Debate Council States Year's Forensic Plans

The University Debate council, after a meeting yesterday, announced its plans to discover new oratorical talent in preparation for an extensive year of debating to include such highlights as a meet with Oxford university. The English squad will appear here on January 6.

Monday at 8 o'clock in the Dialectic Senate hall in New West try-outs will be held with all interested students giving three minute discussions on the subject "Resolved: That there should be established a world federal government." No previous training in public speaking is required, and applicants may choose either the affirmative or the negative side of the issue.

To answer any questions prospective debaters may have about these try-outs, an earlier meeting will be staged tomorrow afternoon in the Di hall at 5 o'clock by the Debate Council. However, this explanation period is in no way a prerequisite to entering the try-outs next Monday evening.

Present members of the Debate Council are Jim Taylor, Earl Fitzgerald, Blanton Miller, Charlie Hodson, and Maurice Braswell. In addition to their newly appointed faculty adviser, Gerald A. Barrett, professor of business law, one more faculty member and another student are soon to be selected to serve on the Council.

Debating candidates picked after the forthcoming try-outs will be excused from all classes and have their expenses paid to attend two forensic tournaments and to take a week-long road trip throughout the South. With the season opening November 15, there is considerable work to be done immediately.

Schedule
The schedule the University squad will face is as follows:

- Saturday, November 15—Asheville-Biltmore college in Asheville.
- Monday, December 1—University of South Carolina at Columbia, S. C.
- Tuesday, December 2—North Georgia college at Dahlonega, Ga.
- Wednesday, December 3—University of Georgia at Athens, Ga.
- Friday, December 5—University of Florida at Gainesville.
- Saturday, December 6—Miami university at Miami, Fla.
- Tuesday, January 6—Oxford university, here.

During the first week in December more debaters will also be needed to represent the University at the Grand Eastern Forensic tournament in Charlotte. Around Easter plans already call for a trip to the annual Grand National Forensic tournament at Fredericksburg, Va. Perhaps during the winter term, another week-long road jaunt will carry the University squad to vie with leading universities and colleges in the North.

DeLancey to Head GM Jam Session

Norman DeLancey, ace trombonist with Johnny Satterfield's orchestra, will act as moderator at this afternoon's jam session at the Rendezvous of Graham Memorial. The first combo for the program will be chosen by DeLancey at 3 o'clock, from the lists of the student musicians registered there.

Nearly 150 musicians and spectators jammed the room last week for the three-hour session, which is under the direction of Jack Burney. If possible, those planning to participate, with the exception of bass fiddlers and drummers, should bring their own instruments.

Each group of six or eight musicians chosen during the show is asked to play three selections of their own choosing. No music whatsoever is used, making the program a true "jam session," and in nearly all cases none of the participants have ever played together before.

Laura Castellano Holds Title Role In Butterfly Opus

Laura Castellano, rising young American-trained soprano will sing the title role of Madame Butterfly (Cio Cio San) in Charles L. Wagner's production of Puccini's melodious opera scheduled to appear here November 5th, according to an announcement received yesterday.

Called by Wagner "opera's most difficult feminine role," this assignment is regarded throughout the musical world as one which requires an unusually fine combination of vocal and dramatic talent. The star handling it is required to be on stage continually after her entrance at the beginning of the first act.

During this time, she is expected to run the gamut of characterization from a coy young girl to that of a mature woman "whom the gods may destroy, but not defeat." Although she must convey these subtle changes from shyness to tragic despair in a scant two hours, she is aided in her task by music which Wagner calls the best work of a great composer.

Despite the exacting demands of the role, Bill Carmichael, a member of the student entertainment committee which is sponsoring the local appearance of the opera said yesterday that the committee feels that Miss Castellano will be found far from lacking in every respect. He pointed out that she has been a "holdover hit" in recent appearances in Ohio, West Virginia, and Indiana. Last year in a series of appearances with the NBC concert orchestra she was singled out as one of the season's best by such diverse sources of opinion as James Melton and the New York Daily News.

She will be joined in the cast by Edward Nayborg and Valfrido Patacci of the New York company, who will sing the male leads of Lt. Pinkerton and U. S. Consul Sharpless respectively. Other members of the "all star" cast will be announced later.

The local performance will go on stage in Memorial hall auditorium at 8:30, November 5th, and tickets are on sale at Ledbetter-Pickard's and in Swain Hall.

ANYTHING FOR A JOKE

San Antonio, Tex. (UP)—Sheriff's deputies and San Antonio police hurried to an abandoned adobe house after being advised a "stab victim" was in the basement. The "victim" was a clothing store dummy with a screwdriver wedged in its back and the clothing generously sprinkled with ketchup.

Circulation Manager's Life Not a Happy One, Wails Lewis, Bemoaning Fate as Holder of Daily Tar Heel's Dirtiest Job

"Where the h— is my Tar Heel?" an irate voice screams into the phone. On the receiving end of this verbal barrage is the university's most harassed individual, the Daily Tar Heel circulation manager. The long-suffering student continues, "This is E. Alburquerque Zilch of 15G Parkwell Lane, and I haven't had a Tar Heel this quarter."

