Mrs. Groves To Talk To Coeds On Dating

"Campus problems and dating" will be the subject of a lecture to be given to University coeds tonight by Mrs. Ernest R. Groves, Vice-president of the American Association of Marriage Counselors. The lecture, to be given in Hill hall at 7:30, is the first in a series to be presented by Mrs. Groves during the winter quarter.

Mrs. Ernest R. Groves

Following her lecture, Mrs. Groves will open the floor for questions and discussion by the coeds, who may also make appointments for personal counseling.

Author and Editor

Mrs. Groves, who is an eminent authority on marriage and family relations, is particularly familiar with this phase of the field, having gleaned wide knowledge through years of experience dealing with campus problems at many leading universities and colleges including the University of Illinois, Oregon State College for Women, Wesleyan College in Georgia, Wesleyan College at Middletown, Connecticut. She has, since 1941, carried on the work of her late husband, who first introduced marriage courses to the University.

work in colleges and universities, Mrs. Groves is the author of numerous books including the college text, "Marriage and Family Life" and is American editor of "International Journal of Sex and Sex Problems," a journal on marriage hygiene. Mrs. Groves is among the small percentage of women represented in Who's Who and she has recently been elected vice president of the National Council on Family Relations.

Phi Will Discuss Graham Question In Meet Tonight

By Gordon Huffines

The question as to whether or not Dr. Frank Graham should be retained as president of the Greater University of North Carolina will come before the Philanthropic assembly tonight at 7:30 in the first session of the winter quarter.

The Phi bill, resolved that Dr. Graham should be retained as head of the Greater University, was reported out by the assembly ways and means committee in view of recent rumors, reported by Roulhac Hamilton of the Durham Morning Herald, that the University president was to be relieved of his duties.

Graham Criticized

Criticism of Dr. Graham has appeared in State papers in which he has been accused of holding leftist views and neglecting his duties as head of the University. He is also, listed as a member of several groups which have been reported as engaging in subversive activities by the U. S. Attorney General's office.

To Install Officers

Also scheduled for tonight's session is the inauguration of the new officers of the assembly at which time Speaker Chester D. zum Brunnen will deliver his inaugural address. Applicants Mae Belle Enman of Asheville and Graham E. Jones of Winston-Salem will also be initiated into the assembly.

Speaker zum Brunnen announced that a meeting of the executive committee will be held immediately after the adjournment of the assembly and that the alumni committee would meet in the Phi hall Wednesday night at 7:30. Members of the alumni committee, headed by Chairman George Rodman, are Ernest House, Charles Dixon, Emily Claire Baker, Frank Giraffe, and Ruth Bradley.

Deadline Shifted For Medical Test

Although the deadline for the February medical professional aptitude tests has passed candidates may still register, Dr. W. D. Perry, institutional examiner, has announced. Deadline for the February 2 test was originally set for November 15 of last year. Because no definite ruling has been given the examination, results of which are required by the Association of American Medical Colleges as auxiliary evidence of preparation for medical study.

Dr. Perry urges all non-registered applicants to come to his office in 102 Peabody to register between the hours of 8:30 and 4:30 o'clock. All applicants must pay a fee of five dollars in the form of a money order made payable to the Graduate Record office (New York City) on the day of the examination.

Inquiries concerning the test may be addressed to Dr. Perry or to the individual's premedical student advisor. The interested persons will be supplied a prospectus and registration forms.

230 Students Dropped For Academic Reasons

By Raney Stanford

In contrast to the current rumors about the vast number of students who failed to meet the required academic standards of the University last quarter, totalling of official figures from the three main schools show that actually about 230 did not make the necessary grade level to enable them to register for the winter quarter. And 80 of these have already been readmitted to the University by the various readmission boards of the different colleges.

College Breakdown

Breakdown of this academic failing list shows the majority, 142, came from the General College, with 60 being dropped from college of Arts and Sciences, and about 30 from the Commerce school. Fifty-seven students went before the boards of the latter two colleges and 18 have been readmitted.

Of the number who went before the board of the General College, 62 have been granted reinstatement.

In commenting on the general academic statistics of last quarter, Dean D. D. Carroll observed that students in his Commerce school made the best record in the school's history, one out of seven equalling or bettering an average of 92.5.

Academic Regulations

Current regulations governing student standards at the University, call for a freshman to pass at least 30 hours during his first year. He must pass five hours in the first quarter following this, and average 35 during every three quarters until completion of his required course.

If a student fails to meet these requirements, and desires readmission, he submits a petition to his dean, and the petition is considered by a special dean's committee of each college before the quarter's opening. Academic deficiencies may be made up through correspondence work or during the summer sessions of the University.

Playmakers Need Agile Safe Hands

The ability to crack a safe is not a quality which an applicant for a job usually emphasizes when talking to his prospective employer. However, the Playmakers have a job that only a man with educated fingers can handle.

A safe delivered to the Playmaker offices in Swain hall has failed to respond either to its combination or to the rather inexperienced efforts at cracking it made by the Playmaker and buildings department staffs.

