Handbook Editor To Be Selected Tonite By Senate

Coed Senate will meet tonight in Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial to elect the editor for the Woman's Handbook.

The slate of applicants from which the editor is to be selected include the following:

Nina (Bunnie) Davis, Doris Weaver, Emily Baker, Randall Hudson, Miriam Evans, Jane Mears, Anne Fleming, and Carter Taylor.

The Handbook will be completed by June and sent to all prospective coeds previous to their entrance to the University. Its purpose is to help orient the coeds by giving a true picture of campus life at Carolina and is the only publication which presents social rules.

The Senate meeting will be open and any interested persons may attend.

Miss McKnight Will Talk To Counsellors

Frances McKnight, of the Child Migrant Workers program in New York state will be on the campus Thursday to interview any men and women students interested in employment in summer camps run by this organization. Kathryn G. Cook, through whose office in South building appointments to see the camp representative may be made, pointed out the advantages of this opportunity to those students who are interested in the fields of education and sociology.

TICKET INFORMATION

There are still a limited number of tickets available for the indoor track meet Saturday night in Woollen gym. Students may purchase the ducais for 75 cents and passbook coupon number 21.

General admission to the public is $1.50.

The Athletic office also announced that tickets for the Duke game in the Blue Devils' gym this Friday may be obtained at the ticket window today. Sometime tomorrow, all ducais still not sold will be turned back to Duke officials.

Inter-Club Council Freshman Chapel Are Recommended

By Sally Woodhull
Personalizing the honor system, establishment of an interclub council, institution of freshman chapel, and encouraging of opportunities for association between Negro and white students are among the recommendations to come out of commission groups at the Natural Bridge conference sponsored by the YM and YWCA last weekend.

Approximately 100 students from Carolina, William and Mary, Randolph-Macon and Mary Baldwin met at the Natural Bridge hotel in Virginia Friday, Saturday and Sunday to discuss problems of campus and world affairs. Principal speakers at the conference were Dr. Cameron Hall of the Federal Council of Churches, Dr. Frank Hanft of the University Law school, and Warren Ashby of the philosophy department.

Open Meeting

Reports of the commission groups, delivered to the campus at an open meeting yesterday afternoon in Graham Memorial, showed, in addition to principles which should be followed, concrete steps suggested by commission members for the improvement of student government, student activities and social functions, scholarship, racial relations, and attitudes toward world government and economic affairs.

A complete report of recommendations is to be compiled by the Y's, it was announced at yesterday's meeting, and will be distributed to organizations concerned.

Political Report

Jess Dedmond, reporting for the commission on campus politics and organizations, stressed the necessity for good leadership among students, recommending a course in student government; the stimulation of interest among entering students, to be accomplished through better orientation; the improvement of student-faculty relationships; and the dissemination of graphic knowledge about student government.

The lack of recreational facilities on campus was discussed by the social commission, and recommendations reported by Ed McLeod include the building of a recreation center; open houses for men's dorms to be held in Graham Memorial or the Monogram club, the establishment of lounges and dorm stores in men's dorms.

Racial Tensions

George Worth, reporting for the commission on racial tensions, announced that the commission would prepare a syllabus of action of other Southern universities on admitting Negroes, and submitted the following recommendations: YMCA, YWCA, and Hillel should encourage church student groups to study segregation and make a public statement of their stand on it.

The three groups should form a joint committee on colored com- (See RETREAT, page 4)

Snavelly Stays

Coach Carl Snavelly will not leave Carolina.

The Gray Fox made the announcement yesterday after several days of deliberation and discussion over a $25,000 a year plus offer had been made by the Los Angeles Dons of the All-American Professional football conference in an attempt to lure the Tar Heel mentor away from Chapel Hill.

Snavelly said the negotiations with Los Angeles grew out of a statement he made to his friend, Harry Thayer, business manager of the Dons, and he added he is sorry the thing ever became public.

The gray-haired coach said the Los Angeles offer was fair and generous and he called it an opportunity which could not well be refused. But Snavelly and his wife, after serious consideration, "came face to face with the termination of our Carolina association, and with the thought that the work in which so many of us have joined might be impaired, simply found ourselves unable to leave."

Dormitory To Be Guests Of UVA

The girls from McIver dormitory will be the guests of the University Veterans association tonight at a clubhouse behind Lenoir hall.

