Parties Release Election Statements, Candidates' Qualifications

CP Dorm Candidates, Platform Published

Attempting, according to party chairman Jess Dedmond, to limit its promises to what it can realistically expect to accomplish, the Campus party yesterday released for publication a statement of its objectives and a list of its candidate's qualifications.

Campus Party Picks Six Men from Town In Legislature Race

Six men have been named to run as Campus party candidates for seats from the Town district. They include Delta Sigma member W. B. O'Neill and Ernest Curran of Olivia. Also on the ticket are John Zucker, president of the Di, and Bill Swain.

Chairman Jess Dedmond advises all CP candidates that their expense accounts are due by 6:00 PM today. He requests that each candidate see him at Graham Memorial between 2:00 and 5:00 PM to complete this business.

feeling as we do, we shall attempt in cooperation with the orientation committee to keep orientation up to or higher than the level reached this fall.

Intercom System
He promised that, "We will exert our efforts to secure an inter-communication system to facilitate phone calls coming into the men's dorms."

With these two statements, the Campus party took its position and enunciated its policies for the benefit of the voters in the elections scheduled for tomorrow.

Leads Ticket
Leading the party ticket in tomorrow's elections will be Bob Haire, a junior, who is president of the Winston-Salem Carolina club. Haire, upon accepting the nomination stated, "I sincerely desire to serve the student body in the capacity of Student councilman."

Candidates offered by the party to fill posts from the men's dormitories include Jess Dedmond, party chairman, and Walt Arnold, party vice-chairman. Dedmond's qualifications include service with the AAF, membership on the staff of Graham Memorial and on the orientation committee. He is a member of the Interdormitory council and past president of Phi Eta Sigma, freshman honorary fraternity.

Joining them on the ticket is secretary Bob Ormond of the interdormitory council. Ormond is also past president pro tem of the Di senate, president of Grimes dormitory, and an ex-member of the student legislative assembly in Raleigh.

Jim Vogler, senior warden of the commerce professional fraternity, is also a member of the CP ticket being offered to the men's dorms. Vogler served in the AAF, is a member of the budget committee and chairman of the Constitution committee.

UVA Meeting Tonight Concerns Allotments
Newly elected officers of the University Veterans' Association will preside over the regular monthly meeting of the association being held tonight at 8 o'clock, in the clubhouse.

Present plans for the meeting include the reading of reports submitted by the committees appointed to investigate food and housing problems, and the planning of a concerted effort to have the present amount of GI subsistence raised by the next congress.

Person Hall 'Jugtown Pottery' Exhibit Begun Yesterday as Memorial to Busbee
The Friends of Person Hall are sponsoring an exhibition of "Jugtown Pottery" which opened at Person Hall Art Gallery yesterday at 4:30 with a talk by Julianna Busbee. It is a memorial exhibition to Jacques Busbee, who made Jugtown a pottery center known to craftsmen and artists all over the world.

In Moore County, Busbee found a community of craftsmen living independent of the outside world. They made their own shoes, furniture, cloth, and what they called "dirt dishes." The crocks, churns, and pickle jars these men made differed little if at all from the ones made in 1740 when the first Staffordshire Potters came to this section.

Jacques Busbee searched the countryside for old pieces that were signed and dated. He found several from the eighteenth century, and some from the nineteenth century. The Moore county potters had been conscripted by the Confederate army to make military supplies such as mugs, chow bowls, and medicine jars.

Using originals as models, Busbee trained the local potters to reproduce the ware made by their ancestors. By changing a line or a curve slightly, he reproduced these purely functional and often clumsy wares into objects of interest and beauty.

Shown with Jugtown pottery will be examples of hand weaving by Trude Guerinoprez, of Black Mountain College, North Carolina.

Friends of Person Hall is a club of North Carolinians interested in art. The chairman is Mrs. Paul White of Chapel Hill.

FRENCH PREMIER ROBERT Schuman is shown here shaking hands with MME. Germaine Poinot-Chaouis, only woman member of his recently-formed coalition cabinet. Schuman last night was voted almost dictatorial powers by the French National Assembly to deal with the 2,000,000 workers now on strike.

Campus Soap Drive To Open Wednesday

A drive to collect 3,500 bars of soap to send to Egypt to fight the cholera plague will begin in Chapel Hill Wednesday, December 3, in cooperation with the International Union of students, an organization representing students of more than 35 countries.

Since cholera is a filth disease, it was decided that, with the current shortage of soap, the most direct means of fighting cholera would be by helping overcome filth problems through Egyptian students who will distribute the sanitary supplies.

The drive, planned jointly by Joe McArthur, Vera Seales, Martha Aiken, and Bill McGirt, and supported by Jehan van de Velde of AVC and Aubrey Williams of the SCHW, will begin in conjunction with International Students' Week. Joe McArthur's four Boys' Clubs of Chapel Hill high school are sparking the town and high school drives. Carolina students will participate in collecting the bars of soap from boxes placed in the YMCA, Graham Memorial, the Library, Lenior hall, Carolina Inn, Scuttlebutt and Ab's Bookshop.

