Student Legislature Hears Proposal of Dozen New Bills

Three Controversial Measures Awaiting Consideration by Committees This Week

A dozen new bills are before Student Legislature committees this week after a short, full meeting Thursday night at which the legislature answered Speaker Jack Folger's request for activity last week with a rush of proposed legislation.

Topping the flood of bills were three that seem bound to cause controversy.

The first of these bills, a proposal that student activities submit written and verbal financial reports to a legislative committee, was presented by Speaker Pro-Tem Charlie Long. Long later tried vainly to have the rules suspended so that his bill might be considered before adjournment Thursday night, but he was voted down.

Other Bills

Another bill probably due for quite a lot of discussion is a proposal for a new construction of the campus budget.

A third bill, to provide for reapportionment of legislators under direction of the elections committee, may meet with opposition next week.

Some committee heads expressed doubts that their committees would be unable to come to agreement on a number of the bills presented. If the bills are delayed in reaching the floor, Speaker Folger will not be able to adjourn legislative sessions for the first term following next week's meeting as was his plan.

NSO Appropriation

In other business, legislators approved a bill, reported out with only one minor amendment by the Finance committee, to appropriate $600 to cover expenses for three delegates to the September meeting of the National Student Organization in Madison, Wisconsin.

A report from Herman Baker, head of a committee appointed last week to investigate possibilities for a new inter-dormitory recreation shack, was heard. Baker said further investigation of the situation would require more time.

Next meeting of the legislature is set for Gerrard Hall, Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Veterans May Receive GI Checks Next Week

Veterans on campus may have to wait a few more days before they get their subsistence checks.

That's the information received yesterday by veterans advisor Carlyle Shepard, after he and J. A. Williams, University legal adviser, had made inquiries through the regional Veterans administration office in Winston-Salem.

The regional office in turn contacted the Richmond branch, where checks are mailed from, and found that the holdup of subsistence payments was due to deficiency of appropriations by the federal government.

However, the Richmond office pointed out that on July 2 a bill was passed by Congress which will alleviate the situation.

Shepard said the Winston-Salem office told him the checks should be on their way in a day or two, and possibly will arrive in Chapel Hill at the beginning of next week.

CCUN Holds First Meeting

The first full-fledged meeting of the North Carolina chapter of the Collegiate Council on the United Nations was held Thursday night at the home of Randall McCleod. With State Chairman Lincoln Kan presiding, planning for statewide activities of the C.C.U.N. was evolved.

Plans include the widespread distribution of information about the United Nations, through press, radio, and speaker presentation, establishing of committees of the North Carolina chapter on campuses throughout the state, and generally acquainting the public with the vital importance of the U.N.

As the C.C.U.N. grows in strength and influence, it plans to hold essay and poetry prize contests, and a campus "United Nations Week" this fall.

Chairman, Lincoln Kan announced that the Association for the Study of World Affairs on the campus has been dissolved by unanimous consent of its members, in order to avoid conflict and competition with the C.C.U.N.

Members at the Thursday meeting were Lincoln Kan, Roberta Stirling, Randall McCleod, Charlie Long, Bill Mackie, Barron Mills, and Bill Armstrong.

IRC Plans Discussion On Military Training

The International Relations club will discuss the "implications of the proposed Universal Military Training program on American foreign policy" at Monday evening's open forum meeting at 8 o'clock in the Graham Memorial Roland Parker lounge. All summer school students are welcome to participate in the informal discussion.

Fred Bates, newly-elected IRC member, will give a report on the government's projected youth training program. Universal Military Training has been strongly urged by many educators, scientists and military men. Congress may take the problem within the next few months, and the fate of the proposal will largely depend on the state of world affairs.

UP Committee Meeting

A meeting of the University party steering committee has been called for 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Roland Parker lounge No. 1 by Jim Lilly, newly-elected UP summer chairman.

All committee members who are unable to attend this meeting are urged to delegate proxies. It is important that some plan be formulated Tuesday for improvement of U. P. solons' attendance at sessions of the legislature.

Featured in the Carolina Playmakers' first summer production, "The Late Christopher Bean," will be Elaine "Bootsie" Stevenson, Winston-Salem, top left, who will have the role of Suzan Hagggett. Mrs. Marion Miller, Aberdeen, Md., top right, was chosen to take the leading role of "Abby."

Next Playmaker Production Features Miller, Stevenson

Mrs. Marion L. Miller and Elaine "Bootsie" Stevenson hold the feminine leads in "The Late Christopher Bean," which is being produced by the Carolina Playmakers next Thursday and Friday in the Playmakers theatre.

Mrs. Miller is from Aberdeen, Md., and is now a special student at UNC in creative writing and dramatic art. By profession, she is an English and music teacher in a high school in Edgewood, Md.

A veteran in musical comedy, Mrs. Miller has directed plays and operettas, written a book of poems, worked summer stock in the Reginald Goode theatre in New York, and is now working on a series of one-act historical plays for high school production. A student here during the summer of 1945, Mrs. Miller's one-act play, "To Count Thirteen," was produced by The Playmakers as an experimental.

Miss Stevenson, a tarheel from Winston-Salem, is a student at Converse college in Spartanburg, S. C. Attracted by the Playmakers, she is concentrating on music and dramatic art at UNC this summer.

Verifying her ambition for musical comedy, she has had experience in high school dramatics, opera at Converse, radio workshop in Winston-Salem, and has been a prize-winner four times in amateur contests. A voice-scholarship student, she is also noted for her singing at Converse recitals.

