Charlie Long Announces Presidential Candidacy

Former SP Chairman, Speaker Pro Tem Is Seeking Presidency As Independent

By Chuck Hauser

Charlie Long, former SP chairman and speaker pro tempore of the Student Legislature, has become the third independent candidate to enter the race for the presidency of the student body in the April 6 general elections.

Long announced his candidacy before he left for Fredericksburg, Virginia, where he is representing the University in the Grand National Forensic debate tournament being held at Mary Washington college.

Two Legislative Terms

The candidate, a junior from Thomasville, is a member of President Tom Eller's cabinet, and has seen two terms of service in the Student Legislature, where he has served, in addition to his duties as speaker pro tem, on the Fact-Finding board, the Elections committee, the Finance committee, and in various other capacities.

Long is president of the Executive council of the State Student Legislature, which is scheduled to meet in Raleigh in the state capital on April 16 and 17. He has been both speaker and speaker pro tem of the Dialectic Senate here, having served two terms as president of that organization and one term as its vice-president.

A veteran at student government, the former Student party leader resigned from that political organization recently, after he had reportedly refused their nomination for the presidency.

Editorial Column

The European theater veteran is writing an editorial column at present for the Daily Tar Heel—The Political Spotlight. Considered a potential presidential possibility before he withdrew from political activity and began writing his column, Long indicated at that time that he would not be a candidate.

In a statement announcing his intentions of running, he took a stand for redistricting and reapportionment, retention of the appeal power by students, one court system for the entire student body instead of special courts for the Law school, Medical school, etc., and a strong attorney general for the student body with powers to investigate and report any infraction of students' rights under the constitution.

Dr. Sastroamidjojo Visits Dr. Graham

Dr. Ali Sastroamidjojo arrived in Chapel Hill yesterday for a visit with President Graham.

Sastroamidjojo, minister of education for the Republic of Indonesia and spokesman for the Indonesian delegation in the UN Security council, is making a month-long tour of American educational centers.

Dr. Ali is a close friend of Dr. Graham's. They met during the latter's recent service on the Committee of Good Offices which negotiated a compromise settlement in the dispute between the Indonesian Republic and the Royal Netherlands government.

Carolina is the only school in the state which Dr. Ali will visit.

Saturday Classes

The administration stressed the fact yesterday that regular classes are scheduled in all departments tomorrow. The usual Wednesday class schedule for this quarter will be followed.

Tomorrow will be the only day of Saturday classes during the quarter, however, it was pointed out. University officials explained the reason for the move was to include the correct number of hours required by the American Association of Universities.

CHARLIE LONG

Candidate Releases Formal Statement

(Following is the complete text of the statement released by Charlie Long to declare his candidacy for the presidency of the student body.)

"In entering the race for president of the student body I maintain that there are certain basic issues affecting the student body and the well-being of student government which must be considered and a workable solution reached if we are to continue with a functioning student government.

'No Stand Taken'

"I further maintain that from no quarter has a stand been taken on the issue of redistricting, appellate power of the Student council, extrajudicial courts for privileged groups and the overall problem of the welfare of students on this campus which will serve the best interests of the students of this University.

"It has now become essential that the executive department be completely reorganized so that it can anticipate and cope with the problems which beset the student of this campus. President Eller has done a commendable job during the past year in making the executive department serving the students, and this trend must be continued and broadened.

'Courts in Muddle'

"At the present time the court system of the campus is in a complete muddle. Out of this chaos must come a system that will assure all students justice. It is my unwavering view that every student here should have the right of appeal to a higher court.

"At the same time I feel that very close scrutiny should be given any special court that might be set up on campus. There is too much danger of creating special courts for special classes of people.

Poor Electoral System

"After a year of failing attempts the campus still does not have an electoral system whereby it can know who is being sent to the Legislature to represent it.

"It is imperative that a redistricting and reapportioning bill be put into effect immediately. Of equal importance is the necessity that the redistricting bill not be slanted so as to favor any one group.

