

Fall Quarter Registration To Be Started Next Week

General College Students Now Signing Appointment Sheets in South Building

By Raney Stanford

All students now in school who plan to return for the coming fall quarter, may preregister for courses next week. General College students should sign appointment sheets at the information desk in South building now, for registration July 15-18. All others will register July 16-18.

Students not now scheduled to attend the second term of summer school but who wish to enroll, may do so through the regular channels of their faculty advisors, deans, and Memorial hall on July 23.

Changing Courses

Students who wish to change any course should do so through the regular drop-and-add procedure referred to above; seeing their advisors between now and July 22, or from July 24 to 26.

The law school and the school of public health will announce the special registration details for signing with these schools to their own students.

Central records office heads estimate that many students only enrolled for one session, will decide to stay for the second, and therefore there will be very little difference between the two enrollment totals.

Carolina Band To Give Concert Thursday Evening

Director Earl Slocum of the University band will present his summer school musicians in their first concert of the season next Thursday evening, when the Tar Heel music-makers give a "pop" performance under the Davie poplar on the campus at 6:45 o'clock.

It will officially terminate band activity for the first summer session, and the first concert will include such selections as "The Fortune-Teller" by Victor Herbert, "Manhattan Serenade," and several traditional marches.

Following the concert, band activity will be discontinued until next session, when Assistant Director Hubert Henderson will be in charge in the absence of Slocum.

Di Senate Stages Open Forum Here

More than 50 persons attended the open forum on world government held by the Dialectic senate Wednesday night. Di President Maurice Braswell dispensed with the regular order of business so that the forum could get under way.

The forum consisted of Dr. Frank Kottke, Dr. Joseph Straley, Dr. Frank Hanft, Prof. Henry Brandis and Harold Bock. Jimmy Wallace acted as moderator.

Dr. Kottke, a member of the economics department, spoke on the economic problems related to world government. He said economic stability will not insure peace. Better economic conditions will make individual nations more independent instead of promoting international cooperation.

Dr. Straley, who is a member of the physics department, spoke on the threat of the atomic bomb, while the political problems connected with world government were covered by Dr. Hanft and Prof. Brandis, both of the law school.

"Don't over-rate the U. N.," Mr. Erandis warned. "I do not say that we should scrap it; we must work through the U. N., but we must be realistic enough to see it as it is. The U. N. must be strengthened into a world government. I believe the only alternative is another world war."

Next Wednesday night the Di will debate a resolution favoring world government. Visitors are urged to attend and take part in the debate.

CLASSES NEXT SATURDAY

Classes will be held in all departments of the University next Saturday, Guy B. Phillips, director of summer school, has announced.

Record Enrollment Expected In Fall Term by Armstrong

From 700 to 800 new high school graduates will help swell the fall enrollment at the University to 7,250, Director of Admissions Armstrong estimated yesterday.

"The extent of time spent by students in the state public school system was increased last year from 11 to 12," Armstrong explained. "Therefore the number of students coming straight from high school to the University this year will be much larger than those entered last fall."

Armstrong predicted the increased number of returning veterans entering next year will aid in boosting the new total over last year's record-breaking average of 6900 students.

Albright Quits as Head Of World Federalists

R. Mayne Albright of Raleigh has resigned his position as executive director of the Board of United World Federalists of North Carolina. Dr. Frank P. Graham, chairman of the advisory board of the organization, announced this week. The resignation is to become effective August 1.

Albright, a candidate for governor in the 1948 Democratic primary, is expected to concentrate his efforts on his candidacy, Dr. Graham said. No announcement has yet been made concerning his successor.

In accepting the resignation with regret, Dr. Graham stated: "Last year a small group of workers for world peace through world government within the framework of the United Nations called on Mr. Albright to organize and direct the North Carolina program for world government."

"Under his leadership, and with the support of a representative advisory board and executive council, North Carolina has been a leader among the states in the cause of world peace."

