Governor Plans Meeting Today On Capitol Use

By Bill Sexton

Though there is no indication of what stand the State Board of Buildings and Grounds will take on use of the capitol for the 1947 State Student legislature, hope at least that action would be forthcoming was aroused by the announcement that the board would probably meet today.

Gov. Gregg Cherry said in Raleigh last night he "planned" to call a meeting today of the board, which must approve or reject the Student Legislative council's request for use of the capitol before planning on the 1947 session can proceed. Date of the coming assembly has been set, pending the action expected today, for November 28-29.

New Permit Needed

Ten previous annual sessions of the student legislature have been held in the capitol building at Raleigh, but Secretary of State Thad Eure ruled last week that dissolution and subsequent reorganization of the legislature's sponsoring body made necessary a new permit from the buildings board.

Efforts have been underway more than a week to obtain approval of the legislative council's request, made by Ira Helms, president of the old State Student Legislative council and acting head of the reorganized group.

Use of the capitol November 28 and 29 had already approved when the sponsoring group at State college abruptly dissolved itself. When pressure from other schools led to a reconstitution of the council to include representatives from colleges other than State, the original date was again set. But Eure's ruling requiring a new permit plus the continual unavailability of various members of the buildings board have prevented further planning.

AVC, SCHW Join To Protest Prices

Letters were forwarded to all campus and town organizations yesterday announcing a campus-wide protest meeting against high prices to be sponsored by the American Veterans committee and the Southern Conference for Human Welfare on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Gerrard hall.

According to Aubrey Williams, Jr., SCHW chairman, the meeting is being held to focus the attention of the campus on rising prices.

"Through this process of airing and discussing all ideas a constructive program will emerge that will prove far more effective than the scattered efforts of individual organizations," he said.

Congress Meets

Timed to coincide with the opening of the special congressional session in Washington, Williams pointed out, a unanimous agreement on a price program here at the University will serve as one yardstick of public opinion for Tar Heel representatives in the Congress.

The program will include brief talks by faculty, student, and town leaders on various aspects of the situation. Following this the floor will be opened for resolutions on the subject.

Student body president Tom Eller has indicated that he will make every effort to attend while leaders of practically every organization in town and on campus are also expected.

President Urges 10 Point Program To Bar Inflation

By The United Press

Washington, Nov. 17—President Truman cited dollars and cents figures today to show Congress how prices have risen to what he called "an alarming degree of inflation."

Speaking before both houses of the Congress which he had called back to Washington in recognition of the critical situation now existing in Europe and in our own country, the President called for a ten-point program to combat inflation here at home and to assist Europe through the economic crisis there.

The President indicated that Congress—in passing such legislation—will achieve a double-barrelled objective—hold down prices at home and make it easier for the country to aid Europe.

In outlining the situation which must be remedied, the President said that Austria, France, and Italy have nearly exhausted their financial resources, and that starvation faces millions in these countries unless we act quickly. He called for aid to the already revealed extent of 597 million dollars to prevent this calamity.

Moving to the domestic situation, Mr. Truman pointed out that since controls were removed in the middle of 1946 cost-of-living items have risen 23 per cent, clothing 19 per cent, and food 40 per cent. He further showed that, in the past four months, the cost of living has risen at annual rate of 16 per cent.

He said, "The housewife who goes to buy food today must spend 10 dollars for what 7 dollars bought a year and a half ago."

He asked Congress for the power to put ceilings on wages and prices and to bring back rationing, but he emphasized that he would this authority only if it became absolutely necessary.

Polish Ambassador Hurls Charge That German Underground Seeks To Reestablish Nazi Doctrine

Dean's Office Says Thief Still Lurks In Unlocked Rooms

Petty theft still sneaks around the campus, according to an announcement made yesterday by Dean Fred Weaver. "Because of students' carelessness and their forgetting to lock their rooms, especially during football weekends," Weaver stated, "two more cases of larceny have been reported through my office."

While Harry LaRue attended the Tennessee game, a Smith-Corona typewriter was stolen from his room on the third floor of Lewis dormitory. Late last Wednesday night Matthew Crisp left a $75 Hamilton wrist watch in the wash room of Miller hall, missed the watch the next morning, and could not find it.

Bill Smith, University dormitory manager, made a poll of students' dormitory doors earlier this term and found that from 50 to 100 rooms are left open "any afternoon" when their occupants are gone. He strongly urged that "this and all other carelessness with personal property be avoided."

More Grail Tickets Go On Sale Today

Approximately 400 tickets for the Duke weekend Grail Dances will be placed on sale from 8 this morning until sold out in the YMCA, Grail Delegate Jack Fitch announced yesterday.

The tickets—400 each for the two dances and concert—were left over following two days of selling last week. Price is $3.00 per couple for each dance and $0.75 per person for the concert.

Despite directions to the contrary on the printed dance tickets, Fitch said, the dances Friday and Saturday will be semi-formal: coats and ties for men, evening dresses for dates.

Student Hit by Washington Streetcar Unconscious; Condition Said Critical

John D. Ebbs, Carolina student struck by a Washington streetcar late Saturday night, was reported still in "critical condition" in a District of Columbia hospital last night.