President Johnny Clappitt announced this as the first in a series of open houses providing for amateur entertainment and a long range program.

The new program was passed by the association's Board of Governors in a recent meeting. Pinky Barnes and A. B. Coleman will be in charge of the informal entertainment with Barnes as the master of ceremonies.

It was also decided by the board to appropriate $5 for these programs and to provide entertainment to be furnished by the Graham Memorial Entertainment bureau.

Next week the Town Girl's association will be the guests of the UVA. The group plans an outing in the near future with girls from Women's college as guests.

Last night a general business meeting of the association discussed other possibilities for future entertainment. Measures pertaining to the UVA constitution which have been tabled for some time were discussed. According to Clappitt they will probably be brought off the table and added to the agenda for a vote at the next regular meeting.

Wallace Has Mate

Washington, Feb. 23—(UP)—Henry Wallace now has a running mate on the third party ticket.

In a radio broadcast last night, Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho turned his back on the Democratic party to campaign for vice-president under the new party banner.

The Idaho senator, who was elected to the upper house of Congress by campaigning on horseback with a cowboy band, has been Wallace's first choice since the third party was formed, but the Idaho senator had asked for time to decide whether to risk what he called "probable political suicide."

Taylor announced his decision with these words, "I am going to cast my lot with Henry Wallace in his brave and gallant fight for peace."

The 43-year-old senator went on to blast both major parties. As for the Democrats, he says, "I am not leaving the Democratic party, it left me. Wall Street and the military have taken over."

Jerry Pence Declares Candidacy For Cheerleader, To Run On Independent Ticket In April Elections

Jerry Pence, junior from Wagram, will run for the position of head cheerleader as an independent in the April elections.

Pence, who is a member of this year's cheering squad, stated yesterday that if he was elected, he would work with the other contenders for the position to do the best possible job in the office.

Also listed on Pence's platform are pledges to confer with cheerleaders of other schools to bring about better sportsmanship and better half-time shows, to initiate a more active tumbling program in the squad, and to work during orientation week to teach songs and cheers to the new lowerclassmen.

The candidate, a chemistry major, entered the University in 1943, withdrew to go into the army in 1944, where he served with the infantry of the 90th division in Europe, and returned here in September of 1946.

He was a member of the 1943-44 swimming squad and was social chairman of the sophomore class last year.

Pence's complete platform is composed of six planks, as follows:

"Closest Cooperation"
(1) If elected, I will endeavor to work in closest cooperation with the other contenders for the office to get the best ideas and workable plans for the betterment of the cheering sections.

(2) To arrange for conferences with cheering squads of other schools to encourage better sportsmanship and better half-time shows, (3) To initiate a more active group of tumblers into the squad, (4) New cheers and work for a good public address system.

Orientation Program
(5) To work during orientation week to teach the incoming students our cheers and songs, (6) To intensify a campaign for more school spirit, (7) To count on the student body to outcheer our opponents.

Pence, a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, is the fourth person to enter the race for the head cheerleader position for next year.

AVC Will Discuss Bi-Racial Issue

The Chapel Hill and University chapter of the American Veterans committee will hear a talk on unsegregated education at UNC by Nell Morton at its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Presbyterian church. The public is invited.

Also on the agenda will be the deportation proceedings recently launched by the Department of Justice against large numbers of aliens in the United States.

Plans for future informal social gatherings to be held by the chapter are to be presented to the membership. It is anticipated that the local group may give entertainments and get-togethers for all who wish to come. Necessary arrangements are to be considered at tonight's meeting.

Graham Home

Dr. Frank Porter Graham was back at his desk in South building yesterday after returning from work in New York and Washington Sunday afternoon.

At approximately 9:15 yesterday morning the educator settled down to get back in the Carolina swing of things again.

South building officials said that one more trip to Lake Success on Thursday would be necessary to wind up his recently-concluded peace mission to Indonesia.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Le Cercle Francais will hold its regular meeting tonight at 7:30 in Caldwell Y. The group will meet for supper together at the Carolina Inn at 6:15. Dr. Alfred Engstrom of the Romance Languages department will speak on "Paul Verlaine et sa poesie." Visitors are welcomed.

Literary Quarterly Backers To Meet In Graham Memorial

The feasibility of establishing a literary quarterly on the campus, the methods for doing so, and the general reaction to the idea of one will be discussed at a meeting to be held tonight at 7 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge of Graham Memorial.