First Play in 'Thirty-Three by Air' To Be Broadcast Here at 8:30 Tonight

Student radio actors will broadcast the comic saga of a lost voice, "Pi R Squared," tonight over stations WRAL and WHHT when the Communication Center presents the first in the "Thirty-Three by Air" series of experimental radio plays from 8:30 to 9 o'clock.

The fantasy, written by Elliott Gruskin, concerns the voice of a famous radio thespian which gets trapped in a radio tube. Background music was written by Alan Bergman, who will also conduct the orchestra during the show.

"Pi R Squared" has a large cast: Bill Moore, played by Bob Epstein, Sam Jones—Stuart Lucas, Mary—Alice Ross, John Shaw's voice—Bill Collins, Mrs. Shaw—Edna Dooley, Dr. Ohm—W. P. Covington, Josephine Dawes—Gloria Gunn, President—Jim Geiger, First vice-pres.—Bill Workman, Second vice-pres.—Bob Gutknecht, Frank—George Grizzard.

Playing the part of radio announcers in the play will be Bob Andrew, George Norwig and Bob Gutknecht. Others in the cast include: Jean—Betty Jane Blalock, Tough—Bill Workman, Mrs. Grey—Katherine Covington, Lady—Gloria Gunn. Miss Jane Grills is director of the show with John Young as studio engineer. Avery Gibson serves as assistant producer. Sound technicians are Babe Hooks, Bill Workman, George Grizzard and Betty Jane Blalock. Announcer for the series will be Stuart Lucas.

SPEAKS TO BIRD CLUB

John Trott, University student, was guest speaker at last night's meeting of the Raleigh Bird club. A member of the Chapel Hill Bird club, Trott gave a talk on scholarship work which he did during the summer at the Audubon Nature camp in Medonak, Maine. The speaker showed colored slides of photographs taken of plant and animal life at the summer camp.

It is necessary for Wadsworth to have an accurate file on the number of children in each family in order to provide adequate living space as soon as it is available.

Family Statistics For Housing Asked

Married students on the waiting lists for Victory Village accommodations should keep the housing office, 208 South building, notified on the status of their family, according to an announcement today from J. E. Wadsworth, University housing director. All couples should report any changes in their status to Wadsworth immediately since the families with babies who require housing facilities will be given special priority over others waiting.

One Hand

Washington, Oct. 21—(UP)—The first one-handed electric typewriter manufactured for the Veterans Administration has been given to a Georgetown university law student.

The student-veteran is 34-year-old Albin Ulrickson of Fort Worth, Texas, whose left side was paralyzed from a battle wound.

Ulrickson says with a little practice, he'll be able to type almost as well as a person with two hands. The one-handed machine has the letter keys in the right half of the four banks. The figures and punctuation marks are on the left.

UVA Slates Dance For Friday Evening

The first in the fall series of University Veterans association informal dances will be held Friday night at the UVA clubhouse, according to President Hugh Wells.

Music for the dance, which will last from 8:30 to 12 o'clock, will be provided by a musical combo headed by Ned Reap, who will be making his first campus appearance this fall.

Wells stated yesterday that all tables will be cleared from the floor Friday to provide a larger area for dancing. Chaperones for the affair will be several married veterans and their wives.

Veterans who are not members of the organization are cordially invited to take this opportunity to visit the UVA club, which claims to have "the smoothest dance-floor in town."

able. All couples should report any changes in their status to Wadsworth immediately since the families with babies who require housing facilities will be given special priority over others waiting.

Miss Payoff Contest To Be Run by WSSF

All dormitories, sororities, fraternities, and other campus organizations will have the opportunity to enter a contestant in the "Miss Payoff of 1947" contest, it was announced today by Wayne Brenengen, chairman of the dance committee sponsoring the contest.

Miss Payoff will be crowned at the Battle of Bands dance, to be held November 8 in Woollen gym as the closing event of the World Student Service fund campus drive.

All organizations will receive a letter from Brenengen, stating the regulations of the contest. Entrants names must be submitted to the information desk in the YMCA building by Tuesday, October 28.

Pilot Tricked Into Betrayal, Critic Claims

By United Press
Washington, Oct. 21—The Hearings on Communism in Hollywood took on the air of a fast-action movie melodrama today.

In a true Hollywood atmosphere of klieg lights and news-reel cameras, the session broke into a bedlam during the testimony of an anti-communist film critic, John Moffitt. Over a clamor of pounding gavel, hooting spectators and shouting lawyers, Moffitt said that a top-flight literary agent tricked a test pilot into writing an article about a secret, super-sonic military plane.

He identified the agent as John Weber, head of the literary department of the William Morris agency. The pilot, Moffitt said, was Chalmers Goodlin, who flew the super-sonic X-5-1 in its first 20 test flights at Muroc field in California.

