

Voters To Decide Yack Editorship In Special Election Today

Di To Reopen Fight For Appointment Of Publications Editors

Measure Seeks To Divorce Eds From Politics

A re-opening of last year's fight to have the constitution of the student body amended in regard to appointment and election of publications editors will be held tomorrow night at nine o'clock when the Dialectic senate meets to debate this important issue.

Seeking to remove the semi-political nature of appointment of editors, the bill to be debated will recommend that the duty of nominating them be removed from campus political parties and partisan groups, and be given to a committee or committees of persons who are best qualified to determine who may suitably hold the position and who best understand the management of publications.

John Zucker, speaker pro-tem for the Di, reported a three to two decision by the ways and means committee in favor of the amendment.

It is expected that if the bill is passed, it will probably be favorably received and passed by the Student Legislature.

Prominent in the fight last year for this legislation were Fred Flagler, Douglas Hunt, and Margaret House, chairman of the Publications board. At this time the bill was reported out by a seven to two vote and was approved after heavy debate by the legislature. Upon reconsideration, it was disapproved after a deadlock, with the tie being broken by the speaker.

Election to Be Held To Fill Coed Senate

At a meeting of the Coeds yesterday in Gerrard Hall, Katie Guion announced that an election is to be held to fill three vacancies in the Coed senate. The following nominations were made from the floor:

Barbara Ann Pope, June Gilbert, Weddy Thorpe, Marjorie Yokery, Lynn Blanchard, Ann Huske, Barbara Stockton, Katherine Royall, Scotty Dillinger, Ann Wells, Edith Knight, Chris White, Nelle Ring, Jo Butler, and Betty Vashaw.

From these nominations, two are to be elected from the dorms and one from the town students. Election date will be posted in the near future and all coeds are urged to vote.

Phi Will Discuss Cuts in Exports

The Phi assembly will hold its first discussion meeting of the term this evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Phi hall, fourth floor, New East. On the agenda is a resolution favoring drastic cuts in grain exports to Europe, to be introduced by the ways and means committee. Applicants for membership are required to take part in the debate, according to speaker John Giles.

Dr. Arnold Nash, new head of the Department of religion at the University, installed the newly-elected officers of the assembly at the last meeting with a candlelight ceremony.

HIGH POINT CLUB

All students from High Point are asked to attend a 3 o'clock meeting this afternoon in Roland Parker lounge 2 in Graham Memorial. This is to be the first meeting of the newly formed High Point club, and it is necessary that all interested students attend for the purpose of tabulating membership.

AVC to Hear Saunders On Housing Situation

By Ken Rothwell
Chapel Hill members of the American Veteran's committee will hear their secretary, Henry Saunders, present a full report on the housing situation here when the local chapter meets this evening at 7:30 in the Presbyterian church.

According to chairman Ben Rouzie this report is the result of alleged irregularities on the part of some Victory Village residents in sub-leasing their homes. At the last AVC meeting several members brought this situation to the attention of the chapter. He said that Saunders' report will include concrete recommendations for remedying whatever inequities may exist and that the chapter will either reject or approve the proposals at tonight's meeting.

"Since according to our constitution we must hold elections of chapter officers at this meeting it is especially important that everyone turn out," Rouzie added.

In addition to the election there will also be reports from the national policy committee on the Marshall plan and other important issues.

Rouzie stressed that all chapter meetings are open to the public and that non-members have as much right to participate in discussions as members.

Radio Show, 'Writers at Work', To Be Weekly UNC Presentation

Next Tuesday night's radio audience will hear Pulitzer prize-winning playwright Paul Green, novelists James Street, Noel Houston and Foster Fitz-Simons when "Writers At Work," a new half-hour weekly radio show, is presented at 10 o'clock over station WDNC by the University's Communication Center.

Each author will create extemporaneously his conception of a dramatic story-clue offered by Moderator Noel Houston at the start of the program. The plots will be drawn from great classics and contemporary literature.

Originating in the Swain hall radio studios of the University, "Writers At Work" will be beamed through the transmission facilities of commercial stations in many parts of the state. James Street, whose short-stories appear in Cosmopolitan, Good Housekeeping and other national magazines, is the author of such best-sellers as "The Gauntlet," "Tap Roots," and "By Valour and Arms."

In addition to winning the Pulitzer prize for his Broadway play "In Abraham's Bosom," Paul Green is responsible for the annual North Carolina pageant, "The Lost Colony." This summer, Green presented a new play at Williamsburg, Virginia, "The Common Glory," hailed by critics as a masterpiece of historical drama.

The third member of Tuesday's radio panel of writers, Foster Fitz-Simons, will pop up in literary head-lines this winter after publication of this novel about Carolina tobacco kings, "Bright Leaf." The book has been purchased for motion picture production by Warner Brothers.

