Indoor Games Set For Woollen Today

Carolina to Defend 1947 Team Honors In Annual Classic

By Morty Schapp
Today's the day for track fans to rise and shine as all roads led to Chapel Hill yesterday with some 500 athletes, representing 19 colleges and 18 high schools, arrived in town for the Sixth Annual Southern Invitation indoor games to be held in Woollen gym this afternoon and evening. Carolina will defend its team honors, and three lads will try to hold the crowns that they gathered last year. Roger Neighborgall will be out to rack up the 880-yard run again for Duke, Ed Matthews of Maryland will try and make it two years in a row in the 440, and Bob Seligman of Carolina will try to take the shot put again this year.

The teams that arrived for the meet are Carolina, Wake Forest, Duke, State, Navy, Maryland, Roanoke, VPI, VMI, Randolph Macon, Emory-Henry, Washington and Lee, South Carolina, Florida, Davidson, Virginia, Shippensburg Teachers College, Tennessee, and Georgia, in the college division. They have brought a total of 229 athletes to compete in the various events.

Begins At 1:30
The first varsity attraction will be the finals in the shot-put, set for the Tin Can at 1:30. Jim O'Leary of Duke will be the favorite to dethrone Seligman. Other leaders will be Norm Messerole of Tennessee, Jim Byler of State, and George Hills of Florida.

The high jump will see the field try to beat Jack Moody of Carolina, who is the holder of the Southern conference record. Outstanding contenders in this event are George Pickett of State, Bill Crandell of Maryland, Phil Brannon of Navy, and John Colvin of Duke.

The 60-yard dash will see Sterling Wingo of VPI as the top man on the form sheet with Walt Galliford of Virginia, Jim Murray of Navy, Jim McGowan of Maryland, and Ed Goode of Emory-Henry as the chief threats. The 70-yard low hurdles will see a group of runners composed of Bill and Dan Mohler of Virginia, Mario Salvenelli and Carl Rhuback of Maryland, Dean Osterout of Navy, Hunter Heggie, Jack Moody, Bob Morrow and Ted Shultz of Carolina all vie for the top spot left vacated by Chuck Simmons. Foreman And Wise To Address Wallace Public Rally Tonight

By Gordon Huffines

Dr. Clark H. Foreman, president of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, will share the speaker's platform with James W. Wise at the Tar Heel Students for Wallace public rally scheduled for 8 o'clock tonight in the Alumni building. The two-day Wallace convention will open today with delegates from more than 25 North Carolina colleges in attendance.

Foreman, who is a resident of Highlands, North Carolina, was formerly a social sciences professor at Black Mountain college. He is now serving as a member of the National Steering committee for the Wallace campaign and as national vice-chairman of the Progressive Citizens of America.

It was announced yesterday that a speech, written for the Tar Heel convention by Henry Wallace, will be delivered at the "Win with Wallace" rally by Sam Hirsch, assistant Playmaker business manager. Glenn Taylor, who has recently announced his candidacy for the third party vice-presidential nomination, has also sent a message to the Wallace assembly.

Wise, other featured speaker on tonight's program, became prominent in the news recently as campaign manager for Leo Isacson, Wallace backed American Labor party candidate who was elected to Congress from New York's 24th Congressional district this month.

Marge Frantz, member of the local Wallace club, stated today that Leonard Nelson, who will address the opening session of the Wallace assembly at 1 o'clock this afternoon, organized a Students for Wallace club at Duke last night. A large delegation from Duke is expected to attend the state-wide conference here.

The assembly will open this morning at 10 o'clock with delegates registering at the Presbyterian church. Keynote Bill Richardson, president of the local Wallace club, will preside over this afternoon's session featuring Leonard Nelson and student speakers from North Carolina colleges.

A free movie, "Time to Act", will be shown at tonight's rally.

THE WALLACE BUTTON displayed on the lapel of Senator Glen H. Taylor will be seen in profusion on campus this weekend, as the Tar Heel Students for Wallace convention meets here beginning today. Taylor (D-Idaho) is in the running for the vice-presidential post on the Henry Wallace-Progressive party ticket. (International Soundphoto)

Wallace Convention Will End With Program of Folk Ballads

The final session of the Tar Heel Students for Wallace assembly will feature a folk music concert by balladeer Pete Seeger Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Alumni building, fourth floor. Seeger's two hour concert, which will be

WF Meet Condemns Preventive Warfare

Dean Mathews announced at the meeting of the World Federalists held last Thursday that their weekly radio program, previously heard over station WDUK Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock, will now be broadcast on the same day at 12:15.

Topic for the discussion period of the meeting was concerning a preventive war with Russia. The value of peace, the cost of war, and the reaction of other nations against war were brought out as reasons opposed to a preventive war with Russia. It was concluded that this type of war offers no solution to our present day problems with Russia.

open to the public, will offer a variety of American ballads and folk songs.

Born in New York, Seeger became interested in folk music when he attended a folk festival in Asheville in 1935. For the past 10 years the balladeer has been touring the country learning new songs and picking up new ways of playing his five-string banjo. His collection now includes hundreds of ballads, blues, hymns, and spirituals. One of his latest is "Gideon's Army", referring to Wallace's new party.