UVA Insurance Clinic Scheduled Next Week

A National Service Life Insurance clinic will be held next Thursday under the sponsorship of the University Veterans association, UVA President Hugh Wells announced yesterday.

The clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the UVA clubhouse, located behind Lenoir hall.

Wells said all questions pertaining to NSLI policies will be answered by a staff of experts who will be on hand. Any problem concerning reinstatement, conversion, change of beneficiary or others can be cleared up promptly, he said.

Phi Society Auto Lottery Is Suspended

Sales of tickets by the Philanthropic Literary society in a lottery with an automobile as its prize have been suspended for three days in accordance with a directive issued by Tom Eller, president of the student body, to Robert Morrison, Phi chairman.

To raise funds to redecorate the Phi chamber and to restore its famous art collection, the lottery was started last week with approximately 87 tickets already sold at a dollar each to students who chanced winning a 4-door Kaiser car. Action now before the Student Council to be heard Monday evening will determine whether refunds must be made on these tickets or whether the lottery is to continue.

Reasons for Suspension

Eller gave several reasons for suspending the lottery temporarily. "Despite the fact that the cause is a worthy one," he said, "I believe the lottery method to be incompatible with the spirit, tradition, and general best interests of the student body. In my opinion it would be a most detrimental precedent to set."

"As far as I know, no authorization was obtained for the program either from the student government or from the University administration. The funds are not being handled through the Student Activities office. In addition, there is a section in the general statutes pertaining to the University which prohibits all forms of chance except under direct authorization from the president of the University."

"Pending an announcement by the Student Council, I think it will be extremely unwise for anyone to purchase further tickets. I would like to discourage any other organizations which are now contemplating a similar project of fund-raising."

UP Group to Meet

The University Party steering committee will meet Tuesday evening in Roland Parker lounge No. 3, Graham Memorial. Committee meetings will be held at that time each week hereafter in hopes that better attendance will be possible that at the afternoon sessions held so far this summer.

All steering committee members are urged to attend Tuesday's meeting or to appoint a proxy for the evening.

CCUN Meets to Formulate Extensive Campus Program

An extensive program for the Collegiate Council of the United Nations was planned at Wednesday night's meeting in Graham Memorial by the executive council and other campus leaders, with President Frank Graham acting in an advisory capacity.

Chairman Lincoln Kan announced that next Wednesday night a combination rally and meeting for the entire student body will be presented by CCUN in Hill Hall. An address by a prominent speaker will highlight the program, details of which will be announced in Wednesday's Daily Tar Heel.

French Consul Will Speak At Bastille Day Banquet Here

Mademoiselle Marcelle Campana, one of the first women ever to be appointed a French foreign service officer and at present consul for France at the French embassy in Washington, will be the principal speaker at the annual Bastille Day banquet to be given Monday night at the Carolina Inn.

AVC Asks for End Of Congress Group

Members of the American veterans committee at last Tuesday's meeting voted to urge the abolishment of the house committee on un-American activities as "an excellent economy measure." At the same time it was decided to write President Truman requesting the appointment of an impartial committee to report on communist and fascist activities in this country.

This action followed a report by chapter member Junius Scales, who pointed out that "the committee is in itself un-American in that it flaunts the civil rights of citizens, serves as a sounding board for the prejudices of its members, and has consistently overlooked the activities of fascist groups."

Local Report

From its local affairs committee the veterans heard a report on Local 304, United Public Workers of the C. I. O. which is at present seeking to organize University workers. According to Garnet McCoy, present aims of the union do not include a demand for wage increases but they do ask that present wages not be reduced. The union is also asking eight paid holidays per year in place of the present one, and two weeks paid vacation per year. Following McCoy's report the chapter went on record as endorsing the union's program.

The ex-GI's made plans to aid negro veterans in Carrboro in filling out applications for their terminal leave pay and to furnish them information on GI insurance.

A telegram protesting the new congressional income tax bill as a "lopsided measure which relieves upper income brackets at the expense of the lower" was authorized.