Houston, short-story writer and author of the novel, "The Great Promise," will moderate most of the series.

Editor Hopes For Big Year For Tarnation

The humor magazine for which the Student Legislature provided $4,400 last April 17 is moving steadily toward publication of its first issue, according to Matt "Tookie" Hodgson, its editor.

Brainchild
The new mag, recently dubbed "Tarnation," is Hodgson's brainchild. He worked continuously all through last year for its establishment, pushed it through the Legislature, and was then elected its editor in the general campus spring elections.

In new offices on the mezzanine floor of Graham Memorial the first big organizational meeting of the humor mag staff will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, when Hodgson will make assignments and hand out work for the first issue, scheduled for publication about the middle of November.

Coeds Needed
Editor Hodgson has asked that all persons interested in working on the magazine to be present at tomorrow's meeting. He especially emphasized the need for coeds to work on the staff.

Aside from humor writers, the staff will need photographers, artists, straight writers, and typists and proof-readers for the office staff. The mag will publish all types of features, including entertainment, sports, and fashions.

"Because the magazine is brand new, there will be excellent opportunity for showing what you can do and for quick advancement for those who show promise of good work," Tookie said in a statement issued yesterday.

If anyone cannot be present at tomorrow's meeting, he said, they should contact the "Tarnation" office as soon as possible.

Wilmington Group Chooses Officers

At the first meeting of the newly formed Wilmington-Carolina club last Wednesday, the following officers were elected: Marion Woodbury, president; Fields "Doc" Clark, vice-president; and Eloise Jacobi, treasurer.

Forty members were present for the elections and the discussions which followed, among which were plans for a Christmas dance to be held in Wilmington during the holidays. The next meeting is scheduled to be held in Roland Parker lounge on Wednesday afternoon, October 22nd at 3 o'clock.

Organizational Pictures to Be Taken at Regular Meetings By Yack Photographer Les Bodden Against Oct. 31 Deadline

In continued adherence to the accelerated pace set by the Yackety-Yack, Yack picture coordinator Bill Duncan yesterday announced that organizational pictures will be taken until October 31st.

These group pictures will be taken on the regular meeting night and at the regular meeting place of the organization concerned. Formal dress will be at the option of the group, but it is expected that most of the pictures will be taken in informal clothing.

In conformance with this schedule, the first picture, that of the local coeds, will be taken tonight at 7:30. On Wednesday, according to present plans, the student council will come under the camera's scrutiny, followed on Thursday by the solons of the student legislature.

Responsibility for the pictures will fall almost wholly on the shoulders of Les Bodden and his staff. During this week, only one rig will be needed, but during the week of October 20th, heaviest on the present schedule, two or three separate sets of equipment will be used.

However, according to Duncan, the schedule is at present only tentative as its maintenance depends on the "continuance of present arrangements." "I do not believe that it will become necessary to rearrange the present schedule," he said in advising the groups involved of possible change, "but if a change is made, we will do everything possible to get all of the pictures in in time for their inclusion in the book."

The equipment now in use will permit the taking of groups up to fifty in number, but it is anticipated that equipment capable of handling groups of 125 persons will become available.

All organizations which have contracted with the Yack business office will, in the next two days, receive notification of the date for their picture. The 12 organizations which have not contracted are urged to do so immediately, so that they may be placed on the schedule.

Ruth Evans, Gene Johnstone, and Harold Bursley (left to right) are running for the Yack editorship as a board of editors, and are supported by both the University and Campus parties. They intend to put out a yearbook which "will be more representative of and more popular with the student body."

Students Must Show ID Cards To Enter Polls

By Chuck Hauser
Campus politics shifts into high gear today as students head for the polls to cast their ballots for the editorship of the Yackety-Yack, University yearbook.

Four Names
There will be four names on the ballots, but only two choices for the voter, as three of the candidates are running as a board of editors. Art Melton is the Student party candidate, while Gene Johnstone, Ruth Evans, and Harold Bursley are backed by the University and Campus parties as an editorial board.

Polls will be open from 9 o'clock this morning until 6 o'clock this evening at Gerrard

Art Melton, who is running for editor of the Yackety-Yack on the Student party ticket in today's election, has taken a stand on "efficient administration and definite policies" for the Yack.

Where to Vote

GERRARD HALL: Residents of Carr, Smith, coeds not in dorms, Steele, BVP, Old East, Old West, Nash, Miller, Whitehead, men in fraternity houses, men in town, Victory Village, Pittsboro trailer camp.

AYCOCK DORMITORY: Residents of Aycock, Graham, Stacey, Everett, Lewis, Quonset huts, Alexander.

LENOIR HALL: Residents of Mangum, Manley, Grimes, Ruffin, Emerson field house, Fetzler field house.