Directs Singers
Since his discharge from the army, Seeger has been director of People's Songs, a ballad-making and folk-singing organization which is comprised of members throughout the United States and Canada interested in American folk music. Through the medium of "Hootenannies" (a kind of singing jam session) this organization has introduced folk songs to audiences all over the country.

Seeger, now completing a nation-wide tour, has done much to popularize American folk music through his recorded "Talking Union" and albums such as "America's Favorite Songs."

China Receiving American Planes

Washington, Feb. 27—(UP)—Government officials tonight disclosed a long-secret agreement under which the United States committed itself to provide China with a first-line air force of more than 1,000 planes, including heavy bombers and fighters.

The government spokesmen said that more than 900 warplanes already have been delivered to the Nanking government under the program. The rest—including flying fortresses, fighters and a few transport planes—will be turned over to the Chinese later.

In addition to the planes, $178,000,000 worth of air force equipment, including such things as spare parts also will be shipped to China.

The building up of China's air force by the United States had been a top secret until tonight. The wraps were taken off at the moment Republican leaders are seeking increased military aid to China.

Mistaken Identity

"A case of mistaken identity," the Raleigh News and Observer explained yesterday after it had had a Washington, North Carolina Democrat speaking here at the Wallace for President convention.

As the facts were unraveled, it appeared that there are two Leonard Nelsons in the state; one is a staunch Democrat from Washington, the other Executive secretary of the national Students for Wallace organization and a resident of Miami, Florida.

It is, of course, the Floridian who is scheduled to address the rally here.

Explanation for the error was found to be the Wallcete Nelson's statement that he attended State college. However, when the News and Observer checked the college records to get information for their story, it found that the Washington man was the only Leonard Nelson listed on the State books.

After both Nelsons had called the newspaper office, the erroneous story was corrected with an apology for any embarrassment caused.

Meeting Set Tuesday To Choose Delegates

An important meeting for the presidents or official representatives of all campus organizations who wish to sponsor the State Student Legislature will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge no. 1. The purpose of this meeting is to choose seven delegates for the Executive Council meeting of the Student Legislature.

The Executive council meeting will be held March 6 in the Senate chamber of the state capitol building in Raleigh. It will make plans for the April meeting of the Student Legislature in the capital city. Delegates from all colleges and universities in the state will be present.

CONGREGATIONAL SERVICES

The Congregational Christian church, 211 Cameron Avenue, is holding evening worship services each Sunday in Lent. The Reverend Bernard V. Munger is preaching a series of sermons from the Fourth Gospel.

250 Students Are Debating In Louisiana

More than 250 students from 43 North American colleges are participating in the Tulane university forensic centennial, according to a wire received yesterday from Earl Fitzgerald, Debate council president.

Fitzgerald headed a contingent of four University debaters, two orators and two extemporaneous speakers who flew to New Orleans Wednesday to take part in the three-day long tournament.

400 Debates
In the oratory and extemporaneous speaking preliminaries held Thursday the Carolina delegates failed to place in the field of nine selected for the final round, Fitzgerald said. The round of 400 debates began Thursday night, he added, but no results will be announced until the finals today.

Four antique silver trophy cups are to be awarded to the winning teams tonight.

Participants Listed
Members of the Carolina group participating in the tournament are: Debaters—Charlie Long, Thomasville; Merle Stevens, Forest City; Dick Mottman, Hendersonville; and Herbert Mitchell, Asheville. Orators: Thomas Shelton, Atlanta, Georgia; James Spence, Lillington. Extemporaneous: Blanton Miller, Boone; and Richard Bowen, Athens, Georgia.

On the trip to New Orleans, bad weather grounded the Carolina delegation's plane in Mobile, Alabama, and the remainder of the journey was made by special bus.

Czech Reds Warn Western Powers

Prague, Feb. 27—(UP)—The new Communist government in Czechoslovakia, less than 24 hours old, already has warned the Western Powers to keep their noses out of Czechoslovakia.

In a formal statement, Premier Gottwald condemned Britain, France and the United States for calling the new Czech regime a dictatorship in disguise. He said the Western Powers have no right to interfere with or criticize the affairs of Czechoslovakia.

The new government was installed this morning. Shortly after swearing in ceremonies, the government warned foreign correspondents to watch their copy, that it wouldn't tolerate what it called distorted and false news reports being sent abroad. It also threatened what it called "proper punishment."

In the face of the new events in Prague, President Benes and his wife left the capital today for their summer home. The president's car was accompanied by a police escort.

'Adequate World Organization' Is Asked For By Paul Douglass

FIREMEN POUR WATER into one of the rooms of the $35,000 house in which six member of a prominent broker's family died when fire destroyed their Cambridge, Mass., home. The dead were: H. Alan Gregg, Jr., 40; his wife, Ann, 39, and their children, Susan, 9; H. Alan III, 8; Peter, 3, and Thomas, 10 months. Several persons, including a Catholic priest, who tried to rescue the Greggs, were injured. (International)

"The only way the United Nations can be made to work is by day-by-day insistence of the outraged average citizen who know that war is not inevitable but can be made unnecessary and obsolete by adequate world organization," Dr. Paul F. Douglass, nationally known educator and president of American university, Washington, D. C., said here last night.