Phi Discusses Anti-Red Bill Di Open Forum Set Wednesday

The Philanthropic Literary society met Tuesday night in a regular session to discuss the bill passed by the North Carolina General Assembly to outlaw the Communist party in the state. Prof. Paul W. Wager of the Political Science department opened the discussion and cautioned the assembly to consider the possibilities of prosecution of any liberal in the future under the guise of being a Communist.

Members of the society joined in the discussion and a heated debate took place on the floor. The resolution to go on record as favoring the legislature's action was accepted by a vote of 8-6.

Art Exhibition

Speaker Robert Morrison announced plans for an art exhibition September 30 when the Phi will make a display of their famous collection of portraits. At the exhibit a 1947 Frazer will be given away through a drawing for some lucky ticketholder. The money raised through this campaign will be used by the Phi to redecorate the hall in New East and to repair the portraits.

The Phi will meet again Tuesday night in New East at 7:30 to discuss a bill to insure "Work or Fight Legislation" in the event of another war in which the United States is involved.

Students Register Next Week For Second Session and Fall

Procedure Is Outlined for All Departments Except Schools of Law and Public Health

Instructions for registration for the second summer term and the fall quarter have been released pertaining to all schools of the University except the schools of law and public health, both of which will announce registration policies at a later date.

For students registered or registering in all other schools, the procedure is as follows:

Procedure

Eller Founds Second HPB

President of the Student Body Tom Eller has issued instructions for the reconstitution of the much talked about House Privileges board. He has taken this action in order to comply with the student constitution.

In a letter to the Speaker of the Coed senate, Barbara Cashion, and the chairman of the Interfraternity council, Leon Todd, he made the following suggestions as to how the Board might form its policy:

- (1) The old system of 'flying squadrons' and 'spot checks' is not in the spirit of our honor system and should no longer be practiced;
- (2) . . . the HPB is nothing more than a rule-making body and should leave all questions of trials, etc., to the appropriate councils;
- (3) The Legislature should review its agreement with the administration before it is adopted.

President Eller expressed hope that the board would adopt the existing agreement between the Interfraternity council and the administration. This agreement runs until August 29, 1947.

The new House Privileges board will be composed as follows: the executive committee of the Interfraternity council, the speaker of the Coed senate and three coeds appointed by her, and one representative from the Women's council.

The HPB will meet in the near future at which time a chairman will be elected.

S&F Rehearsals Begin For 'Weep No More'

Sound and Fury's summer production, "Weep No More," goes into production this coming Monday with tentative playing dates set for the 18th and 19th of this month.

Exactly what the production will consist of has not been announced, but the leakage coming from early meetings seems to point to a part minstrel, part vaudeville with a reported bit of Chaucer being thrown in for good measure. The outcome should be worth seeing.

Although the cast of the show has been almost completed, several spots still remain open in the acting, technical, and business end of the organization. Any interested persons should contact President Billy Carmichael at the Daily Tar Heel office or drop by the rehearsals, the majority of which will be held in Memorial Hall.

Stoddard Calls UNESCO Key To Maintaining World Peace

Maintenance of world peace will depend in large measure upon the success of the newest member of the United Nations family, the UN Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization. That's what Dr. George D. Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois and chairman of the United States Education commission which last year studied Japanese educational problems, told a general convocation of the University in Memorial hall yesterday.

Speaking on "East and West in Education," Dr. Stoddard said, "The past of Nagasaki is the future of every city in the world, unless within the lifetime of students in college today we can make of the United Nations what those two words mean in plain English.

Speaking on "East and West in Education," Dr. Stoddard said, "The past of Nagasaki is the future of every city in the world, unless within the lifetime of students in college today we can make of the United Nations what those two words mean in plain English.

Harold Bock has long been active in the world government movement. Before coming to the University, he was a leader in the world government movement at Northwestern University.

(1) Those now enrolled who have already preregistered for the second summer session will make any changes in their courses for the next term by following the usual drop and add system, first going to their faculty advisers and deans and then taking their tentative class schedules to Memorial hall. This should be done whenever advisers can be contacted during the periods from July 7 to 22 or July 24 to 26, inclusive.

(2) Those who are registered for only the present term who want to register for the next summer term beginning July 23 may do so through the drop and add procedure referred to in item (1).

(3) Those now in school who expect to return in September are urged to preregister for the fall quarter. General college students should sign appointment sheets at the information desk in South building beginning July 7 for consultation with their advisers from July 15 to 18. All others should see their deans from July 16 to 18.

(4) Students not enrolled for the present term may register for the next summer term to begin July 23 through their faculty advisers or deans in Memorial hall.

Room Deposits Due For Summer and Fall

All students who wish to reserve dormitory rooms for next fall should make a $6 deposit at the cashier's office in the basement of South building as soon as possible, the University housing office has announced. Those who hold rooms this summer are reminded that unless this deposit is made, they have no assurance of keeping their present space next September.

Housing director J. E. Wadsworth added that $10 deposits as reservations for the second term of summer school will also be received at the cashier's office no later than next Thursday.

It should be understood that the two deposits are separate but must be made promptly to clarify dormitory records for both the next summer session and the fall quarter, Wadsworth said.

MOORE COUNTY CLUB

The Moore County club will hold a short business meeting in Horace Williams lounge Monday evening at 7:30. All members are urged to attend.