"Finally, the need has been (See LONG, page 4)

One-Act Old English Play Will Highlight Early Easter Service

By Virginia Forward

With the early morning sky for a background, the Forest theater sunrise service Sunday morning will include a one-act Old English play of the 15th century, music, prayers, and scripture readings.

Although in former years the service has been primarily a function of the campus YMCA and YWCA groups, this year the participation and planning are being shared with the entire community. Representatives of both student and adult groups from each of the churches in Chapel Hill form the central planning committee. Mrs. Robert Nelson heads this group.

Rutgers Press Publication

Following the formal worship program and highlighting the service will be the presentation of an Old English resurrection play translated and arranged by Kai Jurgensen and Bob Schenk. The play is one out of a book of plays to be published by Rutgers University press in the fall.

Entitled "Fourteen Plays for the Church" the book was translated into modern English by the Wakefield Trade guilds and includes plays, connected with the liturgy of the Church translated from Middle English, Middle German, Italian, Old English and Latin.

World Premiere

Judgensen, of the dramatic arts department, who worked as translator with the Wakefield guild, said, "The main purpose of the book is to provide the churches with good dramatic material. The average church play is not up to par and so these ancient plays, which are good, were assembled for use by the churches." Mr. Judgensen added that the service Sunday morning will see the first presentation of any of the 14 plays.

With basic work on the production of the play completed, the cast went into rehearsals last Monday while most students were home for spring vacations. Practices will continue each afternoon in the Forest theater according to David Samples, graduate student in drama, who is directing the production. R. J. Cameron is assistant director.

Wesley Players Support

The play, which will last around 25 minutes, has in its main parts, Jim Geiger, playing the role of Pilate, A. E. Westover as Caiaphas, Fred Johnson as Centurio, Edsel Hughes as Jesus, Gloria Gunn as Mary Magdalen, Pat Palmer and Marjorie Cameron as the other two Marys, W. P. Covington III as Annas, and the Rev. Robert Nelson as Captain of the Guard. Other supporting roles will be played by members of the Wesley players.

Mrs. Fred McCall, director of elementary school music, will be in charge of a professional and recreational by school children. Music for the service will include recorded medieval music, hymns by local choirs, chimes from the bell tower played by Charles Stevens, and a brass quartet directed by David Arner.

New DTH Staff

All students interested in working on the staff of the Daily Tar Heel should report to the DTH office at 2 o'clock this afternoon. All regular staff members will also be expected to be present at that time.

Anyone interested in working who is unable to come at 2 o'clock may report later, although presence at the general staff meeting is desirable.

Students May Register For Bond Issue

Today Is Final Day For All Registration; Voting To Be April 6

By Charles Craven

Qualified students may vote in the April 6 $260,000 bond issue election to be held for the purpose of improving local sewage and street facilities, and today is the final day for registering, town officials announced yesterday.

It was pointed out that students in Chapel Hill on a temporary basis are not encouraged to register but those who have reached the age of 21 and have had residence in the state for one year and Chapel Hill for four months may register if they wish. Permanent Chapel Hill residents who have registered previously for any municipal election will not be required to register again.

An ordinance authorizing the election was passed some time ago by the local Board of Aldermen when it was apparent that sewage conditions were becoming critical. The proposed bond issue includes provisions for the paving and asphaltting of nine local streets.

Sewage conditions have been described by various officials and others as being deplorable. In a statement released recently by a special committee appointed to study the proposed bond issue it was said that "the present sewage disposal plant, which was planned 25 years ago to take care of a population of 7500, is now overloaded to the extent of double its capacity. The new plant proposed the old and new plants together would provide immediately for a population of 22,500 and for a maximum population of 37,500."

The report quoted health officials as declaring, "The present plant is totally inadequate. Raw sewage is polluting our streams and serving as a source of a potential outbreak of the intestinal-borne diseases which could assume alarming proportions."

