

Graham Gives First Indonesian Report; Talk Gets Ovation From Capacity Crowd

Deafening Applause Greets President After Introduction

By Charlie Gibson

Dr. Frank P. Graham won an ovation from a capacity crowd in Memorial hall Wednesday morning with his first public report on his trip to Indonesia as an envoy of peace.

The auditorium was filled to overflowing with many students, faculty members, and townspeople standing throughout the convocation ceremonies to welcome Dr. Graham back to the campus. Deafening applause met the president of the Greater University when Chancellor Robert B. House introduced him with assurance that, "we love him and we feel at our best when he is around."

Di Praised

Chancellor House also praised the Dialectic Senate for asking that Dr. Graham be presented in the regular University series. Charlie Long, speaker of the Di, presided over the program which the Reverend B. C. Cooper began with an invocation.

Dr. Graham spoke very informally on the problems he faced as the U. S. representative on a three-man Committee of Good Offices, appointed by the UN Security Council to effect a truce between Indonesia and the Netherlands. He paid high tribute to Henry Brandis of the University law school who accompanied him as a special adviser and played an important role in treaty negotiations.

Don't Breathe

One of the most well-received incidents of the Graham speech came when "Dr. Frank," as he is affectionately called, explained that a "Good Officer" is not supposed to have any public opinions. "In fact, he is not supposed to breathe without permission of both governments."

Tracing a brief history of Indonesia, a "land of stubborn dikes and generous blood," Dr. Graham told how withstanding and then enduring Japanese invasion in the last war had given the 70,000,000 people a feeling that they should be independent. He told of a somewhat vain revolution against the Netherlands that led the UN to step into the one-sided fracas as a last resort to stop hostilities.

Rendezvous With Destiny

Of the treaty finally reached to promise Indonesia independence on January 1, 1949, Dr. Graham said, "In this truce and in these principles, the people of the Netherlands, the people of the Republic and all of the people of Indonesia have, under God, a rendezvous with a larger destiny of creative cooperation in a time and in a world in need of the best which these historic peoples can give together."

TWO OF NORTH CAROLINA'S gubernatorial candidates, Oscar Barker, left, and Mayne Albright, right, spoke on an open forum program in Hill hall Wednesday night. It was the third time that the two candidates have appeared together on an open forum during the present campaign.

Albright, Barker State Platforms Before CPU

By Sam McKeel

"Now is the time to give a death blow to a political machine that is dead and doesn't know it," Mayne Albright, Democratic gubernatorial candidate, said last night.

Albright and Oscar Barker, Durham county's Democratic entry in the race, were guest speakers on an open forum program sponsored by the Carolina Political Union.

Underlying Issue

"There are many issues in this campaign, but the underlying issue is politics itself. The real question before the people of North Carolina is machine control and whether elections are to be won by votes or dollars," said Albright. "The greatest roadblock in the way of progress in North Carolina is the state political machine—flush with money, but bankrupt in vision and ruled by the dead hand of the past."

Albright stated that "under machine control, North Carolina is moving backward instead of forward."

Both Barker and Albright advocate better roads, health, and public welfare.

Barker said that if the services of government are evenly distributed in North Carolina, most of the state's problems will be solved.

"Our public schools have been neglected to a point where the welfare of the children of the state is at stake. We have, likewise, failed to adequately recognize the physical well being of our people," Barker said.

State Failure

He asserted that the primary reason surplus funds have accumulated in the highway and general funds, has been the failure on the part of the state to keep the wages of school teachers and state employees on a par with the inflated cost of living.

Orange county is the 81st county that Albright has visited on his present campaign tour, made in his trailer field headquarters, the "Challenger." Albright plans to conduct a whirlwind tour of re-visits and speeches during the last two months of the campaign.

Tony Pastor Band Will Provide Music For May Frolics Weekend, April 9, 10

The nationally famous orchestra of Tony Pastor will furnish music for a concert and two dances during the May Frolics weekend here on April 9 and 10, yesterday announced Bob Beasley, president of the May Frolics and a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity.

Both dances will be in Woollen Gym on the evenings of the ninth and tenth. The concert will be held in Memorial hall Saturday afternoon on the tenth.

Pastor's popular aggregation is currently on a coast-to-coast tour which began with engagements at New York's Paramount Theatre and The Hotel Pennsylvania. The tour will end at the famed Palladium in Hollywood.

Seven fraternities sponsoring the May Frolics are the original members of the German club. They are: Sigma Nu, Kappa Sig, DKE, SAE, Beta, Sigma Chi, and Zeta Psi. They constitute the total of 540 members of the May Frolics who have bids to the concert and dances.

Pastor's rise to fame began when he was a vocalist and saxophone player with Artie Shaw. He left Shaw's band and organized his own. Now Tony Pastor is regarded as one of the great stylists in the music field. Combined with his saxophone talents, the combination rates as a powerful force in dancing.

Debater Jim Spence announced yesterday that a debate tournament with the University of West Virginia will be held here April 6.

Appellate Jurisdiction Amendment Is Defeated As Group Retains Appeal

Body Passes Measure To Put Unused Money Back In General Fund

By Chuck Hauser

The appellate jurisdiction amendment to the constitution was defeated by a strong negative vote of the Student Legislature last night.

The amendment would have given the Student council sole power to try Honor code violation cases, the Men's and Women's councils sole power to try social violation cases under the Campus code and would have removed the appeal system from student government if it had been passed by the Legislature and afterwards ratified by the student body in Tuesday's general elections.

Weakened Government

Proponents of the bill, Women's Honor council Chairman Donlean MacDonald, presidential candidate Jess Dedmond and former student body president Dewey Dorsett, argued that the present appeal system weakened campus government and the honor system.

