Henderson Given Playmaker Award

Dr. Archibald Henderson, head of the mathematics department and official Bernard Shaw biographer, was presented with a Master Playmakers award, specially engraved for the occasion, at the opening night of the Carolina Playmakers production of Shaw's "Saint Joan" last night.

Samuel Selden, director of the Playmakers, presented the award, saying, "For all of thirty years, Archibald Henderson has been associated with the Carolina Playmakers. He has advised us, written about us, served on our committees, and lectured to us. It is doubly fitting, therefore, that we should dedicate this first performance of our thirtieth season to our senior member of the Playmakers."

Dr. Henderson was guest of honor at a dinner in the Carolina Inn before the performance, and the award was presented in the theatre, just before the curtain went up.

First Step for Prevention of Vandalism Taken by Duke-Carolina Representatives

The first major step in prevention of Duke-Carolina pre-game vandalism was taken at a dinner meeting in the Carolina Inn Tuesday evening when local student government officials discussed the problem with their Duke counterparts.

Representing Duke university were student body president Gordon Smith, vice-president Howard Hartley, student council chairman Chuck White, Duke Chronicle editor Johnny Baldwin, head cheerleader Bob Welch, and deans Herring and Bob Cox.

University representatives were president Tom Eller, vice-president Jack Folger, Men's council chairman Bill Tate, Daily Tar Heel editor Barron Mills, head cheerleader Myrt Sherard, Dean Fred Weaver, and assistant controller and business manager of the University Claude Teague.

Definite steps to prevent vandalism were cited during the round-table discussion which followed the dinner. These included protection such as special night watchmen for both campuses, spotlights stationed at Duke stadium, and careful patrolling by Durham and Chapel Hill police along with the promise of prosecution of any persons caught committing destructive acts. Highway patrolmen will also be alerted during the week preceding the game to watch for violators.

This meeting was the second of its type in the past two years. Before last fall's Duke-Carolina football contest, a similar discussion of vandalism prevention took place in Durham, and the result was a clean slate between the two schools, according to officials at the meeting. The officials said that similar cooperation will be expected this time.

Dean Herring, reviewing the past athletic records of the two universities, pointed out the excellent performances of the teams as to sportsman like conduct, and made the suggestion that students behave accordingly so as to not bring dishonor upon the names of either of the schools.

AVC Post Hears Speech by Hanft

Professor Frank Hanft of the University law school presented the case for world government before the Chapel Hill chapter of the American Veterans committee on Tuesday evening.

Following his remarks the chapter voted to discuss a resolution supporting his views at the next meeting. A plea for funds for the World Students Service fund presented by John Roeder was unanimously approved. The chapter voted an immediate appropriation of ten dollars. In addition it was decided to send delegates to Washington as soon as the special session of congress convenes to push the Taft-Wagner-Elender housing bill.

Chapel Hill Communist Party Openly Revealed by Circular

The presence of a local chapter of the Communist party in Chapel Hill was officially revealed yesterday, with the issuance of an information circular from the "Communist Party of Chapel Hill, Junius Scales, chairman."

On being contacted after the release of the circular, Scales explained that the organization in Chapel Hill is a "small, active, representative group" affiliated with the North and South Carolina district and national headquarters of the party in America.

Congressman Warns Of Pending Action By Reds in Europe

"Communist Russia is waiting like a vulture for starvation and chaos in western Europe," declared Congressman Harold D. Cooley before a packed Gerrard hall audience last night. He spoke under International Relations club sponsorship.

"If we do not implement the Marshall plan immediately," Cooley went on to say, "the Soviet Union will set up western European counterparts of Yugoslavia's puppet dictator, Tito."

Making the first public report of any member of the Herter investigation committee which returned from a tour of Europe two weeks ago, Cooley announced that he will strongly advocate prompt passage of the Marshall plan for financial aid to Europe when Congress reconvenes in special session on November 17.

"There is no other alternative to the Marshall plan," the congressman told the audience of students and faculty members. "America must be as liberal with her wealth as the nation's resources will permit."