The safe was originally used here during the war by the navy. Yesterday, it was transferred with the aid of a truck and ten handlers to the Swain hall headquarters of the dramatics group.

Robert Walker of the Playmakers tried to open it first. When he failed, five additional combinations known to fit safes stored here were used—with no result.

The buildings department, called in by the somewhat distraught staff, was likewise at a loss. They did get to the point where only one number and one direction in the combination were wrong, but could get no further.

Latest word on the recalcitrant object was that if the appeal to unemployed thugs failed, the Playmakers would have to tell it to the marines—or at least to the navy.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

An important meeting of Le Cercle Francais will be held this evening at 7:30 in Caldwell "Y." At 6:30 those interested in eating together and speaking French will meet in the Carolina Inn.

Campus Leaders Move Tentatively To Dissolve Entertainment Committee

By Chuck Hauser

Tentative plans were discussed to dissolve the Student Entertainment committee and a decision was made to cancel two programs in the remaining four of the series at a meeting of the committee, student government and administrative representatives yesterday.

PAUL GREEN, well known Chapel Hill playwright, will address The Carolina Dames Club tonight at 8 o'clock in the main lounge of Graham Memorial. The Dames Club of Duke University has been invited to attend.

The move to dissolve the Entertainment committee was brought up by student body President Tom Eller, Graham Memorial Director Bill Stafford and Dean of Men Fred Weaver, who met last Saturday to discuss the situation and reached the decision that the dissolution was the most practical thing to do under the circumstances.

Called Agencies

Dr. J. P. Harland of the committee spent the late hours of yesterday afternoon calling New York booking agencies in an attempt to cancel the scheduled programs of Iva Kitchell, dance satirist, and the Philharmonic Piano quartet.

The Mikado, Gilbert and Sullivan opera which was included on the entertainment series, will reach production on schedule under the auspices of the University Music department and the Playmakers.

Arrangements are under discussion to bring Franz Polgar, magician and hypnotist, here under sponsorship of some other organization than the committee. Graham Memorial was suggested as a possibility.

Reminded of Contract The NCAC, agents of Iva Kitchell, were "rather loathe to cancel the engagement," when Dr. Harland spoke to them over long-distance yesterday. "They reminded me that we had signed a contract," he said.

A representative of Columbia Concerts, agents of the Philharmonic Piano quartet, is scheduled to be in Chapel Hill today to confer with Harland about the quartet's engagement.

Ivey Will Speak At U of Illinois

John Ivey, Division of Social Science Research at the University, is among some of the nation's top men in the field of communications who will convene at the University of Illinois, January 19, 20, and 21, for the first conference to be conducted by the newly established U. of I. Institute of Communications Research. Ivey will speak on "Communications as a Social Instrument."

Discussion topics for the three-day meeting will concern specific problems of communications control, extent, and support, process and channels, audiences, and social effect, in addition to problems of a new communications research center.

Creighton Pushes New Architecture

A distinctive regional type of architecture for each section of the United States was advocated in a talk delivered by editor Thomas H. Creighton of Progressive Architecture magazine before the annual meeting of the North Carolina chapter of the American Institute of Architects in Person Hall Gallery yesterday.

Creighton, a former practicing architect, pointed out that in this respect California and the mid-west are far in advance of the East. He criticized what he called the East's "fake cultural tradition" and compared the attempts to copy colonial styles to "trying to make a 1948 automobile look like a buggy."

The lack of professional criticism of architectural trends in the general press and more particularly in the professional press was also scored in his remarks. He stated that, in his opinion, "competent and objective criticism" could do much to solve the problems confronting the profession.

This session of the North Carolina chapter is expected to last through Tuesday.

SOCIETY STAFF MEETING

There will be a short meeting of the society staff of the Daily Tar Heel today at 3 o'clock in the news office. Campaign organizations that have not already done so should appoint a representative to attend this meeting.

Sound & Fury Will Elect President, Form Committees at Meeting Tonight

By Paul Rothman

Elections to fill the vacancies created by the resignation of Doug Gardner as president and Nancy Tucker as secretary-treasurer will head the agenda when Sound and Fury holds its first official business meeting of the quarter in Gerard hall at 7:30 tonight.

The musical comedy organization is also considering creation of the office of vice president.

Social and production committees are to be set up, and publicity, ticket and program committees will be organized under the production committee.

Formation of plans for an organization party will follow the reading of a financial report by Jerry Weiss, who is acting as secretary-treasurer until elections are held.

Plans for two new shows and adoption of a key to be awarded on effort and length of service in Sound and Fury will also be discussed.

Ken Gammage, who is temporarily acting as president, will preside over the meeting. All persons interested in musical comedy work are cordially invited to attend.

Present GI Subsistence Legislation Will Be Discussed by UVA Members

Veteran subsistence will be the topic for consideration at tonight's first University Veterans association business meeting of the year which will be held at 7 o'clock in the UVA club.

The entire meeting will be devoted to a discussion and presentation of pertinent facts concerning the subsistence proposal, the Rogers bill, which will be introduced during the present session of Congress.

