LISTENING CAREFULLY. Republican Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (left), President pro-tem. of the Senate, and Republican House Speaker Joseph Martin (right) hear President Truman deliver his State of the Union message to a joint session of Congress. Vital part of the speech was the Democrat President's request that Congress vote an immediate tax cut of $40 to every individual taxpayer and each of his dependents. The revenue loss would be offset by a higher corporation tax, which would yield $3,200,000,000. (International)

Forty-Four Coeds Signed in Yack Race For Beauty Queen Scheduled Today

Amid feverish jockeying for position by both contestants and would-be members of the audience, the list of entries for the title of Queen of the Yackety Yack was officially closed last night.

Forty-four coeds representing the most beautiful of Carolina's women will vie for the title at 4 o'clock this afternoon when the contest is to be held. Ned Reap and his orchestra will begin the festivities at 3:45, and MC Tag Montague will lead the parade of beauties onto the stage, 15 minutes later.

The judges who will select the queen and her 15 attendants from the large field of contestants are all prominent local townsmen. They include William Meade Prince, a free lance artist whose work has appeared in Colliers and elsewhere, James Street, author of The Gauntlet, E. Carrington Smith, local theater manager-owner, James Davis, owner of the University Florist, and Director of Admissions Roy Armstrong.

The girl chosen as queen will receive a bouquet of orchids as a gift of the Yack staff and will have her picture featured in the book's Beauty section.

However, other students who wish to see the parade of beauties were advised by the staff to be on hand early as a full house is anticipated. Commenting on the advance estimates of attendance, Tag Montague repeated his earlier prediction of a full house.

The girls who have been entered and their sponsors are: Phi Beta Phi; Liz Hazlett and Louise Dodson; Chi Omega, Lilian DeArmon and Rose Field; McIver, Sara Marsh; Delta Kappa Epsilon, Weddy Throp, Ferne Hughes, and Helen Bouldin; Kappa Alpha, Baba DeWitt; Stacy, Edie Knight; Old East, Carolyn Kinzey; Pi Kappa Alpha, Tann Messon; Beta Theta Pi, Mary Louise Poe and Cattie Lee Holt.

Marshall Rejects Repayment Ideas

Washington, Jan. 8 (UP)—Secretary of State George C. Marshall told the Senate Foreign Relations committee today that this country is not trying to buy special advantages in Europe with its giant recovery program.

Speaking before the committee today, Marshall turned down suggestions that the United States should demand strategic military bases in return for sending $17 billion worth of relief goods overseas. He took his stand on the question of repayment after telling congress it had the choice of approving the giant foreign aid plan in full or starting to arm the nation against World War III.

Marshall emphasized that he is offering his program on an all-or-nothing basis. "Either undertake to meet the requirements of the European problem or don't undertake it at all," he told the Foreign Relations committee.

Committee Chairman Arthur Vandenberg accepted the challenge by asking Marshall for a new balance sheet reporting just how much money the administration intends to spend abroad during the next 15 months.

In reply, Lewis Douglas, American Ambassador to Great Britain, said that he may have the balance sheet ready to submit to the senators tomorrow. Douglas has been mentioned as a likely candidate to be top administrator of the foreign aid program.

Daniels Still Critical

Raleigh, Jan. 8 (UP)—The condition of 83-year-old Joseph Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, remained unchanged today. The World War I secretary of the navy and former Ambassador to Mexico took a turn for the worse last night after being ill with bronchitis for five days.

Argentine Legate For Understanding Stresses Education

By George Drew
"I am firm in the belief that justice, liberty and democracy will triumph in relations between Argentina and the United States," stated his excellency, Ambassador from Argentina Don Oscar Ivanissevich, to the group of approximately 30 faculty members and students attending a banquet in his honor at the Carolina Inn last night.

Ambassador Ivanissevich's speech emphasized the importance of education in creating better relations and understanding between the United States and South America, especially Argentina.

Cites Schools

Citing his nation's schools as examples, he pointed out that a main defect in the Argentine system was an inclination to place too much importance on abstractions rather than reality. He asserted that more study of Spanish in the United States would do much to help mutual understanding between the countries.

