year with "Give Us Pause," a lyrical drama, and "Subway Rhapsody," a fantasy laid in a New York subway car.

Newest Solons Take Control Of Assembly

Clampitt, Miller, Baker to Go to NSO

By Bookie Jabine

The old gave way to the new last night as the recently-elected Student Legislature was seated and duly sworn in after the 1946-47 vintage of lawmakers had finished discussion of the National Students Organization.

After adopting the report of Johnny Clampitt's NSO committee, which in effect instructs UNC delegates to the next meeting of the NSO, the assembly overwhelmingly named Bill Miller, Herman Baker, and Clampitt as representatives. These men will go to Madison, Wisconsin, in the fall.

The instructions which the delegates will follow embody two main points: (1) They will oppose the inclusion of any religious, political or other groups on the governing bodies of the NSO, (2) They will discuss the race question sensibly, remembering that they represent a southern university.

With the completion of the NSO affair, the 1946-47 assembly had finished for the year. One final motion was passed, however, to appropriate funds to present the retiring speaker, Charlie Warren, with a key.

Warren then rang down the gavel and declared the body adjourned. No sooner had he ended one meeting, however, than he opened another, bringing the first session of the 1947-48 assembly to order.

After swearing in Jack Folger as new speaker, Warren addressed the Legislature, reviewing the chief work accomplished by their predecessors.

He pointed out that the retiring solons had "often been too slow in responding to campus conditions."

But he commended the outgoing group by enumerating the vast amount of work which was done.

Warren concluded by saying, "I can't help but feel that the outlook is bright if we all pull together. I predict that an unprecedented year for student government lies ahead."

Following Warren's words, Student Body President Tom Eller spoke briefly. He warned the new lawmakers not to make mistakes, "of which I've been guilty."

He urged them to exercise maturity, decorum, and training while carrying out their duties.

Eller also named his committee appointments for the coming year but an attempt to suspend the rules to consider the names last night was defeated, and a special session has been called by Folger for "early next week."

PARTY PICNIC

The Student Party will have a picnic this evening at Sparrow's Pool. All members of the party and their friends who expect to attend the affair are asked to meet at 6 p.m. in front of Graham Memorial.