It was considered by the group that, in this time of political and social confusion reflecting the profound need for unity among cultures and men, this drive to help a stricken country with a tangible gift would graphically symbolize the interdependence of all peoples.

A bar of soap from everybody would more than double the quota set for Chapel Hill.

'Future of Cities' Lecture Scheduled
"The Future of Cities" is the subject of a lecture to be delivered here Wednesday by F. J. Osborn of Welwyn, England. Osborn, an author, lecturer, and town planner is touring this country under the sponsorship of the American Institute of Planners.

He will appear here at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in 403 Alumni hall. The Britisher advocates limiting the spread of big cities and the preservation of 'Green Belts' of agriculture in this country.

As chairman of the planning association, he has testified before several committees investigating civic planning, and the reports of these committees have substantially endorsed his recommendations.

Slack, Mackie Lead Ticket Of Student Party Hopefuls

Charlie Long, speaking as vice-chairman of the Student party, stated yesterday that the slate of candidates being presented by the SP in the campus-wide elections to be held tomorrow is one of the finest ever to be offered by any party in any election.

According to Long, the SP is appealing in this election, to the campus for support for its candidates in order that the record of progressive government of the past six months shall be endorsed and assured of continuing success. He stated that, "The SP's candidates go into this election pledged, regardless of the issues, to but one thing — to carry forward the banner of student government."

"Vital Necessity"
Explaining the party's failure to issue statements of the qualifications of individual candidates, Long said late last night "I do not wish to go over the individual merits of each candidate at this time, but I do wish to point out the vital necessity of placing on the councils in particular and into the legislature people who know student government and who have not only the desire but the qualifications necessary to fill these positions adequately."

Leading the party's ticket, Chick Slack and Bill Mackie will be running under the SP banner for the Student council. Mackie, a law student, is chairman of the legislature finance committee. He is a former vice-president of the IRC, a member of Phi Gamma Delta, of the Di, and of the Debate council. Miss Slack, a pharmacy school student, is a KE and is in the Pharmacy senate. She is a member of the Presbyterian church choir, and of the Women's Glee club and of the CICA.

The student party is offering for the consideration of the coed voters four Women's council candidates. They include Carter Taylor from Charlotte who is from McIver dormitory, Patsy McNutt of Greensboro from Alderman, Iris Bost of Concord from Spencer, and Mimi Massey of Milledgeville, Georgia from Spencer.

The party has also nominated a full slate of candidates for the women's dormitories. These women, running under the banner of better student government, include three from Kenan dormitory and one from Alderman. The three are Jo Farris of Danville, Kentucky, Ruth Manning of Pittsburgh, and Gloria Peter of Allentown, Pennsylvania. Edie Knight, UP nominated candidate from Alexandria, Virginia has been endorsed by the SP. She is from Alderman dormitory. Effie Westervelt from Chapel Hill is also running on the SP ticket from the women's dorms. Mary Swann also is becoming of the legislature finance

J. M. Morehead Presents Building In Cornerstone Laying Ceremonies

By Raney Stanford
"The building, which is now above ground, and the planetarium, which has arrived in Baltimore, are now in your hands, sir."

With these simple words, John Motley Morehead, noted industrialist and alumnus of the University, formally presented the new Morehead Art Gallery and Planetarium building to the University at the building's site Saturday morning.

The presentation followed cornerstone laying ceremonies and was viewed by a throng of spectators which overflowed the wooden platform on the northwest corner of the site and spread to the earthen hillocks and the cement foundation of the building itself.

The ceremonies were scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock, but were a little late due to Governor William M. Tuck of Virginia being snarled up in the pre-game traffic. Upon Governor Tuck's arrival, the invocation was delivered by Dr. Howard E. Roundthaler, president of Salem college, and Governor R. Gregg Cherry thanked Mr. Morehead in the name of the state of North Carolina for his service to his school and country.

Governor Tuck and Colgate W. Darden Jr., president of the University of Virginia, then congratulated Virginia's "neighbor to the south" on her son and the state's achievements.

The mortar for the cornerstone was then laid by two attractive young relatives of Mr. Morehead, Julia Harris of Danville, Va., and Jean Morehead of Charlotte. Workmen of the J. A. Jones Construction company, under the supervision of Superintendent G. E. Wise, lowered into place and levelled the cornerstone, on which was carved the year "1947". Mr. Morehead packed the special metal box, for insertion into a slot provided inside the stone, with mementoes of the occasion; including a copy of the Daily Tar Heel, one of the Chapel Hill Weekly, one of the Alumni Review, a book of genealogy of the Morehead family, and several coins placed in for luck by surrounding newspapermen. NOT A PICTURE of Chapel Hill as it is but as it might have been today is this scene in Chicago following the season's first heavy snow storm in the Windy City last week. First snow of the year fell yesterday morning as large soft flakes flurried over the campus for about 45 minutes, giving an intimation of things to come. (International Soundphoto)

No Los Angeles Trip Says Faculty Verdict On Post-Season Games

High hopes prevalent on the campus of seeing the glory-laden Tar Heels play a post-season football game in Los Angeles, the Dixie Bowl, or other rumored locations were extinguished yesterday with the announcement that no post-season game bids would be accepted by the University Athletic committee.