Speaking to the former servicemen in the audience, Cooley said that "all that you won in the last war is about to be lost unless the United States abandons its economic isolation from the rest of the world. Selfish and shortsighted men directing our government are trying to build up the old tariff walls cut this country off from our distressed friends in France, England, Italy and other European democracies. If they succeed, America will be committing suicide."

Housing Office Is Rehoused; Must Vacate South Building

The University housing office, which has always considered itself the ruling authority on who should live where when, was slapped in the face today with a directive from higher headquarters—an order to evacuate its present station in room 207, South building.

The housing office, it would seem, has been rehoused; it is caught with its quarters down to furnish more elbow-room for its neighbor, Fred Weaver, dean of men. J. E. Wadsworth, housing director, and his two secretaries, Mrs. Lee Young and Mrs. Kesley Reece, will move later this week to strictly a wartime hangover—the barracks annex of Old East.

A formal hearing into the National Student association delegation expense accounts controversy will be held by the Men's Honor council tonight, Bill Tate, chairman of the council, announced yesterday.

Tate said investigation of the case, which involves use of student funds for air transportation after student government officials had ordered the delegation to travel to the Madison N.S.A. conference by day coach, was under way by the council. The three delegates—Bill Miller, Herman Baker, and Johnny Clappitt—are scheduled to appear before the council tonight along with Tom Eller, Jack Folger, and Sam Daniels, the student government officers who asked the delegates to travel by rail.

Phi Debaters Pass Bill Which Favors Medical Socialism

By a narrow margin of three votes Phi debaters pushed through a bill favoring socialized medicine Tuesday night at the third weekly meeting of the term. Passed by a vote of 22 to 19, the bill recommends that the government provide a system of complete medical care available to all citizens at public expense.

"The health of the nation is the responsibility of the nation," stated Chester D. ZumBrunnen, speaker pro-tem, as he introduced the bill to the assembly. Zum Brunnen outlined bills considered by the U. S. Senate favoring socialized medicine, and stressed the effect such a plan would have on relieving the inadequate medical facilities in rural areas.

Speaker John Giles, leading the opposition to the measure, stated that socialized medicine is a method of appeasing the lower classes and favoring socialism. He also pointed out that placing physicians on a salary basis would seriously reduce the number of men entering the profession, and would also prove harmful to creative medical research.

Dr. Ling, currently engaged in research on vitamin B-6 at the University, told members of the Phi that the expense of present day medical care puts adequate treatment beyond the reach of lower income groups, and that the distribution of the national income is such that in poorer states where hospitals are most urgently needed there are insufficient funds. He stated his belief that a good plan of socialized medicine would eliminate these defects.

Committee Announces Plans For Sadie Hawkins Contests

Two contests—for beards and parade floats—have been announced by the Sadie Hawkins day committee. The group managing the annual Nov. 7 fete said that the float contest would be open to all campus organizations—fraternities, sororities, clubs and dormitories while the beard growing competition will be limited to males.

Originality counts highest in the float contest and the committee has urged that all decorated jeeps, bicycles and automobiles "make up" for the competition. Organizations planning to enter floats were asked to submit their names to Butchie Daneil, 2nd floor, Alderman, by Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Activities for the day will begin at 1 o'clock with a square dance demonstration in the "Y" court by the Western North club. Sadie Hawkins skits will also be presented at this time. At 1:30 the parade will begin, and will circle around through Franklin street back to Fetter field for the football game given by the Monogram club at 2:30. The main event of the day is to be the "Human Race" at 3:30, followed by the marriage ceremonies. At 4 o'clock various competitive races will be sponsored by the CICA, WAA, and Town Girls.

coeds are expected to call for their dates and take them to the gym at 8 o'clock.

Jes' Nine Mo' Days...

—Hairless Joe looks jes' happy as ever, don't he? ... Mebbe he fergits there's only nine mo' days 'till Sadie Hawkins day. And Hairless Joe's got no mo' troubles than all y'all eligible Tar Heel bachelors, so y'all better start practisin'.
