

Week-end Fare Boosts By Local Taxicabs Termed "Unauthorized Increase" By Ray

Natural Bridge Conference Plans Are Almost Completed, State Burks, Ross

Plans for the winter conference at Natural Bridge on February 20 to 22 are nearly complete, according to co-chairmen Pete Burks and Julia Ross, following nearly three months of work by various committees.

Registration for the campus at large began on Monday and is continuing through this week in the offices of the YW and the YM, sponsors of the conference said. Open to the entire student body, the affair will also have representatives from other schools near Natural Bridge.

Designed as an opportunity for interested students to discuss campus and world problems and their effect upon the University, the conference will have as its theme: "A Clue to our Purpose." Principal speakers will be Cameron P. Hall of the Federal Council of Churches and Dr. Frank Hanft of the University Law school.

Emily Von Borries, Gray Simpson, Charlie Foley, and Sam McGill, working at the head of the program committee, have arranged for speakers and for the heads of the six commissions, discussion groups which will be headed by students.

Publicity and promotion are being handled by Merrily Brooks, Bill Powell, and Jack Parks, who have sent letters to various campus leaders and to organizations at other schools. Hank Hopkins and Charlie Britt are in charge of finance and registration, and Hilda Frances Lawrence and John Hough are handling transportation.

Social and recreational aspects of the weekend, which will include sightseeing trips and dances, have been planned by Emily Ogburn, Ed McLeod, and Ed Hamilton, with the help of the YW recreation committee.

Worship periods at the conference will be planned by Jo Butler, head of the YW Worship committee, and Don Broad and George Worth. Sally Lee is in charge of arrangements with the hotel.

Town Aldermen Will Consider Matter Tonight

By Raney Stanford

Last weekend's violation by the Carolina Cab company of the Chapel Hill ordinance imposing a maximum charge of 25 cents on city rides will probably be brought before the town board of aldermen tonight, due to complaints of local citizens.

G. W. Ray, town manager, said yesterday that several people complained to him that while last week's heavy fall of snow and ice was on the city's streets town taxicabs upped their rates from the prescribed 25 cents. The city official said he conferred with Mr. Bartlett of the taxi company, found the reported increases were true, and they "discussed" it. Ray termed the taxi firm's actions as an "unauthorized increase."

"We increased our charges to 50 cents in town and added 25 cents to our other standard rates when the traffic conditions were at their worst," J. T. Lloyd, morning dispatcher for the carriers, said yesterday. "We removed the increase when people complained about it, and are now only charging regular fares despite the current snowfall."

The Carolina Cab dispatcher said the fares were raised due to the increase of operating costs and hazards during the bad weather now affecting the town. He cited the tire chains and increased gasoline consumption used by the company's vehicles during such weather, the danger to drivers due to icy roads, and the longer times taken on bad weather trips than normal, as some of the reasons.

"Our drivers refuse to drive under such conditions, and we don't try to make them," he continued. He stated that the company's operations yesterday were greatly restricted by the firm's and its drivers then refusing to carry passengers. He expressed the doubt that the company could keep taxis on the roads if the current conditions persist.

Philosophy Club Meets Tomorrow

There will be a meeting of the Philosophy club tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge No. 3 of Graham Memorial.

Dr. N. J. Demerath, department of sociology, will lecture on "Freedom of the Will: A Problem of Conceptualization." Following the lecture, Dr. Demerath will lead group discussion.

After the discussion period a brief business session will be directed by Harrison Tenney. It is requested that club members attend the meeting and that they have topics for discussion for later meetings written out ready to hand to the secretary.

Club meetings are open to all interested persons.

GBS Gets Foxed; Louis Is Lewis

London, February 10.—(UP)—George Bernard Shaw, who has hooked a lot of people in his time, has had the tables turned.

Last Monday, somebody telephoned the home of the playwright saying Joe Louis would like to have tea with him.

Shaw was delighted. Prize-fighters are close to his heart. He wrote a play about one called "Cashel Byron's Profession."

He had heard months ago that the heavyweight champion was making a trip to England and wanted to visit him.

Tea time came around at his home outside London and who should appear but a gray-haired man with a fair complexion. He said he was flattered that Shaw remembered him. He said they met years ago in the United States. Shaw's housekeeper said today that the visitor was an American named Joseph Lewis, and that Shaw remembered him faintly. She could not identify Lewis beyond that.

Lewis sat through tea, enjoying himself and left without knowing what had happened.

Says Shaw's housekeeper: "Mr. Shaw was shocked, but he did not say a word about the mix-up."

Rendezvous Starts Couples Only Rule For Friday Nights

Couples only will be the admission rule at Friday night's Rendezvous floor show, according to Clarence Barbour, Graham Memorial entertainment director.

Singing and dancing in a typical New Orleans cabaret setting will create the atmosphere of a waterfront cafe for the show, to be given at 8 o'clock in the Rendezvous room. Bill Corley and Grace Blades will be featured in their "Birth of the Blues" dance number.

"This rule is not to become a permanent policy of the Rendezvous room," said Barbour, "but because of limited facilities, and judging by the overflowing attendance at past shows, it is a necessity" for this particular show.

Uninvited Guest

New York, Feb. 10.—(UP)—Comedian Maury Amsterdam featured a pair of guest artists on his radio program this afternoon without even knowing about it.

And he wouldn't have known anything about it if scores of fans hadn't called W. H. N. to ask who the mysterious voices were that broke into a musical selection on the Amsterdam show.

The somewhat puzzled radio men then began to make a few phone calls themselves and quicker than you can say "now" for a few words from our sponsor, the mystery was cleared up.

It seems as though a couple of telephone repair men had cut in to the W. H. N. transmission line and unknowingly broadcast some of the remarks about the conditions of the weather and the

Bursley Issues Call For Yack Snapshots

The Yackety Yack is looking for any type of snapshots these days.

That became evident yesterday when Editorial board member Harold Bursley issued a call to them. "We want typical and unusual ones," he said, "and it was pointed out that almost any picture is either usual (typical) or unusual, he said (thoughtful).

"That's just what I mean," he smiled.

"The Yack will return snapshots when the best ones are in, and while both acknowledgment and reimbursement are not guaranteed, our thanks go to every contributor," Ruth Wesco placed in.