Ebbs, member of Lambda Chi Alpha, was reported by fraternity brothers to have been struck after he had stepped out of a cab at M and 33rd streets. He was enroute to Chevy Chase following the

Phi Assembly Will Discuss Federal Anti-Lynch Law

Heading the agenda of the Philanthropic Assembly when it meets on Tuesday night at 9:00 p.m. on the fourth floor New East is the proposed Federal Anti-Lynching Law, slated to come up again at the current special session of Congress.

The bill is to be introduced by Chester Brunnen, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. Professor Clyde Cass Carter of the Commercial Law Department has been asked to present the case for the bill. Several other faculty members have been contacted to speak against the proposed law. Leading the debate for the bill are Phi members Bob Coulter, Herman Sieber, Emily Baker, Phil Morris, and Lester Sneed. The opposition will be led by George Rodman, Mintie Cantrell, Charles Dixon, David Sharpe, and James McNider.

The Assembly bill states in part that the Phi favor action by Congress to make Federal law enforcement agencies responsible for the prevention and prosecution of lynching and crimes involving mob action.

The adherents for the enactment of the federal statute cite the fact that the bill would be beneficial to the cause of law, order and justice in the southern states, while the opponents say that legislation upon this matter would be unconstitutional and the need for the law is slight since there was only one case of lynching in the United States in 1945.

Duke Game Tickets

Today is the final day for securing student coupons for the Duke-Carolina Saturday, the Athletic department announced last night.

Any students wishing to attend the game must get their coupons today if they wish to sit in the Carolina student section. No exceptions will be made.

Unity in Big Four 'Must' for Peace, Winiewicz Declares

Warning that "the Germans at this moment are speculating on the disagreements among their former enemies," Jozef Winiewicz, Polish Ambassador to the United States, urged last night that Germany should not be reconstructed sooner than other countries of Europe because of the possibility of another war of German instigation.

"The information we Poles have from Germany indicates," he declared, "that a new underground movement is working there which is based ideologically on the same principles that led Germany to aggressive wars in the past."

"Nothing would give the Germans more pleasure than an open break among the great powers, a rift among the United Nations," the ambassador said. "Nothing would suit Germany better than a separate peace concluded between the western German zones and the Western allies which some impatient people are advocating."

Former Editor

Winiewicz spoke in Gerrard Hall at the University tonight under the joint auspices of the Carolina Political Union, non-partisan student organization, and the International Relations Club. Presiding were Bill Patterson, CPU chairman, and Will Kemp, head of the IRC.

Longtime editor of one of the oldest newspapers in Warsaw, Poland, the Ambassador was Minister Counselor of the Polish Embassy in London during the war and was a member of the Polish delegation to the Peace Conference in Paris in 1946. He came to the United States as Ambassador last January.

Tracing the history of German aggression during five wars, which he said that nation had instigated in the last century, the ambassador said that his country is more concerned with post-war Germany than any other question at the moment. "First, we are concerned because the power of a United Germany has continually menaced our independence, and secondly, because Germany in the last war caused such great destruction in Poland, that only a lasting peace, a peace enduring for several generations, and not for just 20 years, as was the peace following 1918, can allow us to make up our losses in population as well as in our economic substance." He pointed

Leaders Cited for Interest in CCUN

"College students are encouraged and gratified to see the renewed interest that civic leaders of the state are taking in student activities such as the Collegiate Council of United States," Lincoln S. H. Kan, State Director of CCUN said yesterday.

The council is co-sponsoring the state-wide conference on the United Nations with the Statesville Lions Club and Lions District 31A in Statesville on Thursday and Friday of this week. Guest speakers will include the ambassadors from Argentina and Yugoslavia.

Final plans and committee appointments were discussed and made at a dinner meeting in Statesville Saturday night at the Vance Hotel, which was attended by Kan, Roberta Stirling, secretary-general of State CCUN; Bill Cromwell and Bill Buchan, Carolina representatives.

Discussing the meeting, Kan said, "The interest and actions of the civic leaders is indicative of a common desire for the peace which can only be secured through the United Nations. We are especially grateful for the wonderful work and co-operation which we have received from Hugh Mitchell, Lions International counselor and Statesville Lions Club. They have more than proven their sincere belief in the UN and the worthwhileness of CCUN."

Campus Party to Meet Today For Class Vote Nominations

A meeting of the campus party for the purpose of considering nominations for the coming elections has been called for 4:00 this afternoon by Jess Dedmond, party chairman.

The meeting, which will be held in Roland Parker lounge No. 2 of Graham memorial, will be open to all students who may wish to attend. It is anticipated that the party will be able to nominate their entire slate for the class elections scheduled for next week and for the general campus elections of December.

Dedmond stated yesterday that the selection of the person who will be the campus party nominee for the post of the Student council slated to be filled in December is the most important single piece of business on the agenda.

Playmakers Need 15 Actors For Norwegian Play

Kai Jurgensen, director of the Carolina Playmaker production of Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People," sent out a call last night for members of the student body who are interested in appearing in the play.

"We need about fifteen people for the climax scene in the meeting hall," Jurgensen said. He went on to explain that the crowd scene is the most powerful in the play and that any students or townspeople who are interested are invited to attend the rehearsal Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Playmaker theatre.

"Only three or four rehearsals will be necessary, although several speaking parts are to be filled," he added.

"An Enemy of the People" tells the story of a health officer in a small resort town in Norway, who fights a corrupt city administration, and the power of the press, in order to bring truth to the people. It is a new modern American translation, one of twelve Ibsen plays translated by Jurgensen and Robert Schenckan, of the radio department, for, Henry Holt company.