President Douglass spoke at the opening session of the International Relations club's regional conference being held at the University yesterday and today. The sessions drew 150 delegates from colleges and universities of North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia.

To Buy Time
Dr. Douglass said the United States has "embarked on a policy to buy time with American dollars until we are the most invincible nation in the world at which time we could strike impenetrable blows all over the globe. The purpose is military power and economic impenetration."

"Our discretionary spending power has multiplied three times in the last eight years. We are also the best educated people in the world, the average American having had two years of high school.

Indebted, Involved, Dangerous
"But we are also the most indebted, the most involved, and the most dangerous people in the world."

President Douglass said, "The fate of the United Nations is going to be decided in the Near East this spring, and, in my opinion, we will have 100,000 troops in Palestine by May."

Another problem lies in the fact that the present era will be determined by who controls China, and the only possible way the United States can do this is to make the United Nations work, he said.

"Outraged"
"The American people should be outraged," Dr. Douglass concluded, "at some of the statistics in our national expenditures. The president's budget proposes $500,000,000 for European aid, $660,000,000 for atomic energy and $550,000,000 for military research. "But not one nickel has been appropriated for research in finding techniques and methods for peace!" he said.

"We do not contribute as much to the UN as the California wine industry spent on advertising last year or one half what we spend propagating fish. The amount for specialized agencies is less than one third the appropriation for the weather bureau. It is evident that distortion of monetary values is indicative of our confusion."

This morning's session, which will conclude the conference, will feature seminars on current international topics.

Mme M. Perreux, secretary-general of the Paris office of the Carnegie endowment for world peace which sponsors the regional conferences of student International Relations clubs, is attending the sessions here as an official observer.

Finland May Be Next To Play Russian Tag

Helsinki, Feb. 27 —(UP)—Political sources here indicated today that Finland may be the next European nation to play diplomatic tag with Russia.

The government announced that a friendship and mutual-aid pact between Russia and Finland has been proposed by Josef Stalin.

The Finnish president is said to have received a letter from Stalin saying Finland is the only neighbor of Russia which hasn't signed a treaty with the Soviet Union. The letter is quoted as proposing a new pact of what it calls "friendship and defense."

N. C. Symphony Facilities To Be Used In New Student Entertainment Series

The coming birth of a new Student Entertainment series is in embryo stages today after entertainment committee approval of a plan to coordinate the committee with the North Carolina Symphony society.

'Case Dismissed'

Aurora, Ill., Feb. 27—(UP)—It's every man for himself here on Aurora's leap year day, the first in eight years. Today was the day when unmarried women took over all important city jobs, put on police uniforms, grabbed clubs and went out to grab a husband.

Any bachelor was subject to arrest on sight, and there are some 300 bachelors in Aurora. If he could not produce a marriage certificate, he was as good as in the hoosegow.

The girls got one big surprise, however.

Up before unmarried police magistrate Irene Youngman, came 43-year-old Wilbur Esser, a banker.

"Not guilty," he said. "Why do you make such a plea?" the magistrate asked. The banker pulled a diamond ring from his pocket and said, "I'm perfectly willing to get married, and if you will put out your left hand, I'll put the ring on your finger and we'll be married today."

That was Miss Youngman's big chance. The chips were down, but she looked at the defendant and said, "Case dismissed."

Fathered by student body president Tom Eller, the cooperative plan will attempt to bring a higher quality of entertainment at a reduced price to the Carolina campus.

The plan specifies that the N. C. Symphony will submit a list of possible programs to be used in the entertainment series and will be responsible for contracting the agencies. The only stipulation required by the organization is that the committee sponsor the Symphony in the entertainment series. The Symphony's appearance will provide favorable publicity for that organization, and the committee will in turn be able to book entertainment at a saving.

Old Group Out

With announcement of the new plan, Eller also stated that Chancellor R. B. House has abolished the faculty committee on student entertainment in favor of a constitutional committee on the order of the Publications board. Prior to this move the faculty committee had power of final decision on student entertainment. The committee in accordance with the constitution will be composed of a chairman and three student members appointed by the student body president and approved by the student legislature. Its three faculty members will be selected by student members of the committee.

The new plan calls for two representatives from the N. C. Symphony to meet with the student entertainment committee and submit a list of possible programs for the entertainment series. Selections from this list will be made either by the committee or by submitting the list to the student body for a vote.

Cooperative Bodies

The committee will meet a minimum of three times a quarter, and cooperate with the director of Graham Memorial, the Dean of Men, and representatives of the N. C. Symphony society.

Regarding the reimbursement of season ticket holders, the committee has agreed to insert a legal notice in the "Daily Tar Heel" three times, and to set March 10 as the deadline for returning the tickets.

In Thursday's meeting the committee voted on a list of faculty (See SYMPHONY, page 4)