An editorial appearing in the Greensboro Daily News March 23 declared that the local municipal election is of statewide concern since young people from all over the state spend the greater part of their time at the University in Chapel Hill. The state legislature has appropriated $225,000 to be included in the University budget and this amount will be used in support of the bond issue if it is approved by citizens who vote in the coming election.

DROP-ADD FORMS

All pre-registered students who filled out drop and add forms last quarter for spring quarter courses must pick them up in 308 South and personally take them to Venable X, registration office, before the changes will go into effect.

Dance Tomorrow Nite Honors New Students

New Students will be given a further opportunity to become acquainted with Carolina activities and with older students at a dance to be given in their honor tomorrow night in Graham Memorial's main lounge.

The dance will be open to old as well as new students with no admission charge, and will run from 8:30 until 12 o'clock. Johnny Satterfield and his orchestra will provide music for dancing.

Under the direction of Bill Shuford, director of the student union, the dance will be planned around a spring theme, with decorations of flowers and Easter motifs. Members of the Graham Memorial staff will complete arrangements for the affair.

STATE BRIEFS

New Look Hits Chain Letters

Winston-Salem, March 25 (UP) — The postmaster at Winston-Salem says that a new version of the chain letter — one using tea towels as a come-on — is just as illegal as the original form. He says several linen towels and chain letters have been intercepted. He adds that the letters promise persons who carry on the chain that they will receive enough towels to stock a dry goods store.

Cherry Names Three

Raleigh, March 25 (UP) — Governor Cherry has appointed three North Carolina delegates to the Third National Conference on Citizenship to be held in the nation's capital May 16 through 19. His appointees are Doctor D. J. Rose of Goldsboro, Wiley M. Pickens of Raleigh and Mrs. Walter G. Craven of Charlotte.

Negro Indicted

Sanford, March 25 (UP) — The Lee County Grand Jury has indicted a 50-year-old Negro on charges of first-degree murder. Caleb McMillan is charged in the murder of his wife, Hettie Jane McMillan was found shot to death in bed Wednesday and her husband still has not been found.

Sheriff A. Glenn Buchanan says that a note left by McMillan gave burial instructions for his wife and himself. The sheriff says McMillan also wrote that he knew nothing about the shooting of Otis McNeill, a Negro neighbor whose body was found in the Deep river near Sanford last Saturday.

Hearing Postponed

Kinston, March 25 (UP) — Recorder Albert W. Cooper of Kinston has postponed a hearing on bad check charges brought against candidate for Governor W. F. Stanley, Sr., of Kinston. Stanley's attorney has asked for time to permit Stanley to make restitution. Cooper has continued the case until April 26.

UVA Planning Spring Social Activities; 'Welcome-Back' Dances Tomorrow Night

The University Veterans association will hold a "Welcome Back" dance tomorrow night at 8:30 in the clubhouse behind Lenoir hall.

Campus Is Getting New Spring Look

The campus is currently being helped into its new spring look by the University building and grounds workmen under the direction of F. J. LeClair of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Mr. LeClair is supervising the shrubbery trimming and replanting jobs that are now being done on campus," University Superintendent J. S. Bennett explained.

Bennett said much of the campus greenery was sadly overgrown and misshapen and was having to be cut low in order to control growth.

"We cut it way back now, and in the coming years we can trim it to our desires."

Some shrubs are being dug up completely, Bennett continued, and are to be replaced with new plants. Bushes are also being planted around Stacy dormitory for the first time.

Mag Veteran Survey Gets 1,350 Answers

The poll of veterans, "VE plus 3," conducted by the Carolina Magazine during the week preceding vacation brought an unexpected avalanche of answers numbering more than 1,350.

Having expressed their sincere appreciation for the large representative vote, Magazine editors still face the problem of counting the results of the poll. A time saving system has been devised which lacks everything but participants. Anyone interested is asked to come to the Carolina Magazine office, Graham Memorial, 3 o'clock on Saturday.

Wine 'Em and Dine 'Em

Philadelphia (UP) — Delegates and visitors to the two national political conventions this summer will have lots of recreation after business hours.