Before Moffitt could get any further, Hollywood lawyer Charles Katz, who represents a group of movie writers, leaped from his seat in the front row of spectators. He shouted, "Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman."

Chairman Parnell Thomas of the House un-American Activities committee pounded his gavel angrily and shouted that he would permit no interruptions. That started a din over which a raucous voice bellowed, "Throw the bum out."

Two policemen grabbed the lawyer under the arms and hustled him out of the room. As Katz reached the door, he shouted over his shoulder, "I thought this was to be a fair hearing."

Both Moffitt and dapper actor Adolphe Menjou, who preceded him to the stand, told the committee that Hollywood has many communists and fellow travelers.

Special Session of Congress To Be Di Discussion Tonight

The Dialectic Senate meeting tonight at 9 o'clock on the third floor of New West will be highlighted by a discussion on the feasibility of calling a special session of Congress to avert starvation in Europe by setting up a Federal Food commission to replace the OPA.

Paul Guthrie of the Economics department will speak briefly on this subject before answering questions for the open debate from the floor. "Hot debate is expected on the issue," according to Charlie Long, Di speaker. "We appreciate the authoritative" opinion Mr. Guthrie will have to offer during the argument as to whether the proposed Federal Food commission should set production quotas, fix prices, and allocate grain and other foods for export.

Also on the agenda tonight will be the swearing in of 11 new members who were approved by the Senate last week. Senator Gran Childress, chairman of the membership committee, has announced that there are still several vacancies in the Senate and has asked that all persons interested procure application blanks at the Senate hall in New West between 6:30 and 8:30 o'clock this evening.

The meeting tonight will be open to the general public, and the entire campus is invited to attend to express views on the issue freely.

Governor Cherry is expected in Chapel Hill Saturday to speak at graduation exercises for the 120 men enrolled in the Institute of Government's third state highway patrol school of the year.

The ceremonies are scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Terry Sanford, training instructor in charge of the school, announced today.

"Governor Cherry," said Sanford, "has indicated that he will speak unless unforeseen circumstances arise."

Colonel H. J. Hatcher, commanding officer of the state highway patrol; Captain David Lambert, of Greensboro, director of the school; and Colonel L. C. Rosser, commissioner of motor vehicles, will be present to award certificates to the graduates. The men will have completed six weeks of training in traffic law enforcement.

Student Council Will Test Coed Visiting Agreements

By Bill Sexton
Legality of the coed visiting agreements will be tested before the Student Council Thursday evening in a hearing expected to stir up considerable controversy over fraternity self-government.

At a meeting Monday the council agreed to hear charges that the agreements drawn up last week by the House Privileges board are unconstitutional. Specific fire is directed against the provision that fraternity violations of the agreements are to be tried by the Interfraternity council.

Controversy over wording of a minor provision in the Student constitution has rapidly grown to considerable proportion after the Interfraternity council voted Monday to oppose any removal of the Judicial power granted the IFC in the visiting agreements.

(No provision for trial of fraternity violations is made in the constitution. The IFC is merely assigned power to deal with all matters concerning fraternities alone. It is over the question of whether or not violations of the visiting agreements concern only the fraternities that the constitutional case has arisen.)

Information as to identity of the group filing the suit has not been made available. The council did announce yesterday that the hearing would probably be closed though witnesses would be admitted to present testimony on constitutional questions.

Last Thursday the legislature placed the agreements in effect for a period of one week until a complete review could be made, as provided in the constitution. It was learned last night that the regular Thursday session of the legislature would be postponed a week due to rushing, but no ruling on operation of the agreements during the interim has been made.

Student Body President Tom Eller has announced he will appear before the Council Thursday evening to present the executive viewpoint on the case, but he did not announce what his stand would be.

First State Showing Of "Saint Joan" Set

Word was received last night that the Carolina Playmaker production of Shaw's "Saint Joan" will be the first time that the Irish playwright's drama about Joan of Arc has ever been staged in North Carolina. The information came in a special letter from Samuel French, New York play agents, to John W. Parker, Playmaker business manager.

The colorful costumes for the play are being made under the supervision of Mary Jo Cain, graduate assistant for the costume shop, and many of them are already completed.

Governor Cherry Expected to Visit Here To Address Highway Patrol School Men

"The graduates will not be sworn into membership of the state highway patrol," said Sanford, "until November 1. Addition of the new graduates into the patrol will bring North Carolina's highway patrol to rank as the fifth largest in the nation."

The school which ends Saturday is the third of its kind to be sponsored by the Institute of Government during this year. Before the state legislative session ended, authorization was granted for the doubling in size of the state highway patrol.

The Institute of Government, in charge of training and education of future state highway patrolmen, selected the 120 men after careful intelligence tests and physical examinations from a group of 1,200 men. The graduates will bring the total of North Carolina state highway patrolmen to 220.