Argentine illiteracy is rapidly diminishing and the standard of living in that country has been greatly raised, he told his listeners. (See IVANISSEVICH, Page 4)

Campus Spokes Spin On Student Union Hub

By Elinor Woltz

Graham Memorial, is the very hub around which the spokes of University student activity revolve. At the humming core, in which originate student plans and projects, lies the unpretentious first floor office directed by an efficient staff of thirteen. This office renders student services all the way from travel reservations to a lost and found service which even includes locating lost week-end guests.

But the most patronized service is the information desk which puts up with a jangling phone all day. For instance, on the day of the Florida football game, two to three hundred students phoned to find out whether the game was to be broadcast. A switchboard seemed the only logical solution.

The splendid service furnished by this office is made possible to a large extent by Mrs. Dorothy Cooke, office manager. Poised and proficient in handling any situation, she is justly termed jack-of-all-trades. Besides general office work, her busy schedule includes mimeographing for any recognized organization, releasing equipment for student use, and presiding over the information bureau. Among strange requests recently came one from a gent for President Truman's signature.

But these tasks do not narrow down Mrs. Cooke's activities. She has assisted with University

N. C. Business Foundation Vice-President Will Assume New Duties Here January 15th

By Nancy Stanford

Dr. I. G. Greer, renowned state educator and humanitarian, will come to the University campus January 15 to take up his new duties as executive vice-president of the North Carolina Business Foundation.

The new executive, the first full-time administrator of the activities of this group of business leaders working for economic education with the University, will set up his office temporarily on the first floor of South building.

Dr. Greer comes to this post from the helm of the North Carolina Good Health Association, which made such great strides in the past months in publicizing the state's health needs and in advancing a constructive program to fill them. Before his service there he was superintendent of the Baptist orphanages in the state, and taught at Appalachian State Teachers College for 29 years. He received his education here and at Columbia University. In the past Greer has also held the presidencies of the North Carolina Conference for Social Sciences, the Tri-State Orphanage conference and the state Baptist convention. He was given an honorary doctor of law degree in 1943 by Wake Forest College.

The organization which Greer will administer here was formed in July, 1946, by a group of prominent industrial and professional leaders of the state in order to "increase the per capita income of our people, to diversify our economy, and to develop our unused resources, to stabilize employment, and to provide new and more profitable jobs," in the words of the founders.

To activate these aims, Foundation members will work through the Commerce department of the University, establishing new professorships, instructing and directing research in industrial and business techniques, and sponsoring institutes, conferences, and workshops in these fields at Chapel Hill.

Robert M. Hanes of Winston-Salem is president of the Foundation, Ben Cone of Greensboro is Treasurer, George Watts Hill of Durham is secretary, and six regional vice-presidents direct the organizational and financial work of the group throughout the state.

Debate Practice Program To Be Organized Monday

A call for all interested persons to attend the first Varsity Debate practice program to be organized Monday night was made yesterday by Debate Council President Earl Fitzgerald.

Designed to organize competent debaters on campus and to create a wider interest in University forensic activities, the 7 o'clock meeting is scheduled for the Dialectic hall, New West.

Future debates with Duke University and surrounding colleges and universities, expense-paid tours which the Debate Council arranges, will be planned at this meeting. Topic for most national inter-collegiate debates this year, which is also the topic for the February Inter-American Gledy-Burke Forensic tournament at Tulane university in New Orleans, is, "Resolved: that a world federal government should be established."

Board Restores Teaching License To A. L. Fritz, Jr.

Raleigh, Jan. 8 (UP)—The State Board of Education restored the teaching certificate of former Hudson school principal R. L. Fritz, Jr., in a meeting here this afternoon.

The board took away his right to teach last August when he admitted mishandling state funds at his Hudson school. Fritz admitted juggling some $16,000 to pad payrolls for teachers and to pay his wife for office work.

The matter was given to a Grand Jury in Caldwell county and Fritz was indicted for false pretense. The outspoken president of the North Carolina Educational association went on trial in Caldwell county December 15 and was cleared by a non-suit six days later.

Though Fritz was freed, presiding Judge A. H. Gwyn stated. (See FRITZ, Page 4)

Machinery Rolls Toward Spring, Campus Elections

By Chuck Hauser

Campus political machinery, pointed in the direction of the spring elections, began to grind into motion yesterday afternoon as two party meetings dabbled in reorganization and consideration of candidates.