The statement, released by the faculty committee on athletics at approximately 5 o'clock, read as follows:

"The University appreciates the many invitations but feels compelled to decline them, due to the fact that the team has completed a difficult schedule in a most creditable manner and feels it would not be in the best interests of the football squad to prolong the season."

With rumors running rampant from half-time Saturday up until yesterday evening, many students had already wired for reservations in Los Angeles and other cities.

Christmas Program Is Set for Tuesday

A community Christmas program, titled "Christmas in Dance and Drama" and sponsored by the YWCA, will be presented in Memorial hall on Tuesday, December 9 at 8 o'clock, as the first of a series of annual programs.

Stephen Vincent Benet's drama, "A Child is Born," will be given by the Wesley Players, dramatics group of Wesley Foundation, Methodist student organization. Marty Pearsall and Mrs. Madeline Sutherland are directing the play.

Modern Dance
The Modern Dance club, under the direction of Byrd Green Cornwell and Betty Doss, will do three original dances to Christmas carols. Bill Hooks is choreographer for "Coventry Carol," and the choreography for "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" and "Carol of the Bells" was done by the group.

Gray Simpson is chairman of the committee arranging the program, and her committee is as follows: Sunny Sunstrom, costumes; Sally Lee, ushers; Marty Pearsall, lighting; Joan Schlossberg, make-up; Harriet Sanders, programs; Ruth Evans, photographer; Jim Moon, scenery; Marilyn Blackwell, Kate Connor, and Mary Neely, posters; Jim Moss and Margie Cameron, publicity; and Fernie Hughes, music.

Community Singing
Scenery will be done by Jim Moss and the newly organized Junior Art league. Costumes will be furnished by the Playmakers and the Episcopal Canterbury club. Community singing during the program will be led by a chorus made up of members of the various church choirs and the Glee Club.

Cast of "A Child is Born" includes John L. Dameron, Martha Pearsall, Robert M. Aiken, Milton Stewart, Ethel Perry, Sibyle Mitchell, Robert Bunch, Robert Farham, and John Gignilliat. Voices are Raymond Mills, Claude Wilson, Ted West, Robert E. Allen, Robert Bunch, and Wilton Stewart. Music, which was written and arranged by David Arner, will be performed by the Methodist choir under the direction of Eugene Stryker.

COUNCIL TO MEET
Chapel Hill's anti-inflation council will meet tonight at 7:30 on the second floor of the Y according to Ken Macrorie, temporary chairman.

UP Lists Candidates, Announces Platform

For the consideration of Carolina's students in tomorrow's campus-wide elections, the University party is offering a slate which is pledged to "thoughtful support of stronger student government at this University."

UP Chairman Miles Smith, of Salisbury, is anticipating the largest student body vote of any of the three election days this quarter. Smith said yesterday, "No matter who is elected, we want Tuesday's vote to be representative of a majority of student body opinion. The University party is sincerely trying to play fair."

Party Objectives
Most of the individual candidates have not made separate statements, but all of them are expected to subscribe to the party's objectives. "Qualifications for each candidate are given in order that individuals may be judged by their personal merits, not by the promises of a party or what others have done in past elections," said Herb Nachman, publicity chairman.

Eastern Carolina Colleges Are Expected To Send 150 Delegates to Peace Meeting

Over 150 delegates from Eastern Carolina colleges are expected to attend an adventure in applied Christianity during the "Road to Peace" program being held in the Alumni building on December 8.

Principal speakers at this one-day student conference will be Dr. A. J. Muste, secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and Dr. Stuart Nelson, Dean of the Department of Religion of Howard university.

Doctor Muste's talk on "Applying Christianity in world Affairs" will begin at 10:20. Following this, Doctor Nelson will tell of his experiences during his conferences with government officials in India, from which he has recently returned.

Workshops will provide the students with an opportunity to talk informally with these leaders on world peace. Four areas of discussion will take place in the following areas of the program: "Organization of Peace," "Spiritual Bases of Peace," "Struggle for World Power," and "Economic Bases of Peace." The leaders for these groups will be announced later.

Statewide sponsorship of this conference is by The American Friends Service Committee and The North Carolina Council of Churches. Local planning is under the direction of a committee headed by Hibbard Thatcher. He is now urging all interested Carolina students to plan to attend these meetings.