Sponsored by the French House on campus, the banquet is one of the highlights of the special six-week session which ends next week. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m., Prof. Giduz, director of the French House, announced.

Mademoiselle Campana is the daughter of a French diplomat and received her education in Australia, England, Paris, and Stockholm where her father was Minister for France. She was graduated from the Ecole des Sciences Politiques in Paris.

Varied Activities

After the death of her father, Mademoiselle Campana entered the French Ministry for Foreign Affairs and was appointed archivist at the office of Asian and Oceanian Affairs. Following the liberation, she became assistant-director of that office and retained the post until September, 1946 when she was appointed consul for France in Washington.

For her activity in the underground during World War II, Mademoiselle Campana was awarded the Medaille de la Resistance. She is expected to arrive in Chapel Hill late tomorrow.

Other features of next week's final program of the French House for 1947 include the presentation of L'Anglais Tel Qu'On le Parle, a French farce, Wednesday night in Graham Memorial. The performance will be open to the general public and will be held in the main salon of the student union.

Professor Urban T. Holmes will preside. See FRENCH CONSUL, page 4.

IRC Will Discuss Future of France

"The Future of France" will provide the spark for Monday evening's International Relations club open forum at 8 o'clock in Graham Memorial's Roland Parker lounge. All summer students are welcome to participate in the discussion.

John Bristow, IRC president, will deliver a report on political conditions within France to open the meeting. Communist power and France's economic plight will probably come up for critical examination by IRC members and visitors.

Monday's meeting brings to a close the club's active programs for the first summer session. An overflow audience of about 300 students and townspeople heard four professors discuss the question of world communism during the IRC faculty forum and summer reception early this term.

Europe's economic troubles, universal military training and the basic questions dividing the United States and Russia provided the topics for discussion at previous meetings.

366 Arts, Sciences Students Made Dean's List Last Term

A total of 366 students made the Dean's list during the past spring quarter in the School of Arts and Sciences, a count of names released by Dean William Wells revealed. Only students who make all A's and B's are included on the list, and those whose overall average might have been equal to A or B, but who made some grades lower than B, are not included.

The list follows in alphabetical order. Names will be published in installments; those not included on the list today will be run at later dates.

Eller Displeased With High Cost Of Conventions

By Bob Sain

After five sessions, totaling in all no more than five hours, the Student Legislature has closed for the summer after at its final meeting passing 11 bills Thursday night.

Bills okayed by the student lawmakers were measures to: add $315 to the Yackety Yack budget; tighten construction of the campus budget; investigate "the composition and activities" of the Student Welfare board; reduce the Men's Interdormitory council and the Women's Interdormitory council to the status of independent campus organizations having no connection with the legislative branch of student government; require reporting of all student activities using student funds (Reporting will be required only after the winter and spring terms); to set up a legislative liaison committee with the Publications board; require reapportionment of legislators; authorize proxies during the summer session of the legislature; forbid the suspension of rules to consider budget and money bills; authorize the sergeant-at-arms to act as a miscellaneous disbursing officer, and stipulate that there be no changes in election laws within 13 days of spring elections.

All bills save the one setting up the liaison committee for the publications board, were passed unanimously.

Eller Speaks

Student Body President Tom Eller, in a message to the legislature, gave his approval, "with misgivings," to a bill passed last week authorizing the appropriation of $600 for delegates to the National Student Organization convention in Madison, Wisconsin, in September. Eller's message indicated that he did not believe the student body was getting its money's worth from such delegations. He suggested that the legislature consider the reduction of the number of delegates to similar meetings, thereby cutting down the amount of expense money necessary.

Legislators, said Speaker Jack Folger Thursday night in adjourning the body for the summer, must remain on call during the second term in case an emergency should arise. He advised legislators who would not be present during the second term to appoint proxies immediately and report them to the clerk of the legislature.

All interested persons are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

CPU Convenes Sunday

The Balkan situation will be the topic for discussion at a meeting of the Carolina Political Union tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Grail room of Graham Memorial.

All interested persons are cordially invited to attend the meeting.