R. Charles Loudermilk, rising junior from Atlanta, Georgia, was elected vice-chairman of the University party, and Student party vice-chairman Charles Howe took over the SP reins temporarily pending a Monday night meeting when a new chairman will be elected.

Long Resigns

The vacancy was created when Charlie Long, present speaker pro tempore of the Student Legislature, tendered his resignation as SP head at yesterday's meeting. The secondary position in the University party was emptied by Ernest House, veteran Student Legislator.

Both men are reported to be handicapped by a large burden of studies, and it is rumored that both will resign from the Student Legislature in a short time.

Loudermilk, the new UP vice-chairman, is a March, 1947, transfer from Georgia Tech where he saw considerable action in campus politics. A commerce major, he saw war action with the Navy.

The Student party will meet at 9 o'clock Monday evening in Graham Memorial's Roland Park lounge no. 1 to begin consideration of spring nominations, in addition to election of party officers.

BOUNDED on each side by the snow that caused their troubles, hundreds of motorists stand in line at the Queens Traffic Court, New York City, to pay snow-parking fines. They got a "break" when the higher-fine was reduced to $4. In the city, 10,538 summonses were returnable for the day. (International)

Delegate Reports To UVA Governors On Veterans Bill

By Herb Nachman

South Trimble, University Veterans Association representative to the National Conference of Veteran Trainees held in Washington recently, will make his official report Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the club.

In a meeting of the board of governors of the UVA yesterday, Trimble reported that he had served on the ceiling committee of the Conference which was composed of student delegates from 21 states.

Seek Increase

The object of the conference is to influence Congressional action toward a $35 monthly increase in veteran's subsistence allowances. The purpose of the ceiling committee on which Trimble served was to determine whether the amount of money a veteran may earn and still be eligible for subsistence.

Trimble reported that the committee voted to leave the ceiling as it is but the action was defeated by the conference. The primary result of the conference, Trimble said, was that the group definitely decided to support the Rogers bill, introduced early in the last session by Rep. Edith Rogers, (R. Mass.), Chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee. The bill was never acted upon by Congress.

Provisions of Bill

The Rogers bill would increase subsistence for single veterans from $65 to $100 per month; for married veterans from $90 to $125 a month with $10 for each additional dependent.

A House committee favorably reported on a compromise bill in July which would increase the subsistence for single veterans to $75 and married veterans to $105 with $15 for each additional dependent. However, the conference voted to put its efforts behind the Rogers bill.

At Tuesday's meeting, an official report will be made by Trimble in which he will call for an opinion from the club members as to whether or not the local UVA should take definite action to influence individual congressmen.

Mme. Signe Hojer To Speak Tonight

Madame Signe Hojer of Stockholm, Sweden, authority on problems of peace and on home and family life, will speak at the Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock. Her topic will be "Ways of Peace."

In addition to the meeting tonight, a dutch luncheon will be held tomorrow in honor of Madame Hojer. At this time she will speak on "How Sweden Got Along with Russia During the War." Any interested students or townspeople may call Mrs. N. B. Adams at the Bulls Head Bookshop to make reservations.

President of the State Home and Family commission and of the Swedish section of Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, Madame Hojer will appear under the joint sponsorship of the campus YWCA, the League of Women Voters, and Women's International League.

Her report to the Home and Family commission has become a best seller in Sweden. Its purpose is to persuade the government that a housewife's work should be accorded the same respect given other professions. "Because of its value to the country in economics, educational, moral, and other aspects."

Active in social and political fields for many years, Madame Hojer is the wife of the Swedish Minister of Medicine, and they have four children. Her lectures and writing always give special attention to questions affecting family life.

Swedish Medical Man To Visit Here Today

Dr. J. Axel Hojer, head of the Medical board of Sweden, will visit the School of Public Health here today and tomorrow.

The faculty of the School of Public Health will give a dinner for Dr. Hojer and his wife tonight at the Carolina Inn. Following the dinner, Dr. Hojer will speak on "Sweden's public health problems and program" at 8 o'clock in the Library.