Charlie Long, another presidential candidate and former member and speaker pro tem of the legislative body, made a quick rebuttal to their statements on the grounds that the appeal system had never been tried on the campus.

"How Can We Know?"

"An appellate system has never been put into effect, so how can we know whether it will work or not?" Long asked, explaining that a correct appeal procedure had never been put into practice to determine whether or not it could work.

Parliamentarian Pete Gerns attacked the proposed amendment from another angle, pointing out that if the bill were passed, a faculty board of review would be the only appeal outlet to which a student could turn.

Discussing a past run-in with Dean Carroll of the Commerce school, Gerns explained that he had transferred to the School of Political Science.

"And if Mr. Dudley DeWitt Carroll were sitting on the board reviewing my appeal case, I would never have a chance!" Gerns charged.

Following the constitutional amendment's defeat, Finance committee Chairman Ernie House presented a motion to establish definite rules of procedure for the appeal system, but the Legislature would not vote to suspend the rules to bring the bill under consideration last night.

Also passed last night was a bill which would cause all unused portions of monies appropriated by the Legislature to campus organizations to be returned to the general fund.

Under new business, a bill was introduced by Fred Thompson to clarify the number of officers to be elected in all class officer elections on campus. Thompson withdrew his motion after Ed Davenport had offered a bill to provide for five officers in each class election: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and social chairman. The bill went to committee.

Also sent to committee was a resolution proposed by Herb Alexander to provide for a public "disapproval" of the actions of "some persons involved" in Tuesday night's anti-anti-UMT demonstration.

WAYNE BRENEGAN AND JOHNNY CLAMPITT (left to right) are on the University party slate for Student council member and vice president of the student body, respectively. Brenegan has served on both the Men's and Student council before, while Clampitt is performing duties now as president of the University Veterans association.

Wayne Brenegan, from La Crosse, Va., has been co-nominated for the council position by both UP and CP. He is a member of the University Dance committee, the Grail, an incumbent member of the Student council and is in Phi Delta Theta.

George Sibold is a rising senior from Clearwater, Fla.

Hughes, Myatt, Yokley

Friendship Group To Entertain 150 WC Girls Here

Tomorrow afternoon and evening 150 freshmen from Women's college at Greensboro will visit the campus as guests of the Freshman Friendship council.

The girls will be entertained at a picnic in the afternoon and at an informal dance at night. Tickets for both the picnic and dance combined are one dollar. They may be obtained from members of the Freshman Friendship council or in the "Y" information office today and tomorrow until they have been sold out.

Freshmen are encouraged to attend this affair, but it is open to all upper classmen. There are only 200 tickets available.

The picnic will begin with entertainment at 4:30 in the Forest theater picnic grounds. Supper will be served at 5:30. In case of rain, the picnic will be held in the Pine room of Lenoir hall at the same time.

The dance is scheduled to get underway at 8:30 in Woollen gym. The music will be furnished by recordings.

Dates may be made beforehand or arranged at the picnic.

Winn Says Candidates Missing Meet To Have Final Qualifying Opportunity

A compulsory meeting of all candidates who missed Tuesday's mass meeting is scheduled for 3 o'clock today in the student government office in Graham Memorial.

Al Winn, chairman of the Elections board, said yesterday that it is compulsory for all candidates who missed the first meeting to appear, prepared to submit a valid excuse and pay the $1 fine necessary for qualification.

YACK COPY FINISHED

Yackety Yack staffers yesterday sent the last of its 1948 Yack copy to the engraver and announced that all but the printing of the 531-page annual had been officially completed.

The job just completed involved filling square 57,348 inches of space.

Winn said that this will be the candidates' last chance to qualify for the coming elections.

Those required to be present are: Campus party, John Miles, Dan Martin and Jake Lambert; Student party, Jack Park and Gil Burnett; University party, George Sibold, Dick Bunting, George Dunlop, Gene Turner, Bill Benbow and Willie Marjorie Riddick. One independent candidate is required to appear, Charlie Smith.

Non-Partisan board candidate: Gene Jones.

Coeds who must attend the meeting are: Carolyn Guthrie, Sibyl Mitchell, Catherine Hovis, Lucille Olive, Meg Healy, Ruth Lassiter, Ruth Manning, Gloria Peters, Conner Reed, Mary Louise Powe, Simone Basset, Jo Benton, Dot Knott, Lola Mustard, Edith Semat, Betsy Tom Lawrence and Nancy Pendleton.

PETE GERNS, candidate for senior member to the Publications board, is present business manager of Tarnation, an editorial columnist for the Daily Tar Heel, and also parliamentarian of the Student Legislature. Gerns is running on a double endorsement by the Student and Campus parties.

Models Featured In Carolina Mag

A bigger and better Carolina magazine is scheduled to be distributed over the campus today and tomorrow.

Editor Fred Jacobson yesterday indicated that it will be four pages larger than usual and that a concentration on variety "should make it considerably better."

Featuring Ferne Hughes on the cover, a fashion spread with ten coed models, another campus quiz, and advice from successful Carolina alumni as to what in college was most helpful to them, this issue should, Jacobson feels, qualify as the most variegated one to appear this year.

The fashion spread occupies a prominent double page position in the middle of the magazine. Photography for it was handled by Francis Lavergne Johnson.

The advice from alumni carries the answers to a series of questions submitted to graduates who have made names for themselves in business, politics and the professions. It is titled "What About Tomorrow?"

"A Length Beneath the Sky" by Sandy Grady is the outstanding fiction appearing in the issue. It is an unusual treatment of midget auto racers and the men that drive them.