Open to All
Called by publications men interested in the formation of such a magazine, the meeting will be open to all who have ideas on the subject or who desire to attend. Editor Fred Jacobson of the Carolina magazine, who has signed the petition for a quarterly said yesterday, "We want a large attendance as we expect to put the project in the hands of a central committee at the meeting."

Sentiment is believed to be running high for the establishment of such a magazine. There were, at last reports, 1,400 signatures on the petition asking for it, and prominent publications figures are included in that number.

General and Specific

The meeting tonight will be a general discussion of the entire proposal followed by consideration of the specific methods and organization called for by such a move.

According to Jacobson, the group will probably close the meeting by electing committees to look further into the financial and organizational ends of the project, to prepare a prospectus on the magazine, and to direct the program.

The last named group would, Jacobson maintained, be useful in coordinating the overlapping efforts now being made for the quarterly.

Southern Governors Take Ultimatum to Dem Chairman

Washington, Feb. 23—(UP)—Rebellious Southern governors met this afternoon with McGrath and then issued a statement saying that "The present leadership of the Democratic party will soon realize that the South is no longer in the bag."

In effect, they demanded: "Either you withdraw President Truman's Civil Rights program from Congressional consideration, or we may withdraw our support of President Truman."

The men were governors from four Southern states, Gregg Cherry of North Carolina, Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, Ben Laney of Arkansas and B. H. Jester of Texas. William Tuck of Virginia, who was originally listed as one of the group, didn't appear.

They handed their ultimatum to the boss of the Democratic National committee, Senator Howard McGrath of Rhode Island.

The governors asked McGrath to use his influence with the President on three points. (1) To have the Civil Rights program withdrawn. (2) To adopt a plank in the Democratic National Convention platform to uphold the principle of State Rights and opposing what they describe as "Such invasion of that principle as the proposed anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and anti-discrimination program." (3) To restore the two-thirds rule in the 1948 Convention at Philadelphia. This is the rule scrapped by the party in 1926 which would give the Dixie delegates a strong voice in the Convention proceedings.

Eager Newsmen

A full hour before the conference which was scheduled for 2:30 this afternoon, newsmen began flocking into the Democratic National committee's fancy new headquarters on Connecticut av-

Phi Will Discuss Negro Entrance

The Phi Assembly will debate a proposal to admit a limited number of Negroes to the University on an experimental basis tonight at 7:30 in the Phi hall.

Twice in the history of the University the question of admitting Negro students has come before the administration. In 1932 a Negro applicant took his plea to the courts but the case was thrown out on a legal technicality. Again in 1939 a Negro woman applied for admission to the University graduate school, but was refused entrance.

Legislature Judicial Group Will Hold Public Session

The controversial appellate jurisdiction situation will be discussed this afternoon in an open meeting of the special committee of the Student Legislature set up to study the judicial provisions of the constitution.

The committee, which will make its report to the Legislature Thursday evening, has called the meeting "to make sure everyone is heard," according to Chairman Basil Sherrill.

Unconstitutional Angles

Scheduled for the Grail room of Graham Memorial at 2 o'clock, the group will discuss the unconstitutional angles of the separate Law and Medical school honor courts.

The committee was created on February 6, and has been attempting to determine whether or not the Student council should keep its appellate jurisdiction over Men's and Women's council cases which are appealed.

They are also endeavoring to define more closely the powers of the Student council, the procedure it should follow in hearing appeals, and the qualifications necessary for its members.

Report Thursday
The Legislature has asked the committee to report on their decisions Thursday night, following a one-week extension which they gave the group at the last session of the law-making body.

Dedmond To Address Campus Party Tonite Topic To Be Student Government Objective

Jess Dedmond, former chairman of the Campus party who is running at the present time for president of the student body with a joint UP-CP nomination, will speak at a meeting of the Campus party at 7 o'clock this evening in Roland Parker lounge 2 of Graham Memorial.

Subject of Dedmond's remarks will be the objectives of student government. According to Chairman Bob Haire, his talk is expected to precede a nominating session of the party.

Regarding this session, Haire stated yesterday, "The spring elections are near enough that it is time we are getting our candidates into the field, in order that the campus may weigh their merits in comparison with those of other parties."

He urged all of the people that the party steering committee has contacted to attempt to be present at the meeting. Reason that he gave for this was that, "The party will be better able to decide between possible nominees if they present themselves personally for party consideration."