Special committees of both the Democratic and Republican parties have arranged for convention visitors to go places and see things, from baseball games and open air concerts to night-clubbing and tours of historic places.

Neither party program is definite, but the tentative schedules offer delegates and their wives enough to keep them busy with "extra-curricular" activities if they never attend a session.

The Republicans open their convention first, on June 21. However, the events actually will start the preceding Tuesday when the 106-member national committee meets to take care of last-minute details.

Many Attractions

They will be wine and dined in off-duty hours by the official host and hostess of the GOP convention — G. Mason Owlett, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, and committeewoman Mrs. Worthington Scranton. On June 18, they will attend the annual Philadelphia music festival at Municipal Stadium, followed the next evening

Lehigh Faculty Approves Plan For Own Grades

Bethlehem, Pa. (I.P.) — The Lehigh university faculty has approved a plan for student appraisal of courses and instructors originated by Arcadia, student council, as an expression of democratic cooperation and freedom.

Each student will be asked to grade his instructor "above average," "average," or "unsatisfactory" on the following:

1. Clarity of presentation and interpretation;
2. Success in bringing a sound foundation in the course;
3. Preparation for class meetings;

4. Effectiveness in arousing interest and response;
5. Stimulus to critical and independent thinking;

6. Interest and effectiveness in giving individual help;
7. Definiteness in assignments, directions and outlining the requirements of the course;

8. Friendliness toward students;

9. Fairness in grading quizzes;
10. Promptness in closing and opening class periods.

In appraising the course, students will "grade" questions on previous interest in subject matter, value of assigned reading, quality of textbooks used, and the quantity, difficulty and emphasis of tests.

SP Meets Tonight To Replace Baker

The Student party will meet this evening at 9 o'clock in Roland Parker lounge 1 of Graham Memorial to consider a nominee to replace Herman Baker, SP vice-presidential candidate who withdrew from school at the end of last quarter.

The party will also consider nominations for senior and sophomore class officers and also a vice-presidential nominee for the Carolina Athletic association. All SP candidates in the spring elections are urged to attend the meeting in order to discuss campaigns and publicity, according to Chairman Gran Childress.

'Extra-Curricular' Activities Are Planned To Fill Off-Duty Hours Of Conventionists

Philadelphia (UP) — Delegates and visitors to the two national political conventions this summer will have lots of recreation after business hours.

Special committees of both the Democratic and Republican parties have arranged for convention visitors to go places and see things, from baseball games and open air concerts to night-clubbing and tours of historic places.

Neither party program is definite, but the tentative schedules offer delegates and their wives enough to keep them busy with "extra-curricular" activities if they never attend a session.

The Republicans open their convention first, on June 21. However, the events actually will start the preceding Tuesday when the 106-member national committee meets to take care of last-minute details.

To Hear Symphonies

All the activity will not be solemn, however. Both parties plan to make good use of the Robin Hood Dell symphony concerts in Fairmount Park. The Republican committee on arrangements has reserved a block of 3,000 tickets for each of four evening concerts. Democrats plan similar arrangements.

Visitors to both conventions probably will have a chance to see Philadelphia's famous "mummers" string bands parading in the elaborate costumes they usually wear for the annual New Year's day parade.

Delegates who prefer their recreation on the sporting side will be able to see baseball games at Shibe Park. The Phillies meet Cincinnati during the Republicans' stay in town, and the Athletics meet Cleveland in a three-game series during the Democratic convention. Early arrivals will see other games.

GOP visitors can adjourn to New York 90 miles away on June 23rd for the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott fight. Racing enthusiasts among the Republicans will have to go to Delaware Park, in Stanton, Del., about 35 miles away. Democrats will have to journey to Monmouth Park in Northern New Jersey to get in a day at the races. Special trains leave Philadelphia daily for the tracks.

Both parties have arranged to est and biggest U. S. Mint, Independence Hall where the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States were signed and where the Liberty Bell reposes.

The weatherman, while not making any promises, said the temperature should stay in the low 70s for the GOP convention and the middle 70s for the Democrats.