ALDERMAN DORMITORY: Residents of Alderman, McIver, Kenan, Spencer.

hall, Aycock dormitory, Lenoir hall, and Alderman dormitory. Every voter must present his University identification card to be permitted to cast a ballot. The backs of these cards will be stamped as each person is handed a ballot at the polls.

Expense Accounts
All candidates and political parties must submit detailed campaign expense accounts along with samples of campaign publicity by 3 o'clock this afternoon to Al Winn or room 3, Steele dormitory.

SP candidate Art Melton released the following statement yesterday afternoon in regard to his stand on the Yack editorship:

Melton Statement
"I urge all students, graduate and undergraduate, to be democratic and vote in today's election because if elected I wish to be representative of the majority of the students.

"In addition to voting, I hope that the students will keep in mind the following three things when casting their ballot:

"(1) I stand for close auditing of the $45,000 being spent this year for a yearbook to prevent losses as heretofore have occurred.

"(2) I stand for complete and immediate distribution of the Yackety-Yack as there is not space available for storage of more than the approximately 1,500 1947 issues, 500 1946 editions, and 500 1944 and 1945 Yacks now on hand. This includes distribution of back Yacks.

"(3) I stand for efficient administration of and definite policies for the Yack with unbiased representation of all student activities."

Ruth Evans, Gene Johnstone, and Harold Bursley, UP and CP candidates for the Yack post as a board of editors, also had pre-election comment to make last night:

"The most important thing at this time," they said, "is to make sure every student gets to the polls and votes for the candidates that he thinks are most qualified for the job.

"We do believe, though, that through our combined experience and work, that we can put out a yearbook which will be more representative of and more popular with the student body.

"With Dick Gordon acting as our business manager, we stand for a sound financial basis for the Yack. All work is done with particular attention paid to conservation of funds.

"We plan to put out a bigger book and a more interesting book. Simplicity is the theme. There is still room on the staff for a large part of the student body to work to put out their yearbook."

TARNATION BUSINESS

The business staff of Tarnation will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 1 of Graham Memorial.

UVA to Hold Initial Meeting Of Term Tonight in Clubhouse

The University Veteran's Association will hold its first meeting of the quarter at their club tonight at 7:30, Hugh Wells announced today.

Present plans for the meeting include the appointing of several investigating committees to make further surveys of condition at the University and particularly of living conditions in the town of Chapel Hill.

Among the duties of these committees will be to find out if the already over-crowded eating facilities in the various restaurants and cafeterias will be over taxed by the enrollment of a student body larger than the present one. Another matter to be considered is the jeopardizing of veteran's education by overcrowding in the classrooms which naturally leads to poorer instruction. Problems and needs of Chapel Hill, and the latest developments in the Veteran's administration pertaining to students will be discussed.

Wells pointed out that attendance at the meeting will not be limited to members of the association, but that all veterans are invited as it is felt that these problems are of pertinent interest and importance to everyone, and that the floor will be open to anyone who has a matter they wish to be brought up.

Men Should Report To Housing Office

Unless the latest students eligible for dormitory rooms contact the housing office, 207 South building, by Wednesday, their names will be taken off the priority lists and their space given to the next students in the waiting files, according to J. E. Wadsworth, housing director.

The following men should report immediately to the housing office: Armstrong, Ivan B.; Arnold, Walter D.; Bach, Joseph W.; Dement, William T.; Edwards, Robert W.; Gaul, Rufus W.; Lindsey, Eugene A.; Rones, James M.; Setlemeyer, Arthur, Jr.; Watson, William J.; Whitehurst, Ralph A.; and Wooten, Cecil C.

This week's individual Yack photo schedule is as follows: Tuesday and Wednesday 7:30-9:30—Public Health Wednesday and Thursday 2-5—Law school Thursday 7:30-9:30—Law school Friday 2-5 and 7:30-9:30—Pharmacy School

DTH Awarded All-American Superior Rating For Outstanding Journalistic Excellence

Perfect scores were attained in the fields of news coverage, news vitality and treatment, news stories, features, headlines, typography, inside page make-up, printing, editorial columns, editorial features, editorial make-up, as well as sports writing, coverage and treatment, and sports displays.

In every field, the Daily Tar Heel was awarded either an "excellent" or "very good" rating.

The press service offered only six major criticisms. These consisted of too few news features and features, weakness of leads (first paragraphs) in some instances, lack of style consistency, lack of contrast headlines, and failure to use boxed stories to break up a page.

With the enlargement of the newspaper, the DTH has eliminated most of these enumerated shortcomings.

While the vast majority of the newspapers analyzed for ratings were those of last year's staff under Editor Bill Woestendiek and Managing Editor Roland Giduz, a few papers issued under the present regime under Editor Barron Mills and retiring Managing Editor Earl Heffner were also included in the compilation.