President Johnny Clampitt said that the purpose of the discussion and the vote to follow will be for the local club to decide whether they will lobby for the proposed bill or whether they will attempt to influence their congressmen towards a more liberal or a more conservative bill. The Rogers bill would raise veterans educational subsistence from $65 to $100 a month for single men and from $90 to $125 a month for married veterans with $10 a month for each additional dependent.

At tonight's meeting, South Trimble, who represented North Carolina at a recent Washington meeting of the newly formed National Conference of Veteran Trainees, will make his official report to the members and it is presumed he will make suggestions as to what action the local group should take.

Sadie Pierson, president of the CICA, announced yesterday that the co-ed group would be in hand to sponsor the first open house of the year which will begin at 8:15 tonight immediately following the business meeting.

Clampitt announced that the UVA membership tickets will be on sale today in the "Y" between 10 and 11 o'clock and will also be available tonight at the door to the club house.

Lionel Nelson, snack bar manager, said that all kinds of sandwiches and cokes, cigars, cigarettes and gum will be on hand.

Open House Program Set Tomorrow Night

The first of the Winter quarter Open houses will take place tomorrow night and entries for the all-campus badminton tournament which will be conducted during club meetings on Mondays and Wednesdays may be placed at that time.

The second round of the badminton league will be played this quarter with matches scheduled with Raleigh, Burlington, and Durham. The first match is here with Raleigh on January 21. All students and faculty members regardless of age or sex, are invited to participate.

Summer Entrants Can Get Rooms

All students who entered the University for the summer session of 1947 are now eligible for dormitory rooms upon request at the Housing Office, 22 New East Annex, before January 15.

Students who entered for the summer session are listed in part as follows: Lonnie G. Albright, John G. Bambalis, Dan T. Barkner, Richard L. Bowen, Billy H. Brandon, Bruce Buckner, John L. Chambers, Jr., Scott J. Childress, Dallas D. Cline, Henry E. Diggs, James C. Dismuke, Joseph G. Edwards, Marvin R. Farley, Julian W. Hamrick, Paul Hicks, Harry H. Horton, Faison O. Hudson;

Donald B. Ipock, Boyce O. Jenkins, Franklin P. Jones, Baldwin Kahn, Paul W. Lentz, George J. Miller, W. Frank Mustian, Robert E. Noell, Marion W. Peebles, Jr., William S. Peebles, III, Wilton Rankin, Frank Ratcliffe, Perry M. Sapperstein, William K. Sonntag, Charles E. Stevens, Glenn E. Taylor, Benjamin E. Thompson, James S. Waddington, Edward K. Washington, Leonard White, Everett P. Williams, Francis E. Winslow, Arthur D. Xanthos.

Political Union To Take Members

In their Sunday evening meeting the members of the Carolina Political Union agreed to admit a number of new members to their ranks during the winter quarter. Chairman Bill Kemp stated that persons interested in political affairs of any nature may apply for membership in the non-partisan group, which meets in Graham Memorial Grail room every Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Union application blanks are available in the YMCA office, and interested applicants should obtain these as soon as possible.

All general discussions of the Union are open to the public, and students and faculty interested in joining, during this quarter are requested to attend next Sunday's discussion on the topic, "The Role of the Third Party in America."

Comm Center Will Air Radio Play by Rolnik

By Herbert Nachman
"The Escape of Herbert Hinkle", a thirty minute radio show by student playwright Bob Rolnik, will be heard tomorrow night at 8:30 over radio station WHHT, WPTF, and WHHT-FM. Originating in the studios of the University Communications Center, the show will be the first 1948 production of the weekly student program, "Thirty-Three by Air."

Directing the production is Miss Marty Pearsall assisted by Miss Joyce Corbett. Music will be under the direction of Harold Schiffman.

Basis of the show is a last year's news item in which a New York busman became dissatisfied with his route and took himself and his bus on a thousand-mile trip to Florida where he was caught by police when he wired his company for money to buy gasoline. He is now back on his old route in New York city.

In the play, Herbert Hinkle, a New York bus driver played by Mac Shaw, becomes interested in Floridian luxury when he overhears a conversation between two of his bus passengers, Ben and Sam, portrayed by Bob Epstein and Merv Lenz. His boss Slattery, Jim Geiger, adds to his dissatisfaction by continuously heckling Hinkle about the daily traffic jams he causes. His nagging wife Edna, played by Edna Dooley, doesn't detract much from his misery and his decision to leave is made the following day when his bus, played by Dick Katzin, talks to him about Florida.

When he arrives in Miami he is disappointed to find that it is raining and the people there shove and speak gruffly to him even more than they did on his old route.

When confronted by reporters and photographers he decides to admit his guilt, which he does and returns home a national hero. As the play ends he is back on his old route after receiving world-wide distinction and is still mixed up in one of his oft-reprimanded-for traffic jams.

Other members of the cast are Woman, Pat Palmer, and Guy, Bill Workman. The technical crew for the play includes Earl Hartsell and Jim Tucker, sound; Babe Hooks, turn-tables; and John Young, control engineer. The announcer will be Robert Andrew.
